MR. ROGERS CALLS AN EXTRA SESSION

Mr. John A. Rogers, chairman of the Alabama highway commission, is making plans to call for himself a personal, private and confidential session of the Alabama legislature. We have the word of several for the statement. On the front page of a Montgomery morning newspaper the fact was advertised. His proposal is a bit unusual, but these are unusual times and demand unusual methods. It matters not that the constitution of Alabama prohibits such acts as Mr. Rogers proposes. It matters not that Mr. Rogers, by his call, seeks to arrogate to himself the powers of the governor. It matters not that the constitution says that the executive department, in which Mr. Rogers functions, shall never intrude upon the legislative department or that the legislative department shall never usurp the powers of the executive department.

As long as an emergency must be met the constitution must be ignored. And there is a real emergency in the view of Mr. Rogers. This emergency causes Mr. Rogers to make his unusual proposal. A few years ago the people of Alabama voted a bond issue of twenty-five million dollars and gave the highway commission authority to expend the amount. The emergency presents itself because the amount will soon be exhausted. If Mr. Rogers and his commission are to have any money to spend in the future they must resort to unusual methods in obtaining it.

To Mr. Rogers the important thing is to get the money. Consequently, he proposes to call the legislature into extraordinary session on May 4. It is true that Mr. Rogers refers to the extra session as a "dinner," but to all intents and purposes it is an extra session of the state's law-making body with the chairman of the highway commission assuming the role of governor, to whom the constitution entrusts the power of ordering an extraordinary session of the legislature. At that extra session Mr. Rogers proposes to present to the law-makers the dilemna in which his commission finds itself. He proposes to tell them that the commission must have money and that it cannot obtain money without the consent of the legislature. It is his desire, at that meting, to obtain assurance that the highway commission may expect the support of the law-makers in its program.

The Montgomery Journal says this call is a bit unusual. The members of the legislature are free agents. They are under oath to support the constitution of Alabama. That constitution says their duties are separate and apart from the duties of the executive department. That constitution says they shall not come together in extraordinary session except on a call issued in the manner prescribed by the constitution, namely by the call of the governor. Even Mr. Rogers admits that he does not expect a majority of the law-makers to ignore the constitution. He says that no effort will be made to obtain a definite committal of the members regarding a program at his special session.

Of course, this special session will be held. Mr. Rogers has some supporters. The Montgomery Journal does not believe these supporters make up the majority of the legislature. However, whatever the support of the Rogers program, The Journal would not want to do anything to prevent this personal, private and confidential session. Mr. Rogers must bear the responsibility for the violation of the constitution. But The Journal does not want those who are willing to violate the constitution to attend the session. It wants to know what kind of discussion Mr. Rogers will precipitate. It wants to know if Mr. Rogers will be fair enough to the people of Alabama to tell the whole story of highway construction in Alabama.

It wants to know if Mr. Rogers will make any reference to that highway by his home in Sumter County and that highway by the home of a relative in Hale County. It wants to know if Mr. Rogers will advise the law-makers that, while telling members of the legislature that the highway engineers ought to be trusted, he voted to cast aside their recommendations regarding the construction of a highway in Russell County. It wants to know if Mr. Rogers will refer to the fact that his commission is still experimenting with building materials, although the twenty-five million dollar bond issue is fast being exhausted. It wants to know if Mr. Rogers will be frank enough to say that federal engineers have, in at least two instances, refused to approve the methods employed by his highway commission.

In other words, The Journal wants to know if Mr. Rogers will be fair and frank with the people of Alabama. If he is, his extra session can do no harm. Perhaps, it will be of great value to the state. If he will tell the whole story, the favorable chapters and the unfavorable chapters, his extra session will be of benefit to the state, even though the constitution be violated. The law-makers will never authorize a further expenditure of funds for highway construction by the highway commission as now constituted if they know the whole story. And they will know it. Facts cannot be suppressed. The tenure of the highway commission is not a bright chapter in the history of Alabama. It tells a story of favoritism to friends and relatives, of threats even to whole counties that disagreed with the commission's program, of consent to construction of temporary roads when the people had the right to expect permanent roads, of disregard of recommendations of engineers, state and federal.

The history of the highway commission cannot be applauded even at Mr. Rogers' personal, private and confidential session of the legislature.—Montgomery Journal.

STATE AND FEDERAL OFFICERS AID SHERIFF AND DEPUTIES

The latter part of last week W. H. Gillespie and J. L. Gore, Federal Prohibition Officers, and Clyde Gardner, State Officer, came to Clanton and joined the local county officers in rounding up some of the whiskey dealers and consumers of the county.

On last Friday the above named officers, together with Deputy Foshee, went up Coosa River to what is called the Narrows, about 12 miles above Lock 12, and the day's search netted them two men, Burl Brazier and Joe Brazier, who were caught with small quantities of wildcat whiskey, and one big copper distilling outfit together with 26 barrells of beer nearly ready to be run off. The men and the still were located in Coosa County near the river.

On last Saturday Mr. Gardner and Deputy Foshee arrested Charley Robinson and Marion Nelson near Lomax. The young men had about two and a half gallons of whiskey hid out in the woods. The men broke a quart bottle of the whiskey while the officers were after them, but the officers took charge of a jug which they had. The two men were brought to jail and later made bond.

Early Saturday night, Foshee, Gillespie and Gardner raided the place of Allen Brown between Clanton and Mt. Pisgah, and found a small quantity of whiskey in a fruit jar hidden in an out house on the premises of Brown. Brown was arrested and brough to jail and later released after making bond.

About 9 o'clock Saturday night, Deputy Culp, J. L. Gore and J. M. Grant held up three young men in a car up in the Dry Valley community. One of the men, Monroe Harrell, had in his possession about three pints of whiskey. He was brought to jail and bonded out Sunday.

Deputy Culp went to Montgomery Saturday and got W. J. Benton, who had been taken up by Montgomery County officers. Benton was wanted in this county to answer a charge of issuing fraudulent checks. After arriving here Benton made bond and was released.

BETTER CROPS OUTLOOK FOR COMING YEAR

Auburn, Ala., April 10.—A somewhat more optimistic outlook for farm production in Alabama this year than last is shown in the monthly crop report issued by F. W. Gist, agricultural statistician, cooperating with the Alabama Extension Service and the Alabama Department of Agriculture. This report refers to April 1 of this year and comparisons are made with the same date last year.

The growing condition of wheat this year is 83 per cent of normal, compared with 70 per cent a year ago. The acreage of wheat in Alabama has fallen to an almost negligible volume, and the condition figure is of value only as measuring the better conditions for growing crops which are disclosed.

The acreage growing to oats in Alabama this year is estimated to be 120 per cent of that growing last year. Oats are grown here solely as a feed supply, and are used to supplement corn and hay. Just what proportion will be mowed as hay depends on conditions at harvest time. The increased acreage of this year was induced by the shortage of corn on most farms. The growing condition of the crop on April 1 was found to be 86 per cent of normal, compared with only 60 per cent last spring. Oats were heavily killed by freezes during the preceeding winter, while the past winter has not apparently brought any noticeable losses.

Irish potatoes last year did not give very profitable yields for the early crop, and the acreage planted this year is estimated to be only 88 per cent of that grown in 1924. The growing condition this year is 86, compared with 85 last spring, and the total production promises to be considerably short of last year.

Pastures at present show a condition of 88 per cent of normal, compared with 72 per cent a year ago. This also reflects advanced spring weather and better growth of vegetation this spring. As a result cattle are now in fair weight and rapidly approaching good flesh for beef animals and full milk yield for milk cows. About one per cent less milk cows are giving milk now than last month, but the average per cow is better. On March 1 this year 55.8 per cent of milk cows were being milked, while on April 1, 54.7 per cent were in milk; the daily yield per cow on March 1 was 1.41 gallons, which on April 1 had advanced to 1.46 gallons. On March 1 only 34 per cent of the hens of laying age dropped eggs, while on April 1, 53 per cent were paying for their keep.

Another marked indication of advanced spring weather is disclosed in the condition of home gardens, which on April 1 of this year was 85 per cent of normal as compared with only 62 per cent on April 1 of 1924.

The condition of apples and peaches also shows from four to nine points better this spring.

Both the supply and demand for farm labor are somewhat more pronounced this year, the supply now being 85 per cent of the normal against 80 per cent last year, and the demand being 95 against 90. The ratio between the two, which measures the real labor situation, is 90 this year compared with 89 last year, indicating a slightly increased available supply for this season. This ratio materially rose during the month of March this year, having been only 87 on March 1, 1925.

Farm wages average $22 per month with board on April 1 this year compared with $21 last year, while for wages without board there is no change, the average being $30 for both years. Day wages are 10 cents higher this spring, being $1.15 against $1.05. Day wages without board average $1.35 for both years.

Figures for plowing and planting will not be secured until May 1, but it can be safely said that the present season is well advanced beyond the situation of a year ago. Fertilizer tag sales reported by the State Department are something over 100,000 tons more than last year, and reports indicate that farmers are again using better grades and in increased proportions.

Messrs. Harold Smith, Omer Smith, Clifton Smith, Felix Stewart and Jim Vickers of Weogufka, Coosa County, were in Clanton Sunday visiting relatives and friends.

A large part of every farmer's mental capital should be the experiences of others.

Blessed is a gardener who delights in spring catalogues.

Clears Complexion

"Oh! how clear and beautiful your complexion is today, my dear!"

THERE is a certain joy—a certain pride—in knowing you are admired, whether it be from father, brother, husband or sweetheart! And back of that joy is the satisfaction of knowing all is well.

Men are fascinated by the charms of beauty. Women gaze with envy, secretly jealous, perhaps, wondering—hoping—praying for that attractiveness which is not theirs. But why the wondering — the hoping — the praying for that craved for attractiveness—that clear skin—that beauty. A clear skin—is the barometer of one's condition. A healthy skin radiates beauty. Pure, clean blood means a clear skin.

S.S.S. is waiting to help you. It will rid your blood of its impurities and give you that clear complexion. Since 1826 S.S.S. has been ridding people of blood impurities, from pimples, from blackheads, boils, eczema and from rheumatism, too. CLANTON BOOSTERS

Keep Your Money at Home by Buying all Your Needs from the Home Merchants in Clanton.

We want to talk to our readers this week on the subject of trading at home—buying what you have to buy from the home merchants instead of sending your money away to some mail order house.

In the first place, we shall say that we believe that it is the duty of the people who live in Chilton county to trade with one another and help one another in every possible way in order to make possible the greatest prosperity of our county. Surely no one would deny the truth of that policy. And this means that the merchant can and should help the farmers; and the farmers certainly can and should help the merchants.

Now, let us see if we can reason together and agree that a more thorough cooperation between every class of our citizens would be better for our material progress.

We believe that the manifold processes of our commercial relationships have brought about a situation that makes the welfare of our merchants and business men in common with the welfare of our farmer citizens, and vice versa. Our business enterprises certainly must have the farmers. It is just as true that our farmers must have the merchants, although the fact is frequently overlooked. If our farmers in Chilton county did not have the merchants in Chilton county, they would of necessity have to have some other means or agency to do for them the things that the merchants do. And perhaps such other agency would not do much of the things that the local merchant can do.

What becomes of the money that is spent with the local merchants in Chilton county? It stabilizes the local merchant and enables him to better act the part of the worth-while progressive citizen that we believe he ought to be. It makes the local merchant better able to extend material help to farmers who need that help. It makes the local management able to support more fully our schools, our churches, and our civic institutions that demand his support.

It keeps our money at home, where it circulates through our banks, helping every citizen whose hands it passes through. It is the operation of the principle of cooperation which everyone knows is the first requirement for community development.

Now, what becomes of the money that is sent to the mail order houses in the distant cities? There is no telling what becomes of it. But the one thing that concerns us is that it is forever gone from Chilton county. It no longer helps anybody here, in any way, and that is the end of it.

Why do people trade with mail ored houses? The main reason is that they let themselves believe that they can thereby get better bargains than they can from home merchants. We believe if they would stop and consider every phase of the situation, giving due recognition to the duty of all citizens to cooperate for community development, they would convince themselves that it is better to spend their money at home.

Then too, the mail order houses employ very clever designs to make people forget their better interests. One of these tricks is the "lower price" argument, which is a fake, because anybody knows that cheaper goods mean lower quality. Then the pretty pictures in mail order catalogues are a bait that lures many into the mail order business.

Be it said to the credit of our merchants in Clanton, they are men who believe in the prosperity of the farmers of Chilton County. They recognize that the prosperity of Chilton county depends upon the cooperation of all our citizens one with another, and to this end they are seeking to serve their fellow citizens—the farmers—in every way that will be helpful to the farmers.

The primary purpose of the Booster Campaign which has been conducted for the past 13 weeks by The Union-Banner was to bring our people to a realization of the necessity of supporting each other in a business way in order that all would be enabled to better fulfill their duties to the community in making this a more prosperous and progressive county.

You who have read The Union-Banner constantly know who the merchants and business men are who have been in cooperation with us in this effort.

Now that our little campaign has come to a close, we ask our readers to take note of those who have been enlisted in this movement, and remember the merchants, the drug stores, the hardware stores, the meat markets, the garages, the banks, and all those who are outspoken in their determination to help in every way to develop the prosperity of our county. Make up your minds now that you will keep your money at home where it is sure to do the most good. And when you go into the store of one of those merchants who is boosting Clanton and Chilton county, mention this subject to him and swap ideas, and you will soon find that such merchants care more for the people of Chilton county than merely getting your trade.

GYPSY ROVER AT HIGH SCHOOL HERE TO-NIGHT

Cast from Columbiana to Play Under Auspices of Baptist Circle No. 1.

"The Gypsy Rover" is in three acts built around the character of Rob, later known as Sir Gilbert Howe, of English nobility.

Rob is stolen when an infant, by his nurse, Meg, who later becomes the wife of Marto, a gypsy. Rob grows to manhood among the gypsies believing Meg and Marto to be be his parents.

It happens one day that while riding with her fiancee, Lord Craven, Lady Constance Martendale becomes lost in the woods. They wander into the gypsy camp where Constance and Rob meet and fall in love at first sight. Craven objects to Rob's attitude, but in a very funny comedy scene between Marto and Sinfo, gypsy robbers, he is made to tell Sir George Martindale, who later comes in search of Constance, that Rob is a very fine fellow.

In Act II, Rob goes to the home of Constance and serenades her. They plan to elope but are overheard by Craven who informs Sir George, and plans are made to capture Rob. This is sucessfully accomplished and Rob is thrown into prison, but later escapes.

Two years elapse and Rob has come into his estates, his identity having been proved. He is now a successful composer, a friend of the Prince, and a social lion. Constance has remained true to her love for Rob and on his return to England he woos and wins her for his wife, as Rob says, "The good fairies have led me to the beautiful country after all and our story, Constance, can end in the proper way, they lived happily ever after."

There are also pretty love affairs between Capt. Jerome and Nina, Sinfo and Zara, and many comedy scenes between Sinfo and Marto.

FARMERS CANNING FACTORY PROPERTY WLL BE SOLD

This week there papears in The Union-Banner four advertisements by Sheriff Littlejohn, calling for sale under execution from the Circuit Court of the real and personal property of the United Farmers Canning Co., a corporation, located in Clanton. The property is located in the Gowan Addition, where the sale will be conducted on the 25th day of May.

The attention of the public is hereby directed to these advertisements. If you may be interested in any of the property, look over the advs., and see what is to be sold.

NON-JURY TERM OF CIRCUIT COURT IN SESSION HERE

The regular non-jury term of the Circuit Court of Chilton County was in session here the first of the week. There were no cases of much importance to be disposed of, and Judge Smoot made quick work of the docket.

Days of the ancient tree dwellers were recalled in Bessemer with the story told by Federal Officers A. H Fowler and S. O. McPherson of the capture of a still in a muck pond near Gothite. The still was placed on a platform built in the tops of saplings growing in the middle of the pond near the old Republic ore mines. "We were forced to wade waist-deep out in the water and climb up to the platform," the officers stated. "The still was thoroughly modern, being run by a gasoline plant. There were four gasoline burners with the outfit." The officers poured the gasoline over the tree top and set it on fire. The flames spread over the entire surface of the lake, they stated. "We had a tough time getting away from those flames," Fowler stated. "For we had to wade through the muck just a step ahead of the fire. It's rather lucky for us we didn't stick up in the mud." The still was of 200-gallon capacity. The officers captured 12 barrels of mash and about four gallons of whisky with the outfit.

The Selma curb market formed under the sponsorship of the Chamber of Commerce, with the Junior Chamber pushing the movement under the leadership of Joe Hull, president of the Junior Chamber, opened April 15, with flying colors. About fifteen automobiles filled with fresh vegetables chickens, eggs, flower seed, plants of flowers, tomato plants and strawberries were spread in tempting array on tables under the trees in the court yard of the Dallas County court house. By 10 o'clock almost everything was sold out and the prominent women of Dallas County and truck farmers after shopping a while in Selma, returned to their homes.

Charges of feeding his wife poisoned bread were preferred against J. W Wright, 65, DeKalb County farmer following the exumation of her body and the sending of the vital organs to the state chemist at Auburn for examination. Wright is in jail at Fort Payne, charged with murder and also with manufacturing illicit liquor. The body of Mrs. Wright was exhumed in the presence of Solicitor A. E. Hawkins and Sheriff Biddle after suspicious rumors as to the cause of her death became public. A deputy sheriff was designated to carry the vital organs to Auburn and an official report from the chemist is expected within 10 days.

DEMOCRATS CRY PEACE, PEACE, BUT THERE IS NO PEACE AMONG THEM YET

Each Other's Skulls is Only Place They are Able to Bury the Hatchet.

The "harmony dinner" of Democrats to have been held on the anniversary of the birthday of Thomas Jefferson at the Mayflower Hotel in Washington, has gone up in smoke.

Harmony cannot be distilled out of the violent inharmony still existing between friends of William G. McAdoo and followers of "Al" Smith. The kindly presiding geniuses who hoped to smooth out Democratic differences around the festal board have abandoned the effort. The Thomas Jefferson dinner will not take place, and the disagreeing Democrats will continue to disagree for a while longer, due to the steady and persistent efforts of Catholic-Tammany-wet politicians to force the nomination of the New York Governor in 1928 for the presidency.

William Jennings Bryan, three times Democratic candidate for President, and strong supporter of McAdoo, was to have been the orator of the evening at the eat-fest of the harmonizers. Franklin D. Roosevelt, old-time enemy of Tammany Hall, who entered the arena in 1911, when he upset Tammany plans in the New York Legislature to elect "Blue-Eyed" Billy Sheehan United States Senator from the Empire State, was also to have been a prominent speaker.

Both Declined.

Both Bryan and Roosevelt declined. Bryan said his engagements would prevent his attendance. Roosevelt wrote that he would be otherwise engaged. Democratic leaders in Congress lost heart and decided there was no use trying to have a banquet without these luminaries. The McAdoo men were particularly disappointed, suspecting that the occasion would be utilized by Smith champions, if the banquet were held, and wishing to be protected by having able spellbinders of their own. Roosevelt's plan to bring the divergent and differing Democrats together in sweet reasonableness had been espoused by Senator Thomas J. Walsh, of Montana, but Bryan opposed it. So did his brother, Governor Charles W. Bryan of Nebraska, who was vice-presidential candidate last fall on the Davis ticket, which went to such stunning defeat.

The Bryanites continue bitter against "Al" Smith, and the machine that operates from the brick building on Fourteenth Street in New York. Tammany has not tried to placate the Bryan men, and the Bryan men want it understood that they do not relish such treatment. Tehy do not hesitate to tartly remind the Tammanyites that John W. Davis, the man who denounced the Ku Klux Klan, but said nothing against the Roman Catholic hierarchy, went down to as ignominious disaster as did Judge Alton B. Parker, another reactionary, in 1904, before Theodore Roosevelt.

"I Told You So."

"That's what happens when the Democratic Party doesn't listen to Bryan," snap the Bryanites. Remember 1904, Remember Cox, in 1920. And remember 1924."

To which the votaries of Al Smith retort various angry and peppery things and boast of the facility with which they can sweep the country with Al Smith at the head of the ticket and the liquor interests, the Catholic church, Tammany Hall, the Curley machine in Boston and the Democratic machines of the larger cities all behind them."

The hopeful ones who cherished the delusion that the friends of McAdoo and the pals of Al Smith would lie down, like lion and lamb, together have had the appropriate rude awakening.

Oil and water can not mix. Nor can the Catholic-Tammany-wet wing of the Democratic Party fraternize with the Protestant-anti-Tammany-prohibition wing.

There will be no "harmony" dinner of the Jeffersonian Democracy in Washington at this stage of the game. It is highly doubtful if there will be a "harmony" of any kind in the party for a while.

The fight is still on in the ranks of those who slander dead and buried Thomas Jefferson with claims of adherence to his ideals.—Linn A. E. Gale, in Fellowship Forum, Washington, D. C.

JOE P. GORE DIED LAST FRIDAY AT HIS HOME IN CLANTON; BURIED HERE

Suffered Long Illness Without Hope of Recovery From Fatal Disease.

Last Friday night at 11 o'clock, the spirit of Mr. Joe P. Gore was called from the shore of time to its eternal home beyond the grave.

Mr. Gore had been an acute sufferer for more than a year from that dreadful malady, Bright's disease, and during that time his relatives and friends had exhausted every effort, and the very highest medical science had been invoked for his relief, but all to no purpose, for every day he grew worse and every sunset brought the victory for his disease one day closer by until finally his courageous spirit gave up the fight and the end came.

On Saturday following, at 2 p. m., the last sad rites were given him. Funeral services were held at the home, where a very large crowd of sorrowing friends assembled as an evidence of the love and esteem in which the departed one was held.

Dr. Ezell, Baptist pastor, and Dr. Wilkerson, pastor of the Methodist church, both officiated in the service, while a selected choir beautifully rendered a couple of sad, sweet and appropriate songs.

The floral offerings were lovely beyond compare, and most lavish in quantity.

The funeral cortege went from the home to the city cemetery where the remains were tendenly consigned for their last long sleep.

Mr. Gore was born in June, 1869, and was at the time of his death, nearing the 56th post on his pathway of life. He united with the Baptist church in early manhood and was a member of the Clanton Baptist church when he passed on. He was strictly a Chilton County product, having spent all his life in the county of his nativity. He leaves, as immediate relatives, a wife and two daughters. One of them is Mrs. Ruby Thompson, of Selma, and the other, Mrs. Jewell Parrish of Clanton. Two brothers, Messrs. Marion and John Gore, of Clanton. Also, one sister, Mrs. Margaret Jones of Chilton County.

For the past fifteen or twenty years he won and retained many friends who miss and mourn him now and will long remember his genial disposition as the years go by.

Our heart goes out in sympathy to these sadly bereaved loved ones and may they all find solace and comfort in the thought that the dispensations of Providence are always for the best.

The Florence Chamber of Commerce won what is perhaps the greatest victory in a rate case at Louisville, when an agreement was secured whereby an order will be issued within 30 days by the interstate commerce commission, declaring the Southern Railway and the Northern Alabama one and the same road for rate making purposes. The establishment of the lower rate will mean a saving of approximately $20,000 a year to Florence alone and will effect a similar saving to Sheffield and Tuscumbia, it is estimated.

Diamond and pearl studded jewelry and a lot of gold settings with many diamonds valued at several thousand dollars were taken from the effects of N. L. Gordon, alias Meeker and A. R. Rosenberg, of New Orleans, arrested in Mobile. The jewelry was sent to New Orleans for possible identification by persons who here held up and robbed and others whose homes were burglarized. Chief of Police Warren Burch, of Mobile, believes that the jewelry was stolen in the Crescent City.

Mrs. Mary Holiday, charged with firing at Moses Goldstein, whom she forced to go with her to Atlanta, was fined $10 and cost on a charge of discharging fire arms within the city limits in Anniston police court when a plea of guilty was entered by her attorney.

J. C. Austin, of Tuscaloosa, has announced that he will give five purbred pigs to the county fair as prizes to the boys making the best record in the cotton, corn, poultry and meat club.

More than 50,000 bushels of sweet potatoes were raised by Cullman County farmers last year and marketed at an average price of nearly $2.00 a bushel.

The water supply of Albany-Decatur is to be doubled by the installation of a 300,000-gallon reservoir. Work has already started on the project, which is to cost $29,000.

Machinery is being installed at Huntsville by the Aycock Company, of South Pittsburgh, for the operation of a hosiery mill, beginning about May 1

This is a piece of money that is being coined by the United States Government in helping to provide funds to pay for the great Confederate memorial at Stone Mountain, Ga. FIRE AT THORSBY

About 8:00 o'clock Tuesday night the Thorsby plant of the Forest Lumber Company was seen to be on fire. A strong wind was blowing at the time, but fortunately, from a direction that carried the fire away from the adjoining inflamable property.

Only the planer shed and engine house, together with some piles of culled lumber were destroyed, entailing a loss estimated at $5,000, insurance unknown. Many thousand feet of rough lumber piled on the yard and the warehouse filled with dressed lumber were saved by hard work on the part of many willing hands that cleared away intervening combustible material.

Plans are taking shape for the Sheffield-Tuscumbia Chamber of Commerce exhibit at the Southern Exposition at Grand Central Palace, New York City, May 11-23. The local organization will have a space of 20 feet by 10 feet on which will be displayed maps, pictures, minerals, woods and cotton. Secretary Clifford has sent Theodore Swann, general chairman of Birmingham, three photographs and a short sketch descriptive of Sheffield and Tuscumbia, which will appear in the Alabama booklet. J. W. Adams is busy gathering specimens of wood which will be shipped from Sheffield on April 25. A number of minerals and woods of Franklin county will also be included in the local exhibit and a number of prominent citizens of Russellville are actively engaged in gathering these exhibits and have pledged their co-operation both in the furnishing of these exhibits and in a financial way.

METHODIST REVIVAL WAS CLOSED SUNDAY NIGHT

Dr. Glenn Proves to be a Very Powerful Preacher During Two Weeks Here.

After running continuously for two weeks, the revival at the Clanton Methodist Church came to a close last Sunday night when the rites of Baptism were administered to about a dozen converts. On the occasoin of the closing of the revival Dr. Glenn preached a very forceful sermon on "How We Should Bless God."

Following the reception of the new converts into the church, Dr. Wilkerson, the pastor, called on Hon. J. O. Middleton to deliver on behalf of the people of Clanton words of appreciation for the splendid service rendered by Dr. Glenn in this revival. This Mr. Middleton did very forcefully and fittingly.

The Union-Banner wishes to publicly commend the noble work of Dr. Glenn while he was in Clanton. The writer had the plensure of hearing several of Dr. Glenn's addresses, and we unequivocally confirm the wonderful truths expounded by this man of God while he was in our city.

A Shakespearean actor was left stranded in a small town in Michigan. This was in the days when there still were Shakespearean actors.

He obtained board at the local hotel until a remittance arrived to take him back to Chicago. As he had no funds for tipping purposes he got scant attention from the servants.

One day he pushed and pushed the push button in his room without getting an answer. Then he got out of bed, put on his trousers and overcoat, turned the coat collar up about his bare throat and ventured through the hallway until he came to the rotunda opening down upon the office floor.

"Bellboy! Bellboy!" he called in his best speaking voice.

"Watcher want?" answered back a youthful menial impertinently.

"Bellboy," said the Thespian with much dignity, "I desire my laundry to be brought to me forthwith!"

"G'wan!" said the boy. "You didn't have but half a shirt when you hit this town."

"That," said the actor, "is the laundry to which I refer."

According to a statement made up by the city clerk for the council, Gadsden has been living within its income for the past six months. It is shown that the police, sanitary and street cleaning departments exceeded the budget by small amounts, while the street and fire departments spent less than the estimates. The general fund receipts were slightly less than disbursements, while other expenditures were smaller than the estimates. The showing is gratifying to the officials, as the city has been running behind for years.

The supreme court affirmed the case appealed from Lee Circuit Court in which Zebulon Judd obtained a judgment of $748 against the American Railway Express Company for alleged negligence in handling a shipment of pecan trees. Judd claimed that when the trees arrived at the station at Auburn they were exposed to cold and were frozen, as a result of failure of the express company to house or store them.

Thorsby Institute Items

The members of the cast of "Windmills of Holland," wish to publicly thank the members of the Thorsby Band, Mr. J. O. Johnson, Mr. Nels Peterson, Mr. Charles Howard and Mr. R. Foss for all that they so willingly did to help put over so successfully the performance last Saturday night.

The week of April 26th will be Health Week for Thorsby Institute. We are delighted to learn that the State Department of Health at Montgomery is letting Mr. James Graham come to us for two days. He will speak at the chapel service Monday morning, illustrating his lectures with charts.

In the evening at 7:30, he will again speak, and two classes will give demonstrations. Members of the Civics classes will present two playlets: "The House that Health Built," and "A County Health Unit at Work." The girls in the home nursing class will give exhibitions in bandaging, rescuing from smoke-filled room, artificial respiration, improvising stretcher, etc.

Thorsby people will regret to learn that Miss Helen C. Jenkins, principal of Thorsby Institute, is not making the rapid recovery that was indicated at first, but complications have arisen in her case, not of necessity serious, but of a nature that will delay complete recovery. She is in a hospital at Syracuse; N. Y., and her mother is with her every day.

Mr. Kent Roebuck and family of Maplesville, were visitors at the homes of E. F. and Clyde Mead last Sunday. Kent is one of our old Thorsby Institute boys.

Mr. and Mrs. Malcom Manning of Verbena were visitors here Sunday.

Mrs. J. F. Peterson spent last week in Thorsby, Mrs. Petreson and her late husband, J. F. Peterson, were among the pioneers of Thorsby. Her son, George and family of Birmingham, motored here Saturday evening and took her home with them.

The closing number of Thorsby Institute Lyceum course for the season of 1924-'25, given at Bates Hall last Saturday night, was an event of considerable local importance. A Dutch operetta, entieltd "The Windmills of Holland" was put on, with appropriate accessories in stage setting, costumes, soloists, orchestra, and only the score for the music and text of the play were imported, yet the scenes were as realistic, the singing as good, the orchestra rendered as catchy music and the chorus, together with the principal actors, were as good as one can see in much larger towns. It was certainly a revelation to many that we have local talent in Thorsby who can be trained to give so good an exhibition.

POOR OR

Relation of the Ku Klux Klan To American Citizenship

CITIZENSHIP AND FAIR PLAY

One sees much these days about the Klan being racially and religiously intolerant. Any organization (the Klan not excepted) should be willing to prove itself worthy by showing a ready inclination, not only to have its methods examined but to freely assist. That must be a poor line of goods which a salesman, in his effort to place on the market, is unwilling to allow his prospective customer to examine. If the Klan deserves even a tithe of the things uttered against it, it has no right to exist in free America or anywhere else. It is to be admitted that many of the critics of the Klan are sincere. As Klansmen, we also hope those who are not agreeable to us will admit that we, too, are sincere. Nothing can be accomplished by wrangling. Exchanging condemnations only tends to stir up anger. The Klan devoutly hopes the day will come, and believes that day is dawning, when the public will cease its indulgence in moral lynch law, (and one type of lynch law is as bad as the other,) and, instead of condemning this American organization without trial, will grant to it the rights vouchsafed under the Constitution—that of a fair and impartial trial by jury. The Klan is perfectly willing, in fact it prays for such a trial. All it asks is the right to state its case before a fair and impartial jury. But, remember, the jury must be fair and impartial. Indeed, it cannot be fair, unless it is impartial. It is to be wondered if our fellow-Americans, being as zealous as we for our beloved country, realize the extremely difficult situation into which they have forced the Klan by condemning it without a hearing, and further, by compelling it to appeal for its life before a jury of biased minds?

Cases are too numerous where a judge, who has sworn to be fair and impartial, has charged a jury of investigation to condemn and declare as outlaws the members of the Ku Klux Klan, even before the organization had been brought to trial to determine the correctness or the falsity of the judge's charge. Candidates have announced for high office, having as a plank in their platform a statement in behalf of religious toleration, and another plank in their same platform declaring against the members of the Ku Klux Klan. The inconsistency of such conditions speaks for itself. The Klan solemnly asserts it has not had fair and impartial treatment at the hands of the people. But it has been investigated by the highest law-making body of our nation, and has been exonerated and given a clean bill of health. It has been incorporated by the law of the land. It has been accepted by thousands and tens of thousands of ministers of the Gospel, public school teachers, and others of equally high repute. It lays no claim to authority or power. It makes no effort against organized society. It seeks no one's life, nor property, nor name. It seeks no favor but the good will of Jesus Christ. It possesses no tenet that is inimical or contrary to the Constitution of the United States. It has no creed but such as is harmonious with the Protestant expression of New Testament Christianity. Why, therefore, the constant and unrelenting, the unfraternal, the persistent effort on the part of some people, or some publications, to express glaring untruths against this movement? Have we come to the point as a nation when we have ceased to be fair-minded? Do we vehemently protest against the lynching of a man for some hideous crime, and at the same time morally lynch hundreds of thousands of the best men ever born to America? As surely as he is burnt who plays with fire, or as surely as he is befouled who slings mud, so surely will the persistent indulgence in the groundless infliction of injury result unfortunately to those employing this method. At this juncture, one is strikingly reminded of Saul of Tarsus, who, when he became the amiable Christ-like Paul admitted he had been guilty of many forms of crime in opposing the policies of Jesus, and said that he thought, during the days of his persecuting, he was doing God service. No doubt those in America, both individuals and publications, think they are performing a patriotic duty when they call the Klan all kinds of unseemly names, and accuse it of racial and religious intolerance, to say nothing of the many other accusations.

We, as Klansmen, are as willing to grant sincerity to our critics as we are desirous of having them grant the same to us. In fairness of mind, let us approach the question. The Klan is either guilty or innocent. There can be no middle ground. The Klan does not seek for any middle ground. In fact, the Klan admits it deserves every kind of punishment its critics have wished it, if it should be proved guilty.

Let us consider the charge of racial and religious intolerance. To a Klansman that charge is ridiculously absurd, but to say it is such, does not prove anything to our critics. We have to go further than that. Suppose we imagine ourselves to be seated around a conference table. Nations of divergent beliefs and dissimilar blood have done as much. Why cannot we of the same blood do likewise? Place the Klan on trial. Allow it to state its case. The public is well acquainted with the definition of intolerance. The Klan submits this point to the consideration of the jury. It is possible there can exist two kinds of Klans—one in the imagination of the reading public, and formed by the fabrications of non-Klan, (we shall not say anti-Klan) publications,—the other Klan is the one that exists in reality. Between the two, there is an unmeasured distance, indeed, between the two, there is a great gulf fixed. Klansmen are too honorable, too patriotic, too intelligent, too respectable, to belong to or to tolerate that kind of organization which the average non-Klan newspaper persists in picturing to the public mind. Right there Klansmen and the rest of us fellow-Americans have a common starting point. Like the great American Secretary of State, we can practice Hughes' diplomacy by beginning with our agreements, rather than with our differences. Let it be reiterated, Klansmen must heartily agree with non-Klansmen in their unequivocal condemnation of the Ku Klux Klan as expressed or as interpreted in the average non-Klan publication. Klansmen are not surprised at the vehement protest on the part of their fellow-Americans against such a monstrosity as is this newspaper Klan.

Klansmen would have been greatly surprised, in fact would have been disappointed, if their true fellow-Klansmen had withheld protests when this newspaper monstrosity began to be introduced to the uninformed minds of the public. The reason why Klansmen did not also join in the protests was because they know the average non-Klan newspaper production is a travesty on the good looks of pure Americanism. Sometimes, by actual mistake, the wrong cut will be inserted in a newspaper over a name that does not belong to it.

The purpose of the Ku Klux Klan is not yet understood by the people in general. It is (sad to relate) an American tendency to muddy the waters when an issue is pending. Shrewd lawyers, suborned witnesses, and other ogents at times are relied on to divert the attention of the jury from the real issue of a case to some inconsequential matter. This custom is too well known to all Americans to demand proof. The same method has been indulged in with reference to the Ku Klux Klan. Those who are fair-minded are, in the course of time, going to demand a fair and impartial trial of the Klan. Also, those of discriminating mind are going to look behind this effort of muddying the waters in order to see why such was resorted to. Right there will be found the real cause of the greater amount of opposition to the Klan. As in the case of Daniel, when his critics were bent upon his defeat, they could find nothing against him but his religion, so it is with the Klan. "Let them hear who have ears to hear."

In the course of time, things will be better for the Klan. At present the movement is young. Those who are in it admit mistakes, just as any new machinery works awkwardly at first, but as everybody makes mistakes, we shall have to let that matter give way to a fact of deeper import. How has the Klan treated its mistakes? There is the crux of another matter. Be it said, the Klan has profited by its mistakes, and is working far better than it ever has before, and, no doubt, better than it was dreamed of. Soon the people will become acquainted with the Klan's real self. They will cease looking at the picture printed in the non-Klan publications over the name of the Klan, and, after being introduced to the Klan itself, and having beheld it with their own eyes, will at once discover the mistake of the non-Klan press of imposing on the credulity of the people by printing this false photographic Klan. To change the figure, the public is now too near the mountain. When the public will have traveled far enough to look back upon the mountain, they will then see it in its true prospective. There exists an exact parallel between the present situation and that of the early Christian church. The generation in which the church originated condemned the movement and killed the Christ. It took other generations to arise and call Him blessed. In the meantime, Klansmen need to be and will be patient, for they have the inward consciousness that their cause is just.

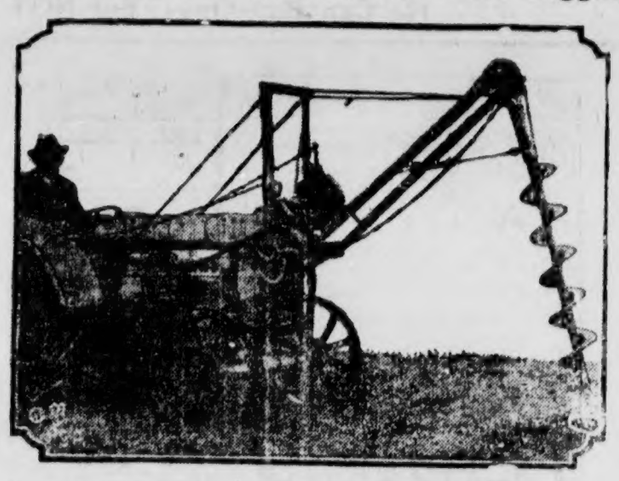
New Invention Simplifies Post-Hole Digging



POST-HOLE drilling need no no longer be tedious, slow work. An Ohio inventor has devised the above illustrated auger that can be operated by any farm tractor and will dig a three-foot hole, 9 inches in diameter, in thirty seconds. A pull on a rod is sufficient to start the auger downward and another pull stops it at the required depth and brings it to the original starting point. The inventor built his original model from 23 pieces of farm machinery.

SUGAR AND THE TARIFF

It is well known that there is a strong partnership arrangement between the beet sugar manufacturers and the farmers who raise the beets.

It is a mutual agreement based on co-operative marketing, one of the longest and best known plans for fair dealing between the interested parties.

Operating in connection with the Tariff Commission, the manufacturer of sugar and the farm producer of raw material each gets his full share of the financial result.

Figures put out by the Tariff Commission show that for 89 per cent of the beet sugar produced in 1922 the farm grower received an average of 3.37 cents per pound.

In the case of the imported cane sugar refined in Our Country, the Cuban farmer netted 1.15 cents per pound, or one-third what the American grower received.

The people of Our Country are beginning to understand that the tariff has little or no effect on the final retail price of the sugar they use.

For example, in January, 1923, refined cane sugar in New York was $6.50 per 100, while on April 25, it had advanced to $10.25 per 100.

During 1924, refined cane sugar was $9.00 per 100 in February and now it is $6.00, while all this time the tariff has remained the same—$1.765 per $100.

The 250,000 farmers growing sugar beets in the U. S. are vitally interested in tariff and market conditions that will leave their industry permanent and prosperous.

STUDIES AGRICULTURAL PRICES FOR PAST CENTURY

What did your grandfather get for eggs? What did he pay for galluses? If you have any old diaries or records or know of any which show prices received by farmers for their products or prices paid for articles purchased by farmers during the past hundred years, communicate with Charles F. Sarle of the Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.

Mr. Sarle is making a statistical study of prices on all farm products and of things that farmers buy, to develop index numbers and charts on the long time trend of prices. This historical series of prices will be used in various ways by the department in connection with forecasts of what prices will be in the future.

Records of this character, says Mr. Sarle, are usually available from files of country newspapers, farm magazines, acounts of mercantile transactions of country merchants, grain and livestock buyers, and private accounts of farm sales and purchases.

A Theme on Education

This the second of two themes on education, by pupils of the school at Mineral Springs. The first was published last week.

The true value of an Education, and my Opportunities for securing the same.—by Mattie Hilyer, 7th grade.

At the present time Education is the most valuable and essential possession a person may have except good health. But to have the very best of health, a person must be educated to the facts for preserving their health. Money, fine mansions, fine animals and other worldly goods mean little to the person without a practical education, for in order to make these things count and be of worth to humanity, one must be educated to make the best uses of such. An education solves many of life's difficult problems; it helps in building a home, it helps in supplying the needs of a home, it helps in making home life pleasant and ideal in every way, it protects people from treachery and deception, it gives one a broader outlook on life, it fits one to render better service to mankind, it helps to enforce our laws, it helps us in securing our places in the world's work, and in the meantime gives a deeper appreciation of what life really is. Our great Government has positions awaiting the man or woman with an education and proper training, while a person without an education is incapable of fulfilling the duties required. Without an education people are unable to do their best for each other. Education helps people think and act intelligently upon the questions that deal with their life. It gives them knowledge of their duties and aids them in the performance of such. How many criminals in our prisons are educated? Only 1.5 per cent. These are there because their nature and heritage put them there, and not the training they received in school. Many people have escaped the horrible tragedy of being placed in prison because they had the opportunities and ambition to get an education which led them to enter into some useful work and not idle their time on the streets, associating with a vile and wicked band of boys. The foregoing statement shows why many boys land in the penitentiary. An education helps boys and girls to become better men and women. It helps them to perceive the right from the wrong. So, to become better citizens, more cultured and refined, more worthy of life, more aspirant and more zealous, we must have the essential, education, which if we were without, our laws could not be made, our lives would be unsafe, our homes would be neglected and finally destroyed, and our civilization would dwindle back into the old savage state and custom.

My opportunities for securing an education are very great. We now have better equipped schools than we had a few years ago. America is now a land offering wonderful opportunities to the boy or girl who wants an education. We have good primary schools, good intermediate schools, good high schools and good colleges and universities, so nothing lies in the way of the boy or girl who really desires an education. Some of these schools offer work to the young men and women who haven't the necessary funds to pay their expenses, in order that the rich and poor alike may obtain training for life. Then we have the consolidated schools which afford a bus to carry the pupils in the rural districts to the better equipped schools in the cities. We have more competent teachers than we formerly had. So we boys and girls of modern times have many more advantages in getting an education than our parents had. May each young man and woman resolve to train themselves for service by going to school and applying themselves earntstly and faithfully to their work.

Reynolds that the Defendant is a non-resident, and that her place of residence and post-office address is unknown, and that such address cannot be ascertained after reasonable effort; and, further, that, in the belief of said affiant, the Defendant is of the age of twenty-one years:

It is, therefore, ordered by the Register that publication be made in The Union-Banner, a newspaper published in the County of Chilton, once a week for four consecutive weeks, requiring her, the said Bernie Mae Whitworth to plead, answer, or demur to the bill of complaint in this cause by the 2nd day of May, 1925, or, in 30 days thereafter, a decree pro confesso may be taken against her.

Done at office in Clanton, this 31st day of March, 1925.

DR. W. H. CARSON AT BAPTIST CHURCH LAST SUNDAY

The Clanton Baptist Church and Sunday School was delighted last Sunday to hear two very interesting lectures by Dr. W. H. Carson, who is a missionary of the Southern Baptist Convention at work in Africa.

Instead of discussing the Sunday school lesson as usual, all the classes assembled in the church and heard Dr. Carson answer many questions asked by different individuals regarding the people among whom he works.

At the eleven o'clock hour Dr. Carson spoke at length regarding the Baptist work in Africa, giving three reasons why he is glad he is a missionary among those people and four ways Southern Baptists can help in the work.

Dr. Carson is one of the most interesting speakers we ever heard.

POOR OR

What William Cullen Bryant Has Taught Us

To those parents who might be interested in some of the work of the Sophomore class of Chilton County High School, I publish this article, one of the many themes written to show the appreciation derived from the study of Bryant, our American poet. —Abbotte McKinnon, English.

What William Cullen Bryant Has Taught Us.—by Jean Johnson and Loris Calloway.

Do we know William Cullen Bryant? Do we know the great nature poet? Bryant was a very remarkable man, having an inspiration from God to write such beautiful and expressive poetry. George Eliot has left us in a few words the feeling that Bryant must have had:

"I simply declare my determination not to feed on the broth of literature when I can get soup."

Bryant thought of others before he considered his own wants. In tracing the life of Bryant we find that the old quotation is true: "Those who generously labor for the happiness of others will sooner or later arrive at happiness themselves." How happy it would make us if we labored for the happiness of others. If we will but let him, Bryant could serve as an inspiration to us all. He could make us see things through his eyes, and then, after we had learned how beautiful things in nature look, he could teach us to look and see things thru our own eyes. We find after studying Bryant that we have a keener insight to nature. We no longer are compelled to take our friend's word for the beauties of nature. We are more likely to do as one poet has said: "Pull on the oar and not on our influential friends." We also learn that we are not the only things that have feelings; for trees and flowers like to live too. We are taught to notice things more closely, and in doing this we see beauty in things which heretofore we have passed unnoticed. Appreciation of all these beautiful things which God has created gradually fills our minds, and also the knowledge that only some superhuman power could possibly build things such as our woods and streams. Bryant has taught us through his poetry to go into the woods to shake off our worldly troubles and put on our new self. When we take a stroll through the mansions of God, we think more of the seriousness of life, for nature brings us to a closer communion with a Creator. We learn more of God's power, which is something we should never forget. Bryant's poems make the imps of mischief leave us, and lines of seriousness replace the dimples of fun. He teaches us not to be selfish. As Smiles has said: "The habit of viewing things cheerfully, and of thinking about life hopefully, may be made to grow up in us like any other habit." There is no comparison between the things that man has made and the mighty works of God, we learn from Bryant. "Only to the pure and true does nature resign herself and reveal her secrets."

DEATH OF T. G. MILLING

Mr. T. G. Milling was called to his eternal home December 8, 1924. He was born December 8, 1863. Mr. Milling became a Christian early in life and led this life until the end. At the time of his death he was a member of Stanton Baptist church. He was a good honest citizen, and his life was that of a consistent, consecrated Christian. We sometime wonder why he could not have been spared many more years of usefulness to his family and his community, but God knows best, and since He in His infinite wisdom saw fit to take him from us to His Home in Heaven where there is no suffering and sorrow, help us to say, "Thy Will be done, not ours."

He was a faithful husband and a loving father. While his death brought the deeper grief to us all, we are grateful for the privilege of having had him with us during this his earthly stay. We trust that many lives are richer and better for having known him, while the hope of seeing him again will brighten our pathway to the end.

Styles in the Hereafter.—A revival was raging in a Virginia colored church. The fruits had been considerable. One obdurate soul, however, resisted the efforts of the elder. Called to account for his reluctance, he replied:

"Yo' see how it is, Elder. I'se got a problem. I don't see how I'se gwine git mah shirt on over my wings when I gits to Glory."

"Dat ain't yo' problem," retorted the exhorter promptly. "Yo' problem is how is yo' gwine git yo' hat on ovah yo' horns."—Everybody's Magazine.

FOSHEE-HANCOCK

Tht Union-Banner received the following clipping from a Florida newspaper the first of this week:

A wedding which came as a complete surprise to their many friends was that of Miss Norine Hancock to Mr. John Mac Foshee which took place at the home of the Rev. W. D. Entzminger at 5:30 o'clock Thursday afternoon, April 9th.

The bride wore a lovely gown of white georgette crepe and hat and shoes to match, with a coat of white flannel. She is the charming daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Hancock of Lakeland. She has been engaged in teaching in the Fort Myers public school until recently, where she had won the admiration of patrons and pupils alike.

The groom is a young man of sterling character and more than ordinary ability. He is a newcomer in the state, having come here from Clanton, Ala., a few months ago. He is at present in the employ of the Ford Motor Co., at Lakeland, and is making good in his profession.

The happy couple left immediately after the ceremony for Tampa, St. Petersburg, and other points on the West Coast. Their many friends join in wishing them a long and happy married life.

HOPE IT COMES TRUE

It is being whispered about that the L. & N. will give us another passenger train, both ways, about May 1.

Some slight changes in schedule may be made in the running of our present local passenger trains, and the old time 7 and 8 be put on the job again.

It is certainly to be hoped that this rumor will come true, for Clanton, at present, does not have a passenger service to boast of when it comes right down to a question of convenience.

APPRECIATE KINDNESS

We wish to thank our many friends in Clanton and elsewhere, who were so kind to us and so ready to assist us in any way possible during the extended illness and ultimate death of our dear husband and father. May the rich blessings of God rest upon you all is our prayer.

Mrs. T. L. Thompson,

A Political Reprisal.—"How did you first break into politics?"

"It's a sad story," answered Senator Sorghum. "The people out home got kind o' riled at the Government in Washington and decided to send me to Congress out of spite."—Washington Star.

Frequent Bilious Attacks

"I suffered with severe bilious attacks that came on two or three times each month," says Mr. J. P. Nevins, of Lawrenceburg, Ky. "I would get nauseated. I would have dizziness and couldn't work. I would take pills until I was worn-out with them. I didn't seem to get relief.

"A neighbor told me of

BLACK-DRAUGHT

and I began its use. I never have found so much relief as it gave me. I would not be without it for anything. It seemed to cleanse my whole system and made me feel like new. I would take a few doses—get rid of the bile and have my usual clear head, feel full of pep, and could do twice the work."

Bilious attacks are "seasonal" with many people. Millions have taken Thedford's Black-Draught to ward off such attacks, and the good results they have reported should induce you to try it.

The Railroads Are Not "Making A Lot of Money"

Figures taken from the records of the Interstate Commerce Commission show that, treating the Class-1 railroads as a whole, the rate of return (percentage of net railway operating income to property investment) for the four years ending with 1924 was 3.92 percent.

The average return earned by the carriers in the four years ending with 1909 was 5.42 percent. In the four years ending with 1913 it was 4.92 percent, and in the four years ending with 1917 it was 4.74 percent.

How many industries or private businesses show such a record of diminishing rate of return on property investments? Does such a statement (compiled by a Government bureau) indicate that existing railroad rates are too high? During the year of 1924, the rate of return was but 4.35 percent, and yet a record for efficient transportation and satisfaction to the shipping and traveling public was established by this and other great trunk lines.

Such records are made possible only by the most careful operation and management. Do you appreciate the fact that the United States enjoys the finest transportation service in all the world, at lower cost than is enjoyed in any other country?

For the good of your community, of the Nation, and of general business conditions, it is well to keep this fact in mind.

Produced Gold From Mercury

WHETHER or not it will ever pay to artificially manufacture gold, still remains an open question. But—that it can be done was proved by the gentleman shown here, Privy Councilman Dr. Miethe of Berlin. He produced a dollar's worth of gold from mercury, the test being made at a cost estimated at $60,000.

CHILTON HIGH WINS TWO FROM ANNISTON

Chilton County High School continued her winning streak last Friday and Saturday, taking two games from Anniston Military Institute of Anniston, Ala. The first was a hotly contested affair, the result being in doubt until the final inning. The second was a complete walk-over for Chilton.

First Game.

Chilton had her hands full in the first game, and the count was tied 3 and 3 at the beginning of the ninth inning. However, Anniston failed to score in their half of the last inning, and Chilton came in with Vann at the bat. Vann was an easy out, but Thompson, showing some of the fastest base-running ever shown in Clanton, beat out a grounder to short. On his attempt to steal second McElory allowed the ball to glance off his glove into the grass a few feet away and Thompson continued to third. On the squeeze play, Littlejohn missed on his attempt to bunt, and Hobbs threw wild past third in trying to catch Thompson off the bag, the runner scoring.

Both pitchers had had support, but Chilton touched steine for 8 safeties, while Vann yielded 8. Errors lost the game for Anniston 4 to 3.

Second Game.

In the last game, Hammell, Chilton's pitcher, had the better of Davidson, yielding only 5 hits to his opponents 14. Besides, Anniston errored about the same as in the first game, while Chilton played almost at will. The features of the game were Connatser's triple with 3 men on base, and his other two hits which scored two men each time. The entire Chilton team played in as good form in the field as they have shown this year.

In the fifth inning it looked as if they would make a track meet of it, scoring 5 times. The final count was 16 to 0.

This more than makes up for the stunning defeat handed Chilton by this school last fall in football, which was 37 to 0.

Chilton is making strong bid for the State championship this year. They have a percentage of.763 out of 12 games played; 8 won, 3 lost and 1 tied.

Rate on blackstrap in iron drums, less than carloads, were found unjust, and unreasonable and the commission's order provided that the rates on blackstrap in iron drums, less carloads shall be no higher than rates in wooden barrels, less carloads.

STATE NEWS BRIEFS

The Florence Chamber of Commerce's major objective for the year 1925—that of securing new industries has been launched with much vigor It has been decided that a representative of that city shall be sent to the north and east within the next few days and that he shall be kept there with the purpose of spreading information about Florence and the Muscle Shoals district among the representatives of industrial capital. All arrangements for sending this representative in quest of new industries are rapidly being completed. So far this year a number of representatives of outside capital have been in Florence to make investigations and favorable impressions have been expressed, with the indication that an nouncement would soon be authorized that several new industries have been secured. At the beginning of the year the chamber agreed that its major efforts during this year should be devoted to industrial expansion and to that end there has been considerable activity with much more plans for the immediate future.

Probably Daniel A. Gatson, age 87, who resides near Goodwater, in Clay county, is the oldest Confederate veteran to apply for a pension. His name was added to the list of pensioners April 1, and drew his first pension then. He has never been where he could not have drawn a pension on account of property qualifications. When the aged ex-soldier was asked why he had not sooner applied for a pension, he stated that he had always been an able bodied man and could work and earn a living and did not think it was right to draw one when he could work, but the last year or so his health had failed considerably and decided he would apply. Mr. Gaston served with distinction in Company G. Second Alabama cavalry, under General Wheeler, and was never wounded or captured, and was paroled after the surrender of General Lee.

Work has been started by Danby and Templemyer on the new tourist camp recently promised the American Legion. A large number of workers are now employed on the preliminary work and early completion is assured. The camp is to be located between Sheffield and Tuscumbia and will cover an area of approximately 40 acres. Ample accommodation will be offorded for approximately 100 tourists. The camp will be equipped with modern facilities, including kitchens, bath houses, telephones, electric lights and water service.

Shipments of cabbage from Alabama this season have been greatly in excess of last year, furnishing evidence of the much milder weather experienced this year than a year ago. Figures from the State Department of Agriculture on cabbage shipments for the month of April showed that through April 8, shipments amounted to 194 carloads, while for the entire month of April ,1924, only 56 carloads were shipped. Severe freezes last year were responsible for the lighter movement.

Why He Succeeded

From hard work on a farm to the study of medicine in Cincinnati, where he was graduated in 1862, was the course which Dr. R. V. Pierce took.

In his younger days he practiced medicine over a large district. It was then the new oil fields near Titusville, Pa. Finally he determined to put up some of his prescriptions in ready-to-use form in order to reach a larger number of families.

He thus early moved to Buffalo, N. Y., and established the World's Dispensary, where he put up Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery for the blood as well as the Favorite Prescription for women, carefully preparing them from roots, barks and herbs and placed them with druggists everywhere.

During the last sixty years Dr. Pierce's Discovery, for the blood, has been sold in larger quantities by druggists all over the United States than any other medicine. It is a tonic in its effects on the stomach and digestive apparatus; an alterative in its action on the blood, liver and skin. It increases the appetite, stimulates the digestion, enriches the blood, and makes both men and women feel as they did when they were young and care free.

Ask your nearest druggist for Doctor Pierce's Discovery, in tablet or liquid form, or send 10c for trial pkg. of tablets to Dr. Pierce's Clinic, in Buffalo, N. Y.

Smith and Pattillo Are Recognized by Board

At the regular monthly meeting of the County Board of Education last Friday the matter of who would be considered and recognized by the Board among the four contesting incumbents for the two vacancies was taken up by the Board and passed upon. The matter of Smith or Oden to fill the vacancy of Mr. Dykes, whose term has expired, was first taken up, and the Board voted unanimously to recognize Mr. Smith, who was elected by the people in the last general election to fill the vacancy.

Then the Board was called upon to decide between Conway, Baker, and Pattillo, the three contestants for the vacancy caused by the resignation of L. A. Calloway, and after a rather lengthy discussion of the matter by Col. J. O. Middlton and Mr. Omar Reynolds, and after short talks by the members of the Board, the chairman, Mr. Billingsley, called for a vote. Mr. Vines and Mr. Smith expressed themselves as in favor of not recognizing either of the three contestants for this place. Mr. Robinson, altho opposed to the motion, seeing that the Board would be divided two and two, in his speech before the Board said that he would submit to the contentions of the other two members of the Board to recognize neither in the vacancy of Calloway. The vote was taken and the motion declared carried by the chairman.

However, after noon. Mr. Pattillo came back before the Board, presented his appointment to the place by State Superintendent Abercrombie, and asked the Board to recognize him. At this juncture, Mr. Robinson stated to the Board that he did not vote when the matter was put before the board before noon, and that the motion not to recognize either was not carried, as everybody present thought, including the chairman of the board. So the motion of the forenoon was declared void by the Board and Mr. Pattillo was recognized. On all questions passed upon by the Board in the afternoon all the members and contesting members of the Board present were allowed to vote, including Mr. Oden, making a total of six members voting in the afternoon.

CHILTON HIGH "TIGERS" TRIM WETUMPKA AGGIES

Chilton County High's baseball team won its ninth game of the season, here, on Wednesday, April 22. The victims were the Wetumpka Aggies. This makes twice this season that Chilton has humbled the squad from the river town.

Both teams played good ball, with Chilton having a little the best of the hitting, winning 8 to 2. The only feature of the game was when Howard Thompson knocked one through a hole between the bottom of the fence and the ground. Unfortunately there was no one on base at the time.

GOOD BASEBALL GAMES TO BE HERE LAST OF THIS WEEK

Lovers of the national sport of baseball will be pleased to learn that Chilton High's crack baseball team will tie up with Butler County High School team for two games the last part of this week. Butler High is the recognized high school champion of the southern part of Alabama, and should give Chilton something to shoot at. In a series played in Greenville with this team Chilton won one and lost one, of a two-game series. If Chilton can take their crown next Friday and Saturday, it will be a nice lift to their determination to be the high school champions of the state this spring.

Chilton will appreciate your being there to root for them. This will be a good record for Clanton and Chilton County, if we can draw the state championship this year. Be there! Root for Chilton!

The games will be played at the park just back of the high school building at Clanton.

YOUNG MAN DROWNED NEAR LOCK 12

It has been reported in Clanton that a young man, Talmage Johnson, age about 25 years, was drowned in the Coosa River a few miles below Lock 12 on last Thursday.

The report says that a party of young men were in swimming, making the trip from the mainland to an island and return. Young Johnson is said to have become exhausted when only a few yards from the bank on the return trip, and went down to his death.

The boy was recovered in a few hours, and carried back to Sylacauga, according to reports.

DAMAGE CASE CONFIRMED BY COURT OF APPEALS

The case of Mrs. Pearl Atkinson of Jemison against the L. & N. Railroad, in which the plaintiff was awarded $1,000 damages by the Circuit Court of Chilton County, has been confirmed by the Court of Appeals of Alabama. The suit was for personal injuries received by Mrs. Atkinson in getting off a passenger train at Jemison.

Can Somebody Tell The County Board Of Education What They Should Do?

The County Board of Education of Chilton County is "between the devil and the deep blue sea" on the matter of filling the vacancies on that Board. The people elected two members for the two vacancies last November by overwhelming majorities. The Circuit Court has held that Mr. Baker's election was not legal, and Baker has appealed to the Supreme Court. In the meantime, State Superintendent Abercrombie has appointed J. C. Pattillo and Howard Oden to take the place of Smith and Baker. The Board has seated Smith and Pattillo, and Oden holds a commission from the State Superintendent. It is not known whether any of them are legally entitled to the office.

If the wishes of the people of Chilton County were allowed to speak in the matter it would be easily settled; and if it is not the business of the people of Chilton County, whose business is it?

The people have said in thundering tones who they wanted to serve on the county board of education, so what is the use to squabble over the matter always? Why doesn't the board recognize the wishes of a majority of their constituents and let that be end of it?

"GYPSY ROVER" OFFERS FINE ENTERTAINMENT TO CLANTON

The musical operetta entitled "Gypsy Rover," played by the students of the Shelby County High School, at the high school auditorium in Clanton last Thursday night proved to be a decided success. The play was presented by the voice department under the direction of Mildred White Wallace, assisted by the violin department under the direction of Mrs. W. L. Longshore.

The play throughout, interspersed with musical numbers and singing, was a splendid arrangement, and the actors displayed rare skill in doing their parts. The play was splendid in every respect and it was presented in a very pleasing and proficient manner, which reflects great credit on the part of the students and music teachers of the Shelby County High School.

The play was presented here under the auspices of Circle No. 3 of the Clanton Baptist Church, on a 50-50 basis between the Circle and the Shelby school. About $100 was derived from the proceeds, above expenses, of which the Baptist Circle received $50.

The people of Clanton are glad to have our neighbors come down and play for us, and extended them a very cordial welcome. We hope to reciprocate some day by going up to Columbiana and playing for them when our high school gets up a good play.

DEATH OF MRS. MARY ELLIZABETH GLENN

Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Glenn, age 65, died Monday night at the home of her son, Brewer Glenn, south of Clanton. The remains were buried at Samaria cemetery Tuesday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Askins of Billingsley are guests of Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Davis.

CLANTON BASEBALL CLUB PERFECTLY ORGANIZED

A second meeting was held at the court house Tuesday night, at which further steps were taken to complete the organization for a baseball club in Clanton for this summer.

The finance committee which has been soliciting contributions during the past week reported that good progress has been made toward securing the needed funds. The commtitee was continued with the addition of some other members to finish raising the money in the next week.

A number of other committees were selected at the meeting Tuesday night for the purpose of carrying forward the work of the association.

Van Smith was elected as ball and strike umpire and Dick Hayes as base umpire for the season.

There will be another meeting at the court house next Tuesday night for the purpose of completing all arrangements as to finances and organization. After that meeting the matter of employing players will be taken up. It is planned to have all details worked out and everything ready to start the games by the first of June.

You can tell the world that Clanton is going to have a ball team this year, and a good one too. We are going to have a bunch of players of the best that can be had in amateur baseball in the state. And to these we shall add our own home collection of old stand bys and we expect to put Clanton on the baseball map in red letters.

U. S. TO WAIT ON BERLIN TO SEE OUTCOME OF ELECTION

Officers Seek to Look at Bright Side of Election of Hindenburg to Presidency of Germany.

Washington, April 27.—"Wait and see" is the attitude of this government toward the election of Field Marshall Hindenburg as president of the German Republic.

Coolidge and other national officers see no cause for concern at the moment. They expect no radical change in Germany's policies, because the German presidency is a figurehead position compared with the American presidency, and second, because Von Hindenburg's ampaign utterances and pledges commit him to the policies of the present German government.

Officials, do, however, recognize a trend back toward the monarchy. The victory of Hindenburg is regarded as a decided step toward restoration of the old regime. Whether Germany later is to go all the way, is the big question here. Officials say that the restoration does not necessarily follow the prenomenon of a complete reaction and a reversal of public sentiment is frequent in Germany as here and in every other country.

CREAM SUPPER

There will be a cream supper at Mr. J. E. Dorminey's, Saturday night, May 3rd. Everybody is invited to come and enjoy themselves with us.

ED CALLEN DIED IN BIRMINGHAM SUNDAY

Mr. Ed Callen, age 35 years, son of the late W. T. Callen, died in a hospital in Birmingham last Sunday, following an illness of several weeks. His illness began with an attack of appendicitis, when he was carried to Birmingham for an operation. He lingered for several days following the operation, alternating between better and worse, until the critical period which ended his life on Sunday.

Mr. Callen was unmarried. He is survived by one brother, Frank Callen, of Clanton, and one sister, Mrs. Hance Alred, of Clanton.

The body was brought to Clanton from Birmingham Sunday afternoon. Funeral services were held at his home Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock, conducted by Rev. S. J. Ezell. He was buried in the Clanton cemetery.

Ed was born and reared in Clanton, where he spent most of his life. At the outbreak of the World War he was in the West, and volunteered in the Engineering corps, enlisting at Portland, Oregon. He went to France where he served with his outfit during the entire campaign of military operations.

His many friends here are very much grieved at his death.

MRS. MARGARET JONES DIED SUNDAY

The death of Mrs. Margaret Jones occurred at the home of Mr. Jesse Connell on last Sunday. While on a visit at the home of Mr. Connell, Mrs. Jones was taken ill, and died within a short time.

The deceased was the daughter of Martin Gore, and the sister of Mr. Marion Gore and Mr. Johnnie Gore.

Mr. Joe Gore, another brother of Mrs. Jones, died and was buried about a week ago.

Funeral services were held at Cane Creek, Monday, conducted by Rev. W. J. Armstrong.

Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Downs motored to Montgomery Monday and Tuesday.

One Caught with Booze And Two for Fighting

Sheriff Littlejohn, together with Deputy Foshee and Special Deputy Loss Robinson of Stumps Hills, went out to the place of Mack Baker, 3 miles west of Clanton, last Saturday, and a search of the place revealed one quart of whiskey in a grape juice bottle hidden in Baker's kitchen. Several other vessels with the odor of whiskey were found in Baker's smoke house. Baker was arrested and released after making bond for $500.

Martin Wright and Barto Wright were arrested Saturday afternoon, following a fight which the two had with Fate Downing at Cleve Littlefield's saw mill near Macedonia church the day before. Reports say that Downing was severely beaten on the head, and he was brought to the hospital in Clanton, after the fracas. The two Wrights were brought to jail, and were tried in preliminary before Judge Gulledge Tuesday morning under the charge of assault with intent to murder. The two Wrights were bound over under $500 bonds each.

Where Higher Education Would Have Landed Him

Some fifteen years ago there landed in New York a friendless and almost penniless Russian immigrant who found lodgings on the East side, and at once, with racial perseverance and energy, set out to earn a living.

He was of a likeable disposition, and speedily made acquaintances who sought to aid him in his ambition. One of them sponsored him for the vacant post of janitor, or shammos, to use the common Hebraic word, of a small synagogue on a side street.

But when the officers of the congregation found out the applicant was entirely illiterate they reluctantly denied him employment, inasmuch as a shammos must keep certain records.

The greenhorn quickly rallied from his disappointment. He got a job somewhere. He prospered. Presently he became a dabbler in real estate.

Within ten years he was one of the largest independent operators in East side tenement-house property and popularly rated as a millionaire. An occasion arose when he needed a large amount of money to swing what promised to be a profitable deal. Finding himself for the moment short of cash he went to the East side branch of one of the large banks.

It was the first time in his entire business career that he had found it necessary to borrow extensively. He explained his position to the manager, who knew of his success, and asked for a loan of fifty thousand dollars.

"I'll be very glad to accommodate you, Mr. Rabin," said the banker. "Just sit down there at that desk and make out a note for the amount."

The caller smiled an embarrassed smile.

"If you please," he said, "you should be so good as to make out the note and then I should sign it."

"What's the idea?" inquired the bank manager puzzled.

"Vell, you see," he confessed, "I haf to tell you somethings: Myself, I cannot read and write. My wife she has taught me how to make my own name on paper, but otherwise with me reading and writing is nix."

In amazement the banker stared at him.

"Well, well, well!" he murmured admiringly. "And yet, handicapped as you've been, inside of a few years you have become a rich man! I wonder what you'd have been in this country by now if only you had been able to read and write?"

"A shammos," said Mr. Rabin modestly.

THORSBY SECTION

(S. L. NORTON, Manager).

FIRE DESTROYED BATES HALL THORSBY INSTITUTE

Thorsby has once more sustained a serious loss by fire, which was discovered about 11 o'clock Monday night. An empty coal shed near the rear of Bates Hall, the principal building of Thorsby Institute, was seen to be in flames, although it had been thoroughly cleaned out only a few days before. From this shed the fire caught the rear end of Bates Hall, a wooden building constructed largely of heart pine, which burned so rapidly that in an hour's time the destruction of the entire building was complete, together with its equipment, including the laboratory and its splendid library, which it has taken many years to accumulate. By the time enough people could be aroused by Mrs. Loveland and Miss Perry, who ran from house to house, even to the boys' dormitory on the hill, and back to McCain, Littlejohn, where three shots were fired (Thorsby's fire alarm), then on to the Norton's, Misses Leech and Clyde McKee had run to Bates Hall and rung the bell; the Pan-American train, south-bound, had blown its whistle lustily, and people were astir, drawn by the illumination and gathered at the scene of the fire. The boarding students, boys and girls, worked heroically with water and wet blankets to protect the dining hall building, while others formed a salvage corps and forced their way into the building, now well ablaze, and brought out valuable records from the office, typewriters from the business department, but were unable to pursue the work further. The wind was light and from a most favorable direction, and yet the homes for quite a wide strip even to a half mile away were greatly endangered by flying embers, especially shingles from the roof. So far as known, incipient fires were extinguished and many greater ones prevented by a shower which fell as night was setting in, and inflammable material far and near had a good wetting down. The loss is estimated at $12,000, with insurance for $8,000. At a midnight conference of trustees, faculty and friends of the school, offers of the public school building, the Baptist church and the Congregational church were offered, and it was decided to carry on until May 29th, the end of the school year.

As to the cause of the fire, it is surmised that it was started by the only known enemy of the school, cigarettes, which have been vigorously and consistently fought for many years.

The school assembled Tuesday morning for chapel, in the Congregational church; addresses were made by Mrs. Loveland and Mr. J. M. Graham; a splendid spirit of hopefulness and loyalty was manifest; a program was outlined and work for the day began. At 9:30 a. m. a short meeting was held by the trustees, Mrs. Loveland and friends of the school; a committee consisting of Mr. Butler, Mrs. Loveland and Mrs. Gerald was appointed with power to make necessary plans for continuing the school to the end of the term, and Mr. Norton, Secretary of the Board of Trustees, was instructed to try to secure the presence of Frank E. Jenkins, D. D., President of T. I. Board of Trustees, at an early conference in Thorsby, to consider plans for the future.

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Bosworth and family motored to Birmingham last Friday to visit Burt Bosworth, returning Tuesday.

Miss Pearl Carlson accompanied her aunt as far as Birmingham, where she will visit with the families of John Johnson and Mr. Hughes, former neighbors in Thorsby.

Miss Susie Adams of Andalusia, a former student of T. I., was a week end visitor at the home of Misses Lorena and Lois Primm.

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Graham were visitors with Prof. and Mrs. C. M. Williams last Sunday and Monday.

Rev. J. E. Each, accompanied by his son, Cecil, and S. E. Norton, went to Union church, where Mr. Each held services Sunday afternoon and night. This church is in Elmore County, 8 miles east of Mt. Creek. They returned Monday morning.

DARK RINGS UNDER EYES

For the relief of dark rings and blood shot eyes there is nothing better than simple camphor, witchhazel, hydrastis, etc., as mixed in Lavoptik eye wash. The quick action is surprising. Eye cup free. Upchurch Drug Co., Clanton, Ala.

Uncle Dock Jones is reported very seriously ill at the dome of Hubert Jones in Clanton. He has been sick for a long time and is not expected to recover.

On Monday night, 7:30 to 9 o'clock, at Bates Hall there was, in connection with the observance of Health Week, a unique exhibition by the Civics class and the Home Nursing class of Thorsby Institute, consisting of demonstrations by the students of the workings of a county health unit, first aid work, and removing a person from a smoke filled room. In the first came a demonstration of the health unit, consisting of a nurse and doctors, ready to attend calls or make visits to the homes of the people. Second—first aid as taught in schools. In this the girls did some clever work in bandoging wounds of the head and arms; but the most interesting and novel sight was the removal of an unconscious girl from a room supposed to be filled with smoke. The patient was lying prone on the floor when in came another girl walking on all-fours with head close to the floor, and tied together the hands of the patient, then thrust her head through the loop made by the arms of the patient, and still walking on hands and feet, dragged the unconscious girl to a place of safety, and then by using the arms of the patient pump-handle fashion, sought to force air into her lungs; other girls then appeared, who improvised a stretcher, laid the unconscious girl upon it and carried her out. Knowing these things may some time save a life.

Mr. J. M. Graham of the State Health Department spent two days in Thorsby early this week, by invitation of Mrs. Loveland, acting principal of Thorsby Institute, giving talks to the students and such other people of Thorsby as were inclined to hear him Mr. Graham is seeking to arouse interest in Chilton County that will induce the people to avail themselves of the assistance offered by the state and the federal government to establish and maintain a county health unit in Chilton County as many other counties in the state are doing, with great benefit from proper care of the sick, and more particularly providing that ounce of prevention said to be worth a pound of cure. This matter has been talked of for some time in this county, but will not be forced upon the people so long as they prefer to cling to old customs and let their loved ones die from what are now known to be preventable diseases, when properly cared for.

PLUMBER THOUGHT HE NEEDED NEW PIPES

"My stomach and intestines were always full of gas and I often had severe colic attacks. The pain and soreness caused me to think I needed a new set of pipes. Since taking Mayr's Wonderful Remedy all this has disappeared and my only trouble now is to make enough dough to buy all the food I'd like to eat." It is a simple harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. POOR OR

Our President In Marble A Forceful Warning

THE White House art gallery is soon to be enriched with this exquisite marble bust of President Calvin Coolidge. It is the work of Mr. Moses W. Dykaar, the prominent New York sculptor, who is shown above with his masterpiece. For a masterpiece it is, according to critics who have seen it. A wonderful likeness and a work of art.

How it happened to be made, is another story. The sculptor was in Washington, D. C., in the latter part of 1913 when Calvin Coolidge was still vice-president. After some argument, "Silent Cal" consented to pose for this bust—the first time he had ever posed for such portraiture. It was not until recently, however, that Sculptor Dykaar completed the above marble beauty from his original clay model.

NEW FORD BODY TO BE BUILT

As a delivery unit to meet requirements for equipment lighter than that of the ton truck, the Ford Motor Company has just added a pick-up body to its commercial car line.

The new body is designed for use on the Ford runabout, taking the place of the rear deck, and is well adapted to all kinds of light hauling and quick delivery. The runabout seat affords comfortable riding for the driver and there is ample room for another passenger. Full protection against inclement weather is provided by the top and side curtains.

The new body is of all steel construction and sturdily built. It is 3 feet,, 4-3/4 inches wide, and 4 feet, 8 inches long. Sides are 13 inches deep to the flare, so that loading space is sufficient to meet all demands of light delivery. The end gate is the same as that on the express body of the ton truck, and when partially lowered is securely held in place by chains.

GOOD SINGING AT FRIENDSHIP SUNDAY AFTERNOON

The singing society at Friendship met in regular monthly session last Sunday afternoon. The service was called to order by Chairman J. D. Collins at 2:00 o'clock and T. G. Wyatt directed some singing. Also, the following directors led: Claudie Wyatt, R. E. Wyatt, S. V. Miller, A. A. Beaird and Jesse C. Jones. The closing song was sung by T. G. Wyatt.

The attendance was not over-crowded, but there were enough present to do good singing, and everyone seemed to enjoy it. All visitors are always welcome.

This was the regular preaching day at Friendship, and Rev. W. W. Robinson preached at 11 o'clock and at 7:30. In conference Sunday night, it was decided by the church to postpone the regular preaching day in May to the 5th Sunday, on account of the Fourth Sunday singing at Providence on our regular preaching day.

A committee was also appointed to confer with the Alabama Power Company regarding the lighting of the church with electric lights. The Power Company has a line within a short distance of the church, and it is hoped that this line can be extended on to the church.

AN APPEAL FROM THE CHILTON COUNTY TRAINING SCHOOL

You will doubtless be interested in learning of the effort being made to put a vocational agricultural building on the campus of the County Training School during the summer months. This campaign began March 15, and has met with wonderful success. We have raised around $1,100 from the colored people. We are now endeavoring to secure all assistance possible, and are asking the white citizens to listen to the plea of the campaign committee, which will call on you. These county training schools are all in the South, and are wonderful assets to this section of the country, in training negro boys and girls for better service in communities in which they live. We can not, and do not attempt, to build these schools without the aid of the white people who sympathize with the cause of practical negro education. These training schools are splendid means of molding excellent results in defining the relations between the races, and white people in many communities give nice donations to foster these schools. We have another thousand dollars to raise and we are making this appeal to all white people to help us that we may be able to let the contract for this building by June 1. Our campaign is exclusively for securing aid for a vocational agricultural building, and we hope to secure a sufficient number that will donate to us in due time, that we may be able to put the project over.

Our list of colored people who have helped with $50.00 each, are: Ben Brown, George Williams, Fate Williams, Robert Williams, Archie Hall, Ben Love, A. D. Gordon, Gus Gordon, Anthony Holyfield, Ralph Oden, I. B. Bryant, W. A. Dickerson (Bill), West McCall, Lee Thompson, Oce L. Thompson, J. J. ANY WOMAN, any man, can now have a well-developed face and form. The whole, simple secret of a well-developed form is in the number of blood-cells in your body. You can now forget all the theoretical talk about diet, exercise, fad treatments, food-fats, and fat-foods. Nothing is of any use, after all, except blood-cells!

Thin, run-down men and women, with bony necks, sunken cheeks, bony shoulders—all these are suffering from one thing—too few blood-cells. Science has proved that S.S.S. helps to make the rich red-blood-cells, which you need. Your blood is starving for these new blood-cells! Give your blood the blood-cells it needs—take S.S.S. the great scientific blood-cell maker. S.S.S. has done marvels, too, in making beautiful complexions, clearing the skin, making lips rosy red, the cheeks full and plump—because it rids the blood of impurities which cause pimples, blackheads, acne, blotches, eczema, tetter, rash and rheumatism, too. As the medicinal ingredients of S.S.S. are purely vegetable, it may be taken with perfect safety. This is why S.S.S., since 1826, has meant to thousands of underweight men and women a plus in their strength. Start taking S.S.S. today and your great problem, that of your personal appearance, can be solved.

S. S. S. is sold at all good drug stores in two sizes. The larger size is more economical.

The motion picture camera which Pathe uses to take News Pictures must be a very versatile and elastic machine. One minute Mr. Wade is showing Pathe pictures of the Leaning Tower of Pisa, in Italy, and the next minute he is showing scenes of a recent cyclone disaster in Murphreesboro, Ill., U. S. A. Pathe News Pictures are very fine from an educational standpoint, and they are interesting, too.

Von Hindenburg, Kaiser Bill's Field Marshall during the World War, was elected president of the German Republic by a plurality of 845,000 votes over Dr. Wilhelm Marx, the socialist-democratic candidate. In his campaign speeches Hindenburg pledged himself very strongly to the new republican form of government of the Fatherland, and says that he will fight as hard to build up his country on its new basis as he did to carry out the plans of the Kaiser in the dark days of the war against the Allies. To say the least of it, Hindenburg is a strong man, and if he will direct his energies toward the betterment of the German Republic, he can yet render humanity a noble service.

MAKING GOOD CITIZENS

In a bulletin recently issued by the Bureau of Education of the Interior Department we read: "The United States is prosperous—but—only half of our eligible voters actually vote even at the presidential elections; 5 millions of our people over 10 years of age are illiterate; 10 millions of our children of school age are not attending school; we spend more for tobacco, cosmetics, and chewing gum than we do for education; half of our young men were found physically unfit for unlimited military service; our wage earners lose wages amounting to over 2 billion dollars a year because of preventable sickness; in 1870 there was 1 divorce for every 18 marriages; last year there was 1 divorce for every 8 marriages."

These are some of the problems confronting the State. It needs to help more of its people to become good citizens. The fewer the number of ills and privations of life, and the greater the happiness of humanity, the nearer we approach the social ideal. The progressive school is a miniature of society. Not only is its structure much the same, but it carries on many of the same activities. It seeks to promote the welfare of the pupils through the best methods in use in society.

What are some of the school tasks confronting 730,000 teachers? The school should give every child an equal opportunity to develop fully his initiative and ability. It should assure to him healthful conditions for mind and body. It should imbue him with principles of personal honesty and a strong sense of his obligations to his family, his community, and his nation. It should give him the education and training necessary to support himself and to bear his just share in maintaining a community with high American ideals. It should develop his capacity for the wholesome use of leisure time. It should inculcate a broad and understanding patriotism which insures our country's highest good.

ANOTHER SPECIMEN ADDED TO OUR COLLECTION

FIGHT WITH BOLL WEEVIL ON AGAIN

Beginning in May the annual fight between cotton growers and boll weevils will be on again. Weevils are already emerging, which is a signal to start the fight, because one weevil killed early in the season is equivalent to hundreds killed later.

Following dry weather in most sections of Alabama in July and August of 1924 a lack of interest among farmers in weevil control this year has been noticeable, but more recently activities indicate that they are preparing to put up a vigorous fight in defense of their cotton.

With calcium arsenate the cheapest it has been in many years, W. A. Ruffin, Extension entomologist, and the county agents throughout the State are recommending an application just before squares begin to form. It should be applied in dust form with dust guns which will be used later in the season.

Sufficient weevils may not appear on every farm to make this application necessary, but present indications are that it will be generally true, since the pre-square application requires very little poison per acre and can be applied at a relatively small cost.

Paraphrasing an old proverb, Mr. Ruffin said that "wise farmers foresee the evils of boll weevils and prepare to protect themselves." This they are doing by getting their calcium arsenate and dusting machinery so that they may apply poison in the right way at the right time. If it is not done properly it should not be done at all.

A Theme on Education

The following theme was written by a member of the Junior II. class of Thorsby Junior High School.

The Value of A High School Education—by Lota Mae Hayes.

A truly democratic country must have a High School system which gives education free to all, which covers all stages of education, and permits direct passage from one grade to the next higher, and which is attended by all ranks of society. Until the 19th century education was generally considered in the broad sense, as the privilege of the rich and upper classes, but in the American colonies, especially among the New England Puritans and the Dutch of New York the seeds of more democratic education were early sown. The most notable of the early school laws was that of Massachusetts in 1647, which may be said to have laid the foundation for the present free elementary and free high schools. Later all the states came to establish high schools. In time it was found that it was not enough to establish education as a right; it must become a duty. There were always parents who were not awake to the value of education for their children, or who were pressed by need to allow their sons and daughters to begin working in shops and factories before they had passed through even the elementary classes. The states began to realize that their own future welfare depended largely upon the proper training of the younger generation, and that none of its children should be allowed to suffer from neglect. This led to the second great advance—the passage of compulsory education laws. With Massachusetts and New York again in the lead, compulsory education laws appeared in one state after another, following the Civil War, until practically the whole country was covered. These laws were followed by others regulating child labor, so that the temptation to keep children out of school to earn money was largely removed. In general, it may be said that the length of the school life of the child has gradually increased to correspond with the lengthening period of human infancy. The child with no schooling has one chance in 150,000 of performing distinguished service. Every day spent in school pays the child $9.62. Here is the proof: Uneducated laborers earn on an average, $500 a year for 40 years, $20,000. High School graduates earn on an average, $1,000 a year for 40 years, $40,000. This education required 12 years of schooling of 180 days each, a total of 2,160 days in school. If 2,160 days in school add $20,000 to the income for life, then each day at school adds $9.02. The child that stays out of school to earn less than $9.00 a day is losing money, not making money.

Education increases productive powers. In 1899, Massachusetts gave her citizen only 3 years schooling. The average daily production of the citizen of Massachusetts was then 85 cents, that of the average citizen of the whole United SStates 55 cents, while that of the citizen of the State of Tennessee was only 38 cents. The proportion has remained unchanged in recent years, although both the average schooling and the average production have been increased. Never before has the old adage that "Knowledge is power" been so true as in these days when scientific experts in engineering, manufacturing, agriculture, law, medicine, and a hundred other lines, are first mastering the numerous high schools.

FOR THE SUMMER MONTHS

What can be done with the children during the summer months? This may be a serious problem in the cities, but there is not much danger that children in the country will get into mischief on acocunt of idleness. There is plenty of work to do there and it need not be hard work. Near to nature is health promoting, body building work. The country schools are closing now and the wise teacher has already given to each one of her pupils some easy mental task for the vacation. They are not dumb driven cattle. If John keeps his brain busy while helping his father in the cornfield, and if Mary is alert, asking why this and that is done while helping her mother with the canning or feeding the poultry, both the children will have interesting stories to tell the teacher when school begins in the fall.

The Senate may stand on its dignity, but the new Vice-President seems to be walking on it.—Manila Bulletin.

POOR OR

Relation of the Ku Klux Klan To American Citizenship

CITIZENSHIP AND FAIR PLAY

Now let us look at the charge accusing the Klan of being racially and religiously intolerant. The very reverse is true, and here is the Klan's answer. In the qualifications for membership into the Klan, the words, "Catholic," "Jew", or "Negro" are not one time mentioned. As to race, the Klan does believe in the supremacy of the White race, and for that belief has no apology to make. But in believing in the supremacy of the White race, it does not advocate that those of another race shall forfeit any of the rights granted them by the Constitution of the United States. In the qualifications for membership into the Klan, the word "white" is used. By inference it could be said that the Negro would,therefore, not be eligible for membership into the Klan. But why single out the Negro? The same disqualification for membership into the Klan would apply to the Chinaman, who is yellow, or to the Malay, who is brown, etc.

Moreover, many of the critics of the Klan seem to take the position that membership in the Klan is equivalent to citizenship in the United States, at least they seem to charge Klansmen with believing that. But that is far from the truth. Klansmen hold that all citizens of the United States are entitled to all privileges granted every other citizen under the Constitution. When it comes to religion, the qualifications for membership into the Klan, state "one must be a believer in the tenets of the Christian religion," but not one word is said about the Jew, nor against the Jew. He has howled before he was hit. If the Klan is to be condemned for believing in the tenets of the Christian religion, then all it says is—Let it be condemned. It has no apologies to make for believing in Jesus Christ. But the Klan's critics at this point seem to jump to another inference, which is a gratuitous assumption, namely: they seem to charge the Klan with believing that only those who are Christians are citizens of the United States. The Klan does not believe this. The Klan never has said this. The Klan is simply stating its own religious belief, but as readily grants the other man to believe as he would wish, even as does the Klan demand the right to its own belief. But why single out the Jew on this point? Why say, because the Klan believes in Jesus Christ, that the Klan is against the Jew? The Klan itself does not say so. It is only the critics of the Klan, or those who are the self-appointed interpreters of the Klan who make such a ridiculous charge. Instead of the Klan stirring up trouble among religionists, or among the races, it has been these self-appointed interpreters of the Klan upon whom such condemnation should fall. When it comes to the point of personal belief the Klan respectfully requests that all non-Klansmen remain silent, while the Klan speaks for itself.

Then there comes the charge of anti-Catholicism, which like the others is also a groundless supposition. It is but a part of the grotesque photograph labeled, "The Klan;" but, in reality, it is the drawing of a diseased imagination on the part of some overzealous critics whose zeal has exceeded their knowledge. As has been stated, the requirements for membership into the Klan do not contain the word "Catholic" at all. The requirements for membership do say that those who seek admittance into the Klan must be native-born citizens of this country, who owe no allegiance of any nature to any foreign government, or institution, or sect, or ruler, or person, etc. This is not aimed at the Roman Catholic any more than it could be aimed at the Buddhist, or the Confucianist, or the Mohammedan, or anybody else who owes any allegiance to any foreign person, either civil or religious. Why, then, all this hue and cry on the part of Roman Catholics about the Klan being religiously intolerant? The only thing the Klan is seeking to do in its effort to organize native-born Americans, is to unite those whose interests, of any nature whatsoever, are wholly and solely consecrated in the United States of America and here alone. That is what the Klan means by its expression "100% American." It does not mean that the members of the Klan are any more "American" than any one else, but it does mean that those who are members of the Klan are, beyond dispute, "American, 100%." It means that we owe no allegiance of any nature whatsoever to any man on earth outside the United States, and, when it comes to spiritual affairs, it means we owe no allegiance to any man on earth, but to the Man, Christ Jesus, Who is in Heaven. When our critics begin to realize this, they will see the inoffensiveness of the movement, and will cease caricaturing it, as has heretofore been so persistently done.

To end this article here would be incomplete, because there has not been given a reason fon the Klan. In union there is strength. It seems every race, every religion, and every color in the United States has been organized except those people who are native-born, White, Gentile, Protestants. The foreigners, and their descendants in this country are organized along their racial and national lines. They have their schools; they speak their foreign languages; they have their publications printed in their foreign tongue and they have their churches, where other than the English language is employed. This organizes them and tends to keep them aloof. The Negro has his processes of organization and seeks to conserve and unite his characteristic abilities. The Roman Catholics have their processes of organizations, their rituals and customs, their ecclesiastical tongue, which is not the English language. These things, and others tend to keep them united. The Jews have their organizations and keep alive the customs of their fathers, religiously, soilally and economically. This tends to unite them.

To recapitulate the foreigner, organized, leaves the native-born. The Negro being organized, leaves the White native born. The Roman Catholic being organized, leaves the white, native born Protestant. The Jew being organized, leaves the white, native-born Protestant, Gentile. It is the last named individual whom the Klan seeks to organize. Up to the present he (the White, native-born, Protestant, Gentile,) has not been organized. Being in a disorganized state, he has been the victim of exploitation on the part of any organized element that has sought his possessions. He has lived in his own country, but has been victimized in one way or another by strangers. They voted him when they wished, they exploited him in their greed, they used him in other ways, as their avarice dictated. And now, they seek to disfranchise him in his own country and deny him the rights of the Constitution written by his own fathers! But such a day is passing. The White, native-born, Protestant, Gentile is organizing. He is not seeking to injure others, but is seeking to defend himself, and if his organizing be charged as criminal, let the answer be made, he is doing only what his critics have already done before him!

Nor can this article end here. It would be selfish if it did. The Klan is far more than a self-defense organization. At heart the Klan wishes well to every one of those other organized divisions of American citizenship, but the Klan sees, that is to say, these White, native-born, Protestant, Gentiles see that the best interests of all these other organized forces would be jeopardized, as well as our own interests, if the polices of government are not directed by those who not only have the interests of the government at heart, but who, by their birth and inheritances, possess a sympathetic understanding for America. People who have just come to this country, or who within a ridiculously short period of time become full-fledged citizens, are not capacitated to run this government like that man, or that woman, who has inherited the spirit of Bunker Hill and Valley Forge. People who have a religion inimical, or contradictory, to the religion possessed by those men who penned the Declaration of Independence, can not as intelligently interpret that immortal document as can he or she who has inherited the religion of the American forefathers.

Foreigners, non-Protestants, non-Gentiles, non-Whites, as well as the native-born, White, Protestant Gentiles, are likened unto various passengers or families on the same ship. That ship is the government of the United States, and if, through false steering, the ship goes on the rocks, every one on board will suffer loss. Too long have we relegated the affairs of our government into the hands of others, ourselves failing to give it the attention it has deserved. The recent World War woke us up to our dereliction. We saw our mistake, and solemnly agreed, then and there, to hereafter give more attention to our government. Klansmen believe firmly that the class of men and women whom they represent are better capacitated to run this government than are those who are foreign, in tongue, in spirit, or in anything else.

We do not say they are not citizens—we do not say they have no rights that we do not have—we only speak of capacity, and American capacity, at that. Should this government be run on the rocks by the mismanagement of some semi-foreign navigator, (and one can be foreign in religion, as well as in blood,) all would suffer equally. The contention of the Klan is: if White, native-born, Protestant, Gentiles be organized, such will result as a blessing to every one else in this country, because it will be to the salvation of this country. If America be saved, the foreigner who is here, and the non-Protestant, and the non-Christian, and the non-White will all be equal participants in the salvation. This is the aim of the Klan and this is what the Klan is trying to have the people comprehend. Our prayer is: "God, open their eyes, that they may see." Surely our critics have indulged in enough groundless vituperation. It is now time to get over one's splenetic disorder, and calmly sit at the conference table that we might be fair one to another.

W. M. U. MEETING AT POPLAR SPRING CHURCH

Chilton County W. M. U. quarterly meeting was held at Poplar Springs church on April 23. We had the best meeting we have ever had; a fine representation from the other churches, and a large crowd from the community turned out. There were four pastors with us. Rev. Lawrence gave a fine lecture at 11 o'clock. Rev. Ezell gave us a good talk just before dinner. We were very glad to have Bro. Ezell with us. Several of the ladies made good talks on the program. We voted to send our young people's leader to Mentone in June for the W. M. U. week; we wish more would go from Chilton Association. The dinner was bountiful. We were very glad to have with us Rev. Parrish, the pastor of the church, and Rev. Falkner from Oak Grove. That wide awake church has a full W. M. U. family. Mrs. C. L. Martin is one of the most consecrated women I have ever heard. She does not let the things of this world come between her and the Lord's work. If we had a few more women like her in Chilton, what a work we could do for our master. She is very busy, and will have many stars in her crown.—Mrs. W. J. Billingsley.

Pains Very Severe

"I suffered from womanly troubles which grew worse and worse as the months went by," says Mrs. L. H. Cantrell, of R. F. D. 9, Gainesville, Georgia.

"I frequently had very severe pains. These were so bad that I was forced to go to bed and stay there. It seemed to me my back would come in two.

CARDUI
For Female Troubles

"I taught school for a while, but my health was so bad I would have to stay out sometimes. This went on till I got so bad I didn't know what to do.

"One day I read about the merits of Cardui, and as I had some friends who had been helped by it, I thought I would try it. I began to get better after I had taken half a bottle. I decided to keep on and give it a thorough trial and I did. I took in all about 12 bottles and now I am perfectly well. I do not suffer any pain and can do all my housework."

A Resume of the More Important Events of Interest Condensed To An Epitomized Form.

Oak Gant, a farmer living near Berry, fell off a 79-foot cliff recently, but escaped unhurt. The accident occurred near Yellow Creek in Tuscaloosa County. Gant, two brothers, and a third companion, were rolling logs off the cliff into the creek, when Gant lost his balance and shot head-long over the precipice. Nineteen feet down he struck the edge of a projection bounced off and dropped straight down for another 60 feet. Certain that there would not be an unbroken bone left in his body, the brothers went to the foot of the cliff but refused to go where Gant was lying. Their companion found that, aside from having the breath knocked from him, he was unhurt. He was on his feet within a minute after his companion reached him. Physicians say that the same thing could not happen again in 10,000 times.

R. G. Briggs, formerly of Auburn and now of Opelika, is in Selma and plans have been formulated for laying out the playgrounds given to the youth of Selma by the city council, which will be developed by the Fathers' Club, of which Joe Lamar is president and G. C. Phillips is chairman of the playground committee. The grounds comprise over 40 acres, sufficient for 10 tennis courts, 4 basket ball courts, 3 baseball grounds and 2 football fields. A map of the grounds has been made, and everything is ready to start on the development of the baseball grounds, which will be begun at once.

With the arrival in Russellville of two carloads of 8-inch pipe, laying of mains, which are to more than quadruple that city's water supply, was started. The mains will be used to bring water to the city from Cedar Creek. In addition, the Alabama Water Company is installing a new pumping station and preparing to build a new reservoir. The improvements will give Russellville water enough for a city of 30,000 people, it is said.

W. H. Wynn and associates of Texas have secured options on 2,400 acres of land near Jamestown, Cherokee County, and are now moving machinery there to bore for oil. Other large tracts are to be secured, it is said, before operation begins. Mr. Wynn is said to have had much experience in the business and is quoted as saying he has reason to believe he will strike oil sand at a depth of 3,000 feet. His project is not a stock proposition, it is claimed, but is a private enterprise on his part.

State Highway Engineer W. S. Keller announced that final inspection has been made of the road which forms the Shelby County link in the new Birmingham-Montgomery highway and that this section of the road, 22.7 miles in length, has been formally accepted by both state and federal authorities. One-half of the project is surfaced with asphaltic concrete, and the other with Warrenite bithulitaic material.

The Gadsden city council has passed an ordinance forbidding the sale or display of toy pistols after the expiration of 30 days, this time having been given merchants to get rid of their stocks. The council also passed a law forbidding parking of automobiles on Broad Street, between Third and Sixth Streets for more than one hour between 9 o'clock in the morning and 7 o'clock at night.

The Collinsville city authorities have called an election an election for May 18 to decide whether or not the city shall issue $21,000 in bonds to purchase the present waterworks system from Dr. T. H. Appleton and extend the system to care for the growing needs of the city. Should the bond issue carry it is planned to begin the extension at the earliest possible date.

North Alabama farmers will increase their production of feed this spring, says L. T. Wells, extension dairyman at Auburn. In Limestone County, Mr. Wells was told by Fred Stewart, county agent, that about 7,000 acres will be planted in soy beans this spring. It will be the largest soy bean crop for Limestone, with most of them of the Otootan variety, it is said. Along with other crops in the Tennessee valley, Limestone is going strong on lespedeza. Mr. Stewart estimates that 12,000 acres are now growing lespedeza for soil building, for pasture and for hay. In the opinion of J. D. Wood, county agent, Franklin County is preparing to plant to 3,000 to 5,000 acres in soy beans. Both the Laredo and the Otootan varieties will be used. W. L. McArthur, county agent, expects 2,000 acres of soy beans in Marion County. Reports from other counties indicate a substantial increase in feed crops. A short crop in 1924 followed by high prices this spring is having much to do with it. The farm bureaus and county agents are encouraging it.

DEATH OF MRS. H. F. CHANDLER TUESDAY MORNING

The death of Mrs. H. F. Chandler occurred very unexpectedly at her home in Clanton at an early hour on Tuesday morning. She had been slightly ill for a few days, but her condition was not thought to be serious.

Mrs. Chandler was 42 years of age. Before her marriage to Mr. Chandler she was Miss Jessie Allen, of Oxford, Ala.

She joined the Meahodist church at Oxford at an early age, where she held membership the remainder of her life. She was a member of the Study Club of Clanton, and was always one of the most active workers of our city in all civic, religious and educational matters. She will be sadly missed by a great number of her friends and associates who have worked with her in various ways, and who loved and admired her as a good, Christian woman.

The funeral was held at the home in Clanton Wednesday morning, Dr. S. J. Ezell officiating. A beautiful quartette was rendered at the funeral by Mrs. E. E. Upchurch, Mrs. J. D. Armstrong, Mr. Percy Pitts, and Mr. Jesse Jones. After the funeral the body was accompanied to Oxford by a few friends and near relatives where burial took place on Wednesday afternoon.

Pretty Birthday Affair.

Mrs. J. Hugh Jones entertained Tuesday afternoon in honor of her little daughter, Mary Courtney, who celebrated her sixth birthday anniversary. On the porch where punch was served to the little folks, flowers were artistically arranged in wall baskets. The punch bowl was imbedded in a mass of pink and white roses, and pink and white streamers hung from a chandelier to the four corners of the table. Games and other amusements were thoroughly enjoyed during the afternoon. The children were then invited into the dining room. The table was centered with a large white birthday cake with six candles in rosebud holders and surrounded with roses. Again pink and white streamers were suspended from the lights to the table. Each place was marked with a lollipop, all dolled up in crepe paper and ribbons.

The cutting of the cake afforded genuine pleasure and the color scheme of pink and white was carried out in the ices. Many pretty and useful gifts were received by the honoree.

ASK EXTRA SESSION FOR MORE BONDS

Eighty-Five Members of Legislature Attend Dinner of John Rogers In Montgomery Monday.

Eighty-five members of the Alabama Senate and House Monday night unanimously adopted a resolution calling on the Governor of Alabama to call an extra session of the Legislature for the purpose of submitting an amendment to the constitution providing for an additional bond issue for the further construction of roads in Alabama.

This resolution was passed as the concluding feature of the John Rogers dinner at the Exchange Hotel.

There were in attendance at the dinner about 337 persons consisting of prominent public men from all parts of the State. The good roads spirit seemed to be running high, and close to it was the spirit of commendation that was voiced for the manner in which the present highway bond issue has been administered by Mr. John Rogers and his associates on the highway commission. The work of the engineering department under the leadership of W. S. Keller was highly extolled.

Chairman John Rogers made a very appealing talk to his guests. Everybody shouted high approval of his account of the stewardship of his official body. He appealed to the members of the legislature to endorse some action that would not only guarantee the continuance of road building in Alabama during the present administration, but also provide the necessary funds wherewith the next administration would be able to carry on and complete the road system that has been planned.

Lieutenant Governor Charley McDowell made a great speech in which he pledged himself as favoring an extra session of the law makers to provide legal machinery for the submission of the next bond issue to the vote of the people of Alabama.

Hon. John McDuffie, the only Alabama congressman at the meeting, spoke heartily of the spirit of progress that is carrying Alabama to the top of the list of Southern States in road building and industrial development.

Governor Brandon Tuesday morning told the committee that he would give careful consideration to the resolution adopted at the meeting asking him to call the special session. The Governor did not tell the committee when he would make his decision.

SINGING AT PROVIDENCE FOURTH SUNDAY IN MAY

The fourth session of the annual May singing will be held at Providence church, seven miles east of Clanton, on the fourth Sunday in May, which is May 24th.

This is a session of the famous May singing that was held every year at old Salem for about thirty years before that church was disorganized about 4 years ago.

All the singers of the county are invited to attend and co-operate in the singing.

R. ROBINSOON, Chairman.
J. W. CLECKLER, Sec'y.

OUR NEW PUBLIC SCHOOL

The city public school board of Clanton has about completed all preliminaries incident to the erection of a new public school building, and it is practicallly assured that work will begin on the construction in a week from now.

The old building will be torn down and the new one erected upon the same site. All material in the old building will be used in the new one. The cost of the new structure will be about $40,000.

The plan adopted for the new building is one of the state designs and will contain 15 rooms. It will be one story high, built of brick.

The facilities provided by the new school house will make the city school come up to the junior high school rating.

It is unofficially stated that the city school board will not avail itself of the opportunity of securing $5,000 state aid on the building. The only objection to this comes from the fact that in order to secure state aid the school property would have to be deeded to the state. It is believed that the people of Clanton would prefer that the building be erected by local means and the property remain under entire control of local school officials.

Clanton may well be proud of the new building that we are to have. The school board are to be congratulated upon their successful efforts to make the same possible.

It is planned to have the new building ready for occupancy by the middle of September.

OLD TIME SINGERS IN ANNUAL CONVENTION

Hundreds Attend Harp and Harmony Singing at Cedar Grove Last Sunday.

On last Sunday Cedar Grove had the greatest day in her history, the convention of the old music books being held there; it was a success from start to finish.

Many noted singers were present: State President A. A. Jackson and daughter, Mr. Durrough and Miss Birdie Honeycutt of Birmingham, W. L. Jackson, W. L. Sanders, late of Tallassee, Mrs. Era Culver of Lomax, Messrs. Ingram and Spearman of Wilsonville, M. V. Lawley of Dogwood, John W. Hayes of Columbus, Ga.

The memorial service for Profs. White and Walker and the beloved W. J. Morris and Rev. W. J. Lawley, was quite impressive, being directed by Mrs. Era Culver, J. W. Hayes, M. V. Lawley, and Vice-President T. J. Jackson.

Another feature was the singing of "Filmore" by that prince of singers, W. L. Sanders. The convention was swept off its feet when Miss Birdie Honeycutt directed her lesson. The audience was almost breathless while Miss Edna Jackson directed a lesson. When she sang "Old Fashioned Bible" W. R. Redding said "That is worth going across the world to hear."

Many prominent people were there: Judge Reynolds, Col. Middleton, J. N. Dennis, Commissioner Vinson, and Messrs. Wyatt and Ayers of the county papers. People were there by the acre from all over the county—away back at the Bibb line, Wilsonville, Dogwood, Jemison, Lomax, Ensley, Birmingham, Clanton. It was an enjoyable occasion.

UNCLE DOCK WELLS WILL PREACH AT MINOOKA SUNDAY

Uncle Dock Wells, who is now living at Lomax, was in the Banner office Wednesday of this week and asked us to announce in the paper that he would preach at Minooka at 11 o'clock next Sunday, Mothers Day.

He will preach the following Sunday, the third Sunday in May, at the county poor house. There will be singing at the poor house beginning at 1:00 o'clock, which will be followed by Uncle Dock preaching at 3:00 o'clock.

Uncle Dock stated while here that he had great faith in the prospects for the cotton mill at Lomax. He said that Clanton tried for years to locate a mill and failed, and now he believed that Lomax was actually going to land it. The Banner hopes that Uncle Dock is right. We certainly would be glad to see Lomax locate a cotton mill.

CHILTON WINS THREE MORE

Chilton County High School helped her chances at championship honors during the past few days by taking two games from the fast Butler Hi aggregation, and one from the Marbury team.

The first game with Butler on last Friday was a very commonplace affair, Chilton winning easily from the south Alabama champions, 5 to 2. But on Saturday a battle royal was staged which took 11 innings to decide. The score was 8-8 when the 11th inning began, and Butler failed to score in their half of the frame. When Chilton came in to bat, Vann, Chilton pitcher, was the first man up. Vann's batting average for the season is not what he would like to have it, but he certainly delivered this time, driving out a three-bagger down the first base line. Alton Connatser helped him win his game by driving one at Butler's second baseman so hot that he could not handle it, and the Chilton twirler scored, winning the game.

This makes 3 games won out of 4 played with the Butler team, and will not be given any trouble from this quarter in their race for the championship.

On last Wednesday afternoon, Chilton went to Marbury and defeated Marbury Hi 19 to 1. Marbury is the only weak team Chilton has played this season. This makes 2 games they have taken from this school. In the game Wednesday all the Chilton scrubs were given a chance, and it looks as if we might have some very good baseball games next year from the Chilton contests.

To date Chilton has won 12, lost 3, and tied 1 out of 16 games played, for a percentage of .800.

No games have been scheduled for the week end, but if you come to town Friday or Saturday ask about a game—there might be something doing.

ROAD BONDS SOLD FOR HIGH PREMIUM

$7,000,000 in Highway Paper Brings State $80,000; Sale Said to Have Set Precedent in the South.

Sale of seven million dollars of state highway improvement bonds at a premium said to be unprecedented in this state and perhaps in the entire South, was made Monday afternoon by the State Bond Commission to Marx and Company, and Steiner Brothers, both of Birmingham, and Caldwell and Company of Birmingham and Nashville, Tenn.

Three million dollars of the bonds sold are to bear interest at the rate of 4 per cent, and the remaining $4,000,000 will bear four and a quarter per cent interest. Premium of $80,000 is to be paid by the purchasers on the entire $7,000,000 of bonds purchased. The bonds sold will mature from 1949 to 1956 at the rate of a million dollars a year for the first six years and $500,000 a year for the next two years.

It is estimated that the sale of the $7,000,000 of highway bonds as carried out by the State Bond commission has saved the State interest amounting to around $200,000.

The $7,000,000 of bonds were advertised to bear interest not to exceed 4 1-2 per cent, but after bids were opened and the concerns interested began to bid verbally through their representatives, the interest rate was by agreement of all concerned reduced to 4 1-4. On the basis of this rate, the premium bid advanced in the competition for the bonds by the joint bidders already named, and the Ward-Sterne Company of Montgomery and Birmingham, to the high point of $147,000.

It was then that at the suggestion of the bidders, the bond commission agreed to consider premium bids on the basis originally of the first million dollars of the bonds to bear 4 per cent interest and the remainder 4 1-2, the proposal after being amended to include $3,000,000 of the bonds at 4 per cent and the remaining $4,000,000 at 4 1-4. It was on this basis that the sale was finally made at the $80,000 premium.

The bond commision met in the governor's office Monday at noon and the bidding which began soon thereafter, narrowed down within a short time to a contest between the joint bidders—Marx and Company. Steiner Brothers and Caldwell and Company on the one hand and Ward-Sterne and Company, on the other. From that time on, bidding which grew more spirited as the minutes passed, continued practically without pause, except for the hour's recess for lunch, until 5 o'clock in the afternoon when the sale was finally made.

The state bond commission which conducted the sale is composed of Governor W. W. Brandon, Attorney General Harwell G. Davis and Chairman John A. Rogers of the State Highway commission.

Mr. C. Fenn Jones motored to Montgomery on business Friday.

Dr. S. J. Ezell came over from Selma, where he is conducting a very successful revival, to conduct the funeral of Mr. G. W. Jones.

"My husband takes it for biliousness. He says he has never found its equal. When he has the tired, heavy feeling, he takes Black-Draught night and morning for a few days and he doesn't complain any more.

One hundred gallons of milk were condemned by Birmingham health authorities in their campaign to remedy conditions which developed while daily inspection was temporarily halted on account of the city hall fire Samples of milk collected by inspectors on orders of L. C. Bulmer, chief of dairy inspection, were shown by standard. Since this milk had been analysis to be below the required delivered to pasteurization plants, action against the producers was confined to condemnation proceedings. "We ascertained," Bulmer said, "that some of the milk supply was watered immediately after the fire, but our inspectors now are on the job again and the supply is normal.

At a joint meeting of the Dallas County Board of Education and the city school board of Selma it was decided after weeks of looking into the question, to circulate a petition in Dallas County and also in Selma asking that an election be called for the purpose of levying a one-mill school tax to be levied on all property in Dallas County, including Selma, the proceeds to be available for financing the schools for next year. Only 250 signatures are necessary to call an election, but it is hoped by the school boards to have the expression of opinion of a large number of voters and free holders as shown by their signature.

The Prize Smell of the Circus

Harry Dickson, the writer, probably knows as much about the southern negro as any white man can ever expect to know. But even so, in his search for local color and quaint lines with which to illuminate his stories, he constantly is striking a new angle of thought or a new angle of observation on the part of some one or another of his dusky neighbors, down in Mississippi.

Once upon a time Dickson was on a hunting trip in Sunflower county. While there, he met an old negro guide, a bear-hunter of superior attainments and a person of a quaint and an original philosophy. All his life the old man had been buried at the back edge of the canebrakes. Only once or twice had he been to a large town. The dream of his life, it developed, was to see a circus. He had heard of circuses, he had talked with persons who had seen circuses and he treasured a tattered program of a circus performance which a white man had given him. But the marvels of the red wagon and the white top never had revealed themselves to him.

Learning of the old man's ambition, Dickson had an inspiration. It was an inspiration born partly of philanthropy and partly of selfish and mercenary motives; for he scented a chance to get some prime material for one of his stories. He promised Uncle Jim that when next the circus visited Vicksburg, he, Uncle Jim, should see it.

In the middle of the following summer Ringling Brothers came along with their show. Dickson sent Uncle Jim money for his railroad fare and bade him be in Vicksburg at daylight of a certain morning. He met Uncle Jim at the train.

That day was probably the most crowded day and the most eventful in Uncle Jim's entire life. His patron took him up into the yards to see the circus unload from the cars, and took him then to the show lot to watch the raising of the tents. Under escort of Dickson the old negro saw the street parade, the afternoon performance and the sideshow and heard the concert. He saw it all—menagerie, hippodrome, freaks and the rest of it. His widely popped eyes and the look on his face testified to this enthrallment at beholding all these wonders, but not a word either of commendation or admiration fell from his lips. Harry was rather disappointed. He had expected a constant flow of "copy."

Still maintaining his silence Uncle Jim trailed Dickson to his home when the day was ended. He had dinner in the kitchen with the servants and a little later was to be taken to the train which would carry him back to his home in Sunflower county. Toward dark Dickson went to the back of the house to bid his guest farewell.

Uncle Jim, with his shoes off, sat on the lowermost step of the porch easing his tired feet.

"Uncle Jim," said Dickson, "I'm afraid you haven't enjoyed your trip very much."

"W'y, Mist' Dickson," said Uncle Jim, "whut meks you think dat? I ain't never gwine furgit whut I seen today ez long ez I lives, an I's always gwine be grateful to you, suh."

"But you haven't said anything about the circus. What made you so dumb?"

"Well, suh, my eyes beheld so much dat it seem lak my tongue forgot to wag."

"Oh, that was it? Well, of all the things you've seen today what impressed you most?"

"All of it 'pressed me—from de start to de finish."

"Yes, I know, but there must have been some one thing that stands out in your mind above all the others—something that seemed to you more amazing than anything else. Think the whole day over, now, and see if you can tell me what that thing is."

"Well, suh, Mist' Dickson," said Uncle Jim, after a period of reflection, "ef it comes down to jes' one thing, I'd say de thing w'ich hit me de hardest was dat air beast w'ich dey calls de camel. Uh, uh-h-h-h—dat camel!"

"Why the camel particularly?" asked Dickson.

"Mist' Dickson," said Jim, "he's got such a noble smell!"

A car load of metal culverts has been received by Chilton County this week. It will be used in the improvement of the county roads of our county as planned in the program of the county commissioners.

Seven million dollars worth of Alabama highway bonds were sold Monday at a premium of $80,000, and to bear interest at four and four and a half per cent. This speaks well for the standing of Alabama's securities in the financial world. It also shows the healthy condition of the money markets of the country under the present era of Republican prosperity.

Hon. George W. Weaver, former probate judge of Shelby County, was a visitor to Clanton Tuesday. Since retiring from politics in Shelby, Judge Weaver has been admitted to the bar as a practicing attorney. Pretty soon after hanging out his shingle in Fort Payne, DeKalb County, along came some more politics, this time in the form that is sometimes called a "plum." George grabbed it, and has since that time been connected with the legal department of the Veterans Bureau, traveling all over Alabama.

WHAT DO WE WANT FROM WASHINGTON?

How much government is necessary? What do we want from Washington?

In the name of economy Calvin Coolidge, who earned the meaning of the word in the bare hills of Vermont, is endeavoring to answer these questions. He is having a survey made of forty independent governmental agencies to find out their actual usefulness.

It is easy to say off-hand that the federal government is overgrown. Perhaps it is, but there is another side to the picture.

The government expanded because American citizens demanded new services. One hundred and thirty-five years ago the federal administration was simple. National defense, foreign relations and the collection of taxes were the chief duties entrusted to it. The present picture is far more complicated.

One of the latest and most costly developments is the Veteran's Bureau. It takes care of the men injured in the World War. Is there any doubt as to its usefulness?

Another large enterprise is the Good Roads Bureau. Washington spends enormous sums every year in helping states build roads over which automobiles can travel. The votes of the owners of seventeen million motor cars would doubtless favor this.

The Department of Agriculture is another large and lusty organization. It performs a number of services for farmers. Year by year it das been expanded. Its county agents now cover most of the country. Much money is expended. But let any Congress try to cut its wings, and what a howl would go up from the countryside!

For business men the Department of Commerce, the Interstate Commerce Commission, the Bureau of Standards, the Pension Bureau, to recite only a few, render services which, in a simpler time men did for themselves.

The meat sold the housekeeper is certified as sound by federal agents. The purity of drugs prescribed for the sick certified by chemists on the national pay roll. The government may be overgrown, but a cyclone of popular indignation would be aroused by any attempt to cut off these services.

The bootlegger would doubtless be glad to abolish the Prohibition Enforcement Unit. The exporter who values highly the reports of Secretary Hoover's commercial representatives abroad might argue that the farmers' county agent was a waste of public money. But this large and various nation demands and uses many things from the government at Washington and elsewhere.

So, while it is desirable to take stock from time to time to see what savings can be made, it is a safe guess that the services rendered by the government will not be shortened. Bureaus may be rearranged and economies effected, but in the long run the government will do what the voters expect of it.

"HE GITS WUSER AN' WUSER"

Governor T. J. Dorminey of Stumps Hills is undoubtedly the backwardest county commissioner we have ever had in Chilton County. There is always something wrong with him. In corn gathering time he gets to Clanton too late for Commissioners court, and in corn planting time he gets here too early. One time last fall Mr. Dorminey was so busy gathering corn that he forgot about commissioners court and the sheriff had to go after him, but only this week T. J. was in Clanton bright and early Monday morning for court, when somebody told him that the commissioners did not meet until next Monday.

Some of these mornings Uncle Tom is going to get up on the back side of the bed, put on his britches wrong side out and go out to planting pumpkin seed in his goober patch. Now, you just mark our predictions.

IT'S MOTHER—

STATE FORESTRY NEWS

One-tenth of the American people make their living through the forest industries or in the remanufacture of forest products, says a statement issued by the Alabama Commission of Forestry. It is easy to see, continues the statement, the great confusion and loss that would attend the disappearance of these industries with the consequent necessity of economic readjustmnt.

Proper protection and management of the present area of forest land will permit the indefinite continuance of the employment and general business now dependent upon forest growth. If the large bodies of non-agricultural lands already cut over and now lying idle should be restored to timber growing, considerably more than one-tenth of the country's population could depend on the forests. In Albama in particular, which is one of the natural timber growing states of the country, the proportion would be much higher, probably approximating twenty per cent. If, however, the forests are to be practically abandoned and neglected when the present timber crop is removed, the employment and business conditions in the State will be seriously disrupted.

There is strong competition among the nations of the earth for the control of raw materials. The United States, if it will, may always own and control a sufficient supply of forest products to maintain a commanding position. Alabama with its long growing season, variety of valuable tree species and accessability to the great markets, possesses advantages in this connection far above most of the States.

That rare animal—a Horse—pulled a driverless Wagon to the middle of a Busy street intersection. And there the horse politely Squatted his whole frame On the pavement. Traffic was at a standstill. Peevish motorists scrambled From their cars and came Forward to see what the Cause of the trouble was. And they cussed and cussed And cussed some more. But their extrafine cussin' Was Greek to the horse. After many minutes, they Finally found that equally Rare species of man who knew Something about horses. He stepped up to the resting Equine and spoke one mysterious Word. It too, was a rare word.

It was—

POOR OR

Relation of the Ku Klux Klan To American Citizenship

The Duty of Klansmen Toward Jury Service

Every true and loyal American has an inherent desire to be of some service to his country.

This desire for service is manifested, by the average man, at every opportunity that presents itself without ostentation or demonstration. Such is the make-up of the red-blooded American.

There comes to most every man, about once a year, on opportunity to be of real genuine service to his country in an honorable way—the opportunity of serving on a jury.

Some men think jury duty a matter of small importance, and seek means to avoid it. Others permit the thought of jury duty to so prey on their minds that they are really unfit to serve. Both of these are wrong attitudes to take in this most important work. They smack just a little of disloyalty; not that such men do not love their country, but that they look upon such service as unnecessary and think it is irksome. On the other hand, it should be considered by all an opportunity to do something worth while—something good—something in the way of fulfilling a real duty to his country and his fellowmen.

The jury is the most important part of a trial court. All facts at issue in cases tried in such courts are determined by the jury, and judgments are rendered by the courts after a decision is reached by the jury.

In criminal cases, the jury is called upon to determine whether or not a person is guilty of aleged crimes, and if found guilty of such crimes, whether either his liberty or his life shall be demanded as restitution.

In civil cases, the questions of establishing ownership of property, assessing damages for alleged breach of contract, or injuries caused one person by another and many others are left to the jury for decision.

Justice being one of the cardinal principles of our government, it is sought in each case through the jury. It is one of the loblest concepts of the human heart. It makes no distinction betwetn persons, recognizing neither high nor low, rich nor poor, the classes nor the masses. It is stern, yet kind. It views all sides impartially, without anger and without malice.

In order to mete out justice in our courts, jurors must be honest men, free from bias, prejudice or opinions concerning matters to be determined. They must be able to view each and every question of fact with absolute impartiality.

Our government is the best on the earth. It is one of laws, not of men. Therefore, all laws should be rightfully administered, wholesomely respected and strictly enforced. It is the duty of every citizen to see that laws are so administered, respected and enforced. Service as a juror will materialy assist in accomplishing this duty.

Whenever you receive a summons for jury service, respond to it. So arrange your business affairs that you can give your country a few days' service. You will receive some small monetary compensation. It may be a sacrifice, but the fact that you are about your country's business should more than compensate for any loss sustained by absence from your regular business.

Never seek jury service. One who seeks such service is too much like a willing witness. He is liable to jeopardize justice. Neither be too reluctant to serve, as it is an honorable service and one of great responsibility.

Be of some service to your country at every opportunity possible. Help in the administration of its courts at all times. By so doing, you are a benefactor to your fellowman and to your nation.

Service is a Klansman's avowed duty.

ALA. POWER CO. TO FURNISH THORSBY

The Alabama Power Company have now completed the purchase of the property of Thorsby Light Company; the power company will proceed to erect transmission lines from Clanton and to reconstruct the Thorsby facilities so as to make the service up to their standard of efficient equipment for light or power. Mr. Goodgame will continue to manage the light plant we have until the new one is ready to operate.

Mr. and Mrs. Reinhardt and Mr. and Mrs. Robinson of Wilsonville and Dr. and Mrs. Scott of Jemison, were visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. G. F. Harper last Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Horsley and son, Claud, and grandsons, Raymond and Carson Billingsley of Birmingham, Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Littleton, Miss Ratley and Miss Parson of Bessemer, spent the week end with Mrs. Aaron Littleton and daughters, Bertha and Versie, of Clanton.

Mrs. Webb Parrish (nee Leora Goodgame) visited her mother, Mrs. W. H. Goodgame, and sister, Mrs. H. W. Peterson, on Saturday.

Mr. M. Lande, manager of Thorsby Leader, was in Thorsby two days last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Langville and children were visitors Sunday at the home of Mrs. Langville's mother, Mrs. Martha Grothy.

Miss Clara Petersen and two young lady friends, all of Birmingham, were week end visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Petersen.

Word has been received in Thorsby that Miss Helen C. Jenkins has so far recovered as to be removed from the hospital to a private home in Syracuse, N. Y., where she will be under the care of a physician and her mother. She is still so ill and weak that it has been thought best to say nothing to her yet about the Bates Hall fire.

On Sunday, May 10, Mother's Day will be appropriately observed in all Thorsby churches.

THORSBY INSTITUTE; WHAT WILL WE DO?

Thorsby Institute has lost Bates Hall by fire. This building housed the assembly hall, class rooms, laboratory, offices, and library, together with their furnishings, in fact all the physical equipment necessary to conduct the school, except the dormitories and their equipment.

A lot of money will be required to replace these necessities and much depends on the attitude and assistance of the people of Thorsby and vicinity to make this possible. It is also very important that action be quick. The faculty have all been reelected and most of them are willing to accpt if they are assured that proper facilities for conducting the school will be provided; otherwise they must, for self preservation, seek positions elsewhere. The makeshift emergency arrangements made to continue the sessions of school until the end of the term will not be attractive to either faculty or students as permanent facilities.

Thorsby Institute is a corporation, "not for profit." Organized under the laws of Alabama, governed by a board of fifteen trustees, a majority of whom must be Congregationalists, hence the school draws no funds from the state treasury; only a small portion of the expenses is paid by tuitions; if the boarding department pays its own expenses that is about all the revenue expected from it. The chief source of income is from contrbutions, mostly Congregationalists, all over the country, who believe in the kind of education Thorsby Institute stands for. To rebuild and replace our lost equipment with a fireproof building, the only kind dictated by common sense, we must go to these people for much larger contributions than ever before. It will be quite natural for them to want to know the attitude toward the school of the people who are receiving the direct benefits of the school; what evidence can we show that they appreciate and will help to sustain it?

Thorsby Institute will close its 19th year on May 29. During all these years it has consistently manifested a Christian spirit. There has beeen no attempt to foster Congregationalism at the expense of any other denomination. All are welcome to its privileges who will abide by its few simple rules and regulations for the common good of all.

The school does make a leading feature of religious training, and has come to be widely knows as a place where parents of any denomination may send their children to receive physical, mental and religious training without losing them from their denominational affiliations through proselyting. Hence, the student body is almost always composed of more of other than Congregationalists, but from families who want their children educated under Christian training which are prohibited in the state schools.

Who owns Thorsby Institute? Of the fifteen trustees who hold and manage the property and direct the affairs of management, ten are residents of Thorsby, and two more live in Alabama. Here is the list: Rev. Frank E. Jenkins, D. D., Demorest, Ga., Rev. Neil McQuarrie, Atlanta, Ga., Rev. Lewis H. Keller, Jacksonville, Fla., Rev. J. S. Eddins, Birmingham, Rev. T. C. Casady, Montgomery, E. W. Butler, J. E. Each, Helen C. Jenkins, Mrs. Hattie M. Gerald, J. H. Goddard, A. E. Reagan, M. J. Soberg, G. F. Harper, J. P. Sorenson, R. A. Turner. The officers of the Board of Trustees are: Rev. F. E. Jenkins, President, Rev. J. S. Eddins, Vice-President, Rev. E. W. Butler, Treasurer, and S. E. Norton, Honorary Trustee and Secretary of the Board, since organization.

If you have confidence in the ability of these men and women to conduct the school, in the light of what they have done in the past, you can help a lot by handing in your subscription for a definite sum and a definite pay day, or better still, a cash payment now. Mr. Butler will acknowledge receipt of all monies paid in.—Sereno E. Norton, Secretary.

Mr. L. A. Norman, chief engineer of pavement on the new highway under Miller Brothers, received serious injuries to one arm last Friday, when the sleeve of his sweater caught in some gear of one of the machines, and the flesh between the shoulder and elbow was badly mangled. He was carried to a hospital at Clanton and is reported doing well.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Moore of Clanton were visitors at the home of Mrs. Moore's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Martin, Sunday.

The Congregational Ladies Aid Social will be held Thursday afternoon, May 7, at the home of Mrs. C. A. Peterson.

J. H. Bean and Lee Gore spent several days fishing near Mitchell Dam last week and were disposing of their catch Monday morning. Mr. Gore told the writer he had a catfish at home which weighed 69 pounds; he brought one to Thorsby weighing 67 pounds, two weighed 60 pounds each and another 56 pounds, with a number ranging from 25 pounds up. The total catch was upwards of 500 pounds.

He early moved to Buffalo and put up in ready-to-use form, his Golden Medical Discovery, the well-known tonic for the blood. This strength-builder is made from a formula which Dr. Pierce found most effective in his large practice for those who were anæmic, or pale and weak. It contains no alcohol and is an extract of native roots with the ingredients plainly stated on the wrapper. Good red blood, vim, vigor and vitality are sure to follow if you take this Alterative Extract. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery clears away pimples and annoying eruptions, tends to keep the complexion fresh and clear. This Discovery corrects the disordered conditions in a sick stomach, aids digestion, acts as a tonic and enriches the blood. Write Dr. Pierce's Invalids' Hotel in Buffalo, N. ALABAMA BOY BEST ORATOR

Washington, May 9.—The distinction of having delivered an oration on the federal constitution judged the best of 1,400,000 entered by students in the national contest rested today with Robert Z. Sessions, 15, of Birmingham, and formerly of Huntsville, Ala. He won the honor here last night over six others who were chosen in regional competition to enter the finals.

President Coolidge, in an address preceding the orations, touched on the constitution and made reference to the last presidential election. He recalled that at a similar contest a year ago he had urged close study of "our institutions in order that the people might be equipped intelligently to defend them."

Since then, he declared, "we have literally taken a national referendum on the subject of our constitutional system and I am glad to be able to report that the verdict was overwhelmingly in favor of sustaining that system and going on to perfect it."

The other contestants in the finals were rated in this order: Eugene E. McElemle, Los Angeles; Max N. Kroloff, Sioux City, Iowa; Miss Flora Longenecker, Ilion, N. Y.; Miss Azenath Graves, Washington, D. C. Geo. Stansell, Chicago and Phillip Glatfelter, Columbia, Pa.

Prominent National Paving Experts Make Visit to Chilton County Road

An Interesting Story About The Progress That Is Being Made In the Building of Chilton County's Portion of the Birmingham-Montgomery Concrete Highway.

Chilton County was honored May 6, by a joint visit from the distinguished Prof. Duff Abrams of the Lewis Institute, Chicago, Ill., and his field assistant, Mr. F. S. Kelley, Mr. H. Love, president of the National Slag Association of Cleveland, Ohio, Mr. E. S. Green, field engineer, Portland Cement Association, Birmingham, Ala., Mr. Gene Ireland, president Birmingham Slag Co., Birmingham, Ala., Mr. W. H. Brooks, testing engineer, Birmingham Slag Co., and several engineers and contractors who are interested in concrete highway construction. Professor Duff Abrams is recognized as the greatest authority of concrete design and construction in the country and his laboratory research work has world-wide recognition as the standard and most practical methods to employ in concrete construction. These distinguished gentlemen were shown over all details comprising the actual construction of this paving work by Mr. A. B. Henning, resident engineer, and L. W. Rogers, paving construction inspector for the State Highway Department.

No doubt the majority of the citizens of Chilton County are not familiar with the fact that across the entire length of their county is being constructed a permanent concrete highway of the very best type of construction, which is receiving national attention because of the efficient manner of construction, constituting the most modern methods in the present day construction of concrete highways and at the same time exceeding all progress records ever made in the Southern States to date, averaging 1,500 square yards of concrete pavement per day, the greatest day's run being 1,680 square yards placed in 9 hours actual working time.

The smooth riding surface and uniform appearance of the 10 miles of paving now open to traffic was highly commented upon by Prof. Duff Abrams and all others accompanying him, which is attributed to the following major methods of construction employed on this work: The Ord finishing machine used on this paving is considered the very best type finishing machine available for concrete highway work by all parties having seen same in operation, assuring a perfectly smooth surface at all times with the correct supervision over same. The usual unevenness noticed where an expansion joint is placed across the width of concrete pavement is not in evidence on this work because of the modern method used in placing the expansion joints in this paving by the use of the Rogers expansion joint retainer.

The concrete used on this project is of the designed mix type. The grading and testing of all materials entering into the construction of this project, and the designing of the daily mix is under the supervision of the Southern Testing Laboratory, Birmingham, Ala., who maintain a field laboratory on this work of which Mr. A. W. Smith, field inspector, is in charge and responsible for the uniform daily mix of materials used in this paving, thereby attaining a compressive strength of concrete far in excess of the desired strength, which is 3,000 pounds per square inch.

Concrete compressive strength cylinders which are taken and are being tested each day during paving operations have averaged a compressive strength of 4,600 pounds per square inch which is far in excess of the desired strength. This superior strength is partly attributed to the use of Ensley basic slag, manufactured by the Birmingham Slag Company.

After the visiting officials made a thorough inspection of all methods employed in the construction of this paving they left for their respective localities favorably impressed with the conditions in evidence on this work comprising a perfectly working organization in charge of Mr. L. A. Norman, general superintendent of the J. R. & J. B. Miller Construction Company of Baconton, Ga., and the modern machinery used which constitutes a Rex paver, 21-E type; Ord finishing machine; Rogers expansion joint retainer; Lakewood subgrading machine; Galion 15-ton steam roller; Best No. 30 tractor; 9 x 10 Hotchkiss forms; Barber-Greene belt and bucket conveyors for unloading materials (slag and sand).

Further attention is called to the following pertaining to the progress attained in construction of this permanent highway through Chilton County: Just one year ago on May 6, the first ground was broken in the construction of this high class type of highway, 35 miles in length, across Chilton County. The production activities during the past year have far exceeded all progress records ever made in the Southern States. The 35 miles of grading constituting approximately 395,600 cubic yards of common excavation, 15,000 cubic yards of rock excavation; 102 acres of clearing and grubbing, 102 reinforced concrete culverts ranging in size from 2½ x 2 to triple 10 x 10, and in lengths from 26 feet to 65 feet; 5,700 linear feet T. S. V. C. pipe culverts ranging in size from 15 inches to 24 inches in diameter, each pipe culvert having concrete headwalls; 10 reinforced concrete bridges ranging in length from 54 feet to 240 feet, of deck girder type spans ranging in legnths of clear spans from 24 feet to 40 feet. Bridges are approximately 75 per cent complete, and 12 miles of concrete pavement, 18 feet wide and depth of 9 inches by 6 inches by 9 inches placed, 10 miles now open to traffic.

This information will give a good idea of the reason why this work has attracted the attention of men as prominent in concrete highway construction as Prof. Abrams and others interested in highway construction.

Considerable credit is given resident engineer A. B. Henning, for his efficient manner of getting various types of construction completed in a manner symbolic of the very best methods to be found in present day construction of permanent highways.

WATERSPOUT AT LOMAX

Uncle Dock Wells reports that a waterspout at Lomax Monday afternoon made it look for a while like all chances for the cotton mill were washed away. We believe Uncle Dock came very near deciding that the people of Lomax should build an ark instead of a cotton mill. After the water had vanished, everything was normal on Tuesday morning, except the work that had been done on the streets had gone off with the water.

Uncle Dock says the people of Lomax are still hopeful of the coming of the mill, and are going to keep on with their plans for getting ready for it. The streets are to be improved and sidewalks constructed, according to reports.

We hope Lomax succeeds in getting the mill—and wouldn't that be a nice joke on Clanton? But the people of a small place like Lomax can do more to get a cotton mill by working for it than the people of Clanton can do by doing nothing.

Clanton might take a cotton mill now if somebody would offer to give it to us. History relates that we refused to accept one years ago when it was proffered.

Foshee-Popwell Wedding Solemnized.

The beautiful home wedding of Miss Myrtle Popwell and Mr. Garland Foshee of Maplesville was quietly solemnized Thursday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Popwell, in West Clanton.

The marriage vows were spoken by Rev. C. C. Wilkerson before an improvised altar of fern palms and Dorothy Perkins roses, in the presence of the immediate family and a few intimate friends.

Miss Gladys Kemp played the wedding march.

The bride was attractive in a beautiful blue satin back georgette with blonde accessories. She carried a showered bouquet of snap-dragons and sweet peas.

Immediately following the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Foshee left for a short wedding trip and upon their return will be at home at Maplesville.

Miss Johnson in Graduating Recital.

The friends and relatives of Miss Sally Johnson, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. N. S. Johnson, have received beautifully engraved invitations from the Expression Department of Randolph Macon Institute, Danville, Va., to the graduating recital of Misses Johnson, Virginia Wilkins and Mozelle Meyers.

Gives advice to Expectant Mothers

"I HAD an awful time with my first baby," writes Mrs. Theo. Willey, 431 E. Ohio St., Indianapolis, Ind. "They had to give me chloroform and use instruments. They thought I would die. But before my second baby came I used 'Mother's Friend' and baby was born with only a few pains and before a doctor could arrive. I also used 'Mother's Friend' with my third baby. I was only sick a little while and she also was born before the doctor arrived. I cannot praise 'Mother's Friend' enough. I tell every one I see who is expecting to become a mother about 'Mother's Friend.'"

WORK ON ROAD BEGINS

Prattville, Ala., May 9.—The work on the last link of the Montgomery-Birmingham highway has begun in earnest at last. The several camps along the line of this highway are at work removing dirt and the gang to build the bridges are at their work also. It is said there will be between 200 and 350 mules on the job at the various camps and the number will be increased from time to time until the grading has been completed.

Dirt began to move on May 5, and will continue until the work of making a first class highway is done. The small part of the right-of-way that compennsation could not be agreed to will be condemned on May 12 in the probate court of Autauga county. Substantially all the large land owners have contributed the necessary land for the right-of-way, but some of the small holdings had to be condemned. In most of these cases it was where the right-of-way required a part of an orchard, lot, or other valuable parcel of land.

VETERAN SENATOR MAY RETIRE

Although Thos. E. Kilby of Anniston, is certain to run for the seat now occupied by Oscar W. Underwood in the United States senate, the former governor has vetoed the suggestion of numerous backers to launch his campaign immediately.

This information came Saturday from sources close to Mr. Kilby. The primary comes in August, 1926, simultaneously with the gubernatorial primary, and the former executive has expressed his preference for a "short, snappy" race, rather than a long drawn out contest.

An aggressive stumping tour that will take him into every corner of the state is planned by Mr. Kilby. His friends count strongly on the achievements of his administration at Montgomery to bring him powerful support.

'What Of Underwood?'

Now that Governor Kilby's entry is definitely assured, another question is puzzling the state's political wiseacres: "What of Senator Underwood?"

The senator has given no intimation of his plans, except to say that he will come to Alabama this summer and reach a decision after conferring with his friends.

However, it is said that Senator Underwood prefers retirement to another term in the upper house at Washington. He has served for almost a lifetime, both as a congressman and a senator, and has twice been seriously considered by his party as the democratic nominee for president of the United States. There are few honors within the gift of the people left for him to gather. His health is not as good as it was a few years ago, and the preponderance of Alabama opinion among his closest friends is that Senator Underwood will retire at the end of the term he is now serving.

Bankhead May Enter.

If the senator elects to stay out, some observers say John H. Bankhead of Jasper is a sure-fire entry. Others say that L. Breckenridge Musgrove, also of Jasper, has eyes on the senatorial toga. Musgrove is no fonder, personally, of Mr. Kilby than of Senator Underwood.

With Underwood out of the race, it is conceded that numbers of his backers would turn to Governor Kilby. In short, the judgment of the political "wizards" is that the Alabamian who goes to the senate will have to beat Kilby.

Senator Underwood will be in Birmingham soon with Vice-President Charles G. Dawes, and both will address the Associated industries of Alabama. It is unlikely however, that the senator will decide his senatorial plans on this visit, but that he will return later in the summer for an extended visit.

At the same time a United States senator is nominated next year. Alabama voters will choose a governor and various state house and county officials. The governor's race already is buzzing with activity, with A. H. Carmichael of Tuscumbia, Attorney General Harwell G. Davis, Lieut-Gov. Chas. S. McDowell and Bibb Graves actively in the running and a number of others persistently mentioned as early entrants.—Birmingham Age-Herald.

FARMERS URGED TO SAVE GOOD SAMPLES OF PRODUCTS

Mr. Mort L. Bixler, manager of the State Fair of Alabama at Montgomery urges the farmers of the State at this time to take care to save some good samples of their early crops for exhibition this fall either at their county, community, or State fair.

Most of the early crops like oats, hay, clovers, etc., have been disposed of by the time the fairs come off in the fall, and unless the farmers take special care to save samples at this time there will be many valuable items in our agricultural products which can not be shown at the fairs.

The date of the State Fair of Alabama at Montgomery this year will be November 2-8.

Manager Mort L. Bixler announces that the Executive Committee has arranged to bring Peter Manning, the greatest trotting horse in the world with a record of 1.56¾, to give an exhibition heat some time during the Fair, Nov. 2nd to 11th.

This horse and Sanardo, the great pacer, who will also pace an exhibition heat, were owned and trained by the late "Pop" Geers, and it is believed by their owner that they may set a new world's record for a half-mile track, as this is one of the fastest tracks in the United States.

"Oh! how clear and beautiful your complexion is today, my dear!"

THERE is a certain joy—a certain pride—in knowing you are admired, whether it be from father, brother, husband or sweetheart! And back of that joy is the satisfaction of knowing all is well.

BETTER HOME WEEK IS BEING OBSERVED

Auburn, Ala., May 11, (Special.)—Throughout Alabama "Better Homes Week," May 11-16 is being observed. Plans for it have been in the making several months and reports received from the county home demonstration agents by Miss Agnes Ellen Harris, dean of women at Auburn and State home demonstration agent, show that observance of the week is universal throughout the State.

During the week better homes is the chief topic of the home demonstration club girls and women, numbering between 15,000 to 20,000. They are located in the 40 counties having home demonstration agents and divided into nearly 1,000 clubs. They are featuring better homes in their meetings and demonstrations.

In addition to taking the work up at their meetings, each club member has been requested to make some definite improvement or contribution to better homes. At the meetings which will follow they will report on improvements made.

Another outstanding feature is the splendid cooperation of local editors, merchants, the churches, civic clubs, and luncheon clubs. A great many ministers referred to the better homes movement in their Mother's Day sermons, May 10, and church people in general are cooperating heartily. Not only have the newspapers carried news items but many of them have published editorials calling attention to the week and to the importance of home improvement.

The reports received by Miss Harris indicate that the better homes appeal has been universal. A survey of the week will show a record amount of home improvement and a better understanding of the importance of homes of the right kind.

CHILTON CROPS SHOW FOR SPLENDID YIELD THIS YEAR

Prospects are evident for a large cotton crop in Chilton County this season. People have planted comparatively small areas to cotton this year, but they have used commercial fertilizer freely. There has been more fertilizer used in Chilton County this year than ever before, and by far the biggest part of it has been and will be used under cotton.

Farmers were permitted by weather conditions to get their cotton seed in the ground earlier than usual, and this fact supplemented by the general rains of the past few days makes the chance for a record yield very likely. Cotton is early enough to get very well the start of the boll weevil this year.

The corn crop is also looking good. Fair stands of corn are prevalent on practically all farms, and the small plants are looking very good. All other crops, including gardens and field grain show promising prospects.

Public Utility Securities Are Best Investment --Says Roger W. Babson

Think It Over--

The following statement was made by Roger W. Babson at Orchestra Hall, Chicago, December 3, 1924, at a meeting held under auspices of the Chicago Board of Commerce:

"Compared with future development, public utilities are today where the railroads were seventy-five years ago when one was obliged to change cars five times when going between New York and Chicago. Most Bonds of light and power companies now being offered should some day be underlying liens of super power systems with great central generating stations. Furthermore, we as yet are only scratching the surface as to uses for electrical energy. Home, factories, railroads, and other lines should, during the next ten or fifteen years, triple the present demand for electric current.

"Unlike almost every other business, light and power companies have a very small labor item, and even this low proportion of labor expense decreases as the output increased. Almost every new important invention either increases the demand for power or decreases the cost of production or transmitting it. Coal prices must continue to rise as railway rates increase; but the cost of transmitting electrical energy generated near the mines will decrease rather than increase. Moreover, water power developments have an exceedingly bright future—owing to the fact that the larger the generating plant, the lower the cost, such companies have nothing to fear from competition.

"I believe the securities of well managed companies supplying light, power, gas, etc., to be the best investment now available, considering both security and yield. I heartily approve customer ownership. I know of no investment paying over six per cent which is as safe as the first preferred 'Customer Ownership' stocks of such companies. When every user of a product is a stockholder of the company producing it we have a condition which will be about one hundred per cent efficient and fair."

RIGINAL

Relation of the Ku Klux Klan To American Citizenship

Klan Officers And Their Responsibility To Law

The officers of a Klan are elected according to their efficiency. In all cases these men are expected to be leaders in their respective communities. It is the intention and aim of the organization to elect only men who are already imbued with the idea of law enforcement, and who thoroughly believe that every law, both state and federal, should be rigidly enforced. It sometimes happens that Klans in the election of their officers make mistakes, but when this is discovered, these officers who are not thoroughly in accord with the principles of the Klan and its ideals, are replaced with others. It is the purpose of the National Organization, as well as the various local Klans under that National Organization, to have as its leaders those men who believe not only in the Christian religion and the propagation of all truly American ideals, but in addition to stand for the perpetuity of the Constitution of the United States together with all of its amendments. These Klan officers also stand for and are pledged to the constitutions of their various states and the laws thereof, and are engrossed with the idea that all law, whether state or national, should be thoroughly respected by all the people, and that the laws, as long as they are upon the statute books of the states or of the naton, should be rigidly enforced.

The officers of the Klan, in addition to their belief in the enforcement of law, are usually men selected for their high Christian character, their high morality and their belief in the idea that the morals of a community shape its destiny. They are pledged to stand against immorality in all its forms, and to let it be known in their respective communities that the organization to which they belong stands behind them in upholding the morals of their communities. These men of necessity believe, first in the religion of Jesus Christ and all that term means, without, however, any fight against any other denomination or creed.

Against No Religion.

They recognize that each individual in this nation has a perfect right to worship God according to the dictates of his own conscience, without interference from any agency whatever. Other good people may have different ideas about religion and the manner in which they worship, and with them the officers of the Klan raise no question with reference to their rights in this respect. They are, and the organization is, primarily for the Christian religion, but are not against the religion of their neighbor. The great hubbub that has been raised in the press of this country to the effect that the Klan is formed for the purpose of fighting the Catholic and the Jew, is untrue. The Jew and the Catholic have their organizations, and they have a Constitutional right to their beliefs, and the Klan and its officers raise no question with reference to this Constitutional right. The officers of the Klan and the organization, however, take the position that it has a perfect right from every standpoint, moral, legal or otherwise, to stand together for the purpose of maintaining the Christian religion as they see it, and to propagate the American ideals as founded in the Consitution of the United States, as handed down by our forefathers.

Responsibility of Klan Officers

With this idea in view, let us consider for a moment the responsibility of the officers of a Klan with reference to law enforcement. In the first place, the local officers of a Klan must believe that the laws of the country should be rigidly enforced. Any officer of a Klan who winks at law violation is unworthy of the high office conferred upon him, and if these facts become known to his constituency, that officer is immediately removed.

Thoughtful people have come to know within he past few years that an idea is current in this country to the effect that a part of the people may wth impunity violate a law, although they think it is well for it to be enforced in other jurisdictions. Those who are acquainted with real facts know that many foreign elements are using propaganda of the most subtle kind to lead the people to beleive that law enforcement is a matter to be left to the individual conscience. It is a well known fact that some college professors of this nation are preaching doctrines that are detrimental to American ideals, and this propaganda skillfully handled by minds bound purely on mischief, has had and is now having some effect upon that class who refuse to do their own thinking, but are satisfied to accept this vile and pernicious doctrine handed out to them by those whose motives are ulterior, and who are not really and truly loyal to their state or to their nation.

It is the purpose and should be the aim of every officer of a local Klan to take it upon himself to see that any kind of propaganda that belittles this government, that belittles the President of the United States, be he Republican or Democrat, or that calls into question constituted authority from any source, should be fought in his respective community. It is not incumbent upon the officer of a local Klan to make himself obnoxious, but it is his duty, and should be his purpose to use his influence in stamping out in his community all things that are un-American or unpatriotic.

A part of the press of the country would lead the unsuspecting, who are on the outside of the Klan, to think that the organization is builded for the prime purpose of taking the enforcement of the law into the hands of Klan members, and thereby deprive the courts of the country of their right to enforce these laws. A greater misrepresentation has never been made to the American people. The Klan, as an organization, and each individual member thereof, not only pledges itself under oath to abide by the laws of its country, but will assist in the enforcement thereof through regular and constituted authorities.

Klan Stops Lynching.

For the purpose of making myself understood, permit me to recite an example that might be flung to the whole world in refutation of this unscrupulous and untruthful charge.

In a certain city, many miles south of the Mason and Dixon line, a negro who ravishes white women has been usually hung by a mob, and in some instances in the past they have been burned at the stake. About a year ago, a series of murders occured in and around that city, and two of the victims were young white women. Finally a negro was arrested on these several charges and finally made a written confession that he was the perpetrator of these brutal and inhuman murders, and that he did ravish each of the white women victims before he murdered them. This confession was corroborated by ample evidence and fully established in court. When it became known that this fiend had confessed, the governor of the state immediately communicated with the sheriff of the county and other peace officers and suggested to them that he immediately send the state constabulary for the purpose of preventing a mob from wreaking its vengeance upon this negro brute. The sheriff told the governor that it was useless for him to send the militia because in the county there were several thousand Klansmen, who had pledged themselves to the sheriff, to see to it that the prisoner should receive a fair and impartial trial at the hands of a fair and impartial jury. This negro remained in jail for several months, was actually tried on all of these several charges for murder and rape, and in each case was given the death penalty. The confessions were enough to cause a white man's blood to boil, yet the local Klan officers, working in conjunction with the peace officers of the county, let it be known that they would, to a man, assist the sheriff in preventing mob violence. These facts are known to the people of the state, and it is a well known fact that a mob would have meted out to this negro brute speedy justice, had it not been for the stand that the officers of the local Klan took with reference thereto. I cite this case for the sole purpose of letting you know that the Klan and the Klan officers are bound by oath and otherwise to see to it that the law is to be enforced by constituted authorities and not from any other source.

It is a known fact by every officer and especialy in the more congested districts, that the bootlegegr, the thief, the robber, the wife-beater, the vagabond, etc., are eternal enemies of the Klan. These classes in every community show violence in more ways than one, because they have come to know that the Klan through its officers, is opposed to such, and consequently they undertake to wreak their vengeance, not upon any individual member of the organization, but upon the organization itself.

In a certain county, in the state referred to, the bootlegger has had an almost open field in the propagation of his business. He has now met with extreme opposition by the present officers of the county. These officers have the united support of every Klansman in the county, and that being true, these several Klansmen, when an infraction of the law is brought to their notice, immediately take up the same with the regularly elected and constituted officers of the law and they in turn file complaints in proper courts or indictments are returned by grand juries. For this reason, the law violator has come to appreciate the fact that Klansmen, the names of whom he does not know, are opposed to his acts of law violation. This same condition is true in most counties of the state, and by reason of that fact, the wrath and vituperation of the law breaker, has been brought down upon the Klan, but without any effect. He is growing fewer in number each day.

In one case, of which I happen to have personal knowledge, a man who operated a still on his premises, sold the beverage to any who had the price and became so flagrant in the violation of the law, that it was an open secret that he was operating a still and selling whiskey on his premises. One faithful Klansman took it upon himself to get first-hand infomation. This information was given to the district attorney, and this particular bootlegger is now in the state penitentiary for violation of the state law with reference to the sale of intoxicating liquors. This instance is cited for the purpose of showing that individual Klansmen as well as the officers of the Klan work harmoniously in undertaking to assist and to help the local officers in the enforcement of every law.

As said in the beginning, the officers of a Klan are usually men of strong minds, great hearts, true faith, and ready hands. Men whom the lust of office does not kill; men whom the spoils of office can not buy; men who possess opinions and a will; men who have honor; men who will not lie. This is the class that represent or should represent as officers of the Klans of this nation, and as long as the local organizations will elect tall men, suncrowned, who live above the fog in public duty and in private thinking, the laws of their respective communities will be enforcel. These men are wholly saturated with the belief and have the one ideal of living in a community where the law is supreme, and that the man or men who undertake to break that law must pay the penalty, as provided in the statutes of that particular state.

Elect Men Who Serve.

The men who are elected to an office in a Klan are men who serve, not for selfish booty, but real men, courageous, who flinch not at duty; men of dependable character; men of sterling worth; this is the class that constitute the Klans of America, and as long as the local organizations see to it that only those who have a high regard for the sacred principles of our fathers, who believe in the American Ideal, whose lives are clean and hearts are pure, the Ku Klux Klan will continue to sweep this nation, as nothng has swept since the foundation of the government.

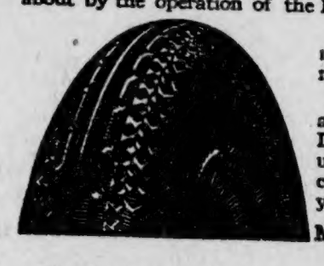
No Increase in the Price of Firestone
FULL-SIZE GUM-DIPPED BALLOONS

The extra quality built in by the extra process of Gum-Dipping, the economy of these wonderful tires and the added mileage obtained from them during the past two years, has created such a large demand that over 75% of Firestone's mammoth production is now Balloon Gum-Dipped Cords.

This has greatly increased the total sales volume and the huge Firestone factories are now working on a 24-hour schedule to supply the demand.

This large volume, produced under the most economical tire manufacturing methods, permits Firestone to sell these extra-process Full-Size Balloons at no extra cost to car owners. And this in the face of greatly advanced cost for crude rubber brought about by the operation of the British Rubber Restriction Act.



Gum-Dipping means longer mileage—greater economy—at no extra cost to you!

Enjoy the safety, economy and comfort of Balloon Gum-Dipped Cords this summer. Let us equip your car now at low cost—with liberal allowance for your old tires.

The Railroads Run Every Day in the Year - And in All Kinds of Weather

During these beautiful Spring days, when the sun is bright and the weather warm, remember that the railroads of the country rendered exceptional freight and passenger service all during the winter, when snow was on the ground, roads impassible, and weather conditions hampered every other mode of transportation.

A great many Americans have come to look on the railroads as something to be taken for granted, and to lack appreciation of the extraordinary service rendered to the Nation as a whole, and to each individual community, by the great rail transportation systems.

Operating for the past four years on a property-investment net return less by over one billion dollars than that allowed by law, the railroads of this country are delivering a more efficient freight and passenger service than ever in their history. They deserve both your patronnage and your good-will.

THORSBY SECTION

(S. E. NORTON, Manager).

R. L. Bonner, theological student at Howard College, preached at the Thorsby Baptist church morning and evening last Sunday. Union meetings are in vogue this week in Thorsby church circles; Sunday night the Baptist Young Peoples Union and Thorsby Christian Endeavor Society held a spirited union meeting at the Congregational church. The time seemed to be fully occupied by the large number of young folks who seemed to fully understand that it was their meeting, and they made good use of their opportunity to take a part in it.

On Wednesday of this week, at 7 p. m. Baptists and Congregationalists will hold their regular monthly union prayer meeting at the Baptist church. To this metting people of all denominations or no denomination are cordially invited.

Rev. Bokke preached morning and evening at Thorsby Lutheran church last Sunday.

Owing to the heavy rains last Sunday, Rev. J. E. Each did not go to his afternoon appointment at Stoney Point church, near Deatsville. He announced at his morning service that next Sunday night, May 17, after Christian Endeavor meeting, he expects to hold a service in which he will use stereoptican lantern slide pictures. Only failure to receive the supplies in time will prevent their use at this time. All are invited; there will be no charge for admission, but a collection will be taken to cover cost of transportation of the slides both ways.

M. J. Soberg, and Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Reagan, accompanied by Miss Naemi Turnquist, went to Birmingham Tuesday to attend the hardware dealers convention meeting there this week.

Nat Bentley is making steady progress improving his property at and near the corner of the new highway and Jones street. His new filling station is nearing completion, and it certainly will be well adapted to its purpose, and modern in its equipment. He has now begun another building near it, fronting the highway, which will be of the same exterior construction as his filling station, which he says is to be used as a drug store and refreshment parlor. He seems to be fitting up to catch them goin' and comin', and even has a 10,000 gallon cistern at the back of his lot, under ground, to catch all the water that falls on both his buildings to supply water for auto radiators.

Owing to the break-down of an important machine no work was done on paving the new highway for two or three days last week. The pavement is now completed to within two miles of Thorsby.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Morgan and family motored from their home in Wylam, Ala., for a week end visit to the home of Mrs. Morgan's parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Soberg.

Mr. and Mrs. Bennett Forsman were visitors at the home of Mr. Forsman's mother in Thorsby Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Turner, with their son, Harris, and daughter, Miss Marjorie will motor to Haleyville next Sunday to visit the mothers of Mr. and Mrs. Turner.

Mr. and Mrs. T. O. Farrington of Pratt City spent the week end with Mrs. Farrington's mother, Mrs. Aaron Littleton, and daughters, Bertha and Versie.

Mrs. S. C. Wood returned home Monday night after spending several days in Birmingham.

Mr. G. L. Foshee is ill at his home and has been unable to be at his store for several days.

Mrs. Ethel Wright Loveland entertained the members of T. I. Senior class last Saturday night at the Institute dining hall.

One begins to realize that the school term is nearing completion when we look over the following commencement calendar:

Saturday, May 16, at 7:30 p. m., in Thorsby Lutheran church, final music recital.

Saturday, May 23, the Senior play, "Polly wants a cracker," at 7:30 p. m., in the dining hall. Admission 25c.

Sunday, May 24, Baccalaureate sermon in Congregatonal church at 11 a. m.

Friday, May 29, Commencement exercises and address at 10:30 a. m., in Congregational church. 12:30—Community picnic dinner on the campus. 3:00 p. m.—Alumni business meeting in Dormitory living room. 4:00 p. m. —Alumni reception at the same place.

Thorsby Institute students have been energetic in removing from the site of Bates Hall all traces of the fire. Brick, stones, old iron, have all been cleared away, sorted out and put in piles ready for removal from the campus, or for use in the new building which all are hopeful will soon be under construction.

This hope seems to be pretty generally prevalent in and out of Thorsby. The local trustees and some from outside are a unit in believing that a better building and one more suitable for the purpose will soon be under consideration and as soon as possible pledges and contributions already received for this purpose, even before the rebuilding campaign is fairly launched. Not all of the trustees can drop their business at a moment's notice and attend a meeting in Thorsby, but correspondence reveals that those at a distance are giving the matter ensideration and as soon as possible a meeting will be held and definite plans adopted.

In the meantime as an example of the spirit of the people in regard to the matter we may note the organization of a Thorsby business men's rebuilding campaign committee, who are out to demonstrate how much can be raised in Thorsby and vicinity for the new building. Some very precious gifts have been received, which though not large, manifest a spirit of sacrifice for the cuase, that is worth more than the money they represent. Cash contributions ranging from $5 to $1,000 have already come in and many pledges from $10 to $100 are in hand.

While these many indications of interest are manifest, there is a spirit behind Thorsby Institute that precludes the idea of defeat or failure. It will take time, patience and a lot of hard work to raise all that will be needed to put up and equip a new building, but if everybody helps, the work will be lighter and the time shorter.

AN ORDINANCE

Granting an Electric Franchise to Alabama Power Company, its Successors and Assigns, in the town of Thorsby.

Be it ordained by the Town Council of Thorsby, as follows:

Section 1. In consideration of the benefits that will accrue to the Town and the inhabitants thereof, Alabama Power Company, its successors and assigns, hereinafter referred to as the Grantee, is hereby given and vested with the right, authority, easement, privilege and franchise to construct, erect, suspend, install, renew, repair, maintain, operate and conduct in said town a plant or plants and system for the manufacture of electric current for all purposes whatsoever.

Section 2. The said Grantee is hereby further given and vested with the right, authority, easement, privilege and franchise to construct, erect, suspend, install, renew, repair, manitain, operate and conduct in said town a system of poles, towers, conduits, cables conductors, transforming stations, fittings and all appliances or appurtenances necessary or desirable to the transmission, distribution, or sale of electric current for all purposes whatsoever in, over, under, along, upon and across all streets, avenues, alleys, ways, bridges, and public places in said town as they now exist or may hereafter be laid out or extended, together with the further right, privilege, and franchise to construct, erect, suspend, install, renew, repair, maintain and operate such poles, towers, conduits, cables, wires, conductors, transforming stations, fittings and all appliances and appurtenances necessary or desirable to the transmission within, unto, through, over, and beyond said town and furnishing, supplying and distributing to said town and to the inhabitants and corporations both within and beyond the limits thereof, electric energy for lighting, heating, power and all other purposes for which electric energy may be used now or hereafter, and for the purpose of extending its lines and furnishing electric current beyond the limits of said town of Thorsby.

Section 3. The poles, towers, conduits, cables, conductors, transforming stations, fittings, appliances and appurtenances shall be so constructed as not to unreasonably interfere with the proper use of the streets, avenues, alleys, ways, bridges and public places in said town, and shall be maintained in a reasonably good condition and repair.

Section 4. Whenever the Grantee shall cause any opening or alteration to be made in any of the streets, avenues, alleys, ways, bridges or public places of said town for the purpose of installing, maintaining, operating, or repairing any poles, towers, conduits, cables and other appliances, the work shall be completed within a reasonable time and the Grantee shall upon the completion of such work restore such portion of the streets, avenues, alleys, ways, bridges or other public places to as good condition as it was before the opening or alteration was so made.

Section 5. The Grantee shall hold said town harmless from any and all liability or damages resulting from the negligence of the Grantee, in the construction, maintenance or operation of said poles, towers, conduits, wires, cables and other appliances.

Section 6. The Grantee may, from time to time, declare, make and enforce reasonable rules and regulations as a condition for the sale or distribution by it of electric current to any person, firm or corporation.

Section 7. In the event the supply of electric energy should be interrupted or fail by reason of accident or otherwise beyond the control of the Grantee, the Grantee shall restore the service within a reasonable time and such interruption shall not constitute a breach of this franchise, nor shall the Grantee be liable for damages by reason of such interruption or failure.

Section 8. The Grantee shall install and maintain, free of charge, meters for measuring current, and shall have free access to the premises of the consumer, from time to time, for the purpose of reading, repairing, testing and maintaining the meters and appurtenances and shall have the right to make a minimum charge of two dollars per month per meter for lighting service furnished hereunder, whether electric current of that value is used or not. Such meters shall remain the property of the Grantee.

Section 9. The Grantee shall not have the right to charge for electricity for lighting purposes under this franchise in excess of the following rates, subject, however, to the right of alteration, regulation and revision as provided in Section 10 hereof:

10 cents per kilowatt hour for the first 30 kilowatt hours consumed per month; plus
8 cents per kilowatt hour for the next 170 kilowatt hours consumed per month; plus
7 cents per kilowatt hour for the next 300 kilowatt hours consumed per month; plus
6 cents per kilowatt hour for the next 350 kilowatt hours consumed per month; plus
5 cents per kilowatt hour for all over 850 kilowatt hours consumed per month.

The Grantee shall not be required to furnish electricity to any person, firm or corporation until satisfied of their financial responsibility and may require reasonable security to insure payment for electric energy to be furnished hereunder. All bills for electric energy used for lighting purposes shall be subject to a discount of 10%, if paid at the office of the Grantee in said town within ten days after the day on which the bill is rendered, which discount shall not, however, reduce the net monthly bill below said minimum charge of two dollars.

Section 10. The rates charged for electric energy furnished hereunder shall at all times be subject to alteration, regulation and revision by the Alabama Public Service Commission, or other State Commission vested with such power.

Section 11. Wherever in this ordinance either the town or the Grantee is named or referred to, it shall be deemed to include the respective successor, successors or assigns of either, and all rights, privileges and obligations herein conferred shall bind and inure to the benefit of such successor, successors, or assigns of said town or of the Grantee.

Section 12. The Grantee, its successors or assigns, shall within ninety (90) days after the approval of this ordinance by the Mayor, file a written acceptance of the ordinance with the Town Clerk.

Section 13. The Grantee shall pay the Town Clerk the cost of publishing this ordinance, which publication shall be made in one issue of The Union-Banner, a newspaper of general circulation in and published in Clanton, Ala.

Approved this the 7th day of May, 1925.

He spoke commendatory words of the improvement which he notices is constantly taking place here.

My Favorite Stories

The Long Wait at Burlington

Included in my list of acquaintances is a gentleman who promotes sporting events. Originally he promoted foot-races, later he conducted balloon ascensions and parachute drops at county fairs and carnivals. Still later, keeping abreast of the march of progress, he turned aviator himself and bought an early model airplane with which, in the period when flying was more of a novelty than it is at present, he gave exhibitions aloft.

The members of a Catholic congregation in a suburb of New York city were striving to raise funds for a new rectory. In pursuance of this ambition they rented an old driving park and gave a fair which lasted for an entire week. For the crowning attraction on the final afternoon my friend was engaged to make a flight.

Now, the weather was lowering and the winds were capricious. Feeling a natural reluctance to trusting himself aloft under such circumstances the performer had recourse to an expedient he had employed on similar occasions in other parts of the country. He sparred for time in the hope that darkness would come and so save him from taking the risk. He tinkered with his engine. He fiddled with the plane. He unscrewed this bolt and he screwed up that one.

The assembled crowd, which was large, grew impatient over the delay. Finally the parish priest, who was acting as master of ceremonies, felt it incumbent upon himself to urge that the hired entertainer make good on his contract. He approached the aeronaut and to him he said:

"My son, can't you go ahead and give us the exhibition you promised us and for which we already have paid you in advance? These people have already been waiting more than an hour and a half for you to go up."

"Father," said my friend, "there's a bunch of folks out in Burlington, Iowa, that have been waiting more'n eighteen months for me to go up."

COMMISSIONERS COURT IN REGULAR SESSION MONDAY

The Commissoners Court of Chilton County was in regular quarterly session at the court house in Clanton the first of this week. The regular business of the court was attended to on Monday and Tuesday morning. On Tuesday afternoon the comimssioners all went in a body out to Maplesville to look over the big bridge in the east edge of town.

After looking over the bridge and the general condition of the bridge and the fill, the court concluded to patch up the old bridge so as to make it last a few months longer and then build a steel bridge just a little above where the old bridge now stands.

VERY UNIQUE STILL CAPTURED RECENTLY

Two 300-Gallon Outfits Found Underground in a Field Near Mars Hill.

Prohibition enforcement officers report the finding last Friday of one of the completest distilling outfits that has ever been brought to the surface in Chilton County. This one was really brought to the surface, as it was completely hidden in an underground apartment especially designed and prepared for the making of liquor, where apparently nothing was going on except a man engaged in plowing his field.

The scene of the unique affair was on the place of L. A. Brown in the Mars Hill neighborhood west of Jemison. A pit about 12 by 20 feet and 7 feet deep had been dug in an open field and covered over with timbers, upon which the dirt had been replaced. As the field was plowed from time to time the process of cultivation was carried on right over the pit as if nothing were underneath except the mother earth.

The pit was divided into two sections, each of which was connected by a door. In each room of the pit was a 300-gallon copper still of the very best type. There was 600 gallons of beer in barrels also in the pit. Over in one corner of one of the rooms was a well in which a rope and bucket was used to bring up the necessary water for the operator of the plant. Each still was connected to a discharge pipe which ran underground to a branch about 40 yards away.

The still was not in operation at the time the officers found it. Deputies Culp and Foshee went back up there Tuesday and arrested L. A. Brown in connection with the affair.

The officers who conducted this raid were Deputy Harvey Foshee and Federal Officers Gore and Gillespie and State Officer Gardner. The officers stated that from the appearance of things, the plant must have been there and in use for several years.

STILL RAIDED NEAR STEEL BRIDGE LAST SUNDAY

Deputy Sheriff Harvey Foshee, together with Federal officers Gore and Gillespie pulled off a little raid last Sunday in the neighborhood of Tom Littlefield's near the Steel Bridge on Waxahatchie Creek, and succeeded in locating and destroying a 40-gallon still and about 300 gallons of beer. The thing was not in operation when the officers found it, and no arrests were made.

ALABAMA POWER COMPANY AT THORSBY AND JEMISON

It is a gratifying piece of news that Thorsby and Jemison are soon to have electric light and power service furnished by the Alabama Power Company.

The Alabama Power Company service has been the making of a hundred or more towns and communities in this State, and it is a safe bet that the same result will come from its entry into Thorsby and Jemison.

These two towns have for several years stood in the forefront among the most progressive communities of Chilton County. They have come to be recognized as splendid business centers. They have shown a marked interest in educational advancement and civic righteousness. Now they are to have added to their roster of advantages the one thing that goes as far as anything else to make a community a good place in which to live—that is an adequate and dependable electric light and power service.

We congratulate our neighbors in these towns upon their success in securing the service of the greatest industry in the South.

FOX'S CASH STORE OFFERS MANY EXTRA THINGS NOW

Mr. W. W. Fox makes the announcement this week that his store is all fixed up in his new location now and is offering hundreds of bargains that will knock the breath out of high prices. The new location is on Sixth Street where the office of Dr. Arthur Johnson used to be.

Mr. Fox has been sick a great deal of late, and does not stay at his store all the time. But he has secured the services of ex-Sheriff H. A. Harris to manage his store for him. Mr. Harris is known all over this county, and besides having been Sheriff for four years, he is an old head at the mercantile game. He ran a store at Cooper for a long time before coming to Clanton.

Mr. Harris extends an invitation to his friends to come to see him at the Fox place. You have no idea of the variety of useful things that are carried in this place, and the price will simply surprise you.

Every week in the future there will be an advertistment in The Union-Banner telling about something extra at Fox's place. Let us give you a tip right here. It will pay you to watch these advertisements, and take advantage of the things which will be offered from time to time. Look up the advertisement in this issue right now, and see if you don't agree that the things priced there are money-savers for the fellow who gets them.

MR. BICE ATTENDED UNCLE DOCK'S PREACHING SUNDAY

Editor Union-Banner:

I went to Uncle Dock's preaching last Sunday at the poor house. There was singing until three o'clock; then Uncle Dock preached a very fine sermon from St. James, 4th Chapter and 7th and 8th verses. Uncle Dock was full of the spirit himself, and all present seemed to share the good feeling with him. Many of those good old women were shouting and praising God, and the men were shedding tears. In all, it was a glorious meeting. Uncle Dock knows just how to preach to those old people, and I sure did enjoy it. I don't think I was ever at a better service.

Before Uncle Dock got through he was bound to say something about Lomax and the cotton mill. If we had 999 more Uncle Docks, we would have better times, both spiritually and financially.

Some of the inmates were not able to come to the house where the services were held. A number of us went to the house where they were confined and some scriptures were read to them and some songs were sung, and several prayers offered for them.

May the Lord bless and sanctify those services to the glory of God and His kingdom here in the world.—J. Bice, Thorsby, Ala.

BAPTISTS WIND UP 70TH CONVENTION

Memphis, Tenn., May 18.—The city of Memphis has bid goodbye to its six thousand Baptist visitors, who have formally closed the seventieth annual meeting of the Southern Baptist Convention.

With a sermon Sunday Morning by Dr. George W. Truett, Dallas, and one Sunday evening by Dr. M. E. Todd, Shreveport, both well attended, the churchmen concluded what leaders declared to have been one of the most successful and interesting conventions ever held.

Encouraging reports from outstanding committees, among which were the home and foreign mission boards, the Sunday School and Bible School departments, the four educational institutions maintained by the convention, and the relief and annuity board characterized the activities of the church last year as one of progress.

Houston, Tex., will entertain the convention in 1926, an invitation from that city being accepted by acclamation. Dr. F. F. Brown, Knoxville, Tenn., will deliver the convention sermon.

COOLIDGE MAY SPEAK IN BIRMINGHAM NEXT YEAR

President Coolidge Takes Under Consideration the Request to Speak in Magic City.

Washington, May 18.—President Coolidge took under consideration Monday an invitation to address the quadrennial convention of the International Sunday School Association, to be held at Birmingham April 13-19, 1926.

The invitation was extended by a committee representing the association and Alabama, and Mr. Coolidge replied that he hoped he would be able to attend. The committee was presented to the president by Senator Underwood of Alabama and included Gov. W. W. Brandon, of Alabama; George H. Denny, president of the University of Alabama; Guy E. Snavely, president of Birmingham-Southern College; Victor Hanson, publisher of The Birmingham News, Erskine Ramsay and Robert Jemison of Birmingham, and Bishop William F. McDowell of Washington.

COUNTY TRAINING SCHOOL CLOSES A GREAT YEAR

More than 2,000 people attended the commencement exercises of the Chilton County Training School. The occasion was one of the greatest in the history of the county among negro schools, people being present from all parts of the county, and with some of the best speakers on the program.

The first program was Tuesday night, beginning with the primary department, and continuing through the grades to Friday night. Friday night's program was a masterpiece, as was expressed by several who heard it. Prof. M. H. Griffin, Montgomery, Ala., from the Department of Education, made an interesting speech, and said, among other things, that the Chilton County Training School was the best of the new county training schools in the State, and that if the next session were as prosperous as the one just closed, Chilton County would take the front rank.

The principal has been reelected and all other teachers except one, who goes to accept a position in the Shelby County Training School. More than $2,200 has been raised during the session, and work on the Vocational Agricultural building is expected to begin by the first of July, by which we hope to increase our faculty to 7 teachers, doing work on a broader scale, with agricultural and domestic science.

The promotions totaling 170, were read from the stage by the principal Friday night, and every boy and girl will know where to enroll on entering next session.

We are proud of the success of the school, of the teachers, and of the work done, and are calling on all forces to help us grow.—A. D. Gordon, Sec'y.

HARRISON LIKES METHODS USED IN FEDERAL COURT

Fifty jurors were summoned for Federal court duty, and reported to Judge Clayton Monday. Only two of the number asked to be excused. During the trial of the criminal docket Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, more than 100 cases were disposed of and only two cases had to go to the jury, one resulting in conviction for counterfeiting and the other resulted in a mistrial.

C. W. Harrison was present on these days and he commented Wednesday on the businesslike way in which justice is dispensed in the Federal Court. He is loud in his praise of Judge Clayton's methods and also has something nice to say about District Attorney Grady Reynolds, and Assistant District Attorney J. O. Middleton for their methods of transacting business and seeing that justice is meted out.

"I wish everybody in Alabama could hear Judge Clayton's talk on citizenship, good morals and respect for the law," said Mr. Harrison. "Judge Clayton talks in a way the layman can understand and his philosophy is of that purely American character without frills which we would all do well to look into. I saw justice meted out in the court and that rapidly. I like the way Mr. Reynolds and Mr. Middleton handle affairs. I can see now that the way of the bootlegger is going to be mighty hard. And Chief Walter McAdory of the state law enforcement is also to be commended for his co-operation and sane method of handling these cases."—Montgomery Advertiser.

UNION-BANNER GETS FORKED-TAILED DRAGON THROUGH MAIL

Besides a two-headed snake and some other natural curiosities, The Union-Banner has on display a lizard, scorpion, sand-sifter, or some kind of a small reptile of the salamander type, and the funny thing about the little animal is that it has a forked tail.

The animal in all is about five or six inches long, and its tail forks about two inches from the end.

The Union-Banner is indebted to Mr. B. L. Cobb of Jemison for this peculiar specimen of animal life, Mr. Cobb having sent it to us last Saturday through the mail. It is now in alcohol and on display at the Banner office for public exhibition. Anyone may see this freak who wishes to—no admission charged.

DAWES AND UNDERWOOD IN ALABAMA

Will Speak At The Municipal Auditorium, Birmingham, Alabama, May 27.

Invitation cards have been sent out to people over the State by the Associated Industries of Alabama, asking their presence at the Municipal Auditorium, Birmingham, at 8:00 p. m., May 27, 1925, when Vice-President Charles G. Dawes and Senator Oscar W. Underwood of Alabama, will make addresses.

The subject of these addresses will be the proposed change in Senate procedure as advocated by our vice-president and as sponsored by Senator Underwood. This is a vital issue which is of considerable interest to the people of America today.

There should be formed among the people of Chilton County a fishermen's association for the promotion and promulgation of practices that will mean the proper protection of fish in our waters. There are at large a few criminals who will explode dynamite in the streams, thereby killing every living creature, large or small, that is within the area of the charge. An organization of the decent people of our county is needed to combat such practices. There are many other reasons that could be mentioned why our fishermen should be organized.

Child-birth

Here is a wonderful message to all expectant mothers!

When the Little One arrives, you can have that moment more free from suffering than you have perhaps imagined. An eminent physician, expert in this science, has shown the way. It was he who first produced the great remedy, "Mother's Friend." Mrs. C. J. Hartman, Scranton, Pa., says:

"With my first two children I had a doctor and a nurse and then they had to use instruments, but with my last two children I used 'Mother's Friend' and had only a nurse; we had no time to get a doctor because I wasn't very sick—only about ten or fifteen minutes." Use "Mother's Friend" as our mothers and grandmothers did. Don't wait, start today, and meanwhile write to Bradfield Regulator Co., BA 46, Atlanta, Ga., for a free illustrated book containing information every expectant mother should have. "Mother's Friend" is sold by all drug stores—everywhere.

Juniors Entertain Seniors.

A most delightful evening was spent at the home of Dr. and Mrs. N. S. Johnson on last Thursday when the Juniors of the Chilton County High School entertained the Seniors. The home was beautifully decorated with the different class colors. In the living room the Senior colors, purple and gold, were effectively used and the dining room was lovely in pink and white, the colors of the Junior class. Punch was served by Misses Inez Kittrell, Jean Johnson, Ruby Armstrong, Erin Danforth. Miss Lurleen Miner presided over the class book. Two contests, "A Motor Romance," and "An Automobile Marriage," furnished diversion during the evening. Brick cream and cake was served to the following Seniors: Mrs. Gertrude Calloway, Misses Pearl Miner, Barbara Williams, Lula Mae Mims, Leona Smith, Alma Robinson, Pearl Harris, Myrtle Keel, Era Mims, Elizabeth Duncan, Sara Cox, Messrs. MISS SALLY JOHNSON RECEIVES GREAT APPLAUSE AT RECITAL

On Tuesday evening, May 11th, the expression department of Randolph-Macon Institute, Danville, Va., presented Miss Sallie Johnson in a graduation recital. Miss Johnson is the pretty and accomplished daughter of Dr. and Mrs. N. S. Johnson of Clanton. She is a charming young lady and numbers her friends by her acquaintances.

Miss Johnson not only finishes in expression, but will also receive a diploma from Randolph-Macon Institute this year, having completed the four-year course. Clanton is indeed honored and takes pride in claiming this gifted daughter. May this be only the beginning of many such wonderful achievements, and may she inspire others to rise to such a seat of honor.

Probably the largest audience which has attended graduation recitals at Randolph-Macon Institute during the season, was that which filled the auditorium to hear the joint recital of Miss Mozelle Myers and Miss Sally Johnson.

All the participants were generously showered with flowers, gifts and applause.

The expression department, which is in charge of Miss Pansy Wood, had as its exponent, Miss Sally Johnson, of Alabama, who has been a resident student at the Institute for three years.

She gave two readings which included two plays, with a sympathetic understanding of the characters, the scenes and actions, which marked her as a literary interpreter of unusual ability. The different characters were well portrayed, the conversations accurately given, her voice carrying to all parts of the hall. The first play was a delightful bit by Christopher Morley, and the second one was "Madonna" by George Middleton.

Miss Johnson, on May Day, sustained the difficult role of "Viola" in Twelfth Night, and many times previously she has appeared in plays, pageants and recitals at the school.—Danville (Va.) Register.

Section 7. In the event the supply of electric energy should be interrupted or fail by reason of accident or otherwise beyond the control of the Grantee, the Grantee shall restore the service within a reasonable time and such interruption shall not constitute a breach of this franchise, nor shall the Grantee be liable for damages by reason of such interruption or failure.

Such meters shall remain the property of the Grantee.

Section 9. The Grantee shall not have the right to charge for electricity for lighting purposes under this franchise in excess of the following rates, subject, however, to the right of alteration, regulation and revision as provided in Section 10 hereof:

10 cents per kilowatt hour for the first 30 kilowatt hours consumed per month; plus
8 cents per kilowatt hour for the next 170 kilowatt hours consumed per month; plus
7 cents per kilowatt hour for the next 300 kilowatt hours consumed per month; plus
6 cents per kilowatt hour for the next 350 kilowatt hours consumed per month; plus
5 cents per kilowatt hour for all over 850 kilowatt hours consumed per month.

The Grantee shall not be required to furnish electricity to any person, firm or corporation until satisfied of their financial responsibility and may require reasonable security to insure payment for electric energy to be furnished hereunder. All bills for electric energy used for lighting purposes shall be subject to a discount of 10%, if paid at the office of the Grantee in said town within ten days after the day on which the bill is rendered, which discount shall not, however, reduce the net monthly bill below said minimum charge of two dollars.

Section 10. The rates charged for electric energy furnished hereunder shall at all times be subject to alteration, regulation and revision by the Alabama Public Service Commission, or other State Commission vested with such power.

Section 11. Wherever in this ordinance either the town or the Grantee is named or referred to, it shall be deemed to include the respective successor, successors or assigns of either, and all rights, privileges and obligations herein conferred shall bind and inure to the benefit of such successor, successors, or assigns of said town or of the Grantee.

Section 12. The Grantee, its successors or assigns, shall within ninety (90) days after the approval of this ordinance by the Mayor, file a written acceptance of the ordinance with the Town Clerk.

Section 13. The Grantee shall pay the Town Clerk the cost of publishing this ordinance; which publication shall be made in one issue of The Union-Banner, a newspaper of general circulation in and published within the limits of Clanton.

Adopted this, the 7th day of May, 1925.

Approved this the 7th day of May, 1925.

SENATOR SPENCER DIES SUDDENLY

Washington, May 16.—Senator Selden P. Spencer, republican of St. Louis, Mo., died suddenly here tonight at Walter Reed Hospital. The death of the senator, who was 63 years old, came as a shock, as he had been in good spirits today and his early recovery had been expected. He was operated on about ten days ago for hernia.

Only the attending physician and a nurse were at the bedside when death came. At noon, his secretary said tonight, Mr. Spencer was well enough to dictate and sign some mail. He seemed in excellent spirits and joked frequently with his nurse. Physicians had expected he would be out of the hospital within a week.

Senator Spencer was serving his second term in Congress, having been elected in 1918 over Joseph W. Folk, democrat, by a majority of 35,000 to fill the vacancy caused by the death of William J. Stone. He was reelected in 1920 by a majority of 121,000 over Breckenridge Long.

Public-school attendance in San Diego has increased more rapidly than the population, due largely to the fact that pupils remain longer in school. This is ascribed in great measure to opportunities offered by the vocational schools.

CLEANINGS

Visitors to Muscle Shoals in the future will be permitted to enter the government properties and view Wilson dam on Sundays, according to announcement made by Col. J. R. Two marriage licenses were issued from the Mobile probate court to wed the same girl. F. A. Andress was granted a license to marry Miss Garland Kemp. Carl W. The Huntsville Board of Education has begun to take under serious consideration the problem of crowded schools which are expected to be even worse next school year than at present. The only hope of solving the situation, it is declared, is to get the new schools that are provided in a recent bond issue completed by the opening of next session.

Only 44 votes were cast against a proposed bond issue election held at Dothan. One hundred thousand dollars in bonds will be floated to build an elementary school building, $25,000 for repairing and remodeling the present high school and $75,000 to take care of the additional sewerage system which was laid in 1923.

Dropping in to see her sister, Miss Josie Worrell, who lived next door, Mrs. W. B. Carr, of Tuskegee, found the former's body hanging lifeless from the top of the window ledge. Miss Worrell was 55 years of age. It is believed that despondency over the condition of her health caused her death.

As a result of William Davis, a juror being confined in the city jail charged with being drunk, the case of C. Worth Whiteside, former Calhoun County solicitor, being tried for the alleged embezzlement of $19,541.21 of county funds, was declared a mistrial by Judge R. B. Carr.

My Favorite Stories

Question: How Far Did George Go?

The white man—so the story runs—was named Ferguson. He owned a string of two-room frame cottages and his tenants exclusively were colored. Very great was his chagrin when a negro man in a fit of pique cut a woman's throat in one of his houses so that she bled to death, leaving a large dark stain on the floor, because immediately the word spread among the black population that the building was haunted and thereafter nobody would rent it, even at reduced rates. For months the cottage stood empty. Then the owner had a bright idea. He went one evening and hunted up a large dark individual named George Titus, upon whom by way of beginning, he conferred a drink out of a bottle of corn spirits.

"George," said he, "these darkies tell me you know quite a lot about h'ants and ghosts and such things?"

"Well, suh, Mist' Ferguson," replied George modestly, "I does know a right smart 'bout sich."

"That's good," said the wily white man. "I'm rather an authority myself on such matters. Now, then, speaking as one expert to another, I want to tell you that gun-barrel shack of mine out here on Clay street, where that woman was killed, is not haunted. She died in a state of grace and her spirit rests in peace.

"But the trouble is that these colored people around this town don't know it and they've given the place a bad name. What I want to do is to prove to them that it's not ha'nted. And here's the way we're going to do it—you and me. I'm going to hire you to spend tonight in the room where the killing took place. Then, when you come out tomorrow morning and tell your people that nothing happened there during the night, I'll be able to rent the house again. I'm going to give you the rest of this bottle of liquor now and a fresh bottle besides. And tomorrow morning I'll hand you a ten-dollar bill. How about it?"

That slug of corn whisky already was working. It made George valiant. Besides a white man had appealed to him for professional aid. He consented—after another lusty pull at the flask.

The crafty Ferguson took no chances. Straightway he escorted his newly enlisted aid to the house of tragedy, provided him with a pallet on the floor and left him there in the gathering darkness. But before departing he took the precaution of barring the two windows from the outside and securely locking the front and rear doors.

Next morning bright and early he came to release his brother expert. The windows still were shuttered, the doors still fastened tight; but the house was empty. Also it was in a damaged state. At one side the thin clapboards were burst through, as though a blunt projectile traveling at great speed had struck them with terrific force from within. The shattered ends of planking stood forth encircling the jagged aperture in a sort of sunburst effect.

Upon the splintered tip of one of the boards was a wisp of kinky wool. Upon a paling of the yard fence was a rag, evidently ripped from a shirt sleeve. Otherwise there were no signs of George Titus. He was utterly gone, with only that yawning orifice in the cottage wall to give a clue as to the manner of his departure.

Mr. Ferguson waited all through the summer day for the missing one to turn up. George failed to return. On the second day the white man gave the alarm. A search party was organized—men on horseback with dogs. Bloodhounds took the trail. They followed it from early morning until late that evening.

Just before dusk, in a swamp thirty miles away the lead-dog bayed exultantly. The pursuing posse, with Ferguson in the lead, spurred forward.

Here came the missing George. His face was set toward home. It was a face streaked with dust and dried sweat, torn by briers, wet, drawn, gray with fatigue. His garments were in shreds; his hat was gone. His weary legs tottered under him as he dragged one sore foot after the other. He was a pitiable sight.

Yet in the heart of Mr. Ferguson indignation was stronger than compassion. He rode up alongside the spent and wavering pedestrian.

"Well, by heck, you are certainly the most unreliable nigger in this state!" he said. "Here night before last I make a contract with you for a certain job. I leave you in one of my houses. I come there the next morning and not only are you gone without leaving any word, but one side of my house is busted out. And then I have to leave my business to come hunting for you. And after hunting all over the country I find you here, thirty miles from home, in a swamp. Where in thunder have you been since I last saw you, forty-eight hours ago?"

"Boss," said George, "I've been comin' back."

All discriminations on account of sex in the employment of teachers for public educational institutions are forbidden by a recent act of the New Jersey Legislature.

Teaching evolution is barred in the public schools of Tennessee. A law prohibiting such instruction was passed by both houses of the sixty-fourth general assembly and was signed by the governor.

WHAT WILL WE DO WITH LAW-BREAKERS?

There are people in Chilton County who will sneak out under cover of night and steal automobile tires. Perhaps those same ones will go fishing, and not having a boat of their own, will cut the chain on someone else's boat and take it away. Then again they will resort to the use of dynamite for killing fish. As long as there are such good-for-nothing people as that in our midst, it is becoming for good people to combine their efforts to punish such criminals. It will be of no avail to merely deplore such things. It will take action to get results.

OUTLOOK IS GOOD FOR CROPS IN ALABAMA

Reports received by F. W. Gist, agricultural statistician, indicate that the drouth which was wide-spread during April and May was broken in every section of Alabama by rains during the week ending Saturday, May 16. In the Mobile section, where the drouth has probably been more severe than in any other section, due to the earliness of the season and the heavy demands of truck crops for moisture, a nice rain fell.

Mr. Gist says that crops all over the State were clean, and that marked improvements are expected immediately following these rains. In north Alabama cotton planting was not over and prior to these rains there was considerable uneasiness about stands but the probabilities are that following rains this uneasiness has disappeared. However, the stand of cotton in a good many localities is not perfect.

On the whole, however, the outlook is good. Although private estimates indicate some increase in the cotton acreage, more acres have been planted in feed crops and farmers are planning for more hogs and other livestock. Black Belt farmers are expected to show a tendency toward beef cattle this year and regain a part of the losses suffered from 1920 to 1924.

And while the drouth of April and early May caused some uneasiness it is probable that it may prove advantageous. It allowed farmers to plant their crops at the right time and those who succeeded in getting good stands have a lead on weeds with which they must battle.

Let Us Protect Our Fish

The protection and preservation of the fish in the waters of Chilton County is a subject which should concern every citizen at this time and throughout the coming years. The waters of Mitchell Lake on Coosa River form a shore line of twenty-odd miles along the eastern boundary of our county, and is destined to be one of the greatest fresh-water fishing places in the State if properly cared for and protected against malignant abuse.

If treated by measures which come under the creed of every true sportsman, the fish in Mitchell Lake will grow more young every year than all the fish hatcheries that will be established in Alabama in the next century.

Fishing in Mitchell Lake with hook and line can do little harm, except perhaps the taking of some fish too small for eating, which should be put back into the water when caught.

The taking of trout and bass during the spawning season is an evil practice. By so doing you will frequently destroy a fish which, if left in the water for a few weeks longer, would deposit young in numbers from 800 to 3,000.

All of these things should be remembered and practiced by everyone who fishes in these waters.

It has been reported recently that somebody has been dynamiting for fish in the waters of Lake Mitchell. That is an outrage which will do more damage and destroy more fish than any other evil design that can be inaugurated. We call upon every citizen of Chilton County, and particularly everyone who calls himself a fisherman, to be on the lookout for those who would stoop to such low-down practices as dynamiting for fish, and if possible cause them to be caught in their despicable acts and brought into the hands of the law.

There are enough good, decent, law-abiding citizens and sportsmen in Chilton County to apprehend and bring to justice those who would destroy our fish by unlawful practices.

Let us get together and go after them, and not stop until we have made secure the preservation of our fish for all time to come.

EAR MARKS OF COUNTERFEIT CREDIT

There is no label on counterfeit money, evident to the average individual, which designates it as worthless. Counterfeit money exists in an inconsequential amount, but "counterfeit credit," the fraudulent and other worthless securities, is widespread. It is responsible for the loss of millions of dollars that honest, trusting men and women supply to fraud and bucketshops yearly.

While most people cannot detect the skillful counterfeit money, there is an unmistakable label on "counterfeit credit" by means of which even the most inexperienced can discriminate between securities that are backed by sound, stable values, and those that represent get-rich-quick dreams and fanciful aspirations. The purveyors of fraud in investment almost invariably deal in nothing but promises. They can give no substantial proof of past performance, of actual earnings of the enterprise whose securities they sell. Their glib promises of over-night wealth are danger signals which should put the investor on his guard.

It is the very exceptional case in which money commands returns of 10 or 20 per cent. In the infrequent instances where such returns are certain, the opportunity to invest in them is not peddled about. It is kept by the chosen few. Money invested safely can earn only a certain, limited yield which is generally around 6 per cent. You would not pay 10 or 20 or 50 per cent interest for money, or sell cheaply an interest in a business you were sure would yield such returns. If you have ever borrowed money, you know that the bank rate is far less than that. Honest business, too, knows the going wages for money, and honest business does not promise extravagant interest rates, because there is no necessity for paying more for money than money is worth. If men and women would but realize that money has a definite earning power and would cease looking for impossible returns from investments, the counterfeiters of credit, who harass legitimate business and cause enormous losses to investors, would have to quit.

ALABAMA NEWS

A Resume of the More Important Events of Interest Condensed To An Epitomized Form.

That any ambitious boy can work his way through college and at the same time achieve the highest honors attainable is proved in the college career of Frank S. Arant, of McKenzie, Butler County, Alabama. Arant, a graduate of McKenzie high school, entered Auburn in the summer of 1922. Within three years he has not only acquired a long string of college titles but has received several of the highest honors bestowed at Auburn. For instance, he has just been elected editor-in-chief of the Alabama Farmer, one of the best known student farming publications in the United States. A few weeks ago he was awarded the Gamma Sigma Delta loving cup as the best all-around Junior in agriculture And more recently he was elected a member of the famous Spades, one of the Auburn Senior honor societies.

Two mad dogs were killed in Greenville recently. The dogs, before being killed, had bitten a number of other dogs, a calf and one child. Much excitement was caused by the presence of the mad dogs on Greenville streets. An ordinance is before the city fathers for inoculation of dogs by their owners and unless this is done they will be killed by the city officials. The ordinance will most likely be made a law at the next meeting of the city council.

Existing rates on farm wagons, carloads, from Florence to all points in Alabama have been found to be unjust by the Alabama Public Service Commission. The commission has prescribed a new scale of rates on a mileage basis on farm wagons from Florence to til points in the state. The decision of the commission was on a complaint brought by the Florence Chamber of Commerce against all railroads of the state.

Florence's exhibits at the Southern Exposition in New York attracted much interest and favorable comment, according to messages received from Secretary R. M. Jones, of the Florence Chamber of Commerce, who was in charge of the local booth. Mr. Jones advised that the Alabama exhibits were shown to remarkable advantage and that the Florence booth was the center of much activity from the time the exposition doors were opened.

The license tax levied on a sales basis by the City of Montgomery on gasoline and other liquid motor fuels, kerosene and lubricating oils, was held valid by the supreme court in a decision handed down insofar as it applies within the city limits of Montgomery. The supreme court, however, held that the city cannot levy the tax in territory outside of the city limits and within the police jurisdiction.

The Southern Railway System is preparing to spend several hundred thousand dollars in improvements of its bridge across the Tennessee River at Albany-Decatur, and of other improvements on equipment in that vicinity. Confirmation of three rumors published recently has been made from the offices of Superintendent Payne in Sheffield.

Sheriff Leath, Deputy Sheriff Robertson and Federal Prohibition Officer W. H. Page captured five negroes making whisky in a cabin four miles south of Gadsden. Mr. Page, who was a stranger, had worked his way into the confidence of the negroes and was standing still with the owner's shot gun in his hand when the sheriff and his deputies crashed in.

Roosevelt Thornton, 18-year-old negro, was fined $500 and sentenced to 12 months in the penitentiary by a jury in the circuit court at Gadsden following his conviction of manslaughter in the second degree. A little over a year ago Thornton, whose father is a well-to-do farmer, was driving his car at high speed through Glencoe and in passing around a truck he is alleged to have struck and killed Ralph Sims, 17-year-old white boy.

John Roy and James Cox, negro convicts, escaped from the Horseshoe Lumber Company's mills at River Falls, where they were employed with other state convicts. The negroes climbed into a switch engine in the yards of the lumber mill and covered the engineer with a pistol and compelled him to carry them into the country, where they jumped to the ground.

Treating His Lady Friend To A "Soda Pop"

CHIVALRY soon shows itself—even in the young. Witness the youthful pair pictured above. The little fellow lost a game of rolling the egg to his lady fair. To show he was a good loser he patted his lady friend on the back and, on top of that, treated her to some "soda pop." That is—er—he ordered two straws and shared the pop with her. You will note she is still holding the egg she won from him. Inwardly, no doubt, she's saying "Gee he's a regular fell'r."

Relation of the Ku Klux Klan To American Citizenship

The Need Of The Movement

The Ku Klux Klan has been variously defined. Some persons regard the organization as only another ritualistic order, whose chief mission is to stage wierd ceremonials in order to mystify the uninitiated public. There are others who think of it as made up of a class of individuals who delight to conduct sheeted parades and to play ghostly pranks designed to terrify the superstitious, to frighten the ignorant, and to awe the criminally inclined. There are many who profess to believe in the principles of the Ku Klux Klan, but these same persons are contending that there is no need of the organization. The antagonism of these last mentioned individuals is perhaps due to their failure to seek an appreciative knowledge of the nature and purposes of the Ku Klux Klan.

The Klan is more than a fraternal order. It has something more to justify its existence than a ritual and ceremonies that are no more fantastic than are to be found in other organizations. In all fraternal orders, something of the wierd is found, and all fraternal order ceremonies are marked, more or less, by the fantastic. In the genius of the Klan is to be found something more than ritual, or ceremonial, or symbolism. In the Klan is to be found a movement in which crystalized devotion to principle and eagerness to make those principles effective in Ameircan life. The men who have come into the Klan with pure purpose are men who have consecrated themselves to the task to which the Klan is dedicated—that of making fundamental American principles real and operative in America. The Klan is a movement seeking to save America for Americans and to Make Americans for America. The order offers no apology for its existence, but it does argue its need because as a movement it is devoting itself to definite and necessary American tasks.

Works For Patriotism.

It is working tirelessly to arouse a spirit of real patriotism in America. The American people have shown their ability to meet great crises. In times of war they have shown themselves fearless and invincible. In seasons of distress they have shown themselves open-hearted and open-minded. They have demonstrated their ability to overcome reverses and to cope with panics. But they have not yet begun to make real the ideals bequeathed them by the founders of this republic. They have not yet begun to cherish their institutions and to prize their country above every other country in all the earth. The Englishman's boast is England; the Frenchman's glory is France; but Americans have not yet learned to say exultingly: "I am an American." The Klan is a movement devoting itself to the needed task of developing a genuine spirit of exultant American patriotism.

The Klan is seeking by precept and example to develop a high order of American citizenship. It would be disgraceful for an American to become a subject of any power, or prince or potentate. Klankraft teaches that true American citizenship not only confers privileges and guarantees liberties, but that it involves responsibilities that the intelligent citizenship will endeavor to meet. There must be the honest exercise of suffrage for the country's best interest, without regard to the partisan clamorings of professional politicians. There must be the vigorous demand of upright citizens for the enforcement of the aw. There must be absolute repudiation of officials who fail to perform their sworn duty as officers of the law. There must be created respect for and obedience to the law. Right-minded citizens must learn their responsibility in the matter of jury duty. Wrong elements have too long been in control of the ballot-box, filled the various offices, and packed the juries. It is now time for the high-class citizenship of the country to assert itself and take charge of all affairs of our country. The Klan is the voice in the wilderness calling upon all right-thinking, right-living Americans to repent and to show their repentance by meeting their responsibilities as good American citizens.

The Klan is urging upon Americans the duty of preserving America's precious race heritage. This country was founded by the finest elements of the White race. This government was established by the same superior types of the White race. They passed it on to posterity to be maintained by white men as a white man's country for white men. They bequeathed to their descendants the responsibility of preserving the integrity of the race by keeping pure the blood of the white man's race. The Klan's contention that the white race in America must and shall be preserved pure from all blood-taint and kept supreme in all affairs of this white man's country, has invoked indignant denunciation from elements that are seeking to destroy America by amalgamation. But there can be no controverting the fact that by amalgamation of bloods the people of America will be mongrelized; and that by political amalgamation the government of the United States will be mongrelized. The Klan movement will be needed until the real whites of America are aroused to the necessity of preservng the people and the government of this country free from all mongrelizing taints.

Militant Protestantism.

The Klan movement is needed as a militant Protestant organization. The Klan is not engaged in warfare upon any religious sect, unless that sect is disposed to interpret the Klan's positive Protestant program as a declaration of war. Even then, the Klan will continue persistently to maintain without fear and withut cessation the principles of genuine Protestantism. The Klansmen of the nation, unafraid and undeterred, strong in their faith in God, cherishing an open Bible, loyal to the Klansman's Christ, firmly believing in the principles taught by Him, rejecting all traditions and opinions of men contrary to His teachings, will continue to contend to establish these principles in Protestant America. In the midst of so much uncertainty, the Klan is needed to sound continuously its definite Protestant note in this Protestant country.

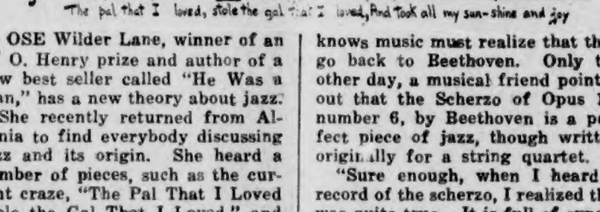
Famous Writer Speculates on Originator of Jazz

ROSE WILDER LANE



ROSE Wilder Lane, winner of an O. Henry prize and author of a new best seller called "He Was a Man," has a new theory about jazz.

She recently returned from Albania to find everybody discussing jazz and its origin. She heard a number of pieces, such as the current craze, "The Pal That I Loved Stole the Gal That I Loved," and grew much interested.

"They usually are atrociously named but enchantingly rythmed and orchestrated," she declared. "But I don't see why folks worry about their origin. Anybody who knows music must realize that they go back to Beethoven. Only the other day, a musical friend pointed out that the Scherzo of Opus 18, number 6, by Beethoven is a perfect piece of jazz, though written originally for a string quartet.

"Sure enough, when I heard a record of the scherzo, I realized this was quite true. It is full of syncopation, humor and variety—jazz by Beethoven."

Mrs. Lane declares that Albania has jazz, too. In fact, she has found it in all countries. "But America is its real home," she adds.

BIG MELON SEASON EXPECTED

Counties in Alabama through which the Central of Georgia railway operates are expected to produce for movement over the rails of that railroad in the coming watermelon season approximately 4,000 cars. This is the forecast of the agricultural experts of the road, which has been received by M. C. Stokes, general agent of the Central in Montgomery.

According to the forecast, it is expected that a total of 9,000 cars will move from points on the entire system including Alabama and Georgia. Southeast Alabama counties through which the Central operates will produce the greatest number of cars of Alabama melons, but there is always a considerable movement from Coosa and other counties on the Birmingham-Opelika division.

The first carload of Georgia peaches moved last Thursday and the first carload to reach Montgomery came in over the Central Sunday night destined to New Orleans. It is estimated that the Central will move approximately 11,000 cars of Georgia peaches during 1925 peach season, according to Mr. Stokes.

A FINE COTTON SPECIMEN

Last Saturday Mr. E. D. Goggans of Mt. Creek brought to the office of Polk Bros., a couple of stalks of cotton which looks like it would take the prize for this season. The stalks were about 12 inches high and each contained a number of squares.

Mr. Goggans has several acres of cotton from which these stalks were taken. We look for him to show up the first bloom of the season in the next week or two.

Reports from all over the county indicate that cotton has been doing some exceptional growing since the rains of a week ago. Most everybody has a fair stand in their fields, and cultivation is now in full swing.

It is not quite late enough yet to get a comprehensive estimate on boll weevil activities.

STRAIGHT TALKS WITH AUNT EMMY

On Signing Papers for Strangers

"Did you hear about the terrible thing that happened to Mrs. Thompson, Aunt Emmy?" asked Maud. "It seems that a man came to see her to ask her to invest in some securities his firm was selling, and she said she did not have any ready money. He asked her if she had some Liberty Bonds, and she showed him her one Liberty Bond, a thousand dollar one. He told her that there were a number of counterfeit bonds about and upon examining her bond said there were some marks that indicated it might be spurious. Poor Mrs. Thompson nearly fainted and begged the stranger to tell her what to do about it.

"He told her not to be unduly alarmed, that there was a chance that he was mistaken. His firm was indignant, he said, about the counterfeit bonds that had been foisted on the public and intended to do everything in its power to run down the culprits. They employed a man who was an authority on counterfeits and he could tell in a minute if her bond was good or not. So Mrs. Thompson let him have the bond to take to his office for examination."

"And, of course, he didn't bring it back," commented Aunt Emmy.

"Worse than that!" Maud went on. "He said that, being a widow, she should be very careful in her business dealings, so he made her sign what he called a receipt, although she didn't read it. About a week after his visit she received a number of shares of stock that she says she never heard of and certainly never bought. So she wrote to the investment house the stock came from and said she thought a mistake had been made. Imagine her surprise when she was informed that she had signed an order for those shares of stock in exchange for a $1,000 Liberty Bond!

"First she was coming right over to see you and then decided not to, because she felt ashamed when she remembered that you had warned her about being taken in, now that Mr. Thompson is dead and she has to handle her own business affairs. My brother Tom says he thinks nothing can be done about it, as the receipt bearing her signature is really an order for the stock."

"I am sorry to hear this, Maud," said Aunt Emmy. "What a pity she did not take her bond to the bank to have it examined if that slick salesman arqused suspicions in her mind as to its genuineness. She would have been dealing with people of integrity, whom she could trust absolutely. And yet she allowed herself to be duped by a perfect stranger!

"Yet there must be a lot of that sort of thing when you consider that over $600,000,000 a year is being taken away from the honest people in the United States by stock swindlers. If the people would only learn to trust the guidance of their financial affairs to their banks and never sign anything they have not read and do not understand, there would be less unhappiness about money matters."—Anne B. Aymes.

NEW ERA FOR AGRICULTURE

New York.—A new era lies ahead for agriculture because it now commands the best economic thought of the business world directed on its prime requirements of better distribution and marketing, President W. C. Gordon of the State Bank Division, American Bankers Association, declares in a recent communication to the thirteen thousand members of the division. He seeks to enlist their interest in the work of improving the marketing of farm products.

"The farmer today finds himself far removed from his consumer-customer by a long line of intermediate agencies, which often leave him in a position of disadvantage as an individual producer," Mr. Gordon says. "It is, therefore, not strange that he should seek to apply to agriculture those principles of production and distribution found successful in industry. His rightful ambition is to make, where feasible, a general application of successful business experience to the marksting of agricultural products. Commanding the best economic thought of the business world, agriculture undoubtedly stands on the threshold of a new era. In lieu of fantastic panaceas, agricultural welfare—which, after all, is the Nation's welfare—has need of a sane, long range program that is at once practical, constructive and economically sound."

He goes on to call attention to the "long view program suggested for agricultural distribution" at Washington by the Agricultural Conference, urging study of it.

There are many small co-operatives throughout the United States, handling wool, peanuts, watermelons, strawberries, beans, syrup, and other products. Mr. L. A. Norman, chief engineer for Miller Brothers, contractors for the concrete paving of the north half of Chilton County, Birmingham-Montgomery highway, was home from Alabama Central Hospital at Clanton, Sunday and Monday. Mr. Norman met with a serious accident about 3 weeks ago by havng his right arm caught in one of the machines in use on the job. He received a terrible wound between the shoulder and the elbow, the flesh being literally torn from the bone, the muscles disrupted and badly mangled. Under old methods of treatment he would undoubtedly have lost his arm. Today, under modern surgery, there is good prospect that he will not only keep the arm but that it will be practically restored to service. A very skillful piece of work has been done, the flesh and muscles have been restored to place and are healing in a satisfactory manner. A wonderful job of skin grafting has been done with camparative success, some imperfect parts are still to be attended to, but there is now no doubt that when the work is completed there wil be little evidence of the damage.

A. Lucas, Carl Petersen, Nels Petersen, Anna Viladsen, Chas. Howard, Miss Nell Shannon and Mr. and Mrs. Reno Villadsen.

At a meeting of the Executive Committee of Thorsby Institute last Tuesday, some action was taken which will be of interest to Thorsby people. The committee, having learned of the work of the Thorsby Business Men's Committee, looking towards a canvass of the people of Thorsby and vicinity to secure funds for the erection and furnishing of a new school building for the Institute, expressed its appreciation of the work of that Committee. It said, further, "We believe that we ought to expect a fund of $3,000 for these purposes from the people of our town and of the county around. We are confident that when this sum is secured in cash and in bankable notes from our people, we may look with such confidence for the other necessary funds from our many friends outside of Chilton County as to warrant us in breaking ground for the new building. We would, so far as possible, impress upon the Thorsby people the idea that the date when we begin work must depend upon the promptness and generosity of their responses to the splendid work of the Business Men's Committee.

The committee is composed as follows: A. E. Reagan, chairman; Ed Piper, secretary; E. N. Bentley, C. R. Foss, C. S. Howard, N. C. Petersen.

The committee also voted the following minute: "The Executive Committee of Thorsby Institute hereby authorizes the announcement that Thorsby Institute will open for a good year's work next fall. We are not able to annunce the exact date of the opening; neither can we now announce in full the personnel of next year's faculty. We do not know exactly whert and how our classes shall meet. But we do, under the providence of God, definitely commit ourselves to the announcement of a school year of nine months for 1925-'26. We hope to maintain the high standard of work for which Thorsby Institute is known. Annuncement of necessary details may be expected in due time.

The Senior Play, entitled "Polly Wants a Cracker," will be held at the dining hall, Thorsby Institute May 23. Following is the cast: Mr. Jeffrey Wayne, Tilden Jackson; Mrs. Jeffrey Wayne, Clyde McKee; Thomas Livingstone Prat, George Hughes; Mary Wayne, Essie Belle Wills; Lucerne Neville, Gladys Murphy; Nora, Ruth Martin; Mr. Dran, Roscoe Maddox.

Scene—Living room of the Wayne's home. Jeffrey Wayne, a widower of sixty, marries Marie Pratt, a widow of forty. Wayne has a daughter, Marie, and Marie has a son, Tom, but neither has dared to tell the other.

Mary and Tom are in love. Mary agrees to become engaged if Tom can prove his ability to earn a living. Not knowing that Mr. Wayne is his mothers husband, Tom applies to him for a position and is engaged. On the same day, Mary, who has a desire to see her stepmother, comes to the house disguised in the make-up of a part she is to have in a school play.

Lucerne Neville, an old friend of Marie's, calls unexpectedly. While the family are gathered in the living room that evening, the light is suddenly turned out and a valuable necklace disappears. Who is the guilty party? Who is the "Polly" who was after the "cacker?" Inspector Doran may be able to throw light on the subject next Saturday evening. Come and see. Tickets, 25 cents at the door. Time, 7:30.

Thorsby Institute final musical recital was held in the Lutheran church Saturday evening. The students and their teacher, Miss Alithea Parker, deserve much praise for the program. MAN'S TROUBLE ARRESTED

"The past 4 years I have been going down, down, down with catarrh of the stomach and had to give up work a year ago because of my weakened condition. I suffered terribly from bloating and colic attacks. Mayr's Wonderful Remedy was recommended to me. I took a course of it and am now feeling fine." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded. Alred Drug Co., Clanton, Ala., and druggists everywhere.

Weak In Back and Sides

"Before the birth of my little girl," says Mrs. Lena Stancil, of R. F. D. 2, Matthews, Mo., "I was so weak in my back and sides I could not go about. I was too weak to stand up or do any work. I felt like my back was coming in two. I lost weight. I didn't eat anything much and was so restless I couldn't sleep nights. "My mother used to take so I sent to get it. I improved after my first bottle. Cardui is certainly a great help for nervousness and weak back. I took six bottles of Cardui and by then I was well and strong, just did fine from then on. Cardui helped me so much."

Thousands of weak, suffering women have taken Cardui, knowing that it had helped their mothers or their friends, and soon gained strength and got rid of their pains.

Cardui should do you a lot of good.

VERBENA HIGH SCHOOL CLOSES A VERY SUSSESSFUL SESSION

With the graduation exercises Tuesday night of this week, Verbena High School closed the best year of its history. There were five this year who received diplomas, namely: Sarah Maude Pattillo, Alma Lorene Messer, Jimmie Nolan Meroney, Edna Harriet Davis, Jean Valera Gardner. The valedictorian of the class was Miss Sarah Maude Pattillo, and her farewell address was very fine indeed. The baccalaureate address was delivered by Judge Leon McCord of Montgomery who spoke very interestingly on the subject, "Holding fast to the old Landmarks." The diplomas were given the graduates by the principal, Prof. W. E. G. Sutton.

The commencement sermon was preached last Sunday at the Verbena Baptist church by Rev. James H. Chapman of Howard college. Dr. Chapman took his text from Deut. 8:3, and spoke on the subject, "That Something."

The board of trustees of Verbena high school have already re-elected the entire faculty for another year; but it is regretted that the principal, Prof. Sutton, plans not to accept the principalship of the school again.

Prof. Sutton has been at the head of the Verbena school for the past four years, and that institution has progressed wonderfully under his management. It is to be regretted that Prof. Sutton sees fit to leave Verbena.

After the program, refreshments, and the remaining part of the afternoon was spent playing games, which we enjoyed very much.

NEGRO ARRESTED FOR CARRYING A PISTOL

Last Thursday night as Deputies Foshee and Culp were going out on a little expedition they came upon a big Cadillac car parked on the highway about a mile north of Lomax. The situation looked a bit suspicious to them, it being about midnight. They thought it well to investigate, whereupon they found four negroes in the car asleep.

The negroes were aroused, and as one of them woke up he reached back to his hind pocket and Deputy Foshee got to his shooting machinery right quick and commanded hands up. A thorough search of the party revealed one of them in possession of a pistol. He was arrested and brought to jail. He made bond the next morning. The negroes explained that they were railroad men of Montgomtry, and were going through from Birmingham.

SHILOH

Sunday being our regular singing afternoon, the society met about 2:30. The crowd was not as large as usual, owing to the threatening rain, but we had some very good singing.

Chairman F. I. Bice opened the society with song which was followed with prayer by Rev. T. W. Billingsley.

The following directors sang two or more songs each: Messrs. T. W. Billingsley, F. I. Popwell, Clarence Billingsley, and Olen Bice.

The following is the reply received by I. B. Bryant, Principal of the Chilton County Training School.

"Birmingham, Ala., May 16, 1925.
Mr. I. B. Bryant, Principal Chilton County Training School, Clanton, Ala.
Dear Sir:

Responding to your letter of May 11th, I am glad to enclose check for $10 to assist in building a vocational agricultural school on the campus of your training school. I believe schools like yours, training the "heads, hands and hearts of colored youths," are doing a great work. In the very nature of things, the calls upon us are so many and so varied that we can not contribute to all of them, but I feel the work you are undertaking is so fine that The Birmingham News ought to have some small part in helping you to accomplish your ambition.

With best wishes, I am
Sincerely yours,
THE BIRMINGHAM NEWS,
V. H. HANSON, Publisher."

MOTHER, WATCH THE LITTLE FEET

Mother, watch the little feet o'er the garden wall, bounding through the busy street, ranging cellar, shed and hall. Never mind the moments lost, never count the time it costs; little feet will go astray—guide them mother while you may.

Mother, watch the little hands picking berries by the way, making houses in the sand, tossing up the fragrant hay. Never dare the question ask: "Why to me the weary task?" These same little hands may prove messengers of light and love.

Mother watch the little tongue prattling eloquent and wild; what is said and what is sung by the joyous happy child. Catch the word while yet unspoken, stop the vow before it's broken. This same tongue may yet proclaim blessings in the Saviour's name.

Mother watch the little heart beating soft and warm for you. Wholesome lessons now impart, keep, oh keep that young heart true, extricating every weed, saving good and precious seed. Harvest rich you then may see, ripen for eternity.

I have written these few lines to the mothers to watch your daughters; now a few words to the churches. Watch your preachers. Them that don't partake of the sacrament and don't wash feet, don't have them, for they don't comply with the New Testament. Written and signed by John S. Dennis, of Beat 11.

Use of a picture-story method of teaching reading has been tried with 10,000 children in Detroit schools. It is hoped that by this purposeful self-teaching children will make as much progress in five months as is ordinarily made in a year.

MORAL STAMINA LOWER DECLARES BAPTIST LEADER

Memphis, Tenn., May 15.—Four things are characteristic of national life today, Dr. M. E. Todd, of Shreveport, La., today told the Southern Baptist convention in discussing the report on student activities to the convention.

These are, he said, nervous unrest; revolt against authority; lowering of the moral standard, and an increase in crime.

These four things, he said, are due to changes in educational processes; lowering of the spiritual standard, and magnifying of material success.

The latter three things, Dr. Todd said, are characteristic of educational life to day. He urged as a means of relieving the situation more religious teachings and attention to the spiritual life of students.

The convention late Thursday declined by a vote of 2,103 to 950 to include withing its doctrinal declarations a direct reference to the theory of evolution.

The convention adopted by acclamation the report of its committee named to prepare the declaration of faith and message, of which Dr. E. Y. Mullins, Louisville, was chairman, after rejecting the minority report of Dr. C. P. Stealey, Oklahoma, which would have added the words "and not by evolution," to the adopted expression "we believe that man came into this world by direct creation of God."

The result was in doubt until the vote was taken. Debate upon the two reports, by Dr. Mullins for the committee, and Dr. Stealey, for his own minority report, was featured by the convention's apparent favor of both reports.

Dr. Mullins, for the committee, held that the expression "man came into the world by direct creation of God," meant that man was created immediately, and precluded acceptance of evolution. Dr. Stealey declared that while the expression may mean "immediate creation," such acceptance would not necessarily follow and Baptists want to tell the world just what they believe and what they do not believe.

"When evolution is proved true," Dr. Stealey asserted, "Christ will have been proved untrue."

"The first thing our committee decided," Dr. Mullins continued, "was that this report must be a declaration of those fundamentals upon which all Baptists stand. Not dodging one issue, and with the effort to be fair to all our brethren, we prepared this report."

Twenty-five articles setting forth the Baptist faith, as now adopted, declare that man was created by special act of God, and evolution is not named. A discussion of evolutions nonrelation to religion is appended to the report, however, as the Baptist belief, and it follows the expression Thursday of Dr. Len G. Broughton: "Let scientists keep their hands off of our religion as they demand that we theologians keep our hands off of their science."

Dr. Stealey delivered an attack against evolution in which he called it "impossible, ludicrous and absurd."

The declaration of faith differs from that accepted at the Kansas City Baptist convention only in detail, with the exception of the three paragraphs discussion of evolution, which is appended.

Mr. John Mims and son, Ralph, of Cedar Grove were visitors to Clanton Saturday.

Town Council Lets Paving Contract

Work Will Begin Soon. Concrete Surfacing to Cover Principal Streets of Business Section.

The contract for paving the principal streets in the business section of Clanton has been awarded to Mitchell Bros., of Birmingham, and the work will begin in the next few days. There were nine bids submitted on the project, ranging in amount from $35,000 to $43,000.

The area to be paved with concrete will include the following streets: Second Avenue from the Wilson Hotel to the Court house; First Avenue from the Post Office east to Sixth Street; Sixth Street from the alley south of First Avenue to the alley north of Second Avenue; Seventh Street from the Post Office north to Fourth Avenue.

The contractors state that they can complete the job in two months. It was the factor of time that prompted the city council to let the job out by contract. The local authorities first contemplated doing the work with the town equipment, which would have taken quite a long time. When it was considered that during the progress of the work the traffic in town would be greatly handicapped, and the fact that the cotton marketing season would be upon us before the work could be done, it was thought best to let the work out by contract to someone who could get it done during the summer months, and leave the streets unhampered for the busy season this fall.

We are mighty glad that we can see the culmination of this paving project. It is going to be the making of a real city out of Clanton. It is in line with the wonderful record of progress made by Clanton in the past ten years. It is indeed fortunate that our officials and citizens have been able to combine their efforts and make this great step toward a bigger and better town.

Within another year the paved highway will be laid through Clanton, and hereafter those who come this way will realize that they have got somewhere when they hit our town.

MAY SINGING AT PROVIDENCE SUNDAY WAS GREAT SUCCESS

The annual May singing was held at Providence church last Sunday, and the usual success which goes with this affair every year was not absent on this particular occasion. The day was well spent, numbers of people being present from all parts of the county and even farther than that. The singing was unsurpassed and the behaviour both inside and outside the house was exceptionally good, considering the immense crowd in attendance.

The house was called to order at 9:30 o'clock by the chairman, R. Robinson, and prayer was offered by Rev. M. J. Parrish. A program committee was appointed by the chairman consisting of R. M. Robinson, O. R. Robinson and J. W. Cooper.

The program before noon consisted of the directing of three songs each by the following leaders: W. H. Robinson, L. F. Cleckler, Jessie Jones, T. L. Robinson, O. R. Robinson, R. T. Grant, C. C. Parrish and Arthur Beaird. An intermission of one hour and fifteen minutes was allowed for dinner. The dinner spread was just as fine and as bounteous as could be wished for, this being about the most if not the most important part of the day's procedure. To say the least of it, everybody enjoyed this part of the program.

After dinner the program consisted of three songs each by the following directors, interspersed with quartets: C. H. Robinson; quartet by G. C. Powell, Miss Ethel Powell, R. M. Robinson and E. L. Powell; O. L. Devaughn, J. M. Taylor, A. L. Robinson, E. F. Taylor, G. C. Powell.

Organists for the day were: C. H. Robinson, Richard McKinney, Arthur Beaird, and Mrs. Alice Baker.

After a song by the chairman, the meeting was dismissed with prayer by Rev. W. W. Robinson, to meet again the fourth Sunday in May, 1926.

TRUSTEES OF CONCORD SCHOOL THANK PEOPLE FOR THEIR HELP

The new school house at Concord has ecently received the last finishing touches, and is now ready for school work. And we, the Board of Trustees and Building Committee, would feel that we were sadly neglecting our duty were we not to extend our thanks to all those in Clanton and elsewhere who aided us in our major undertaking. We had a big job on our hands, but the business concerns of Clanton and the people near us helped wonderfully in putting over our program of building a new house.

We, therefore, ask The Union-Banner to publicly thank for us all who have aided us in any way in putting up our new school building. Had the people outside not helped us, the task would have been greater than we could have possibly accomplished unassisted. Our building is a nice one, and we feel very proud of it.

Very sincerely,

O. H. McDowell, J. Mat Johnson, W. J. Easterling, W. G. Taylor, Building Committee and Trustees.

Mr. Wm. R. Baker of Refuge community was in he Banner office last Saturday afternoon. Rudolph was crowing—crowing over the fact that he had just gathered a mess of roasting ears for his Sunday dinner. That is, that was his report, but he failed to bring the editor along a sample to verify his statement.

SHERIFF GETS BIG STILL NEAR STANTON THIS WEEK

On Tuesday afternoon of this week Sheriff T. J. Littlejohn and Deputy Harvey Foshee located and desroyed, 6 miles west of Stanton, a 150-gallon box still. About one quart of whiskey was taken by the officers, together with 150 gallons of beer. The outfit was located near the old George Moore place. The still was not in operation and no arrests were made. The officers reported that the operators were preparing to move the still when it was captured as they found three empty barrels three miles away on the side of the road. These barrels were also destroyed.

One, Mr. Luman Brantley, was arrested one day last week near Ervin Schoolhouse in north-west Chilton, charged with violating the prohibition laws. He was caught with a small quantity of whiskey. Brantley made bond before the officers got to jail with him and he was released.

THE NEW BAKERY STARTING OFF FINE

Mr. Herman Eubanks reports that the new Chilton Bakery is starting off fine. He is well pleased with the business he has received since the opening and the future looks promising.

Mr. Eubanks is planning for an event of much interest to housewives right away. He is going to invite them to his place for a half a day and turn them loose to cook just what they please. He says he intends to find out how many good cooks there are in Clanton.

SENIOR PLAY AT HIGH SCHOOL

The Senior Class of Chilton County High School will present two 1-act comedies at the high school auditorium on Friday evening, May 29, 1925, at eight o'clock. This represents the new tendency to give two or more short plays for an evening's entertainment, rather than the one play of several acts, previously attempted by amateurs. These two plays are particularly adopted to high school dramatics and the casts of characters have been chosen with great care.

"The Fatal Pill" is a captivating little farce which contrasts the modern woman and the older-fashioned type; he present day young man, and a futurish study of a possible man of the twenty-first century.

"Winning A Husband" is an amusing episode of how a clever woman by use of her wits won a husband.

COOLIDGE ASSURED BRANDON HE WOULD VISIT BIRMINGHAM

Tuscaloosa, Ala., May 23.—President Calvin Coolidge definitely promised Gov. Brandon to come to Birmingham at no very distant date, the governor made it known here Saturday.

There seems to be some uncertainty in the minds of some newspaper men, the governor said, as to whether the president's promise was specific or tentative. There is no reason for this, however, he states, as Mr. Coolidge definitely promised to visit the Magic City in the near future. The president made it plain that, with the press of other matters, it was impossible at the time the governor was at the white house to say when it would be possible for him to get away, but he will come at the very first moment possible, the executive feels certain.

The governor, who is here to attend commencement exercises of the University of Alabama, is very enthusiastic about the Southern Exposition in New York and the benefits the entire South will derive therefrom.

There can be no question, he says, but that the exposition has been a revelation to thousands of persons from all sections of the North, East and West, who have been in the habit of thinking of Dixie as still the home of only cotton and watermelons. No amount of propaganda, no written statements, regardless of how often repeated, could have carried conviction as to the South's industrial rebirth as did the exposition, the governor feels certain.

That Alabama won the Manufacturers' Record prize for the best display at the exposition was only to be expected, the governor declares.

Her exhibits attracted, he believes, more attention and were the recipients of more favorable comment than those of any other state, as they covered a wider range, he feels, although he admits that there was not a state exhibit which was not a revelation to him—a Southerner who felt he knew something of the section's resources.

The exposition focused the eyes of the entire nation on Dixie for the time being, the governor showed, and attracted the attention of the very class of people whose interest means most to this section. It would be impossible to estimate the benefits the South, and especially Alabama has derived from the project, Gov. Brandon declares.

Negro Supper Ends In Shooting Affray

One Negro, Will Youngblood, Died As Result of Wound From Stray Bullet.

A week ago last Saturday night there was a negro supper pulled off near Mt. Creek. Before the affair was wound up it turned into a wholesale shooting affray in which four negroes were wounded, one of which has since died.

When the officers got down there to look into the matter their first impression was that everybody at the supper got shot and that nobody in the crowd had any guns. This impression was of course corrected when they had proceeded far enough to get at the truth of the business.

In the course of the "refreshments" two negroes, Will Gulledge and Charles Robinson got a little too fresh and started shooting at each other. Gulledge shot Robinson through the leg and hand, and Robinson shot Gulledge in the shoulder.

Will Youngblood, who was occupying a conspicuous position on the grand stand and engaged in picking the banjo, was hit by a stray bullet from Robinson's pistol. He was brought to the hospital in Clanton where he stayed until last Wednesday. He went back home and died last Friday night.

Elzey Kirby, another innocent bystander, was hit by a stray bullet which hit him in the thigh. It is not known who shot him.

At the conclusion of the investigation by the sheriff's officers, Charles Robinson was committed to jail without bond. Will Gulledge was placed in jail under bond of $500, which he has not yet been able to make.

ARRESTED FOR VIOLATING CITY TRAFFIC LAWS

Two smart young men from Prattville found out Sunday night that Clanton is on the map. They also found out that Uncle Jim Curlee was on the job as night policeman.

These young men were passing thru town in an automobile. They didn't have time to go around a turning post, and cut the corner. Uncle Jim called them to stop and they instructed him to "go to hell." Instead of going to hell, Uncle Jim whipped out his pistol and sent a bullet into one of their rear tires as they endeavored to speed away.

They decided to stop and see what Clanton and our night policeman looked like. After they had paid a fine for violating the traffic laws and fixed their tire, they departed for Prattville, sadder but wiser than they were before they hit Clanton.

Mr. Curlee is to be congratulated for the strict manner in which he looks after the enforcement of our city laws at night. Uncle Jimmie says he strikes lots of violators who want to argue that they ought not to be arrested for breaking traffic laws at night. But that makes no difference with Curlee—for he believes that laws ought to be obeyed at night as well as in day time.

There are weed seeds which can stay in the ground 20 years and then germinate.

POOR OF

The Klan Spiritual

(H. W. Evans, Imperial Wizard)

At midnight, Thanksgiving, 1915, sixteen men, who had braved chilling wind and cutting sleet, stood about an altar on the summit of Stone Mountain, DeKalb county, Georgia. The altar, comprising sixteen boulders dropped into their places from the shoulders of the weary pilgrims, had spread upon it the American flag, and on the flag lay the Holy Bible—open at the twelfth chapter of Romans. At the conclusion of a brief ceremony, which declared that the Bible and the flag should be forever paramount in their hearts and lives, and in the hearts and lives of all who might thereafter take the solemn, deep-seated, comprehensive, wholly binding oath they had then and there taken, the men silently and reverently descended the mountain and wended their way back to the world—from which they had been temporarily, but completely, seperated.

The future historian will elaborate upon that momentous occasion, and announce to his public that it was a beginning of a movement—a movement which adopted the historic name: "Knights of the Ku Klux Klan." However the historian will have arrived at an erroneous conclusion—the prevalent belief that recorded history is correct in every detail to the contrary notwithstanding.

That ceremony on Stone Mountain was the visible and audible manifestation of a re-incarnation—one of the many, perhaps numberless, re-incarnations of a movement, a force, which has wrought upon life in men and tribes and nations down through the ages.

The Reformation.

Wickedness abounds everywhere—in society, in business, in politics (national and international) and even in religion. No matter how charitable our eyes, they cannot escape the fact that evil in every corner of the earth and, to a greater or lesser extent, in every aduit life. Nevertheless, it is impossible to think that the human race is headed for eternal perdition. Moreover, the Bible is explicit in its prophecies of world redemption. The Alpine summits of thinking and living will be ascended again.

Things do not just come to pass. There has ever been and must ever be, a means to an end. From mans fall to the present, reformation—another name for restoration—has been necessary. And reformation will be necessary until the world enters its Golden Age, when "the desert shall rejoice and blossom as the rose,"and"all the trees of the fields shall clap their hands."

We speak of reformations, as tho they were many. While it is many sided, and has graduations and phases, the reformation of the word is an age-long, continuous, intensive movement. To put it another way, the reformation—started at the first altar that declared for righteousness (right living)—has been, is and will ever be one cumulative urge toward Paradise Regained.

Power directed by intelligence, and for a given purpose, never runs wild—it has a vehicle,something to conserve and to carry it to center. The power we call life has bodies, and we see these bodies every day—we call them trees, animals, men. Is it, therefore, far-fetched to assume that the greatest and most important power in the world must incarnate itself to accomplish its purpose.

The reformation functions through multiplied, extensively multiplied, bodies. This is resultant upon changing conditions and the complexity of human society, plus narrow thinking upon the part of reformers the world around. (All who strive to live right and to lead their fellow-men toward the right are, in some way, indentified with the reformation of the ages and are, therefore, reformers.)

Embodiment of he Reformation.

The Reformation could, undoubtedly, function more rapidly and better, through one vast, perfectly organized, accurately directed body. However, the ideal day of its activities seems far in the future, and until that day approaches, it must deal with situations as it finds them.

The church is the logical body of the Reformation, but, owing to human frailty, mental and moral, the church of today, as it has been for centuries, is hindered in its work by materialism and divisions. The church as a whole, is anything but sacrificial; and instead of one body—"the body of Christ," about which we read in the New Testament—we see in the church over two hundred bodies! Can the skepticism, so prevalent, be wondered at? Ultimately, the church will be triumphant because it will, in purpose, be wholly righteous—and it will be united. The Founder of the church prophesied that it should never be destroyed, nor will his prophecy come to naught.

The reformation, awaiting its time of greater opportunity, operates thru (resides in and works out from) the various denominations and likewise a multiplicity of agencies called secular, social, moral, intellectual, etc. It is ever in quest of embodiment, and enters whatever will, even in a small way, serve the cause of human uplift.

When possible, as history and current events prove beyond doubt, the reformation combines, either consolidates or in some manner co-ordinates several, sometimes many, organizations or movements (bodies), and operates through the one great agency upon an extensive sweeping scale. Also, the Reformation appears to be continuously searching for an organization or movement (body) which comprises much idealism and the possibilities of extended and diversified application—a body through which it can touch and rectify a wide area of irregularities and complications.

The Body Recently Acquired.

The angels who have anxiously watched the Reformation from its beginning must have hovered about Stone Mountain, Thanksgiving night, 1915, and shouted Hosannas to the highest heaven. For here on that rock, the largest solid granite formation in the world, a body, ready for immediate and tremendous service, came forth—a body whose comprehensive possibilities were probably not fully realized by the men who then composed it and are probably not fully realized by any one of the millions who now compose it.

The Knights of the Ku Klux Klan, founded on the Living Word, and especially on the twelfth chapter of Romans (which is, as a matter of fact, a compendium of the Bible), has in it the possibility of universal and rock-bottom reform. Its watch phrase, "NON SILBA SED ANTHAR," is the heart-throb of the Reformaton. And the principles set forth in its literature, especially by the "NON SILBA SED ANTHAR" card, would, if universally applied, revolutionize the civilized world within the life of a generation. (Apparently, the Klan is for America—a few of its principles are perhaps, for the present, applicable in the United States only. Nevertheless, the majority of its principles could be, and will be, applied throughout the world. Moreover, unless we of this country have a viewpoint that is absolutely wrong, the Great Light will eventually obtain in and shine around the globe from America. Americans think, and doubtless the far-seeing of other nations think, the song, "As Goes, America, So Goes the World," a prophecy that will be literally fulfilled.)

Gigantic Klan Possibilities.

We shall not here enter into detailed discussion of Klankraft influence upon individual lives and homes—this may be taken for granted, because everyone knows that righteous principles benefit all whom they touch. However, reference to some of the major possibilities (probabilities might be the more expressive term, for the Klan has already begun the accomplishment of fundamental tasks) may be of aid in our effort to grasp the meaning of the great, rapidly growing body of which, as individuals, we are part.

Partyism in politics has long hindered our national progress. The Klan's educational program is already modifying this deplorable condition, and the signs are that before many years pass the real citizen of our great country, no matter where he resides, will regard himself as an American first and a Democrat, Republican or something else second.

During the World War, we abolished the hyphen—so far as it related to national descent. We took the position for all time that "German-American," for example is a misnomer. Likewise, we are rapidly approaching the day when it will not be popular for people to call themselves "Methodist-Americans," "Baptist-Americans," "Catholic-Americans," etc. Why be content until Americanism in speech and sentiment obtains all along the line? There should be no Republican Americans, Democratic - Americans, Socialist-Americans. Some things can be fixed by turning them around—for example, "American Democrats," "American Republicans." When America comes firsa, partyism will vanish. And when partyism disappears, the Constitution will come into its own. Klankraft applied will produce full-erbed Americanism.

Klankraft proclaimed and lived by a million people would destroy sectarianism and unite the Protestant Christians in America within a couple of decades. The millions enrolled and enrolling in the Klan—if they get the vision, and they will—are as certain to abolish sectarian bitterness in this country as it is certain that light dispels darkness.

The average fraternal organization is, to a considerable extent, shorn of its power for good by its inactivity. The Klan is so constructed that inactivity would mean its decease, in any community. It MUST keep going, and in its routine of living it takes the principles of the better class of lodges out of the abstract and puts them into the concrete—it is operative, not speculative. The Klan's activity will become contagious, and it is not presumption to forecast increasing service all along the fraternal line within the near future.

The foregoing brief analysis predicts that the Reformation, having taken unto itself this great, diversified, expanding body, is about to enter upon an era of far-reaching achievement—nor do I think the prediction in any way unsound. The Klan—in principle, plan of organization and scope of activity—is, beyond the peradventure of doubt, the most comprehensive, adaptable and powerful body with which the Reformation has thus far clothed iself.

Duration Of The Klan.

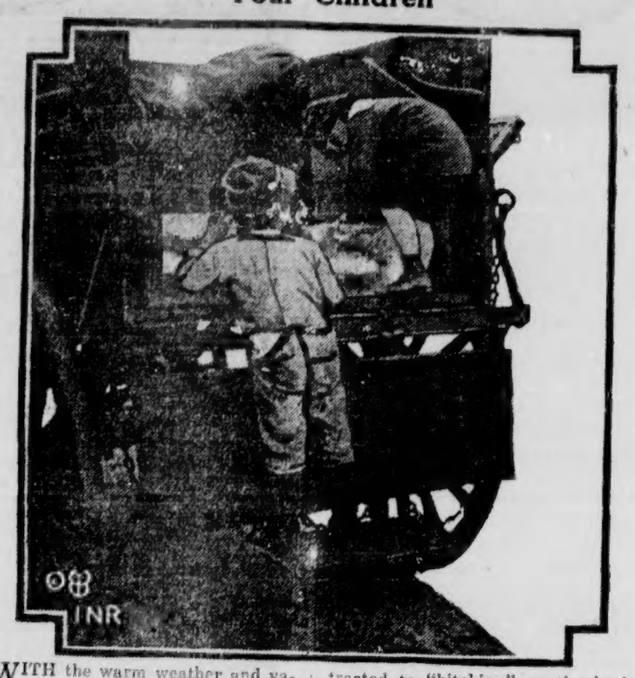
I have referred to the Klan in terms which indicate that it is an organization with which the future—the distant future—must reckon. Therefore, a logical question: How long will the Klan live? The Reformation will not, can not, die; but how long will it reside in the body it started to build at Stone Mountain, and is still building.

Enemies of the Reformation—people who desire a continuance of sectarian strife, political corruption, violation of law and general laxity in morals—aver that the Klan will pass as quickly as it came. And this opinion is shared by hosts of good men and women who want the Reformation to succeed in every particular, but whose conception of the widely discussed and greatly misrepresented organization which was re-born on Stone Mountain is sadly in need of revision. With this prediction, I am completely out of accord. Nor am I biased by membership in the Klan. I am reasoning, cold-bloodedly, out of the philosophy of history and from the exigencies of the present day—a day in the world's history, and especially in America's history, which demands an immediate progressive stride. My optimism—not the result of emotionalism nor enthusiasm nor mere hope, but the result of long and careful study which has painstakingly compared and weighed world movements—forbids even the suggestion of Klan failure.

The Klan has, from its birth, suffered tremendous external opposition and colossal internal strife—either of which would have destroyed an ordinary organization of men. Its survival of these quick-succession and multiplied attacks signfies its robust vitality—and more. It signifies a mission the finite mind cannot readly grasp. And when to all this is addd the phenomenal growth of the Klan, one is forced to exclaim: "Mysterious."

(Notwithstanding the optimism just expressed, it must be admitted that the Klan in its personnel is far from perfict and that its ills ahead will be many to combat. How the Klan is to be saved and made the greatest service organization of all history will be suggested farther on.)

A Timely "Don't" To Show Your Children



WITH the warm weather and vacation days giving the children more freedom out in the open, they are often tempted to get into fixes that threaten their physical safety. Particularly, are they attracted to "hitching" on the back step of ice wagons—disregarding entirely the danger of having blocks of ice fall on them and maiming them for life. Warn them not to do it! And keep on warning them.

URGES THE SOUTH TO CHANGE POLITICS

St. Petersburg, Fla., May 22.—"The South would be much better off, more powerful and more progressive if Washington was never sure whether you were going democratic or republican," according to former Gov. William Elver Glasscock, of West Virginia.

"Politics will have to change down here before the South is as successful as those who are booming it wish it to be. I do not mean that I think you should all be republicans, but you should have enough republicans to keep politicians at the nation's capital guessing," he said.

The question of Evolution and the Descent of Man has become one of the paramount issues in national circles today. Even the Southern Baptist Convention in Memphis last week spent about two days' time squabbling over the theory. The question is being thrashed out in court up in Tennessee. So long as the theory of evolution is dealt with as a "theory" it is not dangerous, but it should be thoroughly understood that it is a theory and not a fact.

The State Department of Game and Fish is with the law-abiding people of Chilton County who want to put a stop to the dynamiting of fish in Mitchell Lake. All we have to do is watch the situation closely and if we see any evidence that would lead to a conviction, just put Mr. Quinn on the trail, and he will see that they get what is coming to them. We don't have to submit to such abuses as dynamiting fish if the good people who are opposed to such practices will keep a watch out and tell what they see to our legal authorities.

GRATEFUL TO ALL

URGES THE SOUTH TO CHANGE POLITICS

Former Governor Glasscock, of West Virginia made a speech in St. Petersburg, Fla., the other day in which he said some things that are worth the careful study of people in the South. One of the most impressive things in his speech was this statement:

"The South would be much better off, more powerful, and more progressive if Washington was never sure whether you were going Democratic or Republican.

"Politics will have to change down here before the South is as successful as those who are booming it wish it to be. I do not mean that I think you should all be Republicans; but you should have enough Republicans to keep politicians at the nation's capitol guessing."

This is just another instance where a man who knows what he is talking about has given utterance to a great truth about the South and politics. Men in a greater or lesser degree have been preaching that doctrine in the South for the past decade. A few people in the South believe it and approve it and actually go so far as to prove their faith by their works and vote the Republican ticket. The most of the people in the South, when they hear such statements, can see nothing but a "negro in the woodpile" and they proclaim to the world every four years that they will continue to keep the South solidly Democratic even if we never come to be recognized as an integral part of the national domain.

The Original Organization of Salem Annual May Singing

The following account of the organization of the annual May singing at Salem church is found in the issue of The Banner dated May 31, 1900:

The annual May singing was organized at Salem Baptist church May 27, 1900. Services were opened with prayer by W. J. Armstrong. T. L. Robinson was elected chairman, and J. E. Goss, secretary. The committee on arrangements were J. E. Goss, P. C. Dennis, Riley Robinson, D. S. Robinson and J. A. Cannon. W. H. Robinson and R. T. Armstrong delivered an address on music, speaking one hour, after which refreshments were served.

At 1:30 o'clock the singers returned to the house and the committee arranged the program for the afternoon. The following leaders were appointed: T. M. Pyron, O. Z. Robinson, Alfred Dupree, W. D. Driver and T. L. Robinson; organists, Misses Martha Pyron, Anna Robinson, Dora Dupree, Clara Dupree and Bertie Bland. After a short talk by Bro. W. H. Robinson and prayer by W. A. Goss, the singing adjourned to meet at nine o'clock on the fourth Sunday in May, 1901.

QUINN PLEDGES CO-OPERATION WITH PEOPLE OF CHILTON

In response to our editorial in last week's issue of The Union-Banner concerning the protection of fish in Mitchell Lake, we have received a letter from Commissioner I. T. Quinn, of the Department of Game and Fisheries of Alabama, in which he says:

"I want the good people of Chilton County to know that they have the absolute co-operation of this Department in breaking up every illegal practice in the destruction of the wild life of field, forest, and stream in that county."

We are indeed glad to have the very firm and positive assurance from Mr. Quinn which he sets out in his letter. We want everybody in Chilton County to see what he says on this very important subject. Therefore we are taking the liberty of publishing his letter in full, which is as follows:

State of Alabama, Department of Game and Fisheries, Montgomery, May 21, 1925.

Editor Union-Banner:

I have just read with a great deal of interest your splendid editorial on fish protection in Mitchell Lake on the Coosa River, in Chilton County. I desire to thank you for this strong, timely editorial, and I am sure it will do a great deal of good in the territory reached by your splendid paper.

It may be of interest to you to know that recently we have secured several convictions, and have several cases docketed for trial at an early date, growing out of fishing violations in the vicinity of Mitchell Lake.

The Department of Game and Fisheries can accomplish the laborious task of breaking up such malignant abuses as dynamiting, seining and netting fish only in proportion to the interest and co-operation on the part of the public.

I appreciate the splendid co-operation which has developed in the past year in the great county of Chilton. I believe that more constructive work has been done in that county during the past eight or ten months than has been done during the last ten years prior to that time. But we have just begun to touch the problems in that territory.

I used to say that I hated to prosecute any man for a violation of any of the game and fish laws. I have had a complete change of heart. I hate to know that it becomes necessary for us to prosecute such cases; but if it is necessary, nothing gives me more pleasure, and I want the good people of Chilton county to know that they have the absolute co-operation of this Department in breaking up every illegal practice in the destruction of the wild life of field, forest and stream in that county. In doing this, however, it is absolutely necessary that we have the co-operation of all good citizens of the county.

Again thanking you for your splendid editorial in your May 21st issue of The Union-Banner, I am,

Very truly,
I. T. QUINN, Commissioner.

POOR OR

—to build up Weight!

ANY WOMAN, any man, can now have a well-developed face and form. The whole, simple secret of a well-developed form is in the number of blood-cells in your body. You can now forget all the theoretical talk about diet, exercise, fad treatments, food-fats and fat-foods. Nothing is of any use, after all, except blood-cells!

Thin, run-down men and women, with bony necks, sunken cheeks, bony shoulders—all these are suffering from one thing—too few blood-cells. Science has proved that S.S.S. helps to make the rich red-blood-cells, which you need. Your blood is starving for these new blood-cells! Give your blood the blood-cells it needs—take S.S.S. the great scientific blood-cell maker. S.S.S. has done marvels, too, in making beautiful complexions, clearing the skin, making lips rosy red, the cheeks full and plump—because it rids the blood of impurities which cause pimples, blackheads, acne, blotches, eczema, tetter, rash and rheumatism, too. As the medicinal ingredients of S.S.S. are purely vegetable, it may be taken with perfect safety. This is why S.S.S., since 1826, has meant to thousands of underweight men and women a plus in their strength. Start taking S.S.S. today and your great problem, that of your personal appearance, can be solved.

ELECTRICITY WILL SAVE FARM LABOR

Electricity as the answer to the farmer's problem of labor shortage is featured in the exhibit of the Alabama Power Company, sixth largest producer of hydro-electric power in the country, whose 3,000 miles of transmission lines serve more than a million and a quarter people in over 120 communities.

The Alabama Power Company is endeavoring to supply "cheap power for farm, factory and fireside." For some years it has been giving special attention to the problems of the farmer, and at present is supplying 1,800 of them with power at city rates. So far, this is still in the experimental stage, as it has not yet been definitely determined whether the company can profitably supply the rural districts at the same rates as the municipalities. The work, however, has been commended by the National Committee on Relation of Electricity to Agriculture, whose director, Dr. E. A. White, described it as "the most amb tious experiment ever conducted in the history of the world."

Demonstrating what has been accomplished, and what it is trying to do, the Alabama Power Company exhibits a large model of a typical farm, with house, barn and outbuildings. A realistic touch is given the scene by several live yellow chicks, who chirp cheerfully as they scratch away inside the miniature chicken yard, perfectly at home in their unusual surroundings. For the farmer's wife the drudgery of the old life on the farm has been removed by electric stoves, washing machines, lights and all the numerous appliances which were formerly beyond her reach, while the farmer himself finds that his labor problem is made far simpler by electricity in the cow barn and dairy, electric incubators and pumps; that coontless details, such as sawing wood and sharpening tools, consume but a fraction of the time they used to take, and that even lengthier and more difficult jobs like the grinding of silage and loading it into the silo can be done easily and expeditiously with an electric silage grinder.

The latest project which the company is trying to develop on behalf of the farmer is to supply him with electric refrigeration, so that he can not only make his own ice but can cure his own meat, which, until the prtsent, he has not been able to do.—New York Commercial, May 19, 1925.

JOE LOGAN'S LOGIC

Our good friend Joe Logan of Route 4 came in last Saturday and renewed his subscription to The Union-Banner. Joe says he keeps mighty busy on his farm and does not have time to read the paper much. "But," he continued, "I believe my chaps would go crazy without the Banner every week, and I just decided I had better get it for them as it is cheaper to pay $1.50 for the paper than to send them to the asylum." Mr. Logan has been a subscriber of The Union-Banner for ten or fifteen years.

ANOTHER ALABAMA VICTORY

Alabama has been declared winner of the exhibit competition at the Southern Exposition in New York and is to receive the $5,000 prize offered by the Manufacturers Record for the best display of its products and resources. Winning of this prize is an honor of which the whole state may be proud as it sets Alabama in the forefront of southern states.

The special committee which took charge of making the state display with Theodore Swann as chairman, is entitled not only to the congratulations of the people of Alabama, but also their hanks for the creditable manner in which they have brought the state's raw materials and finished products to the attention of the eastern investing public.

This victory is a conspicuous example of what can be done by team work, for it was an occasion upon which the committee in charge received co-operation from all the interests affected with the result that assistance came from every direction to make the display truly representative. Scores of Alabama citizens made the trip to New York to aid by their personal presence and all are convinced that the impression made upon eastern exposition visitors will have far-reaching influence upon Alabama's future.—Birmingham Age-Herald, May 22, 1925.

Floors Never Get a Holiday

YOU know how many times you walk on them—how often the furniture is moved across them—how muddy shoes streak them. They're always on the job. And if they show all this wear they detract from the beauty of the rooms and halls. Folks who use Pee Gee Floor Enamel have no need to worry about their floors. It is so elastic, and yet so hard that heel marks, scruffing and other floor-abuses will not show. It dries overnight with a high-gloss finish, and you have a floor that will not crack or peel, nor does water affect it.

Wm. G. McAdoo Calls Memorial Coins South's "Badges of Honor"

Stone Mountain Memorial Must be Completed Declares Ex-Governor Frank O. Lowden of Illinois.

WILLIAM G. McADOO

FRANK O. LOWDEN

"The campaign for the distribution of the Confederate Memorial Half-Dollar, minted under special Act of the Congress of the United States as souvenir of Stone Mountain Confederate Memorial deserves the support of all who love to honor the great deeds of the South and the heroes who performed them," says William G. McAdoo, and continues:

"The proceeds of the sale of these coins are to be used for the completion of the Stone Mountain Confederate Memorial. Each purchaser of one of these Historic coins secures a badge of honor and helps to commemorate the valor of the men of the South who sacrificed and died for what they believed to be right.

"The issues which led to the Civil War have been settled happily in favor of a permanent union of the states, guaranteeing liberty, equality and security to all the people under the protection of Democratic institutions and the valor of the men on both sides who made this possible, is the common heritage of all.

"Let the people of the South in particular accept the present opportunity to buy these coins and thereby assure the completion of this great Stone Mountain Memorial as a tribute to their heroic sons."

Ex-Governor Frank O. Lowden, of Illinois, says:

"I have noted with interest the beginning of the campaign for the sale of Confederate Memorial coins issued by the National Government for the benefit of Stone Mountain Memorial.

"I have seen the beginnings of this marvelous Memorial to American valor and I should like to see the great work completed. When other monuments erected by men's hands have crumbled into dust this Memorial to brave and devoted men will stand as eternal as the hills.

"It will be a source of inspiration to uncounted generations of the children of men. I hope that the campaign may have the success it deserves and that these souvenir coins may find eager and willing purchasers everywhere."

Report of S. S. Convention at Mulberry

The Baptist Sunday School Convention of District No. 3 met at Mulberry Baptist church, May 24, 1925. After devotional services conducted by Bro. H. J. Grooms, the program was taken up by the District president, Bro. H. R. Oden.

Bro. T. L. Lecroy delivered a fine talk on "Variety in the Sunday School."

The subject of "Social life in the Sunday School" was well handled by the pastor, Rev. J. W. Mitchell, after which a bountiful dinner was served to all present.

First in the afternoon an interesting and able address was delivered by Mr. J. E. Wallace, of Maplesville, on the subject, "How to interest children in the Sunday School."

To the glad surprise of the convention, shortly after the noon recess Bro. Emmett Moore, Secretary of the State Baptist Sunday School Board appeared on the scene. Following Mr. Wallace's address, Bro. Moore delivered an interesting and soul stirring address on the subject "The Sunday School of the Church." Then Bro. J. Z. Mims discussed the subject "Home talent in the Sunday School," with great interest to the convention.

The following Sunday Schools were represented: Maplesville, Pleasant Grove (Shoults), Sardis, Ebenezer, Mt. Carmel, and Mulberry.

Bro. H. A. Harris, county president, presented the Sunday School campaign for the year 1925, and in so doing made the convention a great talk. We pray for and believe all the good talks will make a favorable impression on the minds of the people who heard them and that the same will tell out in the later lives of the people.

The convention closed at 4 o'clock with prayer by Bro. Emmett Moore.

Demand for Tax Cut Is Growing in U. S.

Washington, May 23.—The demand for another cut in federal taxes has begun to take definite shape and advices received by the treasury today indicate that a gigantic organization is slowly forming throughout the country for the announced purpose of promoting tax reduction along definite lines.

While the treasury has made no plans and probably will take little part in proposals for tax cuts other than to show by its calculations where and how the rates may be lowered, the business, financial and professional interests now getting togetheer will, it was asserted in the reports, submit a practically completed bill to carry its ideas into effect.

Treasury officials were not advised as to views held by the organization leaders.

News of the proposed move came in the midst of the calculation by the treasury of the maximum cut in total volume of taxes that are possible The indication heretofore that the total cut could not exceed $200,000,000 remained unchanged, although late figures on federal expenditures in the current fiscal year appeared to show that a greater reduction was possible.

Tax receipts thus far this year are running slightly ahead of treasury estimates. The expenditures for ten months have fallen off smewhat and are now about $90,000,000 below the total for the ten months ending April 30, 1924.

Although it is yet too early for the treasury to say definitely how far the tax cut can go, officials are optimistic and are convinced that a substantial reduction can be put through in the next congress. Whether the law should be made applicable to the payments to be made on incomes earned this year was a point, however, on which officials were not inclined to commit themselves.

POOR O

THORSBY SECTION

(S. E. NORTON, Manager).

S. E. Miller and L. A. Morman have gone to Florida to spend several days inspecting roads in that section. Mrs. Norman and little Bettie Sue accompanied them as far as Dothan, to stay with Mrs. Norman's mother until they return. Mrs. Miller has gone to her home in Georgia, and expects to return in about two weeks.

James M. Bosworth left Sunday afternoon for Valley Head, Ala., where he will take up his usual summer work.

Nels Nelson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Nelson, arrived Saturday night from Auburn, where he has been a student at the Polytechnic Institute and after spending a few days with his parents will return to Auburn to take up summer work.

Mr. and Mrs. Reno S. Villadsen and children motored to Oakman, Ala., last Saturday. Mrs. Villadsen will attend the graduating exercises of her niece, Miss Louise Morris.

Mrs. Anna Villadsen and son, Arthur, spent Sunday with friends in Birmingham.

Miss Agnes Gerald arrived home from Abbeville Friday night, where she has been teaching in the high school during the past year.

Rev. Bakke announces that he will preach in English both morning and evening at the Lutheran church next Sunday.

The Ladies Guild of Thorsby will hold their monthly social on Thursday afternoon, May 27 at the home of Mrs. T. W. Robinson. They will also oversee the Community Dinner on Thorsby Insitute campus at 12:30 Friday of this wek. Don't fail to attend and bring a well filled basket or box of eatables. Ice cream will be sold on the grounds.

The concrete work on the highway is now being done within the town limits of Thorsby, and will probably be completed as far as contractors intend to work by July 1st. After that, it is their intention to begin concrete paving at Lomax and work towards Thorsby, closing up the gap as fast as possible. With a graded highway and the Alabama Power Co., coming into Thorsby within a few months, 1925 is certainly good to us.

Harry Peterson with his wife and baby were week end visitors at the home of Mr. Peterson's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Carl C. Peterson.

Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Petersen are expecting Mrs. L. O. Larsen, her daughter, Dagmar, and sons, Olaf and Thorwald, who are having their vacation at this time and are motoring from Chicago to visit friends at their old home town and incidentally, attend Thorsby Institute commencement exercises, T. I. being the "Alma Mater" of two of the young people.

The Thorsby Eastern Star had a school of instruction on Saturday, with sessions morning and afternoon, in Masonic hall. The instructor was Mrs. Sadie Dere of Woodlawn, who is grand conductoress of Alabama. They also had visitors from Julia Beauchamp Chapter of Clanton. Dinner was served at the Thorsby Cafe by the Thorsby chapter.

Miss Nell Shannon, who for the past two years has been instructor in the business department of Thorsby Institute and office secretary, left for her home at West Point, Ga., on Wednesday. Having secured another position, she will not return to Thorsby next year.

Misses Alihea and Kathrine Perry, members of Thorsby Institute faculty, will leave for their homes in the vicinity of Boston, Mass., on Saturday of this week. They plan to spend a few days enroute at Washington, D. C.

Miss Louise Collins, daughter of Tom Collins of Sylacauga, is a guest of Miss Gertrude Steiner.

The Senior Class play, which was given last Saturday night at Thorsby Institute dining hall, converted into an auditorium, was well attended by a delightful audience. The assignment of the parts in the play brought out so much of latent talent on the part of each that it is needless to draw comparisons: rather let us call it a fine manifestation of team work, that as a whole reflected on each member of the class. The plot of the play and cast of characters were given in last weeks Union-Banner and do not need to be repeated.

On Sunday morning at the Congregational church, which was well filled, Rev. Joseph E. Each preached the baccalaureate sermon, which he said was adapted to everybody, but especially to the young people in the audience as well as to the senior class before him. He spoke from Paul's first letter to the Corinthians, 12:31, "Covet earnestly the best Gifts." He made a strong plea for unselfishness and high ideals of life.

Thorsby Institute will close for the school year 1924-'25 on Friday, May 29th. Class night exercises of stunts, Class Will, Prophecy, History and Poem will be held in the Congregational church Thursday night, May 28 at 8 o'clock. Commencement exercises will be held in the Congregational church at 10:30 a.m., Friday, May 29th. Dr. W. M. Jones of Atlanta, Ga., will deliver the address. The scholarships offerd by Piedmont College, Jacksonville College, Draughon's Business College, and Class of 1924-'25 will be awarded. Prizes offered, which will also be given at this time are, Perry for French and Public Spaking; Richard Butler Memorial, for perfect punctual attendance; Clara Peterson, for Senior English; also two Prizes from the American Chemical Society.

The members of the graduating class are: Ruth Martin, Gladys Murphy, Clyde McKee, Essie Belle Willis, George Hughes and Tilden Jackson.

Dr. and Mrs. Sam Wallace visited Dr. and Mrs. S. C. Wood at their home in Thorsby last Sunday. Mrs. Wood's mother, Mrs. Parnell of Birmingham, returned to her home last Wednesday, after a visit of several days with her daughter.

Mrs. Wood wishes to express her thanks to the many friends who sent her flowers and other tokens of regard during her recent illness.

Mr. G. L. Foshee, who has been ill for sveral weeks, is reported to be improving.

Miss Hattie Davenport of Birmingham, spent Sunday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Davenport.

Miss Rubel Smitherman from New Orleans, is visiting Mrs. Pete Franklin.

The Congregational Ladies Aid Sociy will hold their monthly social on Thursday afternoon, June 4th, at the home of Mrs. J. H. Goddard.

Rev. Frank E. Jenkins, D. D., president of he Board of Directors of Thorsby Institute, arrived in Thorsby Tuesday morning to spend the day a meeting was held in the directors room at the Bank of Thorsby. This meeting was attended by all of the local trustees of the Institute, and the members of the Business Mens Committee, who are charged with the responsibility of raising the sum of $3,000 among the people of Thorsby and vicinity for Thorsby Intitute building fund.

After discussing the matter and with the understanding that little can be done towards raising funds outside of Thorsby until the citizens of Thorsby and vicinity have shown their attitude toward the school, in a definite and substantial manner, therefore the Business Mens Committee agreed to make an earnest effort to secure cash or negotiable notes aggregating $3000 for this fund by June 15. If the people of Thorsby and vicinity also make an honest effort in this direction the thing can be done without undue burden on anyone.

With this sum in hand, the trustees can confidentially face the task of raising the balance needed, to make the fund $30,000 to $35,000 needed to erect and equip the kind of building needed for the kind of school they expect to have.

MR. LANDE THANKS THORSBY PEOPLE FOR PATRONAGE

In closing out my business in Thorsby, The Thorsby Leader, I wish to express my thanks to the people of this vicinity for their patronage and cooperation given me in my business. My relations with you have been gratifying indeed, and I only wish that it were possible for me to continue to do business here with you.

Again thanking each and every one who have traded with me while in your midst, I beg to remain,

Very sincerely,
M. LANDE.

"Cardui has helped me a lot and I am glad to recommend it. I don't feel like the same woman I was last fall. My appetite is good now, and I'm sure it's Cardui that's made it pick up."

GASOLINE TAX AND ROADS

Montgomery county automobile owners are giving thousands of dollars annually to the smaller counties of the state to help build and maintain good roads. This gift to the highway cause comes through the state gasoline tax fund. Figures for last year show that Montgomery county autoists paid approximately $82,270 into the gas fund and the county received from that fund only $25,807.72, or one sixty-seventh of the total receipts of $1,729,117.13 net. In other words over two-thirds of the money accruing from the 2-cent gasoline tax in the county went to other counties. The law provides that the gasoline tax receipts shall be distributed equally among the 67 counties.

There were registered in Montgomery County last year 7,527 motor vehicles. The total number of cars in the state was 157,262. The average gasoline tax for each car in operation was $10.93 net. These figures are compiled from statistics from the United States department of agriculture, the state tax commission and the state treasurer.

Jefferson county auto owners gave considerably more than $100,000 to other counties' road funds and received $25,462.39, the same as Coosa county, with only a few hundred cars. Mobile contributed equally as much as Montgomery toward building roads in other parts of the state. And so far as can be learned, there is no agitation in the three larger counties for a change in the state law, for they seem willing to help the weaker counties, many of which would have very few good roads were it not for the gasoline fund.

87,000,000 Gallons Used.

Automobiles of Alabama last year consumed approximately 87,000,000 gallons of gasoline. With $1,729,117.23 as the net fund and estimating the cost of collection and inspection at $9,000, the consumption was near the eighty-seven million mark.

Of Alabama's 157,262 cars in operation last year, 135,777 were passenger cars; 18,686 motor trucks; 2,797 taxies, busses and other cars for hire. Only 540 motorcycles were in operation during the year. There has been a steady decrease in motorcycles in the state for the past few years.

If all the cars in Alabama were parked one behind the other the line would reach from Birmingham to Mobile, or if they were scattered over the state there would be three for every square mile of territory. Another interesting fact about Alabama and the automobile industry is that only six states in the union had a greater increase percentage during 1924. The increase in Alabama was 24.2 per cent. Louisiana had the largest gain in cars with a percentage of 30.3. New Mexico was close behind with 30.1. With the exception of New Mexico and Rhode Island, the big gains in numbers of cars were in the southern states.

There are more automobiles in operation in New York than any other state, 1,412,879. With 18,118, Nevada is at the bottom of the list.

Speed with SAFETY!

The Louisville & Nashville Railroad has a well-earned reputation for safeguarding its patrons and the public; at the same time developing and maintaining a degree of safety in transportation which permits of unexcelled freight and passenger schedules.

Many L. & N. trains could run faster; considerable running time could be eliminated—but the element of safety has always been one of extraordinary concern to the Management, with the result that its list of fatalities and accidents has been very much below the average of American railroads.

In order to get further speed and also greater safety, this Railroad is installing electrically controlled automatic block signals. The signals protect against collision, open switches, broken rails, etc., and at the same time permit running trains closer together than is possible with the time spacing system, thus increasing track capacity with resultant saving of time.

The installation of these automatic block signals costs approximately $3,500 per mile. When completed, the automatic block signal system of the Louisville & Nashville Railroad will represent an investment of many millions of dollars.

Such expenditures demonstrate the truth of the statement that "it takes a lot of money to run a railroad", and that, at present rate of earnings, railroad rates are not too high.

Actress Warns Mothers of Child Prodigies

Pleads for Normal Life for Talented Youngsters

New York City.—A warning to mothers of prodigies was recently sounded by Miss Flo Campbell, singer, now appearing in "Artists and Models," New York production.

"Don't let your child give way to a prodigy-ing tendency," counselled Miss Campbell. "If you do, the child will have ample reason to regard you as an enemy rather than as his best friend. I know because I was an infant prodigy myself—the best dancer in dancing school and always pushed forward by the family and my teacher whenever there was company.

"This was bad for me—kept me excited, self-conscious and conceited and has been infinitely worse for me since. There is only a certain amount of energy stored up in the human organism and in childhood this should be conserved against the more strenuous days which are to come.

"If you call upon your stores too soon, they may fail you later. I have been prodigying since I was six or seven and if I weren't almost abnormally healthy and strong, I'm sure I should be feeling the effects of my too early debut.

"Even as it is, I wish I hadn't been a child prodigy. I got a sweet new song the other day, 'Rockabye Baby Days,' and every time I hear it, I feel like crying. I had no real rockabye baby days. I was too busy showing off. But I needed them. So does every child. See that yours gets them or you'll regret it."

WIDOW CRIES FOR JOY

"I couldn't eat anything but raw eggs and sweet milk and was so weak I could hardly walk across the room. I would have been in my grave today if I hadn't taken Mayr's Wonderful Remedy when I did. When I think how I have suffered with my stomach and how good I feel now I cry for joy." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, incuding appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded. Alred Drug Co., Clanton, Ala., and druggists everywhere.

Discovering and marking places of historical interest is a feature of history instruction in Taylor (Tex.) high school. A 115-mile tour was made under the guidance of the instructor and much local history was uncovered and many pictures made. Already plans are practically completed for placing suitable markers at appropriate sites.

ALABAMA NEWS HAPPENINGS

A Resume of the More Important Events of Interest Condensed To An Epitomized Form

Three petitions involving utility properties at Fort Payne have been filed with the Alabama Public Service Commission, one is by A. A. Miller, seeking approval of sale of property owned by petitioner in the name of Fort Payne Light Company to the Fort Payne Utilities Company. The Fort Payne Light Company serves Fort Payne, Valley Head, Mentone and vicinity. Another petition is by the Fort Payne Water Company, A. A. Miller, lessee, for approval of sale of its properties to the Fort Payne Utilities Company. The third petition, by the Fort Payne Utilities Company, seeks authority to issue and sell $250,000 of six per cent bonds. A. A. Miller is president of the Fort Payne Utilities Company, which was organized for the purpose of purchasing the water and light company properties mentioned. Date of hearing on the petitions was fixed for July 6.

The Alabama Public Service Commission has granted, conditionally, the petittion of the Gulf Electric Company, which is affiliated with the Alabama Power Company for certificates of convenience and necessity for construction of a transmission line extending from a point on the system of the Alabama Power Company at or near Union Springs to connect with the system of the Pea River Power Company at a point near Troy, a distance of approximately 30 miles. The commission provided that the order allowing the transmission line to be built shall be effective if and when the purchase by the Gulf Electric Company of properties of the Pea River Power Company is approved by the commission, and not otherwise. The order included authority to construct necessary sub-stations, etc.

William H. Holcombe, member of the House of Representatives of Mobile County, will be deprived of the right to sit during any special session of the legislature if held prior to the decision of the United States Court on his appeal from a sentence in the Atlanta penitentiary for entering into a conspiracy for the violation of the Volstead act. This results from the decision of the Supreme Court and Court of Appeals in the case of George E. Stone, treasurer of Mobile County, vs. the State on relation of Albert Freeland. In the Stone-Freeland case the courts held that a person convicted of an "infamous" crime is deprived of his office, which can be returned only on reversal of the case.

THANKS FRIENDS

I wish to thank my friends for the help extended me since losing all I had by fire last Wednesday, May 20. Your help is certainly appreciated.—J. T. Littleton, Clanton, Route 8.

FARM FACTS

Plant cowpeas or soybeans after oats, rye, and wheat.

Not an Alabama farmer is able to afford a scrub bull, boar, or rooster.

It will be bad business for farmers to buy feed on a credit.

Drive out ignorance and carelessness and prosperity will come in.

The farmer who neglects his soil neglects his biggest asset.

Farming is a complicated business which will pay if done intelligently.

This thing of farming by guess is poor business for him who guesses.

Mr. Joe Poole of Memphis, Tenn., spent the week end with relatives in and near Clanton. Joe is still in the hotel business in Memphis.

ROCKY MOUNT

We wish to announce that there will be a working at this place next Saturday, May 30, for the purpose of cleaning off the cemetery, and we especially request those interested in this cemetery to meet us there as early Saturday morning as possible. Bring tools to work with and let's make everything look good before we leave it.

Mr. G. O. Foshee continues to improve. He was able to go to the creek fishing on Tuesday afternoon.

BEST COTTON CROP SINCE YEAR OF 1918

National Average 76.6 Per Cent Against 65.6 Last Year; Alabama 80, Against 70 in 1924.

Auburn, Ala., June 2.—The first cotton report of the year finds the condition of the Alabama crop 80 per cent of normal, which compares with an initial condition of 70 last year, according to an analysis of the figures issued today by F. W. Gist, agricultural statistician, cooperating with the extension service and state department of agriculture in this state. The condition represents the status of the crop on May 25 last, as reported by the various sources of information.

The crop by districts is given below for the two years:

	1925	1924
Northwest Section	90	67
Tennessee Valley	89	67
Mineral Section	86	61
Northeast Section	80	73
Blackbelt west	87	67
Blackbelt east	80	70
East central section	76	66
Southwest section	84	85
South central	77	76
Southeast section	73	79

The difference in condition in the various sections is almost wholly a matter of good or bad stands. In the light sandy soils all cotton planted after May 10 this year was on May 25 up to very poor stands, due to insufficient rain for seed germination. These soils do not hold water as well as the heavier soils with more clay foundation. In soils of the latter type stands are better even where planted late, though the later plantings in all sections are presenting the poorer appearance.

The average date of planting this year was about one day only ahead of last year, notwithstanding preparation was made much earlier than last year. All cotton planted in southern counties prior to April 10 is up to a perfect stand, and there are few complaints of stands in any of the northern counties.

Fields are universally clean and a perfect state of cultivation is apparent in all sections. Forty-three per cent of the acreage had been chopped on May 25, against 39 last year.

A slightly larger proportion of the acreage was fertilized this year, and applications were heavier per acre and the grade used was considerably higher in plant food than last year. The crop is off to a good start in practically all respects, and the final outcome is merely a matter of weather and weevil during the remainder of the season.

In the matter of revising last year's final results, no change was made in the estimated yield per acre, and the acreage was reduced to accord with the one-half of one per cent overestimate of the 1924 crop.

Dry weather has prevailed since May 25, and some farmers are beginning to fear some bad results to the growth if rain should be much further delayed.

Some few weevils have been found on cotton, though the hot dry weather seems to have delayed multiplication where squaring has begun.

All told, the situation is rgearded as favorable at present, the crop being in excellent shape to receive favorable weather and a continuation of good culture.

BUFORD LAWRENCE ELECTED SUPERINTENDENT EDUCATION

Will Take Charge of Office On July 1st, 1925.

At the regular monthly meeting of the County Board of Education held last Friday the election of a County Superintendent of Education resulted in the choosing of Rev. Buford Lawrence for the place. He will take charge of the office July 1st, succeeding Howard L. Foshee, who has held the position for the past several years.

We understand that there were three applications before the board, the names of Buford Lawrence, M. W. Mims and W. T. Bean. Howard L. Foshee did not make application for the place to succeed himself.

The name of Buford Lawrence is well known in many sections of Chilton County. He has been engaged in teaching in the county for eleven years. As a minister of the gospel, he has been actively engaged in church work in this county since he was 18 years old.

FIRE AT HIGGINS PLANING MILL

A very threatening blaze occurred at the planing mill of the Forest Lumber Co., in Clanton late Monday evening. The boiler room and shaving house suffered severe damage, but the fire was kept from spreading to the mill house and lumber yard nearby. This is another case where our city waterworks facilities saved enough damage to pay for itself.

MRS. J. P. STONECIPHER DEAD

The death of Mrs. J. P. Stonecipher occurred at the home of the family three miles south of Clanton on last Thursday. The deceased was about 75 years of age. She is survived by her husband, Mr. J. P. Prof. Devaughn will teach a singing and music school at Walnut Creek beginning shortly after July 4. He taught a school at this place last year, and the results were very gratifying. It is hoped that it will be the same this year. Prof. Devaughn is a splendid music teacher and is deserving of the hearty co-operation of any community in which he teaches.

The arrangements have not been completed yet any more than that a celebration will be held and it will be at Clanton. This new firm, which will consist of Mr. Foshee and a partner, will deal in all kinds of school supply goods.

We understand that Mr. Foshee will continue to reside in Clanton at least for a while until he gets his business going good. It is likely, however, that he will remove his family to the capital city in the near future.

LOOK OUT FOR MAD DOGS AROUND CLANTON

A little yellow dog belonging to Mr. Glaucus Baker "went mad" last Saturday and came to Clanton. While here Saturday night it is thought that he bit several other dogs in town.

Mr. Baker asks us to publish this information in order that the public may take proper precautions against any dogs that may have been bitten.

Saturday, June 6—Feature, "America," a D. W. Griffith Production—"Pathe News"—Serial, "Fast Express."

THE ROAD ON SIXTH STREET WILL BE KEPT

Good Bridge and Fill to be Built With Hope of Getting Paving Equal to That of State Highway.

The fellows who wanted the State Highway through Clanton to be built on Sixth Street out of town toward the South did not give up when the State Highway Commission voted against them and put the road on Seventh Street. They took the matter up in other ways to get the road down Sixth Street continued and kept up, and they are determined not to stop until the road down that way is made as good as the State Highway down Seventh Street.

Assurance has already been granted that the County will build a suitable bridge where the old wood bridge now stands and will also build a 26-foot fill from the bridge south to the intersection with the State Highway at the Woco-Pep oil station, provided the State Highway Commission does not carry out its tantative promises to build the fill and pave the little distance from the bridge to the intersection.

The paving proposed by the Town of Clanton will extend down Sixth Street to the bridge. All of these things when finally carried through will make a paved road into Clanton on Sixth Street equal to that on Seventh Street.

Those who are pulling for the Sixth Street road believe that such a course is necessary in order that the traffic in and out of Clanton toward the south may be adequately handled, as it is contended that the highway on Seventh Street will be congested beyond all measure of safety and convenience.

REV. BOB JONES WILL APPEAR IN PICTURE AT WADESONIAN

Through the efforts of certain individuals in Clanton, the famous motion picture entitled "The Unbeatable Game," the scenario of which was composed by Rev. Bob Jones and the leading part played by him, will be shown in Clanton soon. This picture story is based upon the sermon of the famous evangelist, "The Game you Can't Beat," which he preached in Clanton while conducting the revival here two years ago. Bob Jones himself appears in this picture in the leading role.

This picture will be shown two times at the Wadesonian Theatre in Clanton on June 16th. The performance in the afternoon will be for ladies and at night it will be for men.

Everyone who possibly can should make arrangements to see this picture, because it is something well worth anyone's time and attention. It deals with the cause and remedy of the moral evils of our country, a vital question which confronts the future of our nation.

A complete announcement of the details will be made next week.

EX-VICE PRESIDENT MARSHALL DEAD

Death comes to Vice-President With Wilson Administration As He Reads at Breakfast.

Washington, June 1.—Thomas Riley Marshall, vice president of the United States for eight momentous years of its history, has followed his chief, Woodrow Wilson, into death.

When the eyes of the former vice president closed in death today they were fixed upon the words of Holy Writ in which Jesus interpreted to His disciples the parable of the sower.

Just before he died he had taken up a Bible, and as it fell from his lifeless hands it lay open at the fourth chapter of St. Mark—a favorite story concluding with the promise:

"With what measure ye mete, it shall be measured to you."

Recurrence of a heart attack, which sent him to bed last Monday immediately after a trip from Indiana, brought on the end unexpectedly today, after reports had come from the sick room throughout the week, that despite his 71 years, he was steadily recovering from nervous exhaustion and a cold.

Death came to him quietly in his room on the fourth floor of the New Willard hotel, where he lived during his two terms as vice president. Propped up in bed with pillows after eating his breakfast with an enjoyment that strengthened the impression of those about him that he was regaining his health, he was smoking a cigar, and reading a favorite passage of the Bible.

Suddenly, but without haste, while Mrs. Marshall was in an adjoining room, he laid the Bible face downward open where the fourth chapter of St. Mark ends and the fifth begins. His cigar dropped and he fell gently back without speaking and apparently without pain. The nurse, who had been at his side, quickly summoned aid, but he was dead.

Mrs. Curry's School Closes.

On last Friday morning the private school taught by Mrs. Clara B. Curry came to the close of a very successful year. To celebrate this occasion an all-day outing was thoroughly enjoyed by the little folks and a number of the mothers. The party motored to Dake's Pond about 10 o'clock. The entire morning was spent in wading and splashing in the water. At the noon hour a most delicious and bountiful lunch was spread. After the lunch, instead of the usual formal after dinner speeches, it was suggested that several stunts be pulled off. The first, to blindfold someone and see how many voices he could recognize. Of course Mrs. Curry was the one to be blindfolded. The little folks were lined up and as they passed to speak they requested Mrs. Curry to hold her hands so that they could also play thimble. But when the last child had passed and the blindfold removed it was discovered than in place of thimbles, dollars were in Mrs. Curry's hands, and this was the unique way in which the little folks showed love and esteem for their teacher, whom they so very highly respect. Another hour was spent in the water and with hesitancy, goodbyes were said.

Those present were Mesdames Curry, Hugh Jones, Arthur Johnson, W. M. Wyatt, Oscar Jones, J. B. Downs, Kin Vinson, Thomas, Bud Jones, Doll Downs, J. E. Gowan, and Mat Ware.

The little folks were: Billie Retherford, Ruth Gowan, Nell Ross Mullins, Mary Courtney Jones, Theda and Jimie Wyatt, Joe Hall Johnson, Rosemary and Mike Pickens, Annie Laurie Thomas, Gertiwyl and Kinion Vinson, Joe Ware, and others.

Mrs. R. C. McDavid in a most pleasing manner presented "The Life of Helen Keller," closing her interesting talk with a very appropriate and beautiful poem, written by herself:

"My Garden."

I walk in my garden day by day,
A tiny secluded cove,
And through each plot I wander on
To caress the things I love;
I know that here the marigold
In splendor of the sun,
Bows slightly with a regal nod
And bids me pass along.
And here I stoop to touch wi' hand
My velvety pansy bed—
A vari-colored patch-work quilt
Before my feet is spread.
And here the modest daisy
Turns up its timid face;
I see with eyes not mortal
Its slenderness of grace.
And on and on I wander,
'Til I reach the postern gate,
There, I feel the bark of an elm tree,
My sentinel of state.
I know, though I cannot view it,
Hid away in her branches green,
Is a tiny nest, with its nestlings,
She protects from menaces unseen.
I halt, for something impels,
I list, and am held enthralled,
I hear, but in memory only,
The liquid notes of a call.

* * *

Oh, you, with all earth as a garden,
Who walk with such careless tread,
Who heedlessly crush the beauties
Of God's wond'rous flower bed—
Who waste in youth's brightest sunshine,
Your talents of silver and gold,
Just leaving your treasure idle,
To rust away in its hold,
Forgetting that each thing created,
Whether bird, or flower, or man,
Is holding a part in the destiny
Of a Master's most perfect plan.

C. REESE MULLINS

Agent

I wish to state to my friends and patrons in this County that there is a man by the name of T. E. Grier going over the county selling Singer Sewing Machines, and I understand from a number of my friends that he is making the statement that the Singer Machine Company is letting me out, and that he has been sent here to take my place.

I want to say to my friends and patrons if he has made this statement that it is entirely without any foundation whatsoever and that it is a baseless and malicious falsehood. I further wish to state to my friends who are contemplating buying a Singer sewing machine that I have just received a new shipment of machines today, June 1st, and I will get another shipment next week. I will also have a carload of machines to reach me about July 15th for fall delivery.

If you want a new Singer, please write, phone or call on me at my office, where you will find me every Saturday. Machines sold on easy payments. Old machines taken in exchange. A liberal discount for cash. All kinds of second-hand machines, including Singers, New Homes, Whites, and many others, practically at your own price.

Your patronage in the future will be appreciated just as it has been for the past twenty years.

Yours for Mutual Benefit,

Relaion of the Ku Klux Klan To American Citizenship

The Klan Spiritual

As every one knows, death (dissolution) ensues when the body becomes so wrecked by accident or disease that the soul can no longer reside in it.

Has the Klan a soul? Yes, if the preceeding observations be true—and they must be proven false before I shall consent to their discard. Then, what is the soul of the Klan? The answer to this question neccessarily depends upon the answer to another.

We have already concluded that the Reformation has taken residence in the Klan. Has the Reformation a soul? It has never perished. Hence, unless the thinkers of all times have had a wrong conception of vitality, it has ever been and is kept going by something which for the lack of another name, we call the "soul." "Soul" is generally defined as "Life." It is so used in the New Testament, revised versions: "What shall a man give in exchange for his life?"

Thou art, O God, the life and light
Of all this wondrous world we see.

The poet had the correct viewpoint. "In the beginning God." God is the source of all life. "In him we live and and have our being."

God moves in a mysterious way,
His wonders to perform.

All down through the ages, God has wrought upon men and communities and nations, seeking to lift the world out of the lowlands of self deception and disappointment and into the heights of real prosperity and unmixed happiness. God is the soul—the life—of the Reformation.

God's problem, if it may be said that He has problems, has been that of having man so visualize life as to be fascinated by and desire it. To put it another way, His problem has been that of revealing Himself to man. Holy writ informs us that in the early centuries God addressed the people through old men, here and there—heads of families who yielded themselves to Him sufficiently to be used in pushing forward the Reformation. That period is referred to as the "Patriarchal Age." Then came the reign of law, called the "Mosaic Dispensation." And last came the "Christian Era" obtained. An old writer put it thus: "First, the Star-light Age; second, the Moon-light Age; third, the Sun-light Age.

In our age, we have the day-light and can see God more clearly than could the people of the preceding ages. Why? "God was manifest in the flesh. Jesus said: "He that hath seen me hath seen the father. God is in Christ, reconciling the world unto Himself." Jesus, therefore became the soul of the Reformation and He will be the soul until it shall have accomplishd its age-long task—that of restoring pristine relations between man and God and between man and man, reproducing normalcy. (When the seer of Patmos beheld "The holy New Jerusalem, coming down from God out of heaven" he looked down through the centuries upon the consummation of the Great Reform—Paridise regained.)

Hence, the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan, an embodient of the Reformation has for its soul the living presence—Jesus the Christ. Of him, Paul, our special apostle, wrote: "Christ is our life."

The Great Exemplar

The popular conception of Jesus is not in harmony with His biography. The usual picture of the Christ is effeminate, whereas the word-pictures of Him in the New Testament reveal a virility which challenges the admiration of all who place themselves in position to comprehend it. Jesus was a robust, toil-marked young man who had conserved both His physical and mental strength. In our modern way of putting it, "He was a fit." In other words, He was prepared for life—able to think straight, to hold His propensities in leash, to endure the strain of arduous service, to bear the burden of trial.

A man among men, Jesus adapted Himself to all legitimate occasions. He was a conversationalist of charm, a source of good-cheer in the banquet-hall, an orator of renown before the audience, the Great Physician at the sick-couch, the comforter where there was sorrow.

As teacher, Jesus instructed His hearers. His teaching was profound, yet within the grasp of all. "The common people heard him gladly."

Jesus was The Man—full orbed. The halo was not about his head—it was in His thinking, His deportment, His words, His deeds. Having examined Jeaus Pilate said: "I find no fault in this man." Pilate's verdict has been the verdict of the centuries. The historicity of Jesus is universally admitted—no scholar would risk his reputation in argument against it. All admit Jesus of Nazareth as a fact, and all are compelled to respect Him. Atheists, infidels and agnostics have raved at the christian faith, they have attacked Moses and other Bible characters and they have held the divided church up to scorn; but their lectures and writings have been clear of reflections upon the charecter of the young Nazarene—like Pilate, having examined Him they find no fault in Him.

Our Criterion of Character.

The Atonement is Scriptural. "Christ died for us." However, the system of teaching which leads people to conclude that it is easy to be forgiven as it is to sin does not meet a response in the New Testament. "Let this mind be in you which was also in Christ Jesus." Herein is the secret of character development—progressive salvation, the promotion of real manhood and womanhood.

The Knights of the Ku Klux Klan is an organization of men which exists to dethrone Wrong and enthrone Right, and its initial task is that of devoloping and making bright and attractive its own manhood.

Plato defined man as a "two-legged animal without feathers." Whereupon Diogenes plucked the feathers from a cock, took it into the Academy and said: "This is Plato's man." Plato was no more mistaken than are millions today in their definitions of "man"—if we are to accept as definitions the false standards of life that are everywhere conspicuous. The average boy thinks manhood the attainment of adult age. At this, the gray heads smile. Yet many in middle life, and even in old age are as far from the true conception of manhood as are the boys. Men frequently appear to think that manhood is the ability to take undue advantages in business, to cheat in politics, to tell smutty stories, to drink intoxicating liquors, to boast of licentious acts, to be known as 'bully,' to carouse. (Defrauding in business and politics requires a little cleverness—but it requires neither stupendous intellect nor moral courage. As a matter of fact, the real financier and the statesman—each a man of brain power—are honest in all their dealings. So far as profanity, drunkenness and licentiousness are concerned—who will say that they have kinship with intellect or culture? To be specific, the man of lowest culture can excel in profanity, ribald language and licentiousness in general.)

How undevoloped and foolish the man whose ideals are shimmering moonbeams! The time comes in every abnormal life when the real man—so long kept shut in and starved and dwarfed—steps forth and emits the wail of disappointment and censure. He who follows the wrong trail eventually finds himself in the slough of despair—remorse, "the hell within him."

Diogenes lighted a candle in the daytime, and went about saying: "I am looking for a man." Had he looked through the future, and in upon Nazareth, he would hav seen The Man. And he looked far into the Christian Era, he would have seen teeming millions of men—faithful followers of the Nazarene. Exiled on Patmos, the apostle John looked into the future and saw "a great multitude, which no man could number." He beheld all the Christian soldiers, from his day to the end, marching through the centuries—at war with the evil in their own inclinations and in the world about them. And they were "clothed in white robes."

"White robes!" Who is worthy to wear the white robe—emblematic of spotless purity Jesus came to establish throughout the earth? They who daily srive to comprehend and emulate the life of their Criterion of character. "These are they which came out of great tribulation, and have washed their robes, and made them white in the blood of the Lamb.

The Klan Saved For Its Mission

My forecast of the Klan's future and usefulness should, of course, be supported by something other than mere conjecture. How, therefore, will the Klan be saved for its mission?

The question might be answered thus: By guarding against attacks from without. And in this answer is wisdom. "On guard" should be the perpetual watch-word, the picket-line should ever be unbroken, and the army within should be always ready, at a moment's notice, for systematic, vigorous, successful defence. However, the army itself must be "in trim" or it will break and recede in battle with its organized, and continously organizing, powerful enemy. Hence, for defense purposes, as well as for constructive work, the Klan must be fine in fibre as well as strong in numbers and efficient in organization.

Much remains to be done—aside from propagation, organization and adaption to conditions. In addition to hindrances heretofore pointed out, avarice and lust for power and petty jealousies and hurtful bickerings—all must ultimately disappear.

This desirable, and essential achievement will doubtless, be deferred longer than any of us think—great things are not done quickly. What matters it? God is engineering the task, and "one day is with the Lord as a thousands years, and a thousand years as one day." The pessimist is near-sighted and cannot expect far-flung consummation—to him, temporary defeat or lack of encouraging progress spells "the end." The optimist regards battles lost, complications and slow progress as teachers in the school of experience—preparative agents. He can see afar off, and therefore, revels in future triumphs—though they be long delayed.

If reformation in the Klan be needed, and this is taken for granted, how must it be accomplished—from within or from without? The physician does not depend upon external applications to permanently remove eczema—this is the method of "quacks." Nor does he use soap and water and pumice to clean the coated tongue. He knows that the healing and cleansing must be wrought from within. The Klan will have reached its perfect state of health and be ready for its greatest service when, and only when, Jesus Christ shall have gotten possession of all its members. In other words, the Soul of the Klan must ultimately illumine the life of every member.

The Klan cannot be made permanent by mere extension and the solidification of either its political or social nature—or both. It must be saved and prepared by the development of its spiritual nature, saved and prepared for its great work—political, social and otherwise. And its spiritual nature can develop only as its members grow up toward its idealism.

Necessity For Vision.

The idealism of the Klan is contained, in its entirety, in the teaching of Jesus. Of this idealism, it may be said that "Christ is all and in all." And the twelfth chapter of Romans, written by one inspired, and whose pen was therefore accurate, is an epitome of Christ's Gospel.

The first thing necessary is to know the twelfth chapter of Romans, and the second is to live it. Knowing that matchless chapter means more, vastly more, than the commitment to memory of its text—it means thinking seriously through each of the injunctions recorded, and arriving at rock-ribbed conclusions regarding their application to every day life. Living the twelfth chapter of Romans means, of course, the daily application of its teaching—in thought, word and deed.

It goes without saying that living this sublime program is the difficult task. Profession and practice are not always easily wedded. When morale breaks down, the battle is lost. A man who had thrice failed in business said: "I am too discouraged to begin over again." The path of the centuries is strewn along with human wreckage, all because people have lacked the courage to dare and persevere. Many will drop out of the Klan, and it will be the result of failing courage. The Klan is destined to become so exacting in demand for right living upon the part of its members that all who fail to keep step with its progress will fall away.

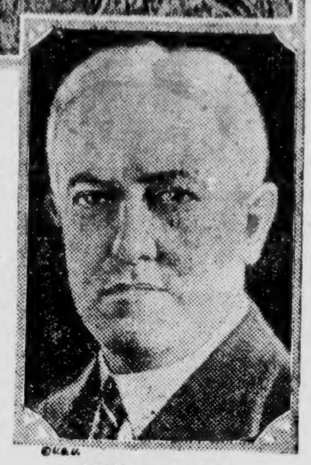
Vision! "Where there is no vision the people perish." The man in the well has a patch of sky exceedingly small. The man on the mountain has sky immeasurable. The Klansman in the well, whose vision of Klan principles and prospects is so limited that it can be shut out by selfish ambition, momentary pleasure that is forbidden, or a penny, is not likely to exemplify in his life the twelfth chapter of Romans. The Klansman on Stone Mountain stands far above the littleness which destroys manhood, and lives his profession—he lives it because he has the Klan vision.

"The Old Rugged Cross."

On bended knee, 'neath the uplifted Fiery Cross, every Klansman is consecrated and admonished to consecrate himself. All his Klavern training is in the light of the Cross. And if he acquires the Klan vision, his daily walk will be in the light of the Cross.

Fitting Commemoration Owed to Future Generations, Says Davis

Central Group for Stone Mountain



JOHN W. DAVIS

THE effort to complete the Stone Mountain Memorial to the men of the Confederacy has my warmest sympathy and approval," says John W. Davis, and continues, "The military genius of Lee, Jackson and their colleagues and the valorous deeds of the men who followed them are now a part of the country's common heritage. Generations still to come will draw inspiration from the brave deeds of those who fought both for and against the union in the Civil War. We owe it to future generations to see that this chapter of American history is fittingly commemorated both in the North and in the South. In authorizing the mintage of the series of Memorial Half-Dollars to be sold in aid of this enterprise, Congress has expressed, I am sure, the sentiment of a United country and I trust the campaign inaugurated for the sale of these coins will meet prompt and ready success."

BANKER'S WIFE ADVISES CLANTON PEOPLE

"I had stomach trouble so bad everything I ate soured and formed gas. Was miserable until I tried Adlerika. This helped the first day." Adlerika helps any case gas on the stomach unless due to deep-seated causes. The QUICK action will surprise you. Because Adlerika is such an excellent intestinal evacuant it is wonderful for constipation—it often works in one hour and never gripes.

IN MEMORY OF MRS. HAND

On May 24th the death angel visited our home and took from our midst a loving daughter and a devoted wife and mother. She had been ill but a very few days when Jesus came and took her out of this world of trouble to a better world above. She was just in the bloom of life, being 23 years of age. It seems that she was taken for a purpose, but we know not what that purpose was. We will understand some time.

Mary Lou was always a good, obedient girl to her parents, and everything seems so lonely and vacant without her smiling face. Her remains were carried to the home of her father-in-law, Mr. D. D. Hand, where funeral services were conducted Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock by her pastor, Rev. S. J. Ezell.

The deceased is survived by her husband and two children, her father and mother, and two sisters, besides a large circle of friends. Her remains were laid to rest in Clanton cemetery on May 26.

Sleep on, sweet darling,
And take thy rest;
God called thee Home,
He thought it best.

We wish to thank the people of Birmingham and Clanton for their kindnesses shown during the sickness and death of our daughter and loving wife. We also thank them for their floral offerings. May God's richest blessings rest and abide with each and every one, is our humble prayer.—Her father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Wells, and her husband, Tommie Hand.

There is lots of fishing going on at this time of the year; but this case is particularly true on the first of the month. Everybody owes everybody else, and everybody oozes off to the river to dodge their creditors. This is indeed a tough life!

Judge L. H. Reynolds has a battery of carpenters at work remodeling his residence on Eighth Street. He is putting on a new roof, changing up the interior considerably and installing hardwood floors. He will have a modern residence when it is finished.

Health certificates are required for all children entering Elmira (N. Y.) public schools for the first time, and clinics are conducted by school physicians every afternoon during the school year. Principals, teachers, and all employees are examined every year.

Mr. Elmer Harris, son of H. A. Harris, is at home from the University of Alabama, where he is taking a course in engineering. Elmer will leave in a few days for Fort Bragg, Fayetteville, N. C., to take military training in connection with his course at the University.

The Union-Banner acknowledges with pleasure the unique and cordial inviation of our friend and fellow-editor, Bob Vail, to visit Foley and Baldwin County during the meeting of the Alabama Press Association. We will be there, Bob, anxious to see your great "county of substantial accomplishment and much to come."

Delaware is facing a marked shortage of prepared public school teachers, particularly for rural schools. It was necessary last year to issue more than a hundred provisional teacher certificates. In practically all cases these were issued to graduates of four-year high schools who had received at least six weeks of summer training.

It has been suggested that President Coolidge is coming to Birmingham for the purpose of seeing a place that votes the Democratic ticket and at the same time prays for the election of a Republican President. Birmingham is not the only place where he might see such a place. Most any city or community in the South is that way. It is like Ance Mims told the judge about a bunch of fellows charged with making liquor: "'Am, judge, if the truth wuz known, spec 'em all guilty."

Prof. John M. Parrish reports that Collins Chapel community is making great plans for their school next year. They have recently built a new building according to state plans and are now prepared to finance the seating of it in an up-to-date manner. Mr. Parrish will begin his third year there this fall. He says Collins Chapel is a great place.

WORK ON HIGHWAY BEING PUSHED IN CITY LIMITS

The work on the Birmingham-Montgomery Highway in the vicinity of Clanton is going forward with rapidity. The grading of the new roadbed is almost completed from Lomax to Clanton. The bridge just north of Clanton is finished. This week the graders are at work on that part of the road which traverses 7th Street through Clanton, shaping it up for the cement paving which is to come later.

The bridge south of Clanton is under construction, as well as the approaches to it. The grading is completed south as far as the Cordree's old mill place. The cement machine has already begun there and will come toward Clanton as fast as possible.

We understand that the concrete on the north end of the road is already laid as far south as Thorsby.

The contractors are running under full headway now during the good weather, and will be able to go far toward the completion of their jobs in this vicinity before next winer.

SINGING AT SHILOH- SOUTH CALERA LAST SUNDAY

Quite a few from Clanton and the part of the county north of here attended the singing at Shiloh near South Calera last Sunday. The Banner was unable to get a complete report of the day's singing.

Among the directors for the afternoon were A. H. Glasscock, A. A. Beaird, E. L. Glasscock, Akins Collins, G. C. Powell, Henderson Hayes, Amy Boswell, L. F. Cleckler, and a Mr. Wood from Enon. There was a quartette by the Oak Grove singers.

From reports the singing was greatly enjoyed and there was a good crowd in attendance.

LITTLE PEN-O-GRAMS

STORY OF BUFORD LAWRENCE; THE MAN AND HIS WORK.

The recent election of Buford Lawrence as County Superintendent of Education of Chilton County suggests the question, "Who is the man?" to the minds of perhaps a considerable number of people who are not intimately acquainted with him. However, his work during the past few years has brought him in touch with a great many people who are already well aware of his good character and exceptional accomplishments.

To those who do not know him intimately, we feel that it is not out of order at this time to utilize the information at hand to acquaint them in a limited way with the man who is soon to become the administrator of the most important public business of our county—the education and the training of our youth.

Buford Lawrence is a native son of Chilton County. He was born and reared near Maplesville. For the past eleven years he has been engaged in the work of teaching in our public schools. Among the places where he has taught are mentioned Shoults, Oak Grove, and Jemison.

His work at Jemison was noteworthy in particular. He took charge of the situation there which was recommended to him as a puzzle with no solution. It had proved baffling to school men who preceded him. Be it said to the credit of Buford Lawrence that before he resigned the task, he had successfully accomplished the building of the fine new school house that is there now, standing as a living monument to the fine school spirit of the people of Jemison. It is not extravagant to say that it was the genius of Mr. Lawrence as a school administrator which crystallized the spirit of the people of Jemison and brought into harmony their scattering efforts that resultd in the erection of their present splendid school building.

Buford Lawrence is a man who is well fitted by education and training for the proper discharge of the duties of the office to which he has been elected. He holds an A. B. degree from Howard College, where he completed a major course in the history of education. To this initial preparation by training and study is added his experience of eleven years of service in the ranks of the school teachers of the county.

With this splendid personal equipment and preparation for service to the cause of education, he ought to be able to prove himself equal to the best in the administration of the educational affairs of our county. His career as an official will be watched with hopeful expectancy.

Our new Superintendent of Education is also a preacher, having been engaged in ministerial and pastoral work since he was 18 years of age. He is a Baptist, and is such has been prominently identified with religious work at various places in the county.

Buford Lawrence was born and reared a poor boy. He began life utterly without a vestige of opportunity or advantage. The task that lay before him was that which has caused millions of young men to turn back to the menial positions of life. He relates an interesting bit of his early experience as follows:

"When I was a boy I took a notion that I would get an education in some way, in spite of my poverty. An old neighbor who knew of my circumstances told me one day that I was foolish to start to school, being so poor that I could not support myself. He admonished me to forget my dreams about getting an education and go to work and try to earn my daily bread by the work of my muscles. I did not scorn to work. I was determined to work, and I was determined not to stop at that but to get my education along with my work.

"Undaunted by his rather gloomy suggestions, I kept on in my determination. I went to school and I worked, always holding fast to my faith that poverty was no barrier to getting an education. To-day I am glad to say that I won my argument and succeeded at the task which I set out to accomplish with no resources except faith and confidence in myself."

There is no better incentive for our boys and girls of to-day than a study of this man and the spark of determination which brought him up out of obscurity to the head of our great public school system in Chilton County. History relates the story of how many of the great men in the early years of our country fought through poverty and climbed the ladder of fame. In Buford Lawrence we have a modern example of this kind of grit.

During the past year Mr. Lawrence has lived at Marbury, devoting his whole time to the pastorate of the Baptist churches at Marbury and Verbena. He will move his family to Clanton right away, and will assume the duties of the office of County Superintendent of Education on the first of July.

Mr. Lawrence states that he expects a successful record in the management of the school business of the county, and he invites all good citizens to co-operate with him.

WEEVIL EMERGENCE CONTINUES HEAVY

A boll weevil emergence of 15.0 per cent up to May 28 as compared with no emergence up to the same day in 1924 is reported by Prof. J. M. Robinson for boll weevil station located at Auburn. In 1924 only four out of 1,800 placed in the cage emerged, all of them doing so in June. To date 263 out of 1,750 put in hibernation last fall have emerged.

The report for the station here is in line with stations in other states, indicating that emergence is generally heavy this spring. Unless weather conditions are such as to provide natural control (which cannot be relied upon in advance) farmers will find it greatly to their advantage to prepare for poisoning by buying a supply of calcium arsenate and a dust gun or guns to use applying it. Ordinarily, 35 to 40 pounds of calcium arsenate are necessary to dust an acre one season and 3 to 5 applications should be made.

Prof. Robinson says that dusting should begin with the pre-square application when cotton is putting on squares if 20 or more weevils appear per acre. After squares are formed dusting should start when infestation reaches 10 per cent, which means that when 10 per ent of the squares collected in different parts of the field are punctured. A second and a third application should follow at four or five day intervals. After this applications should be made to keep the infestation below 15 per cent.

On the type of gun to use, Prof. Robinson said "a hand gun costing around $15 is large enough for 10 acres. A one-mule machine is sufficient for 30 acres, and a two-mule machine will take care of 50 to 100 acres. Any of the standard make machines recommended by the county demonstration agents may be used."

HIGH SCHOOL EDUCATION OF THE FARM POPULATION

The farm boy today is getting less education than any other group of children. A study just published by the Department of the Interior, Bureau of Education, Bulletin 1925, No. 6, High School Education of the Farm Population, makes known for the first time the comparative extent to which farm and non-farm children are enrolled in high schools. Farm children as a whole are reached to a less extent than non-farm children and farm boys are reached to a much less extent than farm girls or either boys or girls of the non-farm group.

Is it good that the next generation of farm men should be decidedly less well educated than the farm women? Is it good that the next generation of farm men should be the most ignorant group in the nation?

This condition is not necessarily so for some states are now enrolling higher percentages of farm children than of non-farm children, and one state, Oregon, enrolls a higher percentage of farm boys than farm girls. Some of the factors affecting the situation are: (1) Where Rural schools are poor as compared with city schools in the same state, a lower percentage of farm children are enrolled in high schools. (2) Where highest percentages of farm boys of high school age are profitably employed, enrollment percentages are lowest. (3) Where farm tenancy percentages are highest, enrollment percentages are lowest.

ALABAMA NEWS HAPPENINGS

A Resume of the More Important Events of Interest Condensed To An Epitomized Form

Business firms have been almost snowed under with worthless checks in many sections of Alabama since the supreme court ruling that the last "fraudulent check law" is invalid. Prosecutions under the 1915 law, still in effect, which has been held valid, are being pushed in many cities, reports at Montgomery show. Convictions under this law are not effected by the court ruling.

A move to change the course of the Bankhead Highway, causing it to pass through Irondale and across Red Mountain into Birmingham, is being bitterly fought by residents of Leeds and Gate City. A delegation has been to Montgomery to protest. The present route is shorter, more nearly level and passes through a much more thickly populated section, its champions declare.

The state highway commission Wednesday received bids on the construction of six miles of road from Union Springs and Ft. Davies; 11 miles between Carrollton and Aliceville; 13 miles between Sulligent and Guin; 22 miles between Hartford and Dothan, and a bridge over the Coosa River at Gadsden.

Twelve Blue Lodges will hold their fourteenth annual York Rite reunion at Bessemer on June 9, 10, 11. A large class will be given the council and chapter degrees. Masonic officials from all over Alabama will attend.

United Commercial Travelers of Alabama in their annual meeting at Mobile recently went on record as opposing the proposed five-cent gasoline tax to support a $75,000,000 road bond issue. J. Guy Britton, of Mobile, was re-elected head of the body.

Most of the state forest rangers have been placed on furlough for the late spring and early summer, according to an announcement by the state commission of forestry. The rangers will return to active duty as soon as dry weather ensues in the fall.

The Talladega County Fair Association is making plans to hold perhaps the greatest fair at Sylacauga this fall in the history of the organization, according to information from a recent meeting of the directors.

Burglars, working within six feet of where thousands of people were passing, robbed a moving picture theater safe in Birmingham. They obtained $162 and got away without leaving a clue as to their identity.

The Andalusia Light and Power Company has been sold to the Alabama Power Company. The price is reported to be $150,000. Extensive improvements will be made at once, it is reported.

The Gadsden Country Club has opened its lake to fishing, beginning June 15. Only members are entitled to the privilege, and they will be allowed to catch only 15 fish at one time.

Burglars looted the safe of the Lancaster Hardware Company of Alexander City and secured $800. Nitroglycerine was used to wreck the vault.

Chicago with about the same population as Alabama spends four times as much for her schools, according to figures obtained by the state department of education.

A farm bureau was organized in Wilcox County with 150 members. This makes it one of the largest in the state. J. L. Berry, of Camden, was chosen president.

The L. & N. Railroad has again been denied the right to charge extra fare on points in Alabama for travel on the Crescent Limited between New York and New Orleans.

The Conclave of Writers of the Federated Woman's Clubs will meet at Montevallo College, Montevallo, Aug. 31 to Sept. 9.

Frank N. Julian, state superintendent of insurance, has requested Gov. W. W. Brandon, in the event of the call of a special session of the legislature, to incorporate insurance legislation in the call.

Receipts from Alabama's two-cent gasoline tax during April totaled $164,069.10, $30,000 more than for April last year. Each county in the state will receive $2,598 of the money.

Altoona will vote June 29 to determine whether the city shall issue $8,000 for school purposes.

Now Look! Garters To Match Milady's Costume

FADS and fashions for milady's wear are created so often—one can expect most anything in the way of startling accessories. Here's another of those so-called "latest" fads—garters to match the dress.

This one we'll have to blame onto Hollywood. It's the design of Miss Francis Dale, the stage star who recently abandoned a successful career behind the footlights to cast her lot with the movies.

"Garters to match the gown are a necessity, since the knee-length gowns came from Paris" says Miss Dale. And there is a certain beauty about them at that, since they are so cleverly designed as to conceal the roll of the stocking and at the same time cover the expanse of bare knee which is likely to be revealed by an unkind gust of wind or while stepping into a car.

INSURANCE INFORMATION FOR WAR VETERANS

The following is a copy of the letter received by Mr. Omar L. Reynolds from the United States Veterans Bureau, Washington, D. C., in regard to veterans' insurance, which gives full explanation of the government's system of compensation:

"Washington, D. C., May 23, 1925. Mr. Omar L. Reynolds, Clanton, Ala. Dear Sir:

Receipt is acknowledged of your recent communication, requesting information relative to Adjusted Service Certificates which are being issued to veterans of the World War pursuant to the World War Adjusted Compensation Act.

You are advised that the Certificate is the equivalent of a paid-up 20-year endowment insurance policy, payable to the veteran twenty years after the date of issuance.

If the veteran should die before the expiration of twenty years from the date of issuance, the face value of the Certificate will be paid to the last designated beneficiary. If the beneficiary dies before the death of the veteran and no new beneficiary has been named, or if no beneficiary was named in the first instance, payment will be made to the estate of the veteran upon demand and receipt of proper evidence of the veteran's death.

The Certificate does not have a loan value until two years from the date of its issuance. After the expiration of this two year period, any national bank, bank or trust company incorporated under the laws of any state, territory, possession or the District of Columbia is authorized to loan to the veteran upon his promissory note secured by his adjusted service certificate, with or without the consent of the beneficiary thereof, an amount not to exceed the loan value in accordance with the table of loan values and explanation thereof appearing on the face of the Certificate.

The law does not provide any other method for obtaining cash on an adjusted service certificate except upon death of the veteran or at the end of the twenty year period. The certificate cannot be sold or assigned and any assignment or loan made in violation of the law will be held void.

For the Director,
Charles E. Mulhearn,

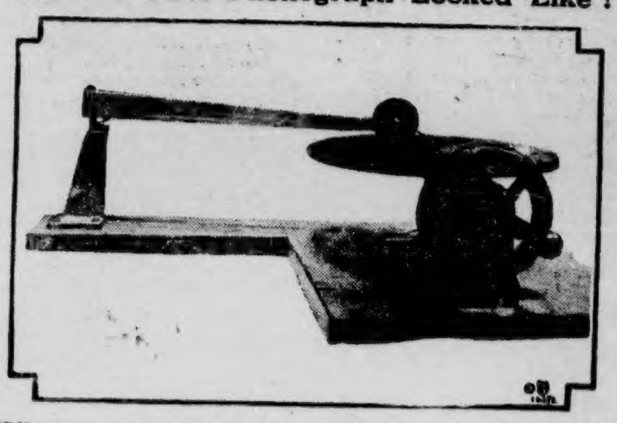
What The First Phonograph Looked Like!



PERHAPS you folks who have a phonograph at home and who have enjoyed its entertainment for many years—have often wondered how far back the first "talking machine" was originated. Well, note the above contrivance. It's a gramophone first exhibited May 16, 1888. The record on it held a speech and was made of etched zinc. And your modern phonograph was designed from this very type of machine.

TESTING TENNESSEE'S ANTI-EVOLUTION LAW

For some weeks past the daily papers the country over have been telling of the test case trial in Dayton, Tennessee, to determine the validity of Tennessee's Anti-Evolution Law. This seems to be one of the biggest and livest issues of the day, and much editorial comment is being made upon it from every angle. One of the most illuminating comments that has come to our attention so far is in the Watchman magazine for July, from which we wish to give the following excerpts:

"The law passed by the Tennessee legislature and signed by the Governor on March 21, prohibits the teaching in any school of the state, supported in whole or in part by state funds, any theory that the story of the divine creation of man as taught in the Bible, and teaches instead, that man has descended from a lower form of animal life."

To test the constitutionality of this law a young high school teacher of Dayton, Tennessee, John T. Scopes, deliberately violated it in his class room this spring, and his trial is set for July 10. Whatever the outcome of the trial, the case will be appealed to the higher courts until the United States Supreme Court decides the matter for the whole country.

The real issue is simply this — Many citizens of Tennessee—whether a majority or minority does not matter—do not believe in the theory of evolution, yet their children are in the public schools they pay taxes to support. Has the state a right to prohibit the money of these anti-evolutionists from being used to teach their little children and immature youth what is admitted by its originators to be a theory only, and not an established fact? We say it surely has this right.

Those who say that the law prohibits freedom of thought, and is intolerant, and suppresses the truth, are shooting wide of the mark altogether. Every man, woman and child in the state may think just as he pleases about evolution and still obey the law. The question is whether a man's money shall be used to teach his child, who is not yet able to weigh arguments for and against a theory, something he does not want it taught, when that teaching MAY not be the truth, and he is sure that it IS NOT true.

Evolution is an unproven theory and is ever changing its conclusions. As we understand it, there is nothing in this law to prevent its teaching as a possible explanation of natural phenomena, providing the Bible account of creation is not absolutely denied to make way for it.

The anti-evolution law is not preventive and not reconstructive. It is parallel with other laws which prohibit any religious creed being taught in the public schools. Evolution inevitably involves religion, and a law against forcing it on the minds of children is providing FOR religious liberty and not militating AGAINST it.

An anti-evolution law says you will not be forced, nor unduly influenced or taught, when you do not know any better, to believe in a system concerning the truth of which intelligent and good men differ; but you will be left to choose about this as well as about your religious creed, which can not be taught in the public schools. Anti-evolution laws would force you to refrain from teaching and biasing immature minds in favor of the theory that is a plain denial of God's word; or, at best, has not yet been proven by human experience, is ever changing, and has not been accepted by all scientists and educated men generally."—Submitted by K. R. Haughey. Clanton, Ala., June 1, 1925.

REFUGE

The death angel visited the home of Mr. and Mrs. M. Lockhart on last Wednesday, May 27, at 7:20 p. m., and took from their home the bright jewel of their life here, their darling baby, Leavurn. She was 1 year, 8 months and 25 days old, in the sweetest age, to her mother and father. She suffered for 13 days, while all was done for her that an attentive physician and loving friends could do, but all in vain. God, in His Wisdom, saw a better place for her.

She was laid to rest in the cemetery at Refuge on Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock, to mark the first grave at this place. Rev. M. J. Parrish conducted the funeral service, and as he always does, gave good advice to those present to prepare to meet the judgment in peace. We are taught in the Word to "weep with those that weep, and rejoice with those that rejoice," and we all join in together to do all we can to help this dear brother and sister to carry this great load. We will all miss her, but may we all, with father and mother, consent and say "the Lord giveth and the Lord taketh away; blessed be the Name of the Lord." We can never expect to see her again on this earth, but let every one reckon with self and see if he is living such a life that when God calls he will go where she is.

Weep not, dear father and mother, for our loss is Heaven's gain. May the Holy Spirit overshadow you all and may we look forward to that day when God sees fit to call us away from here that we may meet little Leavurn in that great beyond, where there will be no sorrow, no parting, but all will be joy and peace and singing of God's praises through all eternity.

One who loved her.

Why He Succeeded

From hard work on a farm to the study of medicine in Cincinnati, where he was graduated in 1862, was the course which Dr. R. V. Pierce took.

In his younger days he practiced medicine over a large district. It was then the new oil fields near Titusville, Pa. Finally he determined to put up some of his prescriptions in ready-to-use form in order to reach a larger number of families.

He thus early moved to Buffalo, N. Y., and established the World's Dispensary, where he put up Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery for the blood as well as the Favorite Prescription for women, carefully preparing them from roots, barks and herbs and placed them with druggists everywhere.

During the last sixty years Dr. Pierce's Discovery, for the blood, has been sold in larger quantities by druggists all over the United States than any other medicine. It is a tonic in its effects on the stomach and digestive apparatus; an alterative in its action on the blood, liver and skin. POOR O

(S. E. NORTON, Manager).

Prize offered by Senior class of '25 scholarships for one semester in the Thorsby Institute for best average for the year, in sub-academic grades, won by Ruth Champion. One scholarship for one semester in Thorsby Institute, for best average of the student in high school for the year, Geraldine Dobson. A pleasing and significant feature of the day's program was a gift of one dollar, from each member of the school for the new building fund. Each contributor was supposed to earn their dollar. The name of each contributor to this fund will be recorded in a book to be placed in the corner stone of the new building.

At a meeting of Thorsby Institute Alumni Association, now numbering 70 T. I. graduates, it was voted to contribute $700 to Thorsby Institute within the next two years. Truly a noble expression of loyalty to their Alma Mater.

Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Williams, with their daughters, Bernice and Martha, left Tuesday morning for an extended motor trip to several places in Fla.

Mr. and Mrs. Ivy Horn and children and Mrs. Magne Anderson of Boyles spent Sunday in Thorsby.

Misses Claudie Smith and Olene Mims left Monday for Jacksonville, where they will take a normal school summer course.

Miss Alma Lefstead is spending a couple of weeks with her brother, Lawrence Lefstead and family in Birmingham. Mr. Palmer Lefstead left Monday for a few days' visit in Birmingham.

Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Thompson, Mrs. A. E. Hall and Miss Annie Werness, all of Birmingham, were week end visitors in Thorsby.

Miss Mary Ella Gerald returned from Piedmont college at Demorest, Ga., to her home in Thorsby Friday morning, in time to attend commencement day exercises at Thorsby Institute. Her sister, Miss Ruth Gerald, who is also attending Piedmont college came home Monday night. Both these young ladies are graduates of Thorsby Institute, and with their mother, Mrs. Hattie M. Gerald, are about to begin a long and well earned vacation trip to Los Angeles, Calif., Portland, Oregon and many other places of interest on the Pacific coast and intervening points. They are expecting to leave Thursday morning and will probably be away all summer.

Mrs. L. O. Larsen, her daughter, Dagmar and sons, Olaf and Thorwald, all of Chicago, arrived by motor Friday afternoon, too late to attend Thorsby Institute commencement, for which purpose the trip was chiefly made; motor trouble delayed them en route. However, they are spending a week visiting old friends and former neighbors, as they were old time residents of Thorsby.

Pouring concret on the highway has been stopped for a few days to repair the pump which supplies the water needed for mixing and flooding. In one day recently 975 feet of roadway were covered, which is said to be a record for this kind of work in the United States.

Mr. Nels Peterson, Mrs. Wilder and son, Marcelle, together with others making up a party to fill two automobiles, left Thorsby at 3 a.m. Tuesday for a fishing trip to the Coosa river. By some, it might be caled a pleasure excursion, but it seems to us more like what Samantha Allen designated a picnic which she describes in one of her books. She called it "A Exertion After Pleasure."

The Parent-Teachers Association held a social Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Martin Peterson.

The Congregational Ladies Society will hold their regular monthly social Thursday afternoon of this week at the home of Mrs. J. H. Goddard.

Through the courtesy of Mr. W. L. Leary and family, the Norton's were treated to a most delightful ride over the new highway as far as Calera last Sunday afternoon. They returned convinced that Alabama has at least some highway second to none they know of, and they have traveled over many hundreds of miles of northern highways.

Mr. Raymond Carlson of Chicago, with two of his friends, are reported as motoring to Thorsby to visit his father, Mr. John Carlson and sister, Pearl.

Mr. Spurgeon Kellcy and Miss Lillian McKee came from their respective homes to attend commencement at Thorsby Institute, where they graduated last year.

Mrs. Ethel Wright Loveland spent the week end in Birmingham.

Misses Alithea Parker and Katherin Perry, Elizabeth Robinson, Mr. and Mrs. Sarl Tissell and Mrs. Post, all of Thorsby Institute left Thorsby for their homes or summer employment.

Mr. Rasco Maddox left Saturday morning to attend commencement at Piedmont College, where he graduated last year.

Mr. L. A. Norman and family returned Tuesday morning from a ten days trip to Florida.

Thorsby is losing one of its prominent and popular business houses this week, in the removal of "The Leader" to Opelika, but we are all thankful that Mr. Lande does not also take away the popular and efficient Versie Littleton, who has had charge of his store ever since he opened here. After a brief vacation, Miss Littleton goes to Peterson & Co.

Thorsby Institute commencement week brought many surprises and much of enjoyment to many of our people.

Beginning Thursday night, which was class night, when the Congregational church, used as the school auditorium since the fire, was filled to capacity to see the senior class in play time. Whatever they put on was well done, and for more than an hour they gave the audience much amusement.

Friday morning at 10 o'clock there was a Processional by he entire school which was impressive, dignified and beautiful. After other preliminaries Rev. W. M. Jones of Atlanta, delivered the commencement address. His subject was "Happiness" which he said was bounded on the north by contentment, south by humility, on the east by helpfulness and on the west by holiness. He then proceeded to define each of these characteristics and weave them into a well rounded life of Christian service which brings true happiness. He held the undivided attention of his audience from start to finish.

At 12:30 came the community basket dinner on the campus. Nature smiled, and nothing prevented a full enjoyment of what was probably the best attended gathering of representative citizens of Thorsby and vicinity ever present on a similar occasion.

Mr. Nels Nelson returned home Saturday from Auburn, where he has been attending school.

Next came awarding of diplomas to six graduates. On account of changes, increasing the number of credits required by the state for high school graduates it was thought at one time there would be no graduates this year, some came from other schools for their senior year at T. I. and six were graduated.

Much interest was manifest in the awarding of prizes which are offered each year. Two of the graduates, Ruth Martin and Tilden Jackson, each won a prize offered for the best essay on one of six different phases of chemistry. Competition was open to all high school students in each state of the Union. A student might choose any one of the six subjects for an essay. All were to be sent on or before a given date to the American Chemical Association in New York City, who were offering the prizes. There they were judged by a committee of experts appointed to be judges on one subject only, who awarded a prize to the writer of what they considered the best essay on the subject they had under consideration, sent in from any state in the Union, one prize only for one subject going to each state. If essays on two or more subjects came from different writers in one state, which were considered the best coming from that state, each writer was to get a prize, and this is just what happened, but the remarkable thing about it is, both these prize winning essays came from two members of Thorsby Institute graduating class of six members. While the prizes were of not much intrinsic value, they put the winners in line for a national prize to be awarded to the writer of the winning essay among the best from each state or any one, or each, of the six subjects under consideration. These winning essays from each state judging committees and the writer of the essay on each of the six subjects which this national committee considers the best on that subject, gets, if a boy, a full four years scholarship at Yale University, if a girl, at Vassar college, and each carries with at $500 a year for expenses during the entire four years.

Other scholarship prizes offered were one from Jacksonville, Ill., college, for the senior making a grade, for the year, above 90, won by Ruth Martin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carey Martin of Thorsby. One scholarship at Piedmont college, Demorest, Ga., for the student making the best average for the senior year, won by Ruth Martin. One scholarship to the Draughon Business College, Montgomery, for best scholarship for the senior year, won by Ruth Martin, Clara Peterson prize for highest grades in English during the senior year, won by Ruth Martin.

Perry prize $5.00 for highest average in French, won by Claudie Eiland, for best in public speaking, won by Plato Deason and Payne Bryan, since each of these contestants had exactly the same credits each were awarded $5. Dormitory prizes for willing, cheerful compliance with all requests, seeing and offering to do the extras, and best work, won by May Maddox, Boona Lee Wood, Betty Lakeman and Isabelle Gilbert.

Mr. W. H. Goodgame and his corps of buyers have returned from the East after purchasing several thousand dollars stock of highest grade merchandise as well as lots of latest Parisian novelties.

CLANTON WINS FIRST GAME OF SEASON

Clanton tossed her hat in the ring for the amateur baseball championship of Alabama on Wednesday afternoon at West Blocton. Meeting the heavy hitters from Messina, Alley, pitching for Clanton, let them down with 5 hits and struck out 11. The entire Clanton team played pennant winning ball, with a team that will be hard to win from during the coming season. The boys from Messina played a jam-up game, Thompson pitching the sort of baseball that usually wins.

STATE NEWS HAPPENINGS

Many Northeast Alabamians attended the unveiling at Drakeetown, Ga., of a $1,500 monument erected to the memory of Mrs. Robert Stewart, Methodist minister's wife, who was shot to death by a mob of masked men who were attempting to kidnap her husband last November. Mrs Mary Harris Armor, world famous temperance lecturer, was one of the speakers. Mrs. Stewart's murder is believed to have grown out of her husband's activity in trying to suppress liquor running and making.

The right of a public service corporation to discontinue service of any port simply because that service does not pay, so long as its operation as a whole are profitable, was denied by the Alabama Public Service Commission in a recent ruling. The commission refused to let the Southeastern Express Company close its office at Lanette, although it was shown that the office was not profitable. The move would cause the public too much inconvenience, the commission ruled.

Better fire protection is assured several business and residential sections of Bessemer by the installation of more than a score of fire hydrants which has just been completed by the Alabama Water Company, owners of the water system of that city. This work winds up improvements in and around Bessemer in which the company has spent more than $211,000 and given water to three towns heretofore without it.

A new use was made of an automobile inner tube near Union Springs a few days ago when one was employed to keep a man from bleeding to death. Thrown through the windshield of his car, an autoist was about to die of loss of blood when a companion cut up an inner tube and bound his arm so tightly that the flow of blood was stopped.

Alabama's industrial world is much interested in the visit to Birmingham of Judge E. H. Gary, head of the United States Steel Corporation. Judge Gary was in the city only a fortnight ago, and considerable speculation is going the rounds as to the significance of his second visit so shortly. Nothing definite about this has been learned, the steel magnate contenting himself with saying that he "will take a rest."

Many Alabama cities and towns paid tribute Saturday to those who have died in the country's wars, observing National Memorial Day. In a number of the larger cities parades were put on in which national guard outfits, members of the American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Spanish-American War Veterans and women's patriotic societies took part.

A proclamation has been issued by Governor Brandon, designating June 3 to 30 as the period for distribution of Alabama's quota of minted by special act of congress as the nation's tribute to the valor of the Southern soldier and to aid the completion of the great monument now being carved on the side of Stone Mountain, Ga.

Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Hackner and children of Bessemer were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Nelson Sunday.

A Bank Account Is An Incentive to Thrift and Economy

Without it one is likely to spend money for things that are useless.

Like the man who received a $200 legacy and spent a day and a night writing orders to mail-order houses, next day he went to a friends to borrow a nickel to buy a loaf of bread. This may be an extreme example, but it actually happened, and in a way may happen to anyone who has not the banking habit.

"Cardui has helped me a lot and I am glad to recommend it. I don't feel like the same woman I was last fall. My appetite is good now, and I'm sure it's Cardui that's made it pick up."

SCHOOL PROGRESS IS CHECKED UNTIL NEW REVENUES PROVIDED

President Frank L. Grove, of the Alabama Education Association, has given out a statement reviewing the accomplishments of the school year just closing. His report in part is as follows:

"In some respects the session of 1924-25 has been good. Doubtless every county, even the most backward one, has its 'high points'—some outstanding schools, some creditable classroom achievement, some torch-bearing teachers. A few counties have accomplished work uniformly good. A majority of the cities and towns have done work of the usual type, which is to pronounce it fairly satisfactory. People have evidenced a genuine interest in schools, manifesting this interest at the polls favorably for education in many cases. In fact, this is the most encouraging feature of the year.'

From a report of 99 elections dealing with school taxation, 91 such levies were approved and 8 defeated by the voters. A greater part of the property of the state is taxed to the limit allowed by the constitution for school purposes. The levying of school taxes in Montgomery County, Calhoun County and Chambers County, and bond issues in Fairfield and Dothan recently—all by big majorities—indicate the trend of public sentiment. Only one county has been heard from which defeated a county-wide three mill school tax.

However, the actual school situation and the outlook for the future school conditions of Alabama are bad. Reports received at association headquarters from 123 school officials indicate a general lessening of educational opportunity for a large proportion of the 800,000 school children and point to a more drastic reduction of facilities in the future unless school funds are increased.

The lack of revenue has been most acutely felt in the shortening of the school term. Sessions shortened or dependent for extension upon supplements and tuition fees are not infrequent happenings in many of the less wealthy counties of the state; but this year even our wealthiest counties felt the biting edge of school poverty. In some counties the shortage has been attributed to extensive building programs; but it should be remembered that such building improvements were contemplated in the legislation of 1915-17 and were provided for in the law; and the general deficiency now noted over the state is due simply to the fact that school revenues were not increased to keep pace with the growth of the state school system and that school authorities expected no such check in the increase of maintenance funds as has developed since 1920. The new school buildings which dot every county of Alabama are a permanent investment of which the citizens are proud; and it would be hard to prove that many of them were built before they were necessary.

Of 46 county systems reporting, 24 were forced to reduce school terms and several others anticipate a reduction for next year; 15 counties report a cut in teachers' salaries; many counties and cities report supervisors dropped, night school discontinued, pupil-load per teacher increased, school transportation discontinued, building operations stopped or reduced, lack of funds for necessary teaching equipment, etc. In fact, 76 of 123 officials reporting showed some kind of curtailment in essential points during the year. In other words, Alabama schools have shown a growth and improvement under the progressive legislation of 1915 of which all citizens may be proud; but the limits of development have been reached in many quarters.

Such are conditions in June, 1925. What will they be in 1926?

Tennessee recently provided funds for a minimum eight-months term in every rural school. The Florida legislature is now considering plans to put all rural schools of that state on a modern basis. Whenever the legislature of Alabama meets, it will be a bold legislator who will contenance any failure to relieve the short terms and poor facilities in Alabama's county schools.

Most legislators are town or city men; and many have forgotten conditions in the open country. But this is one time that editors of rural papers and other leading citizens are awake to the needs; and there will be no lack of reminders.

Banjo Takes Its Place As Favored Instrument

Michael Pingatore, World's Most Famous Player, Is Popular Idol

New York City,—Micheal Pingatore, banjoist, gets nearly as many letters in a day as Rudolph Valentino, sheik of the silver screen. Valentino's correspondence is mostly mash notes from flappers. Pingatore's is made up of what the writers of the letters usually refer to as "business epistles." These come mainly from members of his town sex. Some are from high school students, some from college boys and others from tired business men. All the writers have one ambition in common. This is to learn to play a banjo.

Facile Player

Pingatore, who is featured by Paul Whiteman in his famous concert orchestra, is acknowledged by musical experts to be the most proficient and facile banjo players in the United States. This means that he is also the most accomplished banjoist in this country and until recntly was never played anywhere else. It was, at first, the favorite instrument of negro workers along the levees of New Orleans.

"I learned to love the banjo in the South," says Mr. Pingatore. "I used to listen by the hour while the negroes played, and the happiest day of my life was when I got a banjo in my hands and found I could thrum a few chords to make a harmony.

Took Months

"It took months and even years of patient work to achieve the speed that aduiences love and applaud so vehemently in their favorite, 'I Wouldn't Be Crying Now.'

"I do not know why such an epidemic of banjo playing has swept the country, but I imagine it is because there is something about the simple instrument that smacks of home and moonlight romance."

Those who know say that one of the reasons many are anxious to have Mr. Pingatore tell them how to play a banjo is that he draws one of largest salaries of any musician in the world.

The Prompt Response

Of all the stories relating to our colored troopers in their services overseas, I think the one I like best has to do with a brawny black infantryman, who, on his way up to the front for his first taste of actual combat, fortified himself on a full quart of potent French wine.

As a result, he reached the forward position in a somewhat elevated and slightly groggy state. He had been warned in advance that he was going into an exceedingly busy and dangerous sector, but it so happened at the moment of his arrival the immediate vicinity was strangely quiet. He glanced about him in a foggy but disappointed way, and then, addressing his fellow occupants of the trench generally, spoke as follows:

"Wha's de war?—tha's whut I wants to know! White folks suttinly is mouty deceivin'. Yere dey promises me a war. So dey rides me 'erost mo'n a million miles of ocean an' dey marches me th'ough mo'n a thousand miles of mud, an' all de w'ile dey keeps on feilin' me 'at w'en I gits up yere dey'll be a war waitin' fur me. An' yere I is an' dey ain't no war! Dat ain't no way to act. Ef any of you folks is got ary war jest fetch it on 'an' leave it to me. Dat's all—jest leave it in my hands!"

A veteran of several months' experience in the trenches informed him that his desires should shortly be gratified, inasmuch as the hostile positions were only about two hundred yards away, and the enemy was both active and alert.

Hearing this, the green hand leaped upon the parapet and, standing there revealed in the moonlight, like a great black statue of defiance, he shook a broad fist in the direction of the foes' lines, and in a voice which might have been heard half a mile away he cried out:

"Come on, you Heinie Germans, an' gimme war! Gimme all de war you's got! Gimme explosertves! Gimme gas shells! Gimme scrapernel! Gimme bung shells! Most in 'special I asts you fur bung shells!"

At this particular moment a German minnenwerfer, two feet long and nine inches in diameter and filled with potential ill health, went whirring in its wabbly, uncertain flight just over his head, and with a crash like the crack of doom struck not fifty yards behind him, tearing a hole in the earth big enough for the foundations of a smoke house. The belligerent warrior was slapped flat and instantly covered in a half-inch coating of powdered grit and gravel and dust.

There he lay, stunned, until the last reverberation had died away and the tortured earth had ceased from its quiverings. Then, slowly and cautiously, he sat up. First he felt himself all over to make sure he was intact; then he stole a respectful glance rearward to where the huge, new-formed crater behind him still was smoking and fuming and throwing off noxious smells, and then he cast a cautious look in the direction from which the devlish visitor had come, and, finally, in a still, small, curiously altered voice, he said:

"Well, suzz, dey's one thing you's got to say fur dem Germans—dey suttinly does give you service!"

The Heart of the Nation

This railroad, one of the greatest transportation systems in America, serves fourteen states and approximately one-quarter of the entire population of the United States. The figures shown on the map above further emphasize the importance of railroad service in the development of both rural and urban communities—for, people bring prosperity and prosperity brings happiness.

This condition which applies in L. & N. served territory exists in all parts of the country where the railroad service is above the average. The railroads, according to the late James Hill, rank next in real importance to religion and the public schools.

Power Co. Surgeons Meet at Mitchel Dam

Medical Profession Of State Convene In Session At Mitchell Dam First Of This Week.

The medical profession of the entire state manifested considerable interest in the ninth annual meeting of the Association of Alabama Power Company Surgeons held at Mitchell Dam Monday and Tuesday of this week, according to S. R. Benedict, chief surgeon of the power company, who acted as host at the meeting. Dr. Benedict declared the meeting the most successful of the past nine years as very nearly a hundred of the most distinguished physicians of the state were in attendance and delivered papers and entered into discussions of the problems of modern industrial practice. In addition to the Alabama doctors, prominent members of the profession from other states were on hand and took an active part in the meeing. These include:

Dr. Loyal A. Shoudy, chief surgeon, Bethlehem Steel company, Bethlehem, Pa.; Dr. C. C. Bass, dean of College of Medicine, Tulane University, New Orleans; Dr. Harry E. Mock, industrial surgeon, Chicago, Ill.; and Dr. F. Marion Inge, chief surgeon, M. and O. Railroad company.

Addresses were made by Thomas W. Martin, president of Alabama Power Company, and vice-presidents E. A. Yates, R. A. Mitchell, O. G. Thurlow and W. E. Mitchell also made talks. Entertainment features included fishing, swimming, boating and a barbecue held Tuesday at noon.

According to Chief Surgeon Benedict, the meetings of the association which have become an annual institution have been the means of solving some of the most complicated problems met by the southern doctors, particularly those engaged in industrial work and in treating the various ills resulting from certain classes of employment. A few of the subjects discussed were: "Mild Influenzas and Common Colds," Dr. T. S. McDiarmid, Gorgas; "Industrial Eye Injuries," Dr. M. R. Moorman, Huntsville; "Compound Fractures," Dr. W. S. Greer, Sheffield; "Anaesthesia in Industrial Surgery," Dr. A. N. Steele, Anniston; "Electrical Burns," Dr. George E. Blue, Montgomery; "Impounded Waters and Malaria," Dr. T. H. Griffits, United States public health service.

CLANTON TAKES SECOND GAME FROM GANTT'S QUARRY TEAM

Clanton kept her season's record clean on last Thursday afternoon, taking a hotly contested game from the Gantt's Quarry team of Sylacauga, 3 to 1. Whorton, one of Clanton's new pitchers, although he is an old head at the game, let the visitors down with 8 hits, while Clanton collected 10 safeties off Harris. The only double play of the contest came in the 7th inning, Hayes to Sewell to Connatser, and nipped a budding rally by the Quarry team. Two errors and a two-bagger off Freeman's club in the sixth frame gave Sylacauga her only score. These two errors were the only two made by Clanton during the fray.

The box score is as follows:

POURING CONCRETE ON HIGHWAY SOUTH OF CLANTON

Work began Monday morning pouring concrete on the section of the highway south of Clanton. The surfacing machine started at Cordrey's old mill place and will work toward Clanton until it reaches the old hot well place, where the station is located for unloading material from the railroad.

When finished to the hot well, we understand the paving machine will then go to Lomax and work south to Clanton.

The Surest Way To Build A Town

Agriculture, said Herbert Hoover the other day, is a better town builder than industry. The remark is one that deserves more than passing notice. The chambers of commerce in nine out of every ten towns in the United States should have this very fact drilled into their systems. The majority of the American towns which are now straining their suspenders in an effort to pull factories in their direction will make more healthful progress if they forget the factories and extend a cooperative hand to the farmer.

Agriculture is the backbone of the average small town, but the town boosters are inclined to forget this fact. They labor under the mistaken notion that a good town means a bigger town and that a bunch of factories would solve their problem. The good will and the whole-hearted support of the farmers in that town's trade territory are vastly more desirable than factories for the average town. This good will and this support will not come unsought and uninvited. The boosting of a community's agriculture will be bread cast upon the waters. The town will progress without belching smoke stacks.—Emporia Gazette.

CLANTON WINS TWO MORE

Clanton continued her winning of baseball games on last Saturday and Tuesday, winning from Gantt's Quarry and Blocton on the respective days.

On Saturday they went to Gantt's Quarry, near Sylacauga, and defeated the Quarry team 11 to 3.

In this game Lewis performed nicely for Clanton, although a bit wild, and to make up for his wildness, hit a home run with the bases loaded. Sewell got a home run in this game also. Clanton had already defeated this team here on Thursday, June 4.

On Tuesday, June 9, Blocton came down to engage the locals, and returned, holding the short end of a 4 to 0 count. Clanton played almost faultless baseball behind Starling's masterful hurling.

In making his debut as a Clanton pitcher, Starling allowed only two singles, only one of these being a clean hit. The young Trojan looks good to Clanton fans, and they will back him to the limit in the future, in view of his excellent performance on Tuesday.

Thompson got one into deep center for a home run in the first. With two away in the seventh. Starling hit a nice double to center, sending two counters across the pan. In the eighth, Falkner opened with a sizzling double and scored a moment later on an infield out and an error. These plays accounted for Clanton's scores, while Blocton never got a man safely to second. The whole Clanton team played jam-up ball, bobbling only one time. Ingram caught a good game for Clanton, in his first appearance in a Clanton uniform.

Blocton played a fair game and are a scrappy bunch of baseball players.

This is the second time this season that Clanton has blanked the Blocton outfit, "Lefty" Alley performing the stunt on June 2.

Clanton has played 4 games and won them all.

Clanton plays Tallassee here today, Thursday, June 11.

IN MEMORY OF HORACE WESTON

Our entire community was shocked and sadly grieved on the morning of Monday, June 1, when it was learned that little Horace Weston had passed away. He was ill only a few days when God, in His wisdom, sent the death angel and called from our midst one whom we all loved very dearly.

His suffering was intense, although everything that loving relatives and friends could do was done, but God knows best. It seems that he was taken for a purpose, but we know not what that purpose was. There are other sweet children in the home, but there is a vacancy that can never be filled. He was a ray of sunshine, and will be ever missed not only by his loved ones, but by all his friends in the community. He was a good, obedient child, and his testimony was that he was going the beautiful way. He was never too tired to do a deed of kindness for a neighbor but was always smiling and ready to do any favor asked of him.

He was the son of Rev. and Mrs. F. M. Weston, and was 12 years of age. He leaves a father, mother, a number of brothers and sisters, besides a host of playmates and friends to mourn his loss. It seems hard to lose him while so young, but God rules and we are His.

The funeral services were conducted at Shiloh church, of which his father is pastor, by Rev. Stone, of Birmingham. The large crowd that attended the funeral, and the beautiful floral offerings attested the love which everybody had for little Horace. Interment was made in the Rock Springs cemetery.

The people of the community extend much sympathy to the bereaved ones, yet we know our sympathy can not heal their broken hearts.

HAZEL COX.

W. M. DEVAUGHN WILL SING AT WALNUT SECOND SUNDAY P. M.

The Union-Banner has been asked to state that Prof. W. M. Devaughn of Coopers will sing at Walnut Creek on the afternoon of the second Sunday in June. This is the regular monthly meeting of the Walnut Creek singing society. The famous Cooper quartet will be there with Prof. Devaughn, it is stated.

Prof. Devaughn will teach a singing and music school at Walnut Creek beginning shortly after July 4. He taught a school at this place last year, and the results were very gratifying. It is hoped that it will be the same this year. Prof. Devaughn is a splendid music teacher and is deserving of the hearty co-operation of any community in which he teaches.

MAN ESCAPED WHEN PAN WRECKED AUTO

Calvin McGallion, of Mountain Creek narrowly escaped serious injury shortly after 11 o'clock Sunday night when the automobile he was driving stalled in the path of the Pan-American at Verbena. His machine was demolished and he was rendered unconscious. He was taken to Montgomery on the train and placed in St. Margaret's Hospital where investigation showed his injuries not serious.

CLANTON WILL CELEBRATE ON FOURTH OF JULY THIS YEAR

The ladies of the Clanton Methodist church are making arrangements for a public celebration on July 4th. The arrangements have not been completed yet any more than that a celebration will be held and it will be at Clanton. The full details of the attractions of the day will be made public later—probably in next week's papers.

So watch out for these announcements and set your plans to come to Clanton on the Fourth. There will be a good time in store for you, and you will have a chance to meet all of your friends here.

KILBY IN RACE FOR UNDERWOOD SEAT IN SENATE

Musgrove, Bankhead and Mayfield Are Also Prospective Candidates.

Former Gov. Thomas E. Kilby is unequivocally in the race for the United States senate to succeed Senator Oscar W. Underwood, he declard in a formal statement issued at his home in Anniston Saturday.

Confirming reports that had circulated throughout Alabama for several weeks, Mr. Kilby broke his silence and definitely announced his plans in the following statement:

"There has been so much written lately about my supposed candidacy for the United States senate and I have received so many inquiries from frinds over the state in reference to my plans that I consider it only fair to these friends and supporters to state unequivocally that I shall be in the race. I shall file my announcement with the secretary of state as required by law at the proper time."

The former governor said he hoped for a "short campaign," but would spare no efforts to justify the faith of his friends in his success. This was taken to indicate he will wait several months before filing his formal declaration and starting his state-wide drive for votes.

With the former governor definitely in the running, the campaign now is expected to take shape rapidly. Senator Underwood is inclined to retire. L. B. Musgrove of Jasper, is regarded as a certain candidate. John H. Bankhead, also of Jasper, has been mentioned but has given no intimation of his plans. Judge J. J. Mayfield, of the state supreme court, has the race under consideration, in view of the virtual certainty that Senator Underwood will not run. As the race is viewed by the most competent observers, the Alabamian who goes to the senate will have to defeat Kilby.

CONCORD-BILLINGSLEY NEWS

The singing society met at this place Sunday at 2:30, and was called to order by our Sunday School Superintendent, Mr. Olin Williams. Our crowd was small but the singing was good. Directors were Furniss Shepard, Horace Williams, Alonzie Askins, Hudson Williams, Olin Williams and Miss Alma Askins. Organists were Hudson Williams, Jewell Williams, and Miss Jettie Adams. We thank the visitors for their help and invite them back again.

A week from last Saturday night a party was given in honor of Miss Nora Franklin of Thorsby, who came down for a week's visit to friends of this community. We were indeed glad to have Miss Franklin with us again. We were also glad to have Miss Franklin's father, Prof. James Franklin, to teach a singing school at this place last summer. We invite them any time, and especially to our singings every first Sunday afternoon.

The crops around here are suffering for rain.

We thank the editor for this space.

Motor Bus Line From B'ham to Montgomery

New Service Will Use Studebakers—Starts Wednesday—Passes Through Clanton.

On Wednesday of this week a new transportation service between Birmingham and Montgomery was put into effect. This consists of a new bus line, operated by the Birmingham-Montgomery Transportation company, with offices at 1912 Fourth Avenue, Birmingham.

The initial fleet consists of four handsome Studebaker busses purchased from Cruse-Crawford Manufacturing company. These busses are declared to be the most modern, dependable and comfortable vehicles procurable for a service such as this.

"We have no hesitancy in saying that we will operate the most dependable, comfortable and convenient bus line in the south and that it will be a credit to Alabama and a line that the most discriminating travelers will be glad to patronize," said A. B. Langley, one of the managers of the new service. "We will assure our passengers the utmost in sanitation and cleanliness as well as comfort. We will maintain a schedule of four hours between Birmingham and Montgomery and the fare will be somewhat less than charged by the railroads. Our Studebaker busses will leave from the Tutwiler hotel in Birmingham at 7:30 a. m. and 10:30 a.m. and from the Exchange hotel in Montgomery at 1 p. m. and 5:30 p. m. Our busses will stop at all towns between here and the capital, and will also stop to take on or discharge passengers at any desired point."

In speaking of the inauguration of the new line J. D. Kirkpatrick, Jr., salesmanager for Cruse-Crawford Manufacturing company, said: "We feel certain that the operation of the Birmingham-Montgomery line, equipped with Studebaker busses, will fill a definite transportation need and that the Studebaker busses will fill every requirement of comfort, convenience and reliability appropriate to such a service. The new Studebaker busses are exceptionally distinguished in appearance and refinements, and I feel sure that the new line will attract a generous patronage even from the most particular travelers."

I wish to state to my friends and patrons in this County that there is a man by the name of T. E. Grier going over the county selling Singer Sewing Machines, and I understand from a number of my friends that he is making the statement that the Singer Machine Company is letting me out, and that he has been sent here to take my place.

I want to say to my friends and patrons if he has made this statement that it is entirely without any foundation whatsoever and that it is a baseless and malicious falsehood. I further wish to state to my friends who are contemplating buying a Singer sewing machine that I have just received a new shipment of machines today, June 1st, and I will get another shipment next week. I will also have a carload of machines to reach me about July 15th for fall delivery.

If you want a new Singer, please write, phone or call on me at my office, where you will find me every Saturday. Machines sold on easy payments. Old machines taken in exchange. A liberal discount for cash. All kinds of second-hand machines, including Singers, New Homes, Whites, and many others, practically at your own price.

Your patronage in the future will be appreciated just as it has been for the past twenty years.

Yours for Mutual Benefit,

Soon Felt Improvement

"The first time I took Cardui I was in an awful bad way," says Mrs. Ora Carlile, R. F. D. 5, Troup, Texas. "I went fishing one day. A heavy storm came up and I got soaking wet in the rain. I was afflicted with awful smothering spells. I could not get my breath. My mother had some in the house that she was taking, so she immediately began giving it to me. In a few days I got all right.

"Last fall I got run-down in health. I was weak and puny and I began to suffer. I would get so I could hardly walk. Having taken Cardui before, I sent to the store for a bottle of it. Almost from the first dose I could feel an improvement.

"Cardui has helped me a lot and I am glad to recommend it. I don't feel like the same woman I was last fall. My appetite is good now, and I'm sure it's Cardui that's made it pick up."

E. E. CALLAWAY TELLS WOMEN'S CLUB "EQUAL RIGHTS" IS THE SLOGAN THAT WILL BEAR A MILLION TEARS IN FUTURE

† Note—The following news story, taken from the Lakeland (Fla.) Star-Telegram, will be of general interest to our readers, and especially to those who know Mr. Callaway. Mr. E. E. Callaway practiced law in Clanton some years ago and has a number of friends in this county. He is doing well in Florida. Following is the story:

* * *

E. E. Callaway was the principal speaker at the meeting of the Lakeland Woman's Club held Thursday afternoon in the Men's Bible Class room of the First Methodist church. The program which was in charge of the Legislative Department, of which Mrs. Frank B. Langley is chairman, opened with a musical feature, a piano duet rendered by Mrs. J. D. Griffin and Mrs. J. W. Deloach.

Mr. Callaway's address was as follows:

You have asked me to come here and talk to you for a few minutes on the subject of "Florida Laws For Women." Why have you asked me to come here and discuss this subject? I will tell you why. You have invited me here and you have assigned to me this subject because you believe that Florida laws are antiquated and inadequate in so far as they protect and give equal rights to women, and because you believe that I am possessed of sufficient legal learning to be able to point out wherein these laws are inadequate and to suggest a way for the enactment of new laws or for a strengthening of those which already exist. I am going to disappoint you in this. In fact I am going to do that which you have not suspected that I would do, and that is, I am going to take issue with you that there is any substantial need for material change in the laws of Florida in so far as they affect women as a class. I am not a modernist in any appreciable sense when it comes to the changing of our organic laws. I am not so certain but what we could do without ninety-nine per cent of the laws which have been passed by both the states and the national government during the past ten years. I am not so sure but what a people least governed are not yet the best governed.

The Wrong Idea.

I know that the majority of both men and women believe that most evils can be corrected by legislation. I am satisfied after twelve years of careful study and observation of the practical application of modern legislation that this idea is the one curse and the one outstanding pitfall of this age. When a wrong arises we at once jump at the conclusion that it can be corrected by legislative enactment, and consequently every congress and every legislature is flooded with thousands of new bills. The very fact that this is true is absolute proof that we are not familiar with existing statutes and with the effect upon society of their enforcement.

Outside Attitude

A number of our ladies come to Florida from other states and being more or less familiar with the laws of those states and not being familiar with Florida laws they immediately assume that Florida laws are unfair toward, or do not deal justly with, our women. There never has been and never will be a more false idea. There is not a state in the entire union which throws greater protection around women than does Florida. A single woman over twenty-five years of age can dispose of her property as she sees fit. A husband can not sell a foot of his realty without his wife joining in the conveyance freely and without coercion from her husband. On the other hand under the laws of Florida a married woman may have the court declare her a free dealer and she can then convey her own property without her husband's knowledge or consent.

If a husband dies without children his wife inherits his entire estate. If they have children, she has an election of taking either a child's part or a dower of one-third for life.

Other Situations.

A wife can leave her husband and a dozen minor children, without just cause, and what can he do? Absolutely nothing. If he deserts her or the children he is guilty of felony and she can send him to the penitentiary. In a divorce or alimony proceding the wife has a dozen advantages over the husband. He can even be imprisoned because he does not pay her alimony, or support his children.

The wife has equal rights with the husband as a guardian of the children, and the courts, through their sympathy for the mother, always resolve the doubt, if there is any, in her favor. The husband is liable for the debts of the wife or minor children incurred for necessities, even without consent. She is never liable for his debts.

No Jury Service.

Women are not qualified for jury service in Florida. There never has been and never will be any good reason for such service. There is no reason to believe that justice would be better administered if women were on our juries. There at least has not been any marked improvement in the states where they do serve.

I have heard some of our leading women insist that the age of consent should be changed in Florida from eighteen to twenty-one years. I would like to say to some of our mothers that if they would spend half the time in teaching and training their sons and daughters in the home that they now spend at cards, at the show, in society, in politics and in insisting upon equal rights for women, the age of consent can remain in Florida at eighteeen years.

What He Saw.

I drove over to Brooksville a few Sundays ago in a car with some other friends and it was a beautiful spring afternoon and I guess that on our way over there and back we passed at least two hundred couples of young people in cars, either driving along the road or parked, and I do not believe that I am exaggerating when I say that ninety per cent of these young people were locked in each other's arms in a compromising position. Are they stopping at this? Let us hope so. Have our young people more self control now than we had when we were young? Have they become so morally strong that they can defy the very laws of creation? If they are not stopping at what we see, then what will be the character of the womanhood of tomorrow? If our girls possess such will power that they can flirt with the devil and still maintain their honor, and I at least like to believe that even under the present circumstances they can, then let me ask you wives and mothers what effect is this billing and spooning having upon the mental and physical character of your sons? No, there is a bigger and a more important job for you mothers and wives than worrying over "Florida Laws for Women."

A Bad Slogan.

The most destructive slogan of this country is "Equal Rights for Women." It is a damnable slogan and every woman who has preached it has planted trees that will bear a million tears. I am talking about facts and not theories. God did not create us equal, and if you ever expect to be on an equality with men, you must come down to him, he will never go up to you. Your position is ordained by the Master, the highest and noblest of this earth, and if you will do your duty well, as He intended, you won't have to worry about Florida laws or equal rights for women. You may pass all the laws which the fertile and imaginative brains of our modern politicians can devise and you won't stop the dozens of cars which park every night in Casa Bella, Kenilworth Court, Beacon Hills, Shore Acres and other suburban sections of our city, but if you mothers will get on the job again in the home as your mother was on it, you will find that the "Mother Law" is yet sufficient even in Florida.

Individual Character.

Our political, business and economic life is and always must be a part of our social and religious life. Here is where you wives and mothers should build individual character and public sentiment, and thereby control your state. This must be done in the home, around the fireside, and not in the halls of legislation. The legislature can never do anything more than declare what that individual character and public sentiment is. This is why we can trustfully say that "the hand which rocks the cradle is in a true sense the hand that rules the world."

The Woman Controls.

Every man who has lived or ever will live has been and will be controlled by some woman, either wife, mother, sweetheart or some other woman, and it is just as easy for the wives and mothers of America to direct and control its political and business life as it was for Eve to get Adam to eat the apple, and for this reason the big responsibility upon the wives and mothers is to build real individual character in the home and through this method create a just and wholesome public sentiment that will demand clean politics, sound business and good government.

I believe that woman's activities should be broad and circumscribed only by the legitimate demands of her family, and her mental and physical capacity for endurance, but I also agree that our state or nation will prosper only in that degree which our wives and mothers give to the building of individual character in the home, and to the building of a just and wholesome public sentiment thru that source.

You must therefore lay the foundation for the right kind of laws by being the right kind of a wife and the right kind of a mother in the right kind of a home.

REV. BOB JONES WILL APPEAR IN PICTURE AT WADESONIAN

Through the efforts of certain individuals in Clanton, the famous motion picture entitled "The Unbeatable Game," the scenario of which was composed by Rev. Bob Jones and the leading part played by him, will be shown in Clanton soon. This picture story is based upon the sermon of the famous evangelist, "The Game you Can't Beat," which he preached in Clanton while conducting the revival here two years ago. Bob Jones himself appears in this picture in the leading role.

This picture will be shown two times at the Wadesonian Theatre in Clanton on June 16th. The performance in the afternoon will be for ladies and at night it will be for men.

Everyone who possibly can should make arrangements to see this picture, because it is something well worth anyone's time and attention. It deals with the cause and remedy of the moral evils of our country, a vital question which confronts the future of our nation.

A complete announcement of the details will be made next week.

I wish to state to my friends and patrons in this County that there is a man by the name of T. E. Grier going over the county selling Singer Sewing Machines, and I understand from a number of my friends that he is making the statement that the Singer Machine Company is letting me out, and that he has been sent here to take my place.

I want to say to my friends and patrons if he has made this statement that it is entirely without any foundation whatsoever and that it is a baseless and malicious falsehood. I further wish to state to my friends who are contemplating buying a Singer sewing machine that I have just received a new shipment of machines today, June 1st, and I will get another shipment next week. I will also have a carload of machines to reach me about July 15th for fall delivery.

If you want a new Singer, please write, phone or call on me at my office, where you will find me every Saturday. Machines sold on easy payments. Old machines taken in exchange. A liberal discount for cash. All kinds of second-hand machines, including Singers, New Homes, Whites, and many others, practically at your own price.

Your patronage in the future will be appreciated just as it has been for the past twenty years.

Yours for Mutual Benefit,

Soon Felt Improvement

"The first time I took Cardui I was in an awful bad way," says Mrs. Ora Carlile, R. F. D. 5, Troup, Texas. "I went fishing one day. A heavy storm came up and I got soaking wet in the rain. I was afflicted with awful smothering spells. I could not get my breath. My mother had some in the house that she was taking, so she immediately began giving it to me. In a few days I got all right.

"Last fall I got run-down in health. I was weak and puny and I began to suffer. I would get so I could hardly walk. Having taken Cardui before, I sent to the store for a bottle of it. Almost from the first dose I could feel an improvement.

"Cardui has helped me a lot and I am glad to recommend it. I don't feel like the same woman I was last fall. My appetite is good now, and I'm sure it's Cardui that's made it pick up."

E. E. CALLAWAY TELLS WOMEN'S CLUB "EQUAL RIGHTS" IS THE SLOGAN THAT WILL BEAR A MILLION TEARS IN FUTURE

† Note—The following news story, taken from the Lakeland (Fla.) Star-Telegram, will be of general interest to our readers, and especially to those who know Mr. Callaway. Mr. E. E. Callaway practiced law in Clanton some years ago and has a number of friends in this county. He is doing well in Florida. Following is the story:

* * *

E. E. Callaway was the principal speaker at the meeting of the Lakeland Woman's Club held Thursday afternoon in the Men's Bible Class room of the First Methodist church. The program which was in charge of the Legislative Department, of which Mrs. Frank B. Langley is chairman, opened with a musical feature, a piano duet rendered by Mrs. J. D. Griffin and Mrs. J. W. Deloach.

Mr. Callaway's address was as follows:

You have asked me to come here and talk to you for a few minutes on the subject of "Florida Laws For Women." Why have you asked me to come here and discuss this subject? I will tell you why. You have invited me here and you have assigned to me this subject because you believe that Florida laws are antiquated and inadequate in so far as they protect and give equal rights to women, and because you believe that I am possessed of sufficient legal learning to be able to point out wherein these laws are inadequate and to suggest a way for the enactment of new laws or for a strengthening of those which already exist. I am going to disappoint you in this. In fact I am going to do that which you have not suspected that I would do, and that is, I am going to take issue with you that there is any substantial need for material change in the laws of Florida in so far as they affect women as a class. I am not a modernist in any appreciable sense when it comes to the changing of our organic laws. I am not so certain but what we could do without ninety-nine per cent of the laws which have been passed by both the states and the national government during the past ten years. I am not so sure but what a people least governed are not yet the best governed.

The Wrong Idea.

I know that the majority of both men and women believe that most evils can be corrected by legislation. I am satisfied after twelve years of careful study and observation of the practical application of modern legislation that this idea is the one curse and the one outstanding pitfall of this age. When a wrong arises we at once jump at the conclusion that it can be corrected by legislative enactment, and consequently every congress and every legislature is flooded with thousands of new bills. The very fact that this is true is absolute proof that we are not familiar with existing statutes and with the effect upon society of their enforcement.

Outside Attitude

A number of our ladies come to Florida from other states and being more or less familiar with the laws of those states and not being familiar with Florida laws they immediately assume that Florida laws are unfair toward, or do not deal justly with, our women. There never has been and never will be a more false idea. There is not a state in the entire union which throws greater protection around women than does Florida. A single woman over twenty-five years of age can dispose of her property as she sees fit. A husband can not sell a foot of his realty without his wife joining in the conveyance freely and without coercion from her husband. On the other hand under the laws of Florida a married woman may have the court declare her a free dealer and she can then convey her own property without her husband's knowledge or consent.

If a husband dies without children his wife inherits his entire estate. If they have children, she has an election of taking either a child's part or a dower of one-third for life.

Other Situations.

A wife can leave her husband and a dozen minor children, without just cause, and what can he do? Absolutely nothing. If he deserts her or the children he is guilty of felony and she can send him to the penitentiary. In a divorce or alimony proceding the wife has a dozen advantages over the husband. He can even be imprisoned because he does not pay her alimony, or support his children.

The wife has equal rights with the husband as a guardian of the children, and the courts, through their sympathy for the mother, always resolve the doubt, if there is any, in her favor. The husband is liable for the debts of the wife or minor children incurred for necessities, even without consent. She is never liable for his debts.

No Jury Service.

Women are not qualified for jury service in Florida. There never has been and never will be any good reason for such service. There is no reason to believe that justice would be better administered if women were on our juries. There at least has not been any marked improvement in the states where they do serve.

I have heard some of our leading women insist that the age of consent should be changed in Florida from eighteen to twenty-one years. I would like to say to some of our mothers that if they would spend half the time in teaching and training their sons and daughters in the home that they now spend at cards, at the show, in society, in politics and in insisting upon equal rights for women, the age of consent can remain in Florida at eighteeen years.

What He Saw.

I drove over to Brooksville a few Sundays ago in a car with some other friends and it was a beautiful spring afternoon and I guess that on our way over there and back we passed at least two hundred couples of young people in cars, either driving along the road or parked, and I do not believe that I am exaggerating when I say that ninety per cent of these young people were locked in each other's arms in a compromising position. Are they stopping at this? Let us hope so. Have our young people more self control now than we had when we were young? Have they become so morally strong that they can defy the very laws of creation? If they are not stopping at what we see, then what will be the character of the womanhood of tomorrow? If our girls possess such will power that they can flirt with the devil and still maintain their honor, and I at least like to believe that even under the present circumstances they can, then let me ask you wives and mothers what effect is this billing and spooning having upon the mental and physical character of your sons? No, there is a bigger and a more important job for you mothers and wives than worrying over "Florida Laws for Women."

A Bad Slogan.

The most destructive slogan of this country is "Equal Rights for Women." It is a damnable slogan and every woman who has preached it has planted trees that will bear a million tears. I am talking about facts and not theories. God did not create us equal, and if you ever expect to be on an equality with men, you must come down to him, he will never go up to you. Your position is ordained by the Master, the highest and noblest of this earth, and if you will do your duty well, as He intended, you won't have to worry about Florida laws or equal rights for women. You may pass all the laws which the fertile and imaginative brains of our modern politicians can devise and you won't stop the dozens of cars which park every night in Casa Bella, Kenilworth Court, Beacon Hills, Shore Acres and other suburban sections of our city, but if you mothers will get on the job again in the home as your mother was on it, you will find that the "Mother Law" is yet sufficient even in Florida.

Individual Character.

Our political, business and economic life is and always must be a part of our social and religious life. Here is where you wives and mothers should build individual character and public sentiment, and thereby control your state. This must be done in the home, around the fireside, and not in the halls of legislation. The legislature can never do anything more than declare what that individual character and public sentiment is. This is why we can trustfully say that "the hand which rocks the cradle is in a true sense the hand that rules the world."

The Woman Controls.

Every man who has lived or ever will live has been and will be controlled by some woman, either wife, mother, sweetheart or some other woman, and it is just as easy for the wives and mothers of America to direct and control its political and business life as it was for Eve to get Adam to eat the apple, and for this reason the big responsibility upon the wives and mothers is to build real individual character in the home and through this method create a just and wholesome public sentiment that will demand clean politics, sound business and good government.

I believe that woman's activities should be broad and circumscribed only by the legitimate demands of her family, and her mental and physical capacity for endurance, but I also agree that our state or nation will prosper only in that degree which our wives and mothers give to the building of individual character in the home, and to the building of a just and wholesome public sentiment thru that source.

You must therefore lay the foundation for the right kind of laws by being the right kind of a wife and the right kind of a mother in the right kind of a home.

Broadway's Beau Brummel Hails From Wyoming

Harry Richman Says Most City Slickers Come From Small Towns

New York City.—The Beau Brummel of Broadway is not a product of Fifth Avenue or The Great White Way, but of the "great open spaces" of Wyoming.

His "Will You Remember Me" is played everywhere as the smart dance tune.

"Nearly all the men about town in New York come from the small town," he declares. "The only native New Yorker I know is the cashier in a white front eating house."

REV. BOB JONES WILL APPEAR IN PICTURE AT WADESONIAN

Through the efforts of certain individuals in Clanton, the famous motion picture entitled "The Unbeatable Game," the scenario of which was composed by Rev. Bob Jones and the leading part played by him, will be shown in Clanton soon. This picture story is based upon the sermon of the famous evangelist, "The Game you Can't Beat," which he preached in Clanton while conducting the revival here two years ago. Bob Jones himself appears in this picture in the leading role.

This picture will be shown two times at the Wadesonian Theatre in Clanton on June 16th. The performance in the afternoon will be for ladies and at night it will be for men.

The Alabama Farm Bureau has just had a "melon cutting" at which time $101,157 was paid to the Farm Bureau members as a patronage dividend on fertilizer bought co-operatively this spring. This was done after buying at wholesale prices. It amounted to $1.25 a ton.

Did you ever hear of it raining so hard against the dry ground that a thick dust was raised? Well, such is said to have been the case around Refuge last Friday afternoon. Mr. Joe Baker was in our office Saturday and made this report, which was affirmed by Rev. Lockhart, so we have no reason for disputing it.

The above statement sounds a little "fishy," but we will explain that the reason the rain raised a dust was because the rain was frozen. This was a rather severe hail storm over a small section and some damage was done to the crops.

MAJOR CHARLES J. ALLISON

News of the death of Major Chas. J. Allison, clerk of the United States District Court for Northern Alabama, which occurred in Birmingham, will be learned with deep regret all over the state. Major Allison had occupied his position in the federal courts of North Alabama for 25 years and few men were better known, as his duties carried him regularly to the various important cities of the district. A native of Ohio, Major Allison was a first cousin of President William McKinley and both in his native state and in his adopted state he had taken an active interest in Republican politics. He served as major of engineers in the Spanish-American war.

Intimate friends had remarked that Major Allison had never seemed the same since the death of his son, Jack S. Allison, who was killed in action in France. Both father and son served their country well in time of need, and both are mourned by a wide circle of friends.—The Birmingham Age-Herald.

$8,000,000 SPENT ANNUALLY IN UNITED STATES ON AUTOS

Washington, June 7.—The economic importance of motor transportation is emphasized by a report prepared by the Amrican Committee of Highway Transportation for submission to the third biennial conference of the International Chamber of Commerce at Brussels this month. As made public today by the chamber of commerce of the United States, the report says Americans now spend $8,000,000 annually in the purchase and maintenance of automobiles with latest figures showing 17,500,000 passenger cars and trucks in use in the United States or one to every seven inhabitants. The widespread use of the motor car has contributed much to the increase of billions of dollars in the wealth and resources of the country, it finds, pointing out especially the "revolution" this development has wrought in the life of the farm.

Mistakes Made.

The report states, however, that mistakes have been made in the development of motor transportation in the United States.

"The functions which it could best serve and its relation to other transportation factors," it explains, "were not fully understood at the outset and it has taken much time and money to rectify some of the errors. Inferior highways have been made to serve where the cost of maintenance was uneconomically high and traffic justified their replacement with higher types. Motor vehicles have been sold by over-enthusiastic manufacturers or dealers where their use was not economically justified or where a different type was warranted. There has been destructive and in some cases disastrous competition between the motor vehicle and the older established forms of transportation.

Invaluable Service.

"But as the development has proceeded it has become evident that motor transportation is a utility which can render invaluable service not only in definite additions which it makes to national wealth, but to the more far-reaching effects which it has upon the social sructure and the standards of living and nationalism. The motor car has performed a significant function in eliminating sectional differences and the manifold uses of modern highway transportation are welding the nation into a homogeneous whole. The development of motor transportation which has taken place in the United States will inevitably come in other countries."

FREE AGAIN!

THE NEW SOUTH

A Southern industrial exposition was recently held in New York City. It served to call attention to the rapid progress of the states south of the Ohio and east of the Mississippi.

Before the Civil war the South was almost exclusively agrciultural. Today the value of the mineral and manufactured products of the South is fifty per cent greater than that of her farm output.

More cotton spindles are turning today in North Carolina than in Massachusetts. The shifting of the textile industry from Northern to Southern states is not entirely due to the cheaper labor supply of the South. Nearness to raw materials, cheaper fuel and water power count for much. A new spirit of industrial enterprise is a factor.

Southern statesmen of the earlier years of the republic were protectionists. Southern hands formulated the first bill passed by the Congress under the Constitution of 1789, and the hand of a Southern nationalist, George Washington, signed it; it was a bill to "encourage manufacturers" by the imposition of import duties.

The slavery system seemed to destine the South to an agricultural future. In the growing of cotton it enjoyed a practical monopoly. Calhoun ceased to be a protectionist when he began to believe that the ideal arrangement for the South was to raise cotton and other raw materials for manufacture in Europe and in return to buy finished products abroad. Industrial development was opposed. The beliefs of Calhoun had much to do with the desire for separation from the Union. The Confederate Constitution specifically forbade a protective tariff and even harbor or internal improvments except at private expense.

But the opposition to industrial activity, and the absence of it when the Civil war came, cost the South dearly. The farm could not effectively fight the workshop, no matter with what valor the battle was pressed. War was even then beginning to be a matter of machinery. If the South had possessed great manufacturing resources, the result of the Civil war might have been different. But if it had possessed such resources, self interest would have prevented secession.

Today the South is at the beginning of a great industrial era. That section will be the scene of the nation's swiftest industrial development during the next quarter of a century. There may be those who will regret this on the ground that commercialism and industrialism are inconsistent with the South's best traditions.

American civilization does not exist, however, in order that a few "best people" may dwell in pleasant dreams. Industrialism means lifting of the level of life for the masses. It means better homes for the general run of people, better schools, better roads, better improved farms, more profitable opportunities for enterprise and labor. It means greater prozperity for agriculture in the localities where mills are built.

Protectionist at heart, the South will become protectionist in political action within a decade. It will insist that the American home market—incomparably the richest market in the world—belongs first to the American producer, and that it should be protected from invasion by competitors armed with a deadly weapon of cheapness attained at the sacrifice of human values.

There are bright days ahead for the South. Most American of all sections of the republic in its population, it is ceasing to look backward and beginning to look forward to an era vastly more prosperous than that which prevailed before the Civil war. The old prosperity was prosperity of the comparative few; the new prosperity will be the prosperity of the many.

In this every American should rejoice. The republic is under a never ending debt of gratitude to that portion of the country which gave to the republic Washington, Jefferson, Marshall, Madison, Monroe, Clay and Jackson, master buildrs all, of the republic. And as there develops in the South a prosperity of which it did not even dream a century ago, it will become nationalistic, protectionist, progressive and constructive in its influence as well as in its opinions upon public questions. Milwaukee and Cleveland, even New York and Chicago, may at some time so socialist, but Richmond, Charleston, Atlanta, Chattanooga and New Orleans—never!—National Republic.

CHECKS SENT TO FARMERS FOR LARGE SUMS

Checks from the offices of the Alabama Farm Bureau to the various county farm bureaus have been mailed to the amount of $102,000. The money was sent to the county farm bureaus for distribution among the members in their respective counties and represented a net saving to the purchasers of fertilizers through the farm bureau.

About a month ago a distribution of $27,000 was made to the county farm bureau to cover the cost of handling the fertilizer and thus enable them to receive a net return. This saving, it was stated by Edward A. O'Neal, president of the Alabama Farm Bureau and vice-president of the national organization, was possible through the purchasing in such large volume and the economical handling in distributing fertilizer, it is stated.

The saving shown in the year's work in the Alabama Farm Bureau in this one matter is more than twice the cost of maintenance of the state officers, it is stated.

Final distribution on cotton will be made by the Alabama Cotton Association beginning with the mailing of checks on Tuesday, June 9, it was stated in the offices of the association Friday. The amount to be distributed to growers of cotton will total nearly $900,000 and will bring the total payments for the year to more than $9,000,000.

Nearly 80,000 bales of cotton were passed through the direction of the association; checks are being signed by President John S. Kernachan and General Manager Allen Northington will complete the payment for amount.

FIRST COTTON BLOOM BROUGHT IN SATURDAY

Mr. M. D. Dennis of Maple Springs community, Route 2, brought to The Union-Banner office last Saturday the first cotton bloom of the season.

Mr. Dennis says he has not seen any evidence of boll weevils in his cotton.

Mr. J. S. Aldridge of Clanton, Route 6, brought in another cotton bloom to our office last Saturday a few minutes after the first one of the season had been left here by Mr. M. D. Dennis of Route 2. A third one was awaiting us at the office on Monday morning when we came to work, being brought here by Mr. Wiley Bice of Beat 16.

ANTICS OF THE WEATHER

The news of last few days has portrayed some very peculiar weather conditions in the United States. Over 500 deaths have been caused by the intense heat wave which has held the northeastern portion of the country in its sweltering temperature. Quite to the contrary, some sections of the northwest have been wrapped in as much as two feet of snow. Snow plows had to be used around Denver, Colorada, to clear the railroad tracks and permit movement of trains.

It was so hot in Washington last week that eggs could be fried on the asphalt street pavement.

Eighty-three home demonstration club girls from 32 counties attended the annual State short course in Auburn the week ending June 6. These girls were leaders in club work in their respective counties. All thoroughly enjoyed the short course and learned many valuable lessons.

Get that, young man?

Your back a la Napoleon.

I am ready to accept

Relation of the Ku Klux Klan To American Citizenship

Questions Answered

1. Considering the Klan movement as a crusade or reform effort, what are the conditions in American social and political life which demand such a movement?

First, and foremost, because Americans have neglected their public duty. Three out of ten of our native-born citizens (and until I became a Klansman I was one of them) have taken the advantages of American liberties and free government for granted. They did not either give them the thought or take the trouble regarding them that are essential if they are to be maintained. Heretofore, the average American citizen has been born into conditions and environments which were accepted without thought and regard to the fundamental principles involved. Not so with a Klansman. He does not accept a given condition of affairs regardless of how long standing or how great the authority therefor, but searches out the truth and facts. The need for the Klan is the same as the need for America for this kind of thought.

In the second place, there is the immediate and alarming fact that American thought and life have been and are being perverted from their true course by excessive alien mixtures. It is foolish to expect, and it has been proved wrong by experience, to hope that people of alien races, with different traditions, different education and different ideals, which are bred into them both by experience and their entire training, can within a few years, understand America, the American spirit, or the American ideals. America stands for a definite form of government, of social organization and of thought, which have been developed through centuries and which are, therefore, an essential part of and are fitted to the American people. It is no reflection on other people that they are different, but it is a fact that they are, and that the attempts which they make to subvert American thought to their own are threatening the most fundamental factors in American life.

We believe that those who have been born or educated in America to Americal ideals of society, government, and home, can more intelligently conceive and apply Americanism in its true sense.

2. What specific reform is it hoped to make? In other words, what are the detailed objectives of the Klan?

(a) The Klan hopes to inculcate the fundamental principles of the Klan doctrine and the application thereof into the minds of American people to the extent that all groups will become assimilated into a solidified American electorate expressing the will of American people who will form their own curative remedies.

Specifically, the Klan plans the education of the great mass of its own members and at the same time, all American citizens, to the responsibilities as well as the privileges of citizenship. The development of an operative patriotism, which is nothing more or less than the full understanding and expression of the duties of citizens. Heretofore, this education has been primarily within the organization, and has been reflected in a measure to the outside world. No greater duty nor greater responsibility could be accepted by any group than the furtherance of these principles and the development of an educational program of enlightenment to all America.

(b) To protect the American electorate from further dilution by alien elements, which by racial and religious barriers, resist assimilation, by restricting franchise to men and women who are able through birth and education to understand Americanism. This means practically a restriction to native-born who have had the benefit of the training given by the American educational system, and who are by breeding and education, fundamentally equipped for the responsibilities for citizenship and the right of franchise.

(c) To protect the nation from any further evils of unassimilated and unassimilative elements through an immediate compelte stopping of immigration; the stoppage to remain complete until such time as reason appears for again accepting foreign immigration.

(d) There has been a widespread feeling among Klansmen that in the last few years the operation of the national government has shown weakness indicating a possible need of rather fundamental reforms. This is shown by the fact that in election, after election, the decision has been based upon dissatisfaction and protest against the previous workings of the government rather than upon any constructive thought, and a referendum upon specific pledges for constructive and corrective governmental measures. The immediate program of the Klan is to point out certain fundamental conditions in the government and bring before the American electorate, definite constructive facts upon which they may predicate an intelligent expression of the will of the American people.

Locally, the Klan stands for law enforcement, the election of competent and conscientious officials, state and city, the elimination of private graft and spoils hunting of all kinds, the immediate and vigorous improvement of the public schools.

3. Cannot a Jew, Roman Catholic or Negro be a good citizen?

According to their capabilities they could. The Klan has no bitterness toward any one of these people. The Klan is simply standing for certain principles and they think that these principles can best be exemplified and carried out by people possessing certain qualifications and beliefs. They feel that a man born and reared on American soil, under the American flag, is more likely to be true to American principles if he is educated in the public schools.

This is no reflection on others who may be very patriotic, but the Klan thinks that for obvious reasons, persons born and educated under true American ideals and in the American public schools, who think more of this country and typify a higher degree of patriotism than others. The Klan has no monopoly on patriotism any more than any other persons or organization has a monopoly on any good thing, but it is selecting men with certain good qualifications, and this is done every day by other organizations without objection or comment. This right to select seems to draw the inference that Catholics, Jews and Negroes are not equally good citizens. This is not true.

The same right to select by qualification is exercised by families, churches, political parties, government, business concerns and associations of persons generally. So, why ask the qustion? The Klan will condemn no man nor set of men so long as he, or they, are obedient to the law and uphold the principles of Americanism and the principles of Christian religion.

4. What is the basis, then, for the distinction which the Klan draws against members of these races and religions?

Simply this, that no one places a limitation on his citizenship, on a religious principle, that precludes possibility of a seperation of church and state, while the other for two thousand years has rigidly adhered to a racial limitation of intermarriage which prevents their assimlaton into an American life, wholly and unreservedly. Americans must face the fact that God Almighty never intended for a social equality of the Negro and the white man. The Negro is America's problem and it should give him all of the privileges of citizenship that it can give, but face squarely the issue that intermarriage and social equality is impossible.

Now that the passions and prejudices of our war between the states are so long past, America must frankly face the fact that the Negro is separated from the white man by a profound racial barrier and many centuries of civilization. The racial difference is profound and completely bars any thought of social equality because that would be impossible without intermingling; the lack of development cannot possibly be overcome by an immediate process of education. America owes it to the Negro to give him every privilege, protection and every opportunity consistent with national safety, but dare not risk the destruction of our civilization that might come if its control should ever fall into his hands.

I would say that individual members of any of the classes mentioned might be patriotic citizens and that there have been instances in which they have shown very high patriotism, but America today is threatened very definitely, there is need for immediate organization to meet the danger, and the surest way of making certain that our organization will be free from the influence mentioned, is to issue the same order that Washington issued on the night before the Battle of Trenton: "Put none but Americans on guard tonight."

5. Does not the obligation of the Klan oath to protect a Klansman in any secret except one involving treason, malicious murder or rape alone excepted, actually prevent the just punishment of a Klansman guilty of crime when the evidence necessary to his conviction is in the hands of other Klansmen?

There is nothing in the obligation of a Klansman that requires him under the oath, to protect a Klansman in any secret that would conflict with his duty to his government or with his oath of allegiance to the constituted officers of the law. There has been much discussion on this point, and in order to have the matter entirely clear, the particular part of the oath referred to, officially quoted is as follows: "I swear that I will keep secure to myself, a secret of a Klansman when same is committed to me in the sacred bond of Klansmanship, the crime of violating this solemn oath—treason against the United States of America—rape and malicious murder, alone excepted."

Continuing his oath, a Klansman swears further: "I most solemnly assert and affirm that to the government of the United States of America and any state thereof of which I may become a resident, I sacredly swear an unqualified allegiance above any other and every kind of government in the whole world. I here and now pledge my life, my property, my vote, and my sacred honor to uphold its flag, its constitution and constitutional laws and will protect, defend and enforce same unto death."

"I most solemnly promise and swear that I will always, at all times and in all places, help, aid and assist the duly constituted officers of the law in the proper performance of their legal duties."

ALABAMA COTTON CROP LOOKS EXCEPTIONALLY GOOD

Condition of the present cotton crop of Alabama is 80% of normal compard with 70% on the same date last year, according to F. W. Gist, agricultural statistician. The report is the first official report for cotton issued this year and represents the status on May 25 as compared with the same date in 1924. For the entire South it is 76.6% compared with 65.6% a year ago and 72 for the ten-year average.

The condition in Alabama varies from 73 in the southeast section to 90 in the northwest section. As a whole, the condition in the northern half of the state was several points higher than in the southern half. A year ago the reverse was true, the condition figure in the southern half being higher than that in the northern part of the state.

Change For Carfare? No? Slot Provides It!

PATRONS of the New York subways are finding change-making machines—like the one pictured above—quite handy. They save time and cut down delay to the traveling public.

The machine is automatic in its operation. Merely dropping a quarter or half dollar into it brings the desired smaller change instantly. And the best part of it is, it can't be "beaten." It detects bad coins!

My Favorite Stories

By IRVIN S. COBB

Proving There's Something in a Name

I once knew a colored child called "Exey" for short, whose real name was Eczema. The mother of the unfortunate pickaninny had found the word in a patent medicine almanac and had fallen in love with its poetic sound. I also included in my acquaintance at one time a negro youth who answered to the title of Hallowed Harris.

"Yas, suh," stated his father on being pressed for his reason for choosing so unusual a baptismal prefix for his offspring. "I got dat name outen de Holy Bible. Don't you 'member, boss, whar it say in de Lawd's Prayer, 'Hallowed be dy name?'"

But the Testamental name which struck me as being most interesting of all was worn by a dog—a mangy appearing, breedless, nondescript rabbit dog which trailed an old darkey whom a friend of mine claims he met on a road in the piney woods of south Georgia. The dog ranged off into the thickets and his owner ordered him back.

"Did I hear you calling that dog 'Rover,' Uncle?" asked my friend.

"Naw, suh, I called him 'Over,' w'ich is short for 'Mo'over,' w'ich it is de dawg's right name."

"Where did you get that name and why?"

"Fur good reasons, boss," said the old man, with a chuckle. "W'en I gits dat dawg he's jest little scabby pup an' alluz 'nointin' of hisse'f wid his tongue. So I 'members whar de Good Book say, 'An' de dawg, Mo'over, licked his sores.' So I knowed den I had done hit on de right name fur dat pup of mine."

A Violent Indisposition

I first heard this one several years ago. I have heard it several times in varying forms since then. But for me age cannot wither nor custom stale it. To my way of thinking, it is still worthy of being included in any symposium, great or small, of stories dealing with the Afro-American population.

As my favorite version runs, a colored man, on appearing for work one morning wore a countenance so battered that almost one might have been pardoned for assuming that its owner had made a more or less successful effort to run it through a meat chopper. The white man for whom the scarred and bruised victim worked took one look at that disfigured face and threw up both hands in horror and sympathy.

"Great heavens, boy," he cried, "what you been doing to yourself?"

"Me? I ain't been doin' nothin' to myse'f," explained the darky. "But somethin' is done been did to me, Mr. Watkins. It's lak dis, suh: Yistiddy evenin' I got into a kind of an argymint wid another nigger an' one word led to another, ez it will. An' purty soon I up an' hauled off an' hit at him wid my fist.

"Well, seemed lak that irritated him. So he took an split my lip wide open wid a pair of brass knucks, an' he blacked dis eye of mine clear down to my armpit an' he tore one ear moughty nigh loose from de side of my huid, an' den, to cap all, he knocked me down and stomped up an' down 'pun my stomach wid his feet. . . . Honest to G—d, Mr. Watkins, I never did git so sick of a nigger in all my life!"

MAJ. C. J. ALLISON, COURT CLERK, DIES

Birmingham Man Was Cousin Of President McKinley; Had One Son Killed In France.

Birmingham, Ala., June 5.—Major Chas. J. Allison, cousin of President McKinley and for 26 years clerk of the United States district and circuit court here, died today after a long illness.

Major Allison had been in ill health since his son, Lieut. Jack Allison, was killed in France in 1918. He has been confined to the hospital since January. News of his son's death did not reach the veteran until after the armistice when the blow fell doubly hard.

Major Allison was born in Girard, Ohio, in 1862. He was appointed a major in the engineering corps by President McKinley during the Spanish-American war. He lived in Tennessee many years before coming to Alabama.

Mr. Earl Williams of Birmingham had to be arrested last Sunday night to make him respect and obey the laws of the Town of Clanton. He was down in this part of the country on a visit, and seemed to be showing out with his car, driving recklessly up and down the streets. When policeman Retherford undertook to stop him he would not stop. But when he came back through town Sunday night on his return to Birmingham, the officers got him.

IRISH POTATOES ON A LIMB

Rev. Malcolm Lockhart of Refuge brought to the Banner office last Saturday morning an Irish potato limb about 10 inches long on which were grown twenty potatoes. The potatoes ranged in size from one inch in diameter on down to nothing.

Rev. Lockhart said that while plowing his potatoes a week ago, he covered up this limb in the dust about an inch deep. When he went to dig potatoes he found the limb with the potatoes on it.

From this specimen, it seems that it would not be a bad idea for people to cover up their entire potato patch with dirt.

Alabama grows enough of 72 different crops for the Census Bureau to list them seperately. Many others are grown in such small quantities as not to be listed by the Census Bureau.

POOR O

BURGLARY ATTEMPTED AT MOUNTAIN CREEK STORE

Last Saturday Mr. T. J. Henderson, storekeeper at Mountain Creek, got a tip that some boys were in possession of keys to his store and gasoline tank and that they planned to enter his place that night.

Accordingly, when the store was closed after the day's business, a man was left there to watch and see what happened, and to catch the burglars.

Late in the night two white boys came and unlocked the gasoline tank and carried away a quantity of gasoline. In a few minutes they came back and tried their keys on the store but could not get in. After trying for several minutes to unlock the store, they started to go away, whereupon the man who was watching them made an attempt to hold them; but they refused to be held and got away.

Officers from the Sheriff's force were called and they went to Mountain Creek to help in apprehending the guilty parties. No arrests have been made yet, but the officers and Mr. Hnderson are in possession of clues that they feel sure will get the right boys. Arrests are expected in the next few days.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Moore have moved to Calera and will operate a hotel there, in the future.

HANGING FACES FIVE NEGROES

Unless unlocked for legal intervention steps in five negroes will be hanged in the Jefferson county jail yard within the next two weeks.

John Milton and Willie Green, convicted murderers, and Emory Smith, convicted robber, will be executed this coming Friday, and a week later Odell Jackson and his wife Pearl, will follow them to the gallows.

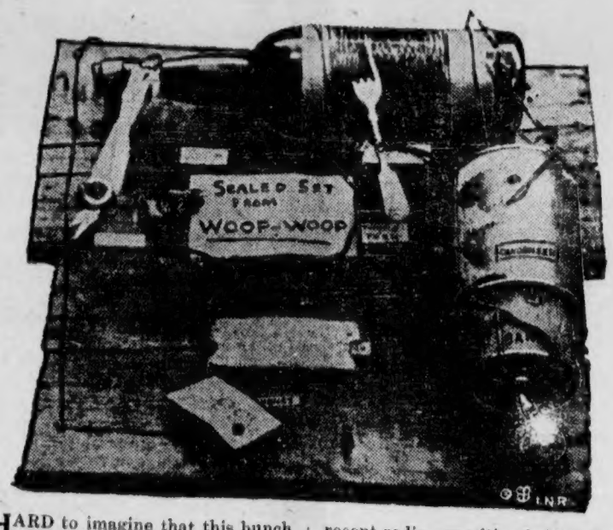
Milton is the only one of the five negroes who offers no defense. He confessed that he attacked Mrs. Blaney Collins and killed her eight-months-old baby with an ax near Morris on August 8.

Green contends that he killed his wife in self-defense. The Jacksons state that they are innocent. An appeal to save them from the rope is now before the state pardon board at Montgomery.

The five executions will make a total of 56 hangings to be held in the jail yard since the erection of the steel scaffold 25 years ago. The executions will be witnessed only by persons authorized to do so by law.

Peculiar twists of fate predominate the death sentence of Smith. He was tried on three counts for robbery, had three mistrials, sentenced to life imprisonment once and subsequently given the extreme penalty. His trials cover a period of five years. He states he is guilty of the crime on which he received the life sentence, but innocent of the one which is to claim his life.

A "Super-Iodyne" Radio Set But - - It Worked!



HARD to imagine that this bunch of metalic "odds and ends is a novelty Radio set—but it is and what's more, its builder convincingly proved to experts that it worked! It was one of the sensations at a recent radio exposition held in Sydney, Australia.

An empty bottle, a broken fork and empty tin cans comprised the "raw" materials used in its construction. "Raw"—is right!

Our town was somewhat excited last week when a huge black bear appeared in the woods and caused our logger, Joe Brockit, to leave his team and beat a hasty retreat. Dogs were secured from Tallahassee and put on his trail, and there was a lively race for several hours, until night caused them to call off the hunt and wait until another day when they would have daylight. The bear has been seen several times since, but it has been impossible to get the dogs on his trail again.

The waters of the Oclocknee are very low now and it is no trouble to catch all the fish one wants.

Quite a number of our folks motored to Calvary Sunday to the all day service and foot washing of the members of that church.

Mr. Claud Arrington, one of the leading merchants, was with us part of the day Thursday on business.

(S. L. NORTON, Manager).

Raymond Carlson of Chicago and Arthur Peterson of Detroit are spending their vacation-days among their old home folks in Thorsby. We are always glad to welcome the young people who grew up in Thorsby and have gone out to fill positions of responsibility and usefulness. We are also glad to have them bring their friends or the life-mate which they have selected in their new environment. Mr. Peterson sent his wife ahead several weeks ago and she is much pleased with the people she meets here and young Carlson brought two of his chums, Gustave Rodell and George Pearson, arriving last Wednesday for a two weeks visit.

Miss Esther Johnson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Johnson, is home from college to spend a few days with her parents, before going east to take a position which she has secured for summer work, at Louisville, Ky.

Mrs. Hattie M. Gerald and daughters, Ruth and Mary Ella, got off last Thursday morning for their trip to the Pacific coast.

Mrs. Ethel Wright Loveland left for her home at Downers Grove, Ill., Wednesday morning, accompanied by Miss Lois Leech, who will spend vacation days among her kinsfolk in St. Paul, Minn. Plato Deason went to his home near Clanton the same day. These three remained since Thorsby Institute closed for the summer vacation, to attend to matters pertaining to cleaning up and closing up. They were the last contingent of faculty or student body to leave Thorsby.

Miss Ruth Martin went to Montgomery Saturday, where she will take a summer course in a business college, for which she won a scholarship the past year.

Miss Margaret Butler arrived home from Piedmont college Tuesday to spend the summer vacation with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Butler.

Misses Boona Lee Wood and Gladys Murphy, Thorsby Institute students, left last week to take positions in Birmingham for the summer.

Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Karlson will leave next week for a visit to their old home in Chicago. They are planning to make the trip by auto.

At the Congregational church next Sunday morning, June 14th, instead of the regular preaching service at 11 o'clock, there will be held the annual "Childrens Day" exercises of the Sunday School, for which a pleasing program has been prepard.

At the Baptist church, Rev. R. L. Bonner will preach at 11 a.m., and at 7:45 p.m. At 3, p.m., there will be a special service for ordination of D. H. Durbin.

Services at the Lutheran church Sunday, June 14th, will be conducted in English by Rev. Th. M. Bakke at 11 a.m. and 7:30 p.m.

Mrs. Grover A. Bice entertained the Y. W. A. last Tuesday afternoon, when quite an unexpected treat in music was enjoyed. Mr. Hood, who will be remembered as the "Wandering Pianist," was present and furnished music. Mrs. S. C. Wood and Mrs. Walker were guests of the Association.

Mr. Grover A. Bice, Mr. Heaton and others went on a fishing trip to Steep Bridge last Tuesday. Mrs. Bice, the assistant postmaster, is doing the office work during his absence.

C. C. Peterson and wife and Chas. Phelps and wife, motored from Birmingham Sunday to visit Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Reagan.

The new highway has come to Thorsby. Laying concrete is now progressing through the business section. If any of our readers have not seen this outfit in actual operation, it is well worth taking a day off, if necessary, to study the achievements of mind over matter in the wonderful co-ordinated mechanism that is so rapidly doing this important work and doing it so well.

This is the week that Thorsby business men's committee is to make their canvass for funds to meet Thorsby, and vicinity, quota of the new building fund.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman motored to Montgomery last Sunday, returning at a late hour.

Reno Villadsen and family returned Sunday night from Oakman, Ala., where his wife has been visiting her sister for the past two weeks, since each of these two ladies is the mother of five children and all were enjoying the visit, we can assume that they saw no dull times.

One needs but to know what such thoroughfares mean to the people in other section of the country, where they have been built. We are reminded of a trip by auto, which we recently took around Chatauqua Lake in New York State.

A bathing party was enjoyed Monday night at Gore's Pond, by quite a large party from the south end of Thorsby.

Codie Bell of Andalusia, a former T. I. student, made a week end visit to Thorsby.

The committee on plans for Thorsby Institute new building spent the day in Mongomery last Thursday. In consultation with Superintendent Ledbetter, of the construcion department of the State Department of Education, and others, and brought home ideas and plans to study over and work out something that may be available at an early date.

A Bank Account Is An Incentive to Thrift and Economy

Without it one is likely to spend money for things that are useless.

Like the man who received a $200 legacy and spent a day and a night writing orders to mail-order houses, next day he went to a friends to borrow a nickel to buy a loaf of bread. This may be an extreme example, but it actually happened, and in a way may happen to anyone who has not the banking habit.

25 Principal Mineral Products come from L&N Served States

Minerals are the basis of practically every manufactured article—raw materials dug from the earth make possible nearly every article in general use in industry and in the home.

The L. & N.-served South is particularly rich in mineral deposits and particularly well served in transportation facilities for taking them from where they are mined to where they are converted into finished products.

Geological Survey figures show that 25 of the principal minerals—from Aluminum to Zinc, from Iron to Sulphur, from Graphite to Fuller's Earth—are mined in the territory served by this railroad.

These facts furnish further evidence that the health, wealth and happiness of the community and of the nation are directly dependent on the transportation systems.

POWER COMPANY TO BUILD ANOTHER DAM

$13,000,000 Will Be Expended On Project at Lock 18 Near Wetumpka On Coosa.

Construction by the Alabama Power company at Lock 18 on the Coosa river, in Elmore county, near Wetumpka, of a hydro-electric power dam and plant, to cost approximately $13,000,000, is proposed in a petition filed by the Alabama Power Company with the Alabama Public Service Commission, Monday afternoon. The petition which has been set for hearing on July 6, asks issuance of a certificate authorizing the company to proceed with the development.

Montgomery and Montgomery industries will necessarily be the principal beneficiaries of this new project through which the petition to the public service commission states, 150,000-horse power will be available. The electric power generated will be transmitted to consumers through the power company's general transmission system, but Montgomery being the largest city contiguous to the proposed new development, will benefit by the resultant increase in electric current directly available. It was stated by a representative of the power company, Monday, that Montgomery will be one of the points served through the new plant.

The site for the new project, construction of which is now being proposed, is located between 15 and 20 miles northeast of Montgomery. Application for permit to install the new plant has already been filed by the power company with the Federal power commission at Washington, D. C.

In a statement issued from headquarters of the Alabama Power company, in Birmingham, Monday evening it was announced that the company desired to begin construction on the proposed project at Lock 18 on the Coosa river December 1, 1925, and that it is planned to complete the hydro-electric power dam and plant within three years.

Plans for development call for construction of a dam 90 feet in height, and to contain 300,000 cubic yards of concrete. It will be the largest of the Coosa river dams. The plant will be of the same general design as other hydro-electric plants on Coosa river. It was stated further that the plans call for an ultimate installation of 175,000 horse power in the form of five turbines of 35,000 horse power each.

The proposed dam, it was stated, will create a navigable lake 20 miles long, and that the creation of this lake or pool will be one more step toward the construction of a comprehensive navigation project of the Coosa-Alabama system, from Rome, Ga., to Mobile, Alabama.

The dam is to be of solid concrete masonry construction raising the elevation of the pool created approximately 95 feet above present low water level. The power house will consist of foundations for five generating units, two units of which will be installed in first construction. Further provision will be made for three more generating units to be constructed from time to time to meet the reasonable market demands for power. The generating units in first construction will consist of two vertical type water wheels of approximately 36,000 horse power, each driving generators of approximately 25,000 K. W. capacity each. Power will be generated at 13,200 volts, stepping up to 110,000 volts for transmission. The project is to be connected to the transmission line system of the Alabama Power company by means of the now existing transmission line in the vicinity of this site.

Fifth Sunday Meeting At Maple Springs

The Fifth Sunday Meeting of the Chilton County Association was held with Maple Springs church.

The devotional was conducted by W. H. Devaughn. Bro. W. H. Billingsley was elected chairman. The speakers for the morning were W. P. Lowery, "Deacons and their duty;" R. L. Bonner, "Relation of the pastor to the church;" Dr. W. R. Seymore, "The Baptist Hospital;" B. Lawrence, "Why the Sunday school?" Mrs. W. J. Billingsley and Miss Reynolds on the W. M. U.

We were indeed fortunate to have Miss Reynolds and Dr. Seymore with us to take part on the program. They made splendid talks and added much to the day. It was decided to send Miss Jewel McDowell and Miss Myrtle Martin to Mentone to take W. M. U. training.

The afternoon program was also very splendid and interesting. It was decided to ask the churches of Chilton County Association to cooperate in holding a rvival in every church in the Association, beginning the fourth Sunday in July. W. J. Billingsley, W. P. Lowery, and G. F. Harper were appointed as a committee to work out this and assist the churches in getting ready for it.

The people of Maple Springs community cared for the Fifth Sunday Meeting in a fine way. It speaks well for their community.

The Commissioners Court of Chilton County was in session Tuesday. The court made its final settlement with Tax Collector J. T. Rockett on tax matters for this year; also disposition was made of some minor road matters that had been held over from a former meeting of the court.

LIBERTY HILL—CEDAR GROVE SINGING SOCIETY

The Liberty Hill and Cedar Grove Singing Society met with Cedar Grove last last Sunday afternoon, June 14. The meeting was called to order by the chairman, Prof. J. W. Lowery.

Directors for the afternoon were J. W. Lowery, D. T. Melton, Zack Lowery and Harrison Hayes. Our quartette was not present, but a few special songs were arranged between each lesson.

The society meets with Cedar Grove every Second Sunday and with Liberty Hill every Fourth Sunday afternoon. Everybody is invited, but we especially invite any singing society or quartette to come and help us out.

FRANCES LOWERY, Sec'y.

WILL WE KEEP RISING OR WILL WE FALL?

Watch an aeroplane some day as it soars and climbs toward the zenith accompanied by the roar of its powerful motor. Smaller and smaller it grows. Fainter and fainter becomes the hum of the motor. Higher and higher the pilot climbs. Then silence. The motor is stopped.

Sailing gracefully as a hawk the machine seems to remain in the heights for a time. How beautifully she banks the curves. How cleverly the pilot holds his elevation.

But like everything in this world she must either climb higher or drop lower. Gradually she begins to grow larger and larger until finally she points her nose toward the earth and gracefully alights again on terra firma.

The life of a man and the life of a community may be likened to the flight of this machine. When you stop the motor of individual effort or community initiative, you immediately begin a descent to a dead level of mediocrity.

If you desire to improve your opportunities year after year, you must devote your leisure time to those intellectual or mental pursuits which will make you more efficient. If you want Clanton to stand forth as a better community than the average town you must do your part to create better community spirit. For individual effort and community enthusiasm are the motors which keep the man or his city constantly climbing to higher and better things.

Home Coming Day At Goodwater July Fourth

Goodwater, Ala., June 15.—There will be a home coming day at Grimes Lake, in Goodwater, on July 4. There will be a barbecue and chicken dinner and a large crowd is expected from all sections of the state.

The speakers of the day will be Attorney General Harwell G. Davis, of Montgomery, and Congressman W. B. Bowling, of this district. Each of these men is an interesting speaker.

There will also be a band to furnish the music, and in the afternoon a baseball game will be one of the features of the day. Everybody who ever lived in this section, especially, is invited to return and meet old friends and make new acquaintances.

Dr. Gragg Back After Taking Vacation

Now Working On New Methodist Church

Work has begun again on the new Methodist church building in Clanton, and it is expected that the auditorium and basement will be completed in the next few weeks.

The final completion of this imposing edifice will add greatly to Clanton's roster of public buildings, and it is hoped that the work may proceed without hindrance.

John Maddox and Susie Moore Arrested

John Maddox, taxi driver of Clanton, was arrested Monday night by officers of the city and county, and placed in jail on a charge of miscegenation, which involves the indulgence in illegal relations between a white person and a negro. Susie Moore, the negro in the case, was also placed in jail on the same charge, and in addition a charge of violating the prohibition law was made against her, because the officers found some whiskey in her house at the time the two were caught together.

The arrests were made about ten o'clock Monday night when the officers succeeded in catching Maddox in the house of the negro woman, where he had apparently gone to spend the night.

Preliminary trials were held Wednesday morning before Judge Gulledge, who fixed the bond of Maddox at $750 and the bond of Susie Moore at $300 in the miscegenation case and $300 in the whiskey case.

B. L. Gardner Died Of Heart Failure Tuesday

Mr. B. L. Gardner, age 83, died suddenly at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Alice Williams, in Clanton, Tuesday afternoon about five o'clock. Heart failure was the immediate cause of his death.

Considering his advanced age, Mr. Gardner had been in apparently good health until recently. Only last week he returned from a visit to some of his children in Montgomery and Verbena.

He was a Confederate soldier; was reared at Verbena, where he lived until about five years ago when he came to Clanton to live with his daughter.

Mr. Gardner is survived by the following children: N. L. and J. B. Gardner, of Verbena; J. P. Gardner, of Montgomery; Mrs. M. Tate, of Montgomery; Mrs. Alice Williams and Miss Bettie Morris Gardner, of Clanton.

Funeral services and burial at Verbena Wednesday afternoon at three o'clock, conducted by Rev. S. J. Ezell.

Mr. Gardner was a very kind and highly cultured gentleman who has always stood out prominently for his exemplary Christian character among his associates. He was loved, admired and respected by all who became acquainted with him, and his sudden death comes as a deep pang of sorrow to the hearts of his acquaintances.

The people of Clanton especially sympathize with Mrs. Williams and Miss Bettie Morris in their bereavement. The breaking of the tender cords which their love had formed for their aged father is a tragedy which draws forth the sympathy of the many friends they have made since their residence in Clanton.

There were also 19 arrests for conspiracy, and other arrests for reckless driving, burglary, assault with intent to murder and numerous other offenses.

Of cases made by state officers which were disposed of during the month, convictions were secured in 297 cases, with only nine acquittals and 10 cases nol prossed.

PRIZE AWARDED TO ALABAMA POWER CO.

For Rendering Best Public Service of Any Company In The United States.

The Alabama Power Company was last week awarded the Forbes Magazine Public Service Cup in a national contest conducted to determine which light and power company in America rendered the most constructive public service in local territory in 1924. The award was made after hundreds of exhibits had been examined by the judges, in whose opinion the Alabama Power Company had far exceeded all others in its work not only in developing and distributing electric energy but in its fair dealings with the public and its efforts to build up its state in many ways. The judges were Bruce Barton, of Barton, Durstine and Osborn; Thomas F. Logan, of Thos. F. Logan, Inc.; Philip Thompson, Publicity Manager, Western Electric Co.; Louis Wiley, New York "Times;" M. C. Robbins, "Advertising Fortnightly;" Roy Dickinson, "Printers' Ink;" and B. C. Forbes, Editor of Forbes Magazine. The cup and certificate of award will be formally presented to the company by Mr. Forbes, at the national convention of the National Electric Light Association, in San Francisco, on the night of June 17.

The committee was greatly impressed with the variety of methods employed by the winning company but was prompted chiefly in its decision by the actual results accomplished. The work of the company in boosting its home state irrespective of the territory it serves, its efforts to be of material service to the farmers in extending its lines to rural communities and making possible without remuneration to itself the availability of calcium arsenate for boll weevil eradication were outstanding and unique contributions to service. In permitting home people to invest their savings in the company, and its contributions to educational institutions played no little part in winning the coveted honor.

In the opinion of the judges, and which was so expressed in their written decision, the work of Alabama Power Company has never been equalled and that its methods in gaining the respect and cooperation of the public it serves and in rendering efficient service at the lowest possible cost to the people could well be adopted at a profit by other similar public servants.

Winners of second and third prizes were Nebraska Power Company and Consumers Power Company of Michigan. The prize-winning exhibit of Alabama Power Company will be publicly displayed at the San Francisco convention where it will be inspected by more than two thousand power officials from every section of the nation.

Boils!

"Ouch!"

S.S.S. will rid you of boils, pimples, blackheads and skin eruptions!

DON'T CLOSE your eyes to the warning which Nature gives when angry, painful boils appear on your neck, face or other parts of your body. Boils, pimples and so-called skin disorders are the result of an impoverished condition of the blood and are not to be trifled with.

It is nothing more than folly to expect to get absolute relief from the use of local treatments, such as ointments, salves, etc. Such remedies may afford temporary relief but you want more than relief; you want a remedy which will rid you forever of the torturing disorder. And the one remedy which has no equal is S.S.S.

S.S.S. stops boils and keeps them from coming. S.S.S. builds blood-power! That is what makes fighting blood. Fighting blood destroys impurities. It fights boils! It fights skin eruptions—pimples, blackheads, eczema! It always wins! S.S.S. has been known since 1826 as one of the greatest blood builders, blood cleansers and system strengtheners ever produced. There are no unproven theories about S.S.S., the scientific results of each of its purely vegetable medicinal ingredients are admitted by authorities. Begin taking S.S.S. today and clear your skin of those blood disorders!

S.S.S. is sold at all good drug stores in two sizes. The larger size is more economical.

I wish to state to my friends and patrons in this County that there is a man by the name of T. E. Grier going over the county selling Singer Sewing Machines, and I understand from a number of my friends that he is making the statement that the Singer Machine Company is letting me out, and that he has been sent here to take my place.

I want to say to my friends and patrons if he has made this statement that it is entirely without any foundation whatsoever and that it is a baseless and malicious falsehood. I further wish to state to my friends who are contemplating buying a Singer sewing machine that I have just received a new shipment of machines today, June 1st, and I will get another shipment next week. I will also have a carload of machines to reach me about July 15th for fall delivery.

POOR O

J. W. Evans Killed By Paving Machine

J. W. Evans, age 25 years, was killed in an accident at the paving machine on the highway near Cordrey's old mill place south of Clanton late last Wednesday afternoon. Evans' home was in Birmingham. He had been at work with Charley Cox on the grading job for the past year or more. Last Wednesday he went to work on the paving job with Morgan-Hill Paving Co., when the fatal accident snatched away his life before night.

Details of how he was killed state that the large steel pan on the mixer got loose from the fastening in some way and fell to its lower position. Evans, not expecting it to fall, was passing underneath just as it came down. He was pinned under the heavy structure and his body badly crushed.

He ws brought to the Central Alabama Hospital in great haste, but died before anything could be done for him.

The body was prepared for burial by Martin, and sent to his home in Birmingham Thursday.

John Henry Pope, farmer, who is charged with slaying his neighbor, Emory Breedlove, in a family feud 5 miles north of Talladega last Saturday, was released at a coroners' inquest. The jury returned a verdict of justifiable homicide. Saturday afternoon, according to testimony, Breedlove and a son appeared at the Pope farm where Pope was having some oats threshed. Trouble arose and in the shooting that followed, Breedlove was killed.

The farmer who is using a two-horse cultivator and following two mules or two horses is doing just about twice as much work as he did when he used a one-horse plow. The farmers who are doing so will make more money.

Secretary Hughes and President Coolidge have concluded that in order to abolish war we must first get at the cause and get rid of it. Admiral Fiske says that women are the cause of war. Therefore—the bet is all off.

The mosquito is like a child—in one respect. When he stops making a noise, you may know that he is getting into something.—Albany (Ore.) Herald.

Mr. Edward W. Miller, mail carrier on Clanton Route 8 is off taking his annual vacation. He left Clanton Monday morning for Kansas City, Mo., where he will take light treatment for a few days. After that Mr. Miller will extend his trip westward, probably out in California.

Workmen are now engaged in performing the preliminaries to the beginning of paving on the business streets of Clanton. Large water mains are being laid along the streets to be paved, so that the needs of the city in the future may be amply provided for. The concrete paving will of course be permanent, and therefore it is necessary that the underground water system be completed before the concrete is laid, as it will not be possible to do it afterwards without great expense in getting through the pavement.

THE REASON WHY CLANTON IS A GOOD TOWN

A prominent business man of our city said the other day that Clanton is the best town he ever saw because there are no rich people living here. To our mind that expression very nearly sums up the most valid reason why Clanton is the splendid city that it is. It is a fact, proven by the experience of hundreds of places, that wealth does not make a town, by which we mean wealth that is held by a few people, and directed toward their own individual advantage.

The only value of wealth in making a town is to have it fairly distributed among the citizenship and in the hands of people who want a town to prosper. We have many people in Clanton who have a liberal amount of wealth in property and in money, but it is wealth that is active. It is money in use and property in use, serving to keep the wheels of business turning. There are men of means here whose money is serving as the capital for stores, farms, and various things, and it is easy to see the contrast between wealth in use and wealth in idleness.

The money and capital in our banks is at work constantly keeping alive the many activities of business thruout our county.

Clanton has the most solid foundation of any town you can find. Those of us who have wandered away to other towns and finally landed back in Clanton are the best witnesses that Clanton, all in all, is the best town in which to live and do business.

Mr. Ed Popwell of Midland City spent a few days recently with relatives and friends in Clanton.

Do You Know—?

That 21,000,000 letters went to the dead letter office last year?

That 803,000 parcels did likewise?

That 100,000 letters go into the mail yearly in perfectly blank envelopes?

That $55,000 in cash is removed annually from misdirected envelopes?

That $12,000 in postage stamps is found in similar fashion?

That $3,000,000 in checks, drafts and money orders never reach intended owners?

That Uncle Sam collects $92,000 a year in postage for the return of mail sent to the dead letter office?

That it costs Uncle Sam $1,740,000 yearly to look up addresses on misdirected mail?

That 200,000,000 letters are given this service, and—

That it costs in one city alone $500 daily? And do you know—

That this vast sum could be saved and the dead letter office abolished if each piece of mail carried a return address, and if each parcel were wrapped in stout paper and tied with a strong cord?

Moral: Every man knows his own address if not that of his correspondent.

Put it in the upper left hand corner!

DAYS WE'LL NEVER FORGET...

CLANTON'S BASEBALL TEAM

People in Clanton have been heard to say of the Clanton baseball team: "I don't see how they can keep on winning. Sometimes things look dark for them, but somehow they nearly always nose out. I think part of it is luck."

Now, there may be such a thing as luck, and luck may win basball games sometimes, but luck alone will not win ball games, and the club that just plays along, looking for the breaks, and praying that when that break comes it will favor them, will soon wake up at th foot of the list.

Of course, it is nice to have a shower come up just in time to stop a game with the home club in the lead, and this happens sometimes, but it doesn't rain during every baseball game.

It takes fighting—that "they shall not pass" spirit to win and keep on winning. Baseball requires as much pure fight as experience to make up a winning combination.

Clanton has one of the most wide-awake teams in this neck of the woods and people who are wondering how they keep on winning will just have to give up the idea that they are "just lucky."

In Wright, Clanton has a young catcher who knows what he is doing, keeps his eyes open, and keeps on the job every minute. This young man went well with Troy High School, and comes to us with a good record.

Whorton, Starling and Moulton can hold down the mound duties very acceptably. Whorton is an old Alabama star, and was with that Talladega team which established such a wonderful record in amateur baseball circles a few years ago. Starling has a fine record at Troy High School behind him, and was Wright's battery mate at that school this spring, when they were playing a brand of baseball far in excess of the usual high school standard. He has already shown that he "knows his stuff." Moulton is a former Auburn man, and besides his mound work, is dangerous with the stick and an excellent fielder. His batting eye is good, and he is big enough to make his blows tell.

Connatser, at first base, was favorably mentioned this spring by all southern sport writers, for his splendid work at Alabama this year. His playing, no doubt, was a great factor in Alabama's spectacular 1925 baseball season, and capture of the Southern championship.

Sewell, at second, is also a member of the 1925 Alabama team, a brother of Joe and Luke Sewell, of the Cleveland Indians, and should have a good year with Clanton.

Parrish, who guards the hot corner, is Clanton's old stand-by. Clanton fans believe in Webb Parrish, and he has never given them cause to doubt his ability. Coaching has had but little part in making Parrish a good baseball player—it's just in him. We not only look for good work from him this year, but we know he can and will deliver.

Hayes is a finished product at short. People heave a sigh of relief when "Jacky" calls "I've got it" on a seemingly impossible chance. They are sure of him—because Jack is sure and reliable. He is a good hitter also.

Thompson and Jones, members, with Hayes, of the state high school championship team, will take care of their places in the outer gardens. And besides, if necessity demands, they can take places in the infield with equal strength to the club. They can be depended upon, both afield and at bat. They were two mainstays on Chilton High's team of state champions.

With this array of talent, with their everlasting stick-to-the-last spirit we can win baseball games in an ever lengthening row, and yet not be forced to wait on luck to help us. Coach Heard seems to imbue all his teams with a fighting spirit that takes them out of many tight places.

We want only fair play, an even chance, and someone else can have the luck—we'll take the games.

Boost the home team. When one pulls a bum play, don't ride him. It is much harder to play perfect ball than it looks—it cannot be done all of the time—and it doesn't help any to roast them over the coals. They hate to make errors much worse than you hate to see them made. If you give the erring one the glad hand and a word of cheer, he will do more to redeem himself than he would under a lashing tongue. Be considerate toward them, remembering the tense strain they are in—and that an error is never made where it can be helped. So why ride them? They are playing for YOU. Come on, be a sport and ROOT for THEM, instead of knocking them. Remember this at the next game you attend. Come to help and not to hinder.

Figures Show Condition Of Alabama Crops

The harvested crop of oats of Alabama this spring is estimated at 4,050,000 bushels in a report issued today by F. W. Gist, agricultural statistician, cooperating with the Extension Service and State Department of Agriculture. This is besides that portion of the oats region which will be cut as hay and not harvested, which amounts to about 26% of the total. The total acreage grown to oats was about 345,000, of which 255,000 was cut for use as grain, including that which will be fed in the bundle. The acreage was 15% greater than last year.

A preliminary estimate of the acreage from which tame hay will be cut fixes the total at 868,000, which compares with 823,000 last year. Besides there will be about 20,000 acres of wild hay cut. The present growing condition of hay is only 74% of normal, compared with 82 at this time last year. Practically all the crop is yet to be cut, and a few good rains will probably result in a better yield than is now indicated.

The acreage of sugar cane is fixed at 95% of last year, when 36,000 acres were made into syrup. The present condition of the crop is 84% normal.

The yield of early Irish potatoes this year is estimated at 60 bushels, a very low yield due to dry weather.

The total amount of fertilizers used on all crops this year is estimated as 116% of that used last year, and 80% of the total was used on cotton.

For the first time in several years the supply of farm labor is equal to the demand, both being less than the normal. Excellent working weather has lessened the demand for extra labor up to this time this season.

Milk production per cow keeps up well, the average per cow milked being 1.75 gallons; though only 54% of all cows are being milked.

Forty-six per cent of the hens layed on June 1.

Condition of minor crops on June 1 was as follows: Alfalfa, 78; apples, 51; peaches, 77; pears, 65; melons, 76; blackberries, 81; home gardens, 72.

HAY AND LEGUMES

This is certainly a good time to plant cow peas, soy beans, peanuts and velvet beans.

Enough legumes for hay for all the livestock on the farm and enough to turn under to keep the land rich, is the key to successful farming.

Extension service workers are encouraging farmers to plant soy beans and cow peas in every acre of corn, on every acre following oats and on all other available land.

By all meas, don't let this season go by without raising all the feed you will need next year.

Soy beans and cow peas may be planted as late as the middle of July and make profitable yields.

Now that it is a settled fact that the new highway is to come through Clanton on Seventh Street, we think it would be a good step for the property owners on the north and south ends of the street to improve their property so that it will present an appearance in keeping with the best portions of the city. As it now stands, the norh end of the street in particular looks rather ragged.

Clanton needs to get the L. & N. Railroad to come across with some improvements that are needed in this city. We ought to have a new passenger depot, one that is in keeping with the size and progress of our town. The city could open up First Avenue across the railroad tracks, thus making an ideal place for a passenger depot.

POOR O

Relation of the Ku Klux Klan To American Citizenship

An Interpretation of the Constitution and Laws of the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan

In attempting to offer a brief interpretation of the Constitution and Laws of the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan, I am conscious that I can only deal with certain general phases and cannot quote from nor refer to the document itself in any considerable detail. I must take for granted that its text is familiar to us all.

In the first place, I desire to call your attention to the kind and character of men who, under our constitution, qualified for membership in the organization of the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan. No secret order; no society; no church; no political organization to restrict its membership. In no other name and under no other standard can men in large numbers be gathered together anywhere in the civilized world where it can be said of them that they are of one race; one nationality; one faith; one glorious patriotic purpose, bound together by one obligation and consecrated to a common cause. In no other organization in the United States of America do men assemble or can be assembled in large numbers who are all native-born, White, Gentile, American citizens. Our constitution in limiting its membership to this class of men stands out as a document unique, and as a thing apart from all other constitutions, articles of agreement or compacts among men in the whole world. Not only is our constitution unique in the matter of the kind and character of men which it brings together and binds in oath-bound brotherhood, but it is unique with respect to the objects, plans and purposes for which its membership is united.

Embodiment Of Ideals.

Let it be admitted here that our constitution, like all other constitutions, is the embodiment of ideals and principles as well as practical rules of action and operation and just as no government, state, church, society, or other organization ever rises above or even fully attains the high standard and lofty plane upon which it is pitched by its charter and constitution, so the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan may in actual practice and practical experience fall far short at times and in many places of the full attainment and complete realization of the sublime concept of the little document, incomplete as it is, crude and inadequate in some respect as it may be, which we are pleased and proud to call our Constitution and Laws. But to return to the subject of the purposes for which we are organized, briefly let me point them out.

"To promote patriotism toward our civil government"—ours is by no means the only organization chartered for such a purpose, but no other organization to which my attention has ever been called is so vitally concerned in this one purpose, nor organized with such minute care for the accomplishment thereof. "Honorable peace among men and nations; protection for and happiness in the homes of our people, the protection of womanhood, the promotion of brotherhood and love among ourselves; and liberty, justice and fraternity among all nations." We are dedicated to all the generous practices embraced in the term fraternalism; we are consecrated to the noble practice of disseminating the gospel we call Klankraft, embracing as it does the reverential acknowledgement of the supremacy of Almighty God, the recognition of His goodness and providence through our Lord Jesus Christ, the recognition of our relation to the government of the United States of America, the supremacy of its constitution, the union of states thereunder and the constitutional laws thereof. We are committed to an undying devotion to the sublime principles of a pure Americanism and the valiant defense of its ideals and institutions, we are committed to the doctrine of a positive distinction between the races of mankind as decreed by the Creator, and pledged to an undying purpose to maintain white supremacy and to oppose any compromise thereof.

Such are some of the outstanding purposes of our order as set forth in the constitution.

Form Of Government.

Permit me now to call attention to the nature and character as well as the form of government set up by our constitution.

From different parts of the country, at various times has come criticism of our form of government as set forth in our constitution, the criticism being that our government is undemocratic. In my opinion this is due to lack of understanding and proper analysis of the constitution itself. No government can be said to be undemocratic when the power to modify and change its constitution and to enact laws is vested in the people, acting by and through their chosen delegates. Under our constitution the Imperial Klonvokation is the sole legislative body of this order, and it has original jurisdiction in all matters for creating and amending the constitution and laws. It has power to enact laws for all purposes. Note carefully how the Klonvokation itself is chosen, as set forth in Article 6, Section 2, of the Constitution:

"Section 2. The Imperial Klonvokation shall be composed of all Imperial officers, the Grand Dragon and an elected delegate (Klepeer) from each organized Realm; the Great Titan and an elected delegate from each Province; and the Exalted Cyclops from Klans that are in good standing."

The distribution of the vote according to membership in the various Realms, as well as the provision for representation of unorganized Realms is fully set out in the article and section mentioned. Thus, a careful study of this part of our constitution will show that our government is thoroughly representative and democratic in its principles and in its practice. The form and character of our government is, however, both in theory and in practice, military, and in a sense autocratic. We ourselves have made it so.

Article 1, Section 2, of the Constitution is very explicit on this point. Our Imperial Wizard is Commander-in-Chief, and he is supreme within certain restrictions of the Constitution, and his decisions, decrees, edicts, mandates, rulings and instructions are of full authority and must be unquestionably recognized and respected by each and every citizen of the Invisible Empire.

The military feature runs all thru our plan of operation, and the autocratic form of government lies in the fact of the authority and power vested in our Imperial Wizard, and also in the method of his election. See in this connection Article 9, Section 1; where provision is made for the election of the Wizard by the Grand Dragons. Some slight criticism of this article has once or twice been suggested on the ground that the Imperial Wizard—Supreme Chief Executive of the order—under the provisions of the said article is elected by the Grand Dragons, who are themselves subjects of his own appointment, and it has been pointed out that a similarity of operation exists in this respect between the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan and the Roman Hierarchy. It is an admitted fact that there is indeed a strong similarity between the two. In answer to the criticism arising on this account let it be remembered that no form of government in all history has developed such proficiency in handling the masses as has the church of Rome, and we must admit that any organization, religious or otherwise, which can take a hopeless minority and with it control an overwhelming majority in a Protestant, democratic nation like America cannot be ignored with safety, and if the method of organization and form of government can be so organized as to develop to such a degree of efficiency for the accomplishment of purposes destructive and inimical to the free institutions of our government, is there any good reason why the same or similar operating plans should not be perfected for the accomplishment of good, and why the same should not be made to operate along constructive lines with the same degree of effectiveness?

When our Savior used the parable of the steward, who, when called to an accounting went out among his fellow stewards and by reducing their indebtedness to their common master made friends of them against the day of his discharge, did not in any sense justify the acts done by the steward, but did use it as an illustration teaching his disciples a valuable lesson in political economy.

Some of the most iniquitous devices of the devil himself are operated upon plans that develop the highest efficiency and the greatest degree of effectiveness, but this does not mean that the devil owns the plans. If the living Christ, a Klansman's Criterion of Character, could commend to his disciples methods employed by His arch enemy, why should not we, in good faith, adopt the methods which have proven their efficiency through twenty centuries of history, although we denounce the ends and purposes to which they have been diverted.

Klan Is A Crusade.

There is another reason why our government must be military in character. Our oganization is more than a secret order; it is a movement; in a sense, it is a crusade. Military discipline must be maintained in our organization because we, unlike purely civic bodies, or civic governments, are sailing uncharted seas, and there is no precedent by which we may be guided. Many other organizations having somewhat similar objects and purposes, but without the military feature, have fallen by the way and been forgotten. Because there is no precedent by which we can be guided, it becomes essential that one general direct the march, and that direction be accomplished only through a rigid military program. If the time shall come when the purposes for which the Klan was organized have all been accomplished, then its members need no longer be a militant, fighting organization, and they may possibly revert into an organization something like the veterans of foreign wars, or the veterans of any other crusade; but until such time, and until the purposes for which the Klan was organized have been accomplished, the military feature of the Klan must be maintained.

American Prima Donna Is Honored By French

Yvette Rugel to Sing at Famous Champ Elysee Theatre

Yvette Rugel, American prima donna has just received one of the most flattering offers ever made to a Yankee singer.

She has been asked to sing Grand Opera at the famous Champs Elysee theatre in Paris.

Oddly enough Miss Rugel never had a singing lesson in her life. Yet she is able to put over some of the most difficult operatic roles ever written. Also, her vocal facility amazes experts.

One week she is singing light ballads, the next, heavy operas, and perhaps the next, popular tunes of the day.

Just now she is appearing at the Club Richman smartest rendezvous of New York's night life.

Her program combines folk songs of the South with classical songs and throws in for good measure "Honest and Truly," the day's most popular ballad.

Miss Rugel was born and reared in Philadelphia.

THE MAN BEHIND THE SMILE

I don't know how he is on creeds,
I never heard him say;
But he's got a smile that fits his face
And he wears it every day.

If things go wrong he won't complain
But just tries to see the joke;
He's always finding little ways
Of helping other folk.

He sees the good in everyone,
Their faults he never mentions;
He has a lot of confidence
In people's good intentions.

You soon forget what ails you
When you happen 'round this man,
He can cure a case of hypo
Quicker than the doctor can.

No matter if the sky is gray,
You get his point of view;
And the clouds begin to scatter,
And the sun comes breaking thru.

You'll know him if you meet him,
And you'll find it worth your while,
To cultivate the friendship of
The "Man Behind the Smile."

Chevrolet Convention

The national convention of 450 members and executives of the Chevrolet sales organization which ended June 10 with a banquet at Hotel Statler, Detroit, was declared by R. H. Grant, general sales manager, to be the most successful affair of its kind in his long merchandising experience.

The gathering included the regional and zone sales managers and the representatives who directly supervise the 3,600 retail dealers and the 2,900 associate dealers.

"The plans worked out at the convention should assure to Chevrolet a continuation of its leadership," said Mr. Grant.

A group of General Motors corporation executives attended the banquet. It included Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., president; C. S. Mott, Donaldson Brown and John L. Pratt, vice presidents; C. F. Kettering, vice president of the General Motors corporation and president of the General Motors Research corporation, and B. G. Koether, executive secretary of the general sales committee of the General Motors Corporation. W. S. Knudson, president of Chevrolet, C. E. Dawson, assistant general sales manager of Chevrolet and O. E. Hunt, chief engineer, also were at the speakers' table.

The banquet marked the farewell to the Chevrolet organization of D. S. Eddins, former assistant general sales manager, recently made general sales manager of the Olds Motor Works. He was presented with a large chest of silver tableware and a testimonial signed by executives of the Chevrolet central office and the regional and zone sales managers. Mr. Grant was given a silver and ivory gavel and a testimonial book signed by the entire group of delegates.

When To Lay By Crops Is Explained

Annually at this season farmers make inquiry as to the best time to lay-by corn, cotton, and other crops.

The idea seems to prevail that the last cultivation should be made when the plant is at a certain size; but in reply to these inquiries, Frank Boyd, Extension agronomist, says that it is not a question of the size or the age of the plant, since "the chief object of cultivation is to kill weeds." This being true, the last cultivation should be that which gives weeds a "knock out" blow for the season. Of course it is not possible to destroy every weed but the idea is to continue cultivation long enough to destroy weeds to the extent that they will do little or no injury to the crop.

Therefore, it is up to each farmer to decide when to stop cultivation. If there are no weeds to kill, cultivation is not necessary. On the other hand, it may do harm by destroying roots of plants.

Cultivation which is deep enough to kill weeds is all that is needed. Deep cultivation is certain to do harm, especially after plants are large.

These conclusions of Mr. Boyd are not mere opinions. They are based upon careful experiments in practically evry important agricultural state. Some of them date back half a century.

Clanton Wins Another Pair Of Games

Clanton won another pair of baseball games during the past week, the victim being Tallassee.

The game in Clanton last Thursday was stopped in the eighth inning by rain, and Clanton won 5 to 4.

The high light of the game was when Newton, Tallassee left fielder, hit one over the right field wall, with one man on base. This is one of the longest, if not the longest hit ever made on the local field. The pill was still rising when it sailed over the fence, and landed a good distance across the road which runs just south of the park.

Harrell, for Tallassee, yielded ten hits, while Tallassee could gather only seven off Whorton, although Bill's arm was in bad shape.

Clanton went to Tallassee on last Saturday and took a thrilling ten-inning affair from that club to the tune of 4 to 2.

The score was deadlocked at the end of the ninth, but in Clanton's half of the tenth, Hayes got one too hot for Moulton, and went safe, stole second and scored on Connatser's triple. Connatser scored a minute later when the Tallassee catcher let one through him.

In Tallassee's half of the ninth inning they got into a scoring position but Crit Jones came in behind first base and took a stinging blow that was labeled for a hit, and retired the side.

Clanton has played six games so far this season and have won them all.

Following is the box score for the game Thursday. No box score could be secured for Saturday's game.

Summary: Struck out, by Whorton, 1; Harrell, 2. Two-base hits, Whorton, Moulton. Three-base hits, Sewell. Home runs, Newton. Double plays, Starling to Sewell; Little to Manning to Sanford, Moulton to Little to Harrell to Sanford. Umpires, Lively and Cox. Time, 1:25.

Clanton has a new catcher, Wright, secured from the Tallassee club. He is a small one, but seems to know his job well. He was Starling's battery mate at Troy High this spring. In addition to this, "Big Pat" Moulton will be on the Clanton roster for the rest of this season. The big fellow is a finished center fielder, when he is not on the mound, and is a dangerous batter. Those big shoulders look as if they might rap the little sphere into the next county most any time. Clanton fans will be expecting much of Moulton, and doubtless will suffer no disappointment. Pat comes to us from Tallassee also. Then, negotiations are under way to secure Joe Market, another Tallassee 'witler and right gardener. Joe is good, and we hope that the management may be able to bring him here.

The present Clanton aggregation includes: Wright, catcher; Whorton, Starling and Moulton, pitchers and outfielders; Connatser, first base; Sewell, second base; Hayes, shortstop; Parrish, third base; Thompson, fielder and catcher; Jones, fielder and first base, and others may follow soon.

Clanton goes to Anniston for a series of three games in that city on Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week, and will play three games on the local field next week—Thursday, Friday and Saturday, June 25, 26 and 27, with the Anniston club. There will be no games in Clanton this week.

Little Boy Sends In First Cotton Boll

Herman Easterling, the 10-year old son of Mrs. Tabitha Easterling of Walnut Creek community, has the earliest cotton patch we have heard of this year. The little boy sent in to the Banner office last Saturday a boll taken from his patch which is fully half grown. Herman has only a small patch of cotton which he planted out in the edge of the yard, but it is said that he had blooms about a month ago. The size of the boll will indicate that it is about a month old.

Nothing Doing in the Fish Line

Some people insist that measuring, class by class, the lowest order of human intelligence in America is found among Key West sponge fishermen. Others hold that the groupplace at the foot of the column properly belongs to a certain order of theatrical producers. As proof of the value of their contention they point to the story of the theatrical manager, who, on being told that a play brought him by a certain dramatist was based upon one of Charles Dickens' novels, said:

"Well, you get hold of this fellow Dickens and bring him around to lunch tomorrow and we'll get his ideas and fix up a contract."

In the same connection there frequently is cited a remark by Wilton Lackaye who once expressed a desire, which he said he feared would never be gratified, to play the part of Jean Valjean in a stage adaptation of Hugo's Les Miserables. A friend spoke up:

"Isn't there a manager in town who can produce it?"

"There isn't a manager in town who can even pronounce it," said Lackaye.

Without any desire to take part in the controversy over the respective merits of the theatrical managers and the Key West sponge-fishers, I herewith submit, for what it may be worth, an incident which happened a few months ago in the office of a prominent producing manager, whose name is a household word in every actor's home. To him there came an experienced playwright bearing the script of a new piece which he had just finished.

"I don't want you should read it to me, now," said the manager. "Just tell me what it's like."

"Well," said the playwright, "it's a historical drama in five acts. I call it 'The Dauphin.'"

"For why do you call it that?"

"Because it's based on the story of the Lost Dauphin."

"I don't want it," said the manager emphatically. "It wouldn't go. The public wouldn't never stand for a play about a fish."

A Scotchman's Conscience

The purchasing agent of a big jobbing concern in San Francisco is a Scotchman. He gave an extensive order—indeed, the total ran into many thousands of dollars—to a salesman for a supply house. Although he had obtained the business in open competition, and by virtue of the excellence of his wares and the low figures he quoted, the salesman felt gratitude at being favored and sought a way to show it.

He knew he dare not offer the Scot a commission; likewise a gift of money, he figured, would be regarded as an insult. He had an inspiration. The Scot, he noticed, constantly smoked cigars. So the salesman excused himself for a minute, slipped out to a cigar store and bought a box containing fifty of the finest Havanas the tobacconist carried in stock. The price for the fifty was fifteen dollars. He brought the box back under his arm and asked the purchasing agent to accept it with his compliments.

The latter drew back. He explained that it was against the policy of his house for its buyers to accept presents of any sort from those with whom the concern did business. He was sorry, he said, but he could not take the cigars as a present, even though he felt sure his young friend had tendered them with the best of intentions and in absolute good faith.

The salesman had another idea:

"Well, he said, "I hate to throw these cigars away. They are of no use to me—I smoke only cigarettes. I wonder if you would buy them from me?—there's no harm in that, I'm sure."

"What would you be asking for them, laddy?" inquired the prudent Scot.

"I'll sell the whole fifty to you for a nickel," stated the salesman.

The purchasing agent lifted one of the cigars from the top row, smelled it, rolled it in his fingers and eyed it closely.

"Very well," he said, "at that price I'll take four boxes."

POOR O

THORSBY SECTION

(S. E. NORTON, Manager).

Mr. Sereno G. Norton, son of Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Norton of Thorsby, arrived in Birmingham last Sunday night, having been sent there by his employers, The Hercules Powder Co., to supervise some last details of preparation, and to assist the manager in opening the new $300,000 plant on Wednesday of this week. The plant is located at McAdory, near Birmingham, and in all its appointments and equipment, together with methods of manufacture, is the last word in up-to-date-ness. Mr. Norton has had a considerable part in the development of this plant. He expects to spend next Sunday and Sunday week in Thorsby.

Mrs. John Johnson and daughter, Beatrice, and sons, George and Albert, motored from their home in Ensley to Thorsby Saturday, where they spent a day visiting their many friends here. They returned Sunday evening.

Mr. Palmer Lefstead entertained with an informal bridge party at his home last Saturday evening, in honor of his guest, Mr. George Johnson of Ensley. Refreshments were served at a late hour to Misses Beatrice Johnson, Pearl Carlson, Pearl Steiner, Esther Johnson. Margaret Butler; Messrs. George Johnson, Verner Carlson, Arnold Soberg, Raymond Carlson, George Pearson, and Gustave Rodell.

Miss Esther Johnson left Sunday night for Louisville, Ky., where she will take up her summer work, and return to Piedmont College in September.

The Lutheran Ladies Aid will be held with Miss Ida Green June 18th.

Miss Agnes Gerald received a telegram from her brother, Sumner Gerald, to come at once to Piedmont College, Demorest, Ga., to fill a vacancy on their faculty for the summer term. She left Wednesday night, taking with her her sister, Lola, who will attend classes of the school during the session.

The Ladies Guild social will be held June 25th with Mrs. S. C. Wood.

The business mens committee who are making a drive to secure $3,000 for Thorsby Institute new building fund, from citizens of Thorsby and vicinity, have nearly completed the work and are expecting to pass the goal. In the meantime a like amount has been secured from outside of the town of Thorsby, which, with the insurance money, will be sufficient to justify starting such part of the building as is most essential for conducting the school, and leave what we can best do without for later construction as the money can be had for that purpose. The committee on plans for the new building have been at work and are so nearly ready to report to the board of trusees that a meeting of that body has been called for June 25th, when it is hoped arrangements will be made to begin actual construction very soon.

On the evening of June 15 quite a number of young people met at the home of Miss Pearl and Mr. Raymond Carlson for a surprise party. With the assistance of their visitors, Mr. George Pearson and Mr. Gus Rodelle, the surprise was a perfect success.

As an illustration of what Thorsby Institute graduates are doing for the alma mater we are permitted to publish the following letter which will be of interest to many in Chilton County:

Thorsby, Ala., June 15, 1925—Fellow Alumni: I am sure it always pleases you to hear news of your alma mater, and it affords me great pleasure to give you the report of the meeting for 1925.

First maybe you would like to know that the 1925 session colsed a very successful year with a quite joyous commencement. T. I. as a whole lived up to he 1925 motto, "He conquers who endures," and I think we alumni should adopt that as our slogan and "go over the top" in our plans.

On May 29th at 3 o'clock twenty alumni met at the dining hall for the business hour. We regretted that we could have neither our president nor vice president with us. Miss Agnes Gerald was appointed chairman pro tem. The first matter of business was the election of officers for 1925-26. They are president, Miss Mary Ella Gerald, Thorsby; vice president, Miss Lillian McKee, Notasulga; secretary, Miss Agnes Leary, Thorsby; treasurer Miss Agnes Gerald, Thorsby.

Our main issue was to adopt some plan for the alumni association to raise money for the new building fund and several letters were read with very laudable suggestions and we, as representatives, fully appreciate every one and gave each due consideration.

This is the plan we adopted: The alumni association has pledged $700 payable in two years. There are now 70 alumni which makes the share of each only $10; just $5 each year. Surely we can reach our goal. Let's go over the top and make it $1,000 over. We can.

Now as to how to raise the money; if you haven't the cash yourself, you can give personal service and ask all your friends to aid this worthy cause.

The building committee has already secured blueprints for the building. It is to be a 1-story fire-proof building with all the modern conveniences. They hope to begin work on the building by July.

The suggstion was raised that the individual classes replace their gifts they had made to T. I. when the building is completed sufficiently for them to occupy. They can make this decision by personal correspondence or if the secretary of each class would cooperate with the alumni secretary for an adjustment of this matter in popular favor, it will be easy.

If you know of any better plan, any suggestion will be carefully considered.

The association sent Miss Jenkins a night letter tsating our pledge. In reply she asked me to extend her appreciation to each alumni saying that news had helped her greatly on her road to recovery. If for that reason alone we should strive to reach our goal and go over the top.

With best wishes for the success of our undertaking, am cordially yours, Agnes Leary, Secretary.

Mr. E. W. Butler left for Pittsfield Illinois Friday night, having received a telegram from his sister who resides there announcing the death by drowning of her son, age 21, and who would have graduated from college in May, 1926. Many Thorsby people will remember him as a boy who spent a summer with his mother here several years ago. An older brother was killed in France during the World War.

Albert Petersen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl C. Petersen, with his wife, arrived from their home in New York Monday morning and will spend several days visiting kinfolks and friends in their home town.

Mr. Carl Langville and family and Miss Anna Werness of Ensley motored to Thorsby Sunday to visit Mrs. Grothe, mother of the two ladies.

Rev and Mrs. Joseph E. Each went to Birmingham on Thursday of last week where Mrs. Each was placed in a hospital, and Friday morning had an operation for appendicitis. She is reported to be doing well.

Mr. Rodell persuaded Miss Pearl and Mr. Pearson that it was essential that they take a last dip in Gore's pond before their return to Chicago, leaving on the morning of June 17. When they returned they were greeted with shouts of laughter.

Quite attractive games were played, keeping the entire crowd lively until a rather late hour. Lovely refreshments were served to the following: Misses Naemi Turnquist, Edith Robinson, Margaret Butler, Mable Howard, Floy Jackson, Julia Jackson, Dolly Sorrell, Pearl Steiner, Mae Oma Steiner, Nell Wells, Essie Belle Willis, Rosa Nelson, Pearl Carlson, Agnes Leary; Messrs. Raymond Carlson, George Pearson, Guss Rodelle, Arnold Littleton, Jim Lecroy, Walter Parnell, Earl Leary, Palmer Lefstead. A most enjoyable time was had by all.

Mr. Raymond Carlson who has been visiting his father, Mr. J. A. Carlson, with his friends, Mr. George Pearson and Mr. Guss Rodelle, will start early in the morning for Chicago, where he has made his home for several years. Quite a number of courtesies have been shown Mr. Carlson and his guests and their friends regret that their visit has been so brief.

In order to be eligible for participation in New York scholastic activities, a candidate must have passed at least nine school credit hours in the preceding semester, according to a new ruling of the state public high school athletic association; and in order to represent a school a passing grade must be maintained in at least 14 hours of work.

Every county in Virginia in 1923-24 received a general educational rating of 50 or higher, with 100 as the standard of excellence. According to announcement of the State department of education, when the plan of ratings was inaugurated in 1919-20, 23 counties received less than 50, in 1922-23 the number under 50 was reduced to 3, and in 1923-23 no counties were so rated. 58 counties were rated above 70%.

Wisconsin's largest and most modern consolidated school has just been opened in Sebastopol, in the northeastern part of the State. It represents the union of seven school districts, extending over an area of 60 square miles, and it serves a wholly rural population. Ten auto busses take the 320 elementary and high school pupils to the school. The building has among other features a gymnasium, shower baths, a motion-picture booth, and a large auditorium.

Notwithstanding post-war conditions, school-health activities have been kept at relatively high efficiency in England. In 1922 out of 5,180,589 children in average attendance at the elementary schools, no less than 2,386,750, or 46%, were medically inspected. Through the efforts of school nurses and many volunteer agencies, 77.7% of the children of London who were found defective during the year received medical treatment—a very high proportion.—School Life.

Good work of any kind can be done only with good tools. Although the eyes are the most important tools used by the school child and though 10% of school children have such poor vision as to need the help of glasses, it is estimated that only 50% have ever had their vision tested, say specialists of the Department of the Interior, Bureau of Education. Laws requiring or permitting such examination have been enacted by 42 states, but alertness and good judgment on the part of school officials seem more needed than legislation.

Physical education in schools is required by law in 33 states. Thirteen now have state physical directors of education and most of the states have definite requirements for the training of teachers and supervisors for this work. One school gave professional courses in physical education 45 years ago, but now 75 institutions offer two, three, or four-year courses, and post-graduate work is given in many schools. A summary of present state requirements for directors and supervisors of physical education has been issued by the Department of the Interior, Bureau of Education.

A Bank Account Is An Incentive to Thrift and Economy

Without it one is likely to spend money for things that are useless.

Like the man who received a $200 legacy and spent a day and a night writing orders to mail-order houses, next day he went to a friends to borrow a nickel to buy a loaf of bread. This may be an extreme example, but it actually happened, and in a way may happen to anyone who has not the banking habit.

HOW EXCESSIVE TAXES BLIGHT A NATION'S LIFE

Productive Effort Stops if Government Takes Undue Share of Profits, Says Treasury Official.

WEALTH IN RUSSIA FLED BEFORE THE TAXGATHERER

Men in America Prefer Golf to Giving Fruits of Three Days Work a Week to Income Taxes

The blighting effects of excessive taxation, leading to a nation's economic destruction, are described in the current issue of the American Bankers Association Journal by Garrard B Winston, Under-secretary of the Treasury. Citing possible effects on the Ford Motor Car Company, he declares that "the value is so large and its ownership so centered it is conceivable that collection of inheritance taxes may check, if not destroy, that unit of policy which has created and expanded that industry and thus prevent its future prosperity. Of what avail, then, is it to any government if it collects one hundred million dollars once in estate taxes and destroys a source of income upon which it can rely for revenue year after year?

"Success of the Ford Company does not mean simply that Mr. Ford and his son have grown wealthy. It means employment of tens of thousands of men and women; that mines, forests, railroads and vessels are brought into use; that the public has received an efficient and inexpensive means of transportation; that the farm is in touch with the city, and the worker with his office." Mr. Winston says in part:

Wealth Flees Oppression

"Upon first impression it might appear that a nation could take all of the earnings of its citizens or all of their property. The Soviet government proposed to appropriate all instrumentalities of trade and commerce. Yet, when the state reached out to grasp this wealth, it disappeared and left nothing but a few tangible objects, such as gold and jewels, which were easily transported to other countries. Wealth in Russia ceased to exist.

"If income tax rates are placed so high that capital in productive business no longer gives a net return commensurate with the risk, capital will go out of productive business, lie idle, go abroad, go into tax-exempt securities, or find other ways of avoiding the tax. If income tax rates are so excessive that a man of ability finds he must work more than three days a week for the government, he will become discouraged and decide that the result is not worth the effort. Less income will be produced and less will be realized from the tax.

"Recently a letter came to the Treasury from a small farmer. He owned a few acres which in 1913 were assessed at $900 and on which a tax of $13 was levied. In 1924 the assessed value increased to $3,200 and the tax to $123, but the farm failed to produce any more. Taxes exceeded the rental value of the land and more than the net earnings of the property were taken by the state. The farm was abandoned and now produces no tax.

"Often there come to notice cases where a particular improvement is not made, or a particular business is not started, because after deducting taxes the risk exceeds the value of the expected return. Men have dropped business, spent their winters in Florida and their summers abroad because what they are permitted to retain under present tax rates is not worth the labor they must give to acquire it. They prefer golf to the further development of the country.

Unscientific Taxes Destroy a Nation

"Unscientific methods of taxation may actually destroy the very earnings or property which it should be the principal interest of a government to foster. When it reaches the limits of what is known as its taxable capacity, a nation has begun to die. If taxes are raised too high, a country will slowly but surely destroy itself. It will use for daily consumption the seed corn on which its future life depends, and the spirit of initiative and adventure in its people will finally disappear. One or more of three things happen: The quantity of consumption is cut down, which means a lowering of the standard of living; or capital accumulations for extensions, improvements and new undertakings must diminish, resulting in a slowing up of progress and lessening eventually of taxable revenue; or, thirdly, a slackening of effort on the part of the citizen will take place when too large a part of his earnings are taken in taxes.

"The effort in taxation should be to find the tax which will continue to raise money over a period of years. Invariably, with an excessive tax, its yield has fallen off year by year, while each rate reduction is reflected in an increase of taxable income. If the Treasury is to be assured a continuance of revenue, our citizens must prosper. If they are to prosper, the appropriation by the state of their earnings and property must be based upon economically sound principles."

SOUND PRINCIPLES FOR ALLIED DEBTS

Payments to America Should Be Guided by Dawes Plan, Says C. E. Mitchell.

The fundamental principles of the Dawes plan for settling the European war debt question are applicable to the problem of the Allied debts to the United States, Charles E. Mitchell, president of the National City Bank of New York, declares in an article in the American Bankers Association Journal. Mr. Mitchell says:

"Debts between nations are always a source of international trouble, and I consider it of great importance that our own economic as well as political relations with such countries as France, Belgium and Italy may be improved by an early adjustment of their debts to our own national government.

Country Endorsed Dawes Plan

"I hope that we are gradually learning that such debts, if unduly forced, may result more calamitously to the commercial interests of our own country than to those of the debtor country. This talk of forcing payment of 'every dollar to the last penny,' is commercially unwise. I think we may assume that the Dawes plan has had the indorsement of the American people through their election of General Dawes to the Vice Presidency of the United States. That plan is one that establishes fundamental principles which may be applied in considering the debts of one nation to another resulting from war.

"The first principle, as I see it, is that the yoke of the war debt shall not be held as a burden upon the people beyond the generation that had to do with the war. This principle is clearly intimated in the fact that the industrial and railway debentures which form the principal security and means of payment of the debt carry 5 per cent interest with 1 per cent amortization, which means that such obligations are to be over a period of about thirty-six years.

An Invitation to Trouble

"Any attempt to force the carrying of such debt burdens to the second and third generations is but an engraved invitation to further trouble.

"The second principle is that the debtor country shall be taxed to the limit while the debt remains, but in no event to a point where its economic structure collapses under the strain, and, further, that the nationals of the debtor country shall in no case have a lesser burden of taxation upon them than have the nationals of the creditor country—another principle the soundness of which cannot be questioned.

"The third principle is that with such taxes collected, payments there from shall be made to the creditor country to such an extent only as they can be made without disrupting international exchange and commerce. The soundness of this last is apparent on its face.

"These I regard as the fundamental principles of the Dawes plan, and all of the hundreds of pages of the so-called Dawes report are devoted to setting up the machinery by which these principles can be put into effect.

"If these principles are accepted as sound then they must also be sound principles by which the payment of the debts of allied countries to us shall be determined, and we would best apply such a yardstick as our measure, rather than attempt to make popular the slogan of 'every dollar to the last penny.' In the adjustment of our foreign relations, essential to the development of increased export and import trade, there can be no problem of greater importance than reaching a sound and final conclusion as to this irritating question of the debts of allied countries to ourselves."

ADVERSITY A STIMULANT TO GOOD FARMING

An interesting experience is told by Dean Dodson of a Louisiana farmer who was just about breaking even in growing cotton. One day his wife fell seriously ill and was obliged to go to the hospital. A little later his daughter was also taken to the hospital. Before he was through with this experience he was confronted with a bill for $2,200. What was he to do?

Like a good business man he began to figure how he might increase his income and cut down his expenses. He had a few cows that he kept for raising calves. He started to milk these and sell the product. He had some cull potatoes that were unsalable. He fed these to his cows and some pigs which he was able to buy right. Other waste products were utilized in the same manner. In the garden he had more turnips than he needed for his own use. These he sorted, selling the best and feeding the poor ones. He consulted with his merchants as to what garden crops he might profitably grow for the local market.

He figured that he had some idle land that he might use in growing grain and hay. He enlarged his flock of poultry and took better care of it. He was more careful in the use of his auto and saved a considerable sum that ordinarily went for gasoline. By taking advantage of the increased sources of income and by cutting out unnecessary expenses he was able by the end of the year to pay off his hospital bill, and in the meantime had discovered the secret of sound and successful farming.—Banker-Farmer.

Was Presidential Candidate Back in 1872!

GUESS there are not many folks who knew that women figured prominently in national politics as far back as 1872. Hence, but few will recognize the woman pictured above.

She is Mrs. Victoria Woodhull Martin, who ran for president of the United States against Grant and Greeley. Mrs. Martin is still hale and hearty at the age of 86 years and is now living at Norton Park in Worcestershire, England. As the widow of Dr. Channing Woodhul, she was on a tour thru the British Isles when she met and married John B. Martin, the English banker, and she has lived in that country ever since.

Recently she figured in an incident that has once again endeared her to the hearts of Americans. She turned over an ancient manor house to the Sulgrave Institution to be used as a hotel for American Pilgrims to Sulgrave Manor, the ancestral home of George Washington.

MT. CARMEL

Miss Elsie Fury was a visitor to Miss Bernice Leonard last week end.

The cream supper which was given at Mr. Isaac Freeman's last Thursday night was favored with a good attendance.

The first Sunday is our regular preaching Sunday and we are expecting a large crowd.

Our farmers are beginning to find quite a few cotton blooms shining in their fields here of late.

Miss Bernice Broadhead has returned home from one of Birmingham's high schools, where she has just completed a successful term. Miss Broadhead is now with her father, Mr. L. B. Broadhead, to spend a few days, but is expected to return to Birmingham within the next few days to begin a course at Wheeler Business College. We all wish for her much success.

Mr. Lacy Ratliff of Sardis community was the welcome guest of Miss Era Klinner Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Wells and children of Selma were visitors to relatives in Clanton Sunday.

Forecasts Successful Sale Of Memorial Half Dollars

NEWTON D. BAKER

"The World War set a new date line for this generation in the history of our common country," says Newton D. Baker, former Secretary of War.

"Sons and grandsons of the men who fought in the Civil War fought side by side in the fields of France to vindicate the democracy of a united republic. The memories of '61 to '65 passed out of the period of passion and into a period of pride.

"The great monument at Stone Mountain could not be erected in a divided country. The fact that it has the sympathy of patriotic men with Northern traditions shows how complete is our reunion. Another evidence of this is the generous action by the Congress in coining memorial money to aid in the completion of the undertaking. I trust the proceeds of the sale of these memorial coins will be large enough to insure rapid progress and ultimate completion of this superb monument."

In every southern state committees are arranging distribution plans which culminate on the morning of July 3, when the memorial half dollars are to be released. Premiums from the sale of the coins, which will be sold at $1.00 each, go to the completion of the great monument to the Confederacy being carved at Stone Mountain, Georgia.

WEST CHILTON

We saw our first cotton blooms on June 15, but you know West Chilton is not as progressive agriculturally as some other parts.

Andrew Smitherman and wife of Randolph visited at W. R. Redding's Sunday, enroute to attend the lecture at Mars Hill Sunday afternoon.

Mr. J. F. Armstrong and son motored from Birmingham Sunday to spend a day or two here.

There was an enjoyable picnic Saturday near the Allen D. Mahan place. Prof. Kelly of Selma was there with his own invented instrument on which he performed with his hands, mouth and feet at the same time.

Mrs. Evie Kincade of Birmingham is visiting here.

Having some local rains here, while some parts are dry.

Monday morning we had the pleasure of meeting one of our childhood friends, Mr. J. F. Armstrong of Birmingham, at the home of Mr. John S. Waldrup. While enjoying the visit, the lady of the house remarked that they had a new record for the Victrola, "Wondrous Love," as sung by a quartette of the Sacred Harp singers of Georgia. We were never more inspired by a musical composition. It was wonderful. There, far away from the singers, it seemed to carry us right into the presence of A. A. Jackson, John W. Hayes, T. J. Jackson, M. V. Lawley, W. L. Sanders, J. H. Martin and other Chilton County singers. Almost reproducing their voices as they have so often sung that grand old composition. It was truly a touching moment.

Dr. Edwards of Birmingham delivered a fine Bible lecture to a large audience at Mars Hill Sunday afternoon. The doctor is quite interesting, an enthusiastic, fluent speaker. But Esquire Alfred Childress did not get to hear all the lecture, for somebody had had decided to embark on the sea of matrimony Sunday afternoon, and called for Esquire Childress to tie the nuptial knot.

A bad accident occurred at Randolph last week when Section Foreman White and his men rushed their car to the station to escape a storm. Their car jumped the track and several of them were badly hurt, and were rushed to Selma for treatment.

Mrs. W. R. Redding visited her brother near Thorsby last week.

Mr. Luke McCary and others went to the river fishing last week.

Hon. W. F. Deshazo and J. C. Edwards of Mulberry attended the lecture at Mars Hill Sunday.

LAWLEY

There will be a picnic and barbecue at Lawley Saturday, June 27. Also ball games and speaking. Everyone is invited to come.

Uncle Dock Wells has returned from a three week's trip to Lineville, in Clay County. He had better luck and did not get sick this time.

Uncle Dock says he was busy all the time he was away, preaching three sermons. He stopped at Sylacauga and Talladega and took in some of the cotton mills and took some notes on plans for the mill at Lomax.

The best time of the trip was had at Minooka last Sunday, where he preached at the Children's day exercises.

Uncle Dock calls attention to his preaching services at the poor house next Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock and invites everybody to be present.

Come To Clanton To Spend the Fourth of July

Senator Ladd of North Dakota Died Monday

Washington, June 22.—Ranks of the progressives have been further thinned out by the death of Senator Ladd of North Dakota, who died at Baltimore on the day his friend and political leader, Senator La Follette, lay buried in Wisconsin.

Ladd was the last of the four senators ousted from the republican organization of the Senate after the elections last fall because they had opposed the Coolidge ticket.

Ladd's death, with La Follette's, offers an opportunity to test out the soundness of the regular republican contention that the progressive movement is dying out in the northwest.

Chairman Butler of the republican national committee is firmly convinced of this and before either of these senators died, he had planned a political tour of that section to strengthen the conservative organization, which has been on the outside in both states for many years. The plan was to beat the La Follette forces who were out to capture the seat of Senator Lenroot, which expires after the next election, and to defeat Ladd, who also was up for election.

Coolidge carried North Dakota last fall and this gave Chairman Butler his ground for believing that Ladd could be defeated. Now will come a straight-out fight between the progressives and the conservatives uninfluenced by the wide personal friendship for Ladd because of his service to agriculture as a practical scientist before he entered the Senate. Ladd was head of the state agricultural college and worked out new grain regulations because the North Dakota farmers felt that the Minneapolis millers were milking them under trick grading rules.

Government Continues Economy Program

Washington, June 23.—President Coolidge will ask the next congress to reduce taxes and will depend upon federal executives and employees to assist by effecting further economies in government expenditures.

The way has been prepared for further tax reduction, he told the semi-annual business meeting of the government last night, and "this I will recommend to the next congress in the next budget message."

After the president's address in which he declared estimates of expenditures for the next fiscal year should not exceed $3,080,000,000 exclusive of the postal service, Brigadier General H. M. Lord, director of the budget, answered critics of the administration's economy policy.

A saving of $2,191,232,994.94 had been effected in the cost of government during the last four years, he declared, citing it as a "record for all time as an example of courageous retrenchment."

President Coolidge declared the tax load of the people had been materially lightened, but that the reduction had not yet reached the point where it ceased to be a burden. He took occasion also to answer contentions that the campaign for economy in federal expenditures is hurting business.

He declared economy and tax reduction must go hand in hand, and he was unable "to determine how reduction in taxes is injurious to business. Each tax reduction has been followed by a revival of business. If the government takes less private business can take more.

"We are fast approaching the time," he said, "when we cannot look forward to appreciable reduction in the legitimate cost of government, because of expansion of the nation's business. Even greater watchfulness, greater care of our expenditures must be exercised successfully to continue this campaign. The task is becoming more difficult but the more difficult the task, the greater is the reward of success.

In this great business of the government, we are undoubtedly continuing activities which are no longer essential or productive. The undertaking of new projects or lines of effort made essential by changing conditions should be marked by the weeding out of those no longer essential.

"Unfortunately," he added, "the federal government has strayed far afield from its legitimate business, and if we could confine our federal expenditures to the legitimate obligations and functions of the federal government a material reduction would be apparent."

General Lord, defending the economy policy, declared if earnest and honest effort to reduce government expenditures and to conserve the tax payers' money "be parsimony and false economy, then let parsimony be enthroned and false economy be glorified."

Mr. Jonathan Bice of Thorsby was among the visitors to Clanton Tuesday afternoon. Mr. Bice stays busy in his restaurant at Thorsby and does not get out very much.

Plans Are Made For a Great Day of Pleasure for All Who Come Here. Music By Brass Band Barbecue, Baseball Games, and Big Ku Klux Klan Celebration

If you are looking out for a place to go and spend the glorious Fourth of July this year, we call your attention to the plans that are being made in Clanton to entertain all who may come here.

First and foremost among the attractions to be here is an all day concert by the Masonic Home Band of Montgomery. We are particularly fortunate in having this splendid band of musicians here for our celebration of Independence Day. The band is composed of 45 pieces, all excellent musicians. They are in great demand for concerts and celebrations all over the State, and Clanton should be proud that we got first claim on them for this occasion. The music on that day alone will be worth your coming to Clanton.

The ladies of the Clanton Methodist church are to be thanked for securing the band, and they also will provide a barbecue and many other kinds of refreshments for the visitors. The headquarters for the various activities will be at the County High School campus. Here the band will render its selections, and the barbecue and refreshments will be served.

The Methodist ladies tell us that they are making an effort to get some of the best speakers of the State to come here on that day and address the crowds. They can not yet make definite announcement of this feature, as it is not yet completed.

There will be baseball games, morning and afternoon, between Clanton and the Benson Paint and Varnish Team of Birmingham, the leaders in the Western division of the city league. There is no use to tell you how interesting that part of the day will be. It is going to be so interesting that every sport lover in Chilton County will want to see it. The fame of Clanton's baseball players has gone abroad over the State this season, and we expect them to add new laurels to their record on this occasion. There will not be any conflict between the ball games and other parts of the day's program. It will all be worked out so that you can have time to see everything that is going on.

At six o'clock in the evening the scene will change again when the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan will take charge of the program to pull off one of the greatest open air naturalization ceremonies ever held in this portion of the country.

The program of the Klan activities is as follows:

6:00 P. M. Gates open to the ball park.

6:30 P. M. General assembly.

7:00 P. M. Band concert by the Masonic Home Band of Montgomery.

8:00 P. M. Lecture by the Imperial Representative.

8:30 P. M. Open air naturalization ceremonies.

10:00 P. M. Magnificent display of Klan fireworks.

The Klan announces that there will be parking space for 5,000 automobiles. The Klavaliers of the Klan will police and protect all cars parked on the grounds. People who park their cars as they direct will be assured that their cars will be protected while they are free to witness the program.

Klan officers and visiting Klansmen from all over the South will be present to assist in presenting this great spectacle to the public.

The Klan extends a cordial invitation to the public to be present and witness its part of the program, as well as to spend the day here and enjoy the good things which the Methodist ladies have prepared for you. There will be an opportunity for you to witness the weird and solemn naturalization ceremonies administered to a large number of aliens, to hear the principles of the Klan expounded, and to enjoy the most spectacular display of fireworks ever offered in this section.

You will enjoy being there and mingling with the hooded citizens of the invisible empire.

Settle the question of this Fourth now by deciding that you will come to Clanton and bring all your family and your friends. It is going to be the best way in which to celebrate the day and have yourself a real good time. We are looking for you.

Alabama Power Co. Is Awarded Forbes Cup

San Francisco, Cal., June 17, 1925;—Before an audience of approximately 3,000 representatives of Light and power utilities atteding the National Electric Light Association Convention here, B. C. Forbes presentd the silver lovng cup awarded by Forbes Magazine to the Alabama Power Company as the utility which has rendered the most distinguished public service during 1924. Mr. Forbes declared that the Alabama concern had conducted a program during 1924 in the fields of customer ownership, public relations, efficiency of operation, expansion of service, employe welfare and general contribution to the electrical industry and to the state the company served which had probably never before been equaled by any member of the industry. He paid glowing compliments to the personnel of the Company who, he declared by their loyalty, competency and devotion to duty had made the Alabama Power Company one of the foremost public service corporations in the world.

W. E. Mitchell, Vice President in charge of operations of the Alabama Power Company accepted the cup at the close of Mr. Forbe's address. Simple Tribute Paid To Memory of La Follette

Madison, Wis., June 22.—Services of extreme simplicity attended th burial today of Sen. Robert Marion La Follette.

Although from the moment his funeral train arrived here last Saturday from Washington, the state had claimed the body for its own, there was nothing of pomp or ceremony in these the last honors that it might tender. That was as the senator himself had wished.

To friends of a lifetime was given the sad task of conveying the body to the sanctuary in his native soil at a point overlooking a broad, blue lake, beside which he was born and came to man's estate.

Many others with whom he had labored so long in the state and the nation were gathered from far and near to do homage to his bier.

The expansive rotunda of the massive state capitol where yesterday his body lay in state was the place of the brief funeral service. That service was arranged as follows:

Hymn, "Nearer My God To Thee," Mozart and Mannechoir chorus.

Funeral sermon, Dr. A. E. Hayden, of Chicago.

Hymn, "Abide With Me," Mozart and Mannechoir chorus.

"America," with the chorus leading the audience.

Thousands had journeyed to Madison for the funeral. Many of these came to join the throngs that viewed the body yesterday, while others reached here today by trains from Chicago and other nearby points some hours before the services at 1 p. m.

Throughout the hours that the body lay in state, a steady stream of people passed in reverent silence. Even before the doors of the statehouse were opened at noon, long lines had formed at Capitol square, and when they were closed again at twilight, some still were waiting.

OFFICERS POURED OUT BEER

Sheriff Littlejohn and his deputies went over on Six Mile Creek in the Union Springs settlement a few days ago and located a quantity of beer which had been made ready for converting into moonshine liquor. They were searching the swamp for a still and smelled the beer, finally locating it together with a furnace and portions of a stilling outfit. They destroyed the whole layout. No persons were at the place, and hence no arrests have been made in connection with the case.

People who have recently traveled into the surrounding counties and in adjoining States rport to us that the crops in Chilton County have the best appearance of any they have seen. Recent rains came just at the right time to make our crops put on new vigor for the fruiting season.

CREAM SUPPER

There will be a cream supper and plenty of music at Arsie Lenoir's home next Saturday night, June 27. Everybody invited.

There are several crops that will produce excellent hay that can be planted up to July 15. Among these crops, the Laredo soybeans, cowpeas, sudan grass and sorghum are the leaders. In order to be as certain as possible to secure a good yield of these crops, thoroughly prepare the ground before planting—break well and harrow several times to help insure a stand and a fair yield. Some Milestones In Clanton's Progress

The history of Clanton records no spasmodic outbursts of growth. The town began in the years past without the clamor that has been the almost overnight development of many towns from nothing to great commercial centers. The making of Clanton has been a steady uninterrupted process resulting from the simultaneous development of the great agricultural industry that had always been the one main feeder for our business life.

During the years in which Clanton has been growing, there has been one outstanding accomplishment which perhaps more than any other one thing, added to the attractiveness of the town as a place in which to live and do business. We refer to the establishment of the city waterworks and sewerage system.

Next in importance we would mention the coming of the Alabama Power Company with its service, which forever settled our requirements for an adequate and dependable light and power service.

The present administration of our city government will stand out in the history of our town as one that accomplished things as important and necessary to our permanent municipal growth as those above referred to.

Even now there is in progress the work of completing the sewerage and waterworks system in many places where it was left in the beginning only partially commensurate with the future needs of the town.

Then further, just as soon as the water and sewerage systems are completed, we shall enter forthwith into the paving of the main business streets of the city with concrete—an achievement that will henceforth stand as the main pillar in the foundation of the future growth to crown that which has so firmly taken place in the past few years.

When our streets are paved, Clanton will look different in the eyes of of visitors who come here. They will get a fuller impress of the real spirit of progress which exists here.

It takes courage to undertake the development plans which our city officials are now engaged in. It is easy to do nothing as is the case with so many city officials. The tendency is to sit down with folded hands and mourn because it is so utterly impossible to make a real live town out of one like ours. Weshould be thankful that our city officials are not that kind. They are brave enough to dare the job of making Clanton capable of presenting a good impression in the eyes of the world. And this impression is more than skin deep.

Our officials have challenged the citizenship of Clanton to step out with them in this great work, and we are glad to observe that our people are giving them the co-operation they deserve.

The next annual meeting of the Alabama Farm Bureau Federation will be held in Montgomery, July 27-29. Each county Farm Bureau will send one or more representatives, the number depending upon county membership. The annual report of President Edward A. O'Neal will be a big feature.

Alabama farm women held their second annual State conference in Auburn, June 16-19. Twenty counties were represented and several other counties sent special delegations for one or more days.

The conference was called by home demonstration workers of the Alabama Extension Service to discuss important problems confronting farm women. The county home demonstration agents arranged to send representatives from their respective counties.

The first acreage and condition report of the 1925 cotton crop will be announced July 2, and will be as of June 2nd. The U. S. Department of Agriculture will make a report for the entire Cotton Belt while F. W. Gist, Federal statistician at Auburn, will release, concurrently with the Federal report, a special report for Alabama.

By saving every lock of loose cotton in the sampling and grading rooms then saving every sample, the Alabama Farm Bureau Cotton Association has returned $33,980.04 to its members in the three years it has been in operation. Leaders say that this is only one of many advantages of cooperative marketing.

The difference between profit and loss is in many cases the difference between a quality product and an inferior one. This is a day of quality.

WHY IS IT --

How To Tell When To Poison Weevils

If the best results are obtained from poisoning boll weevils with calcium arsenate it must be applied in the right way and at the right time, experts are insisting, as farmers begin poisoning on a larger scale than ever before.

County agents report that farmers have bought and are buying calcium arsenate and dust guns for applying it. In one county, Conecuh, farmers have already bought three carloads of calcium arsenate. Several others have bought one or more cars, while a large number have bought from a few tons to a half a car or more.

The first application should be made when 10% of the squares are punctured. This is determined by "counting" the weevils. Examine the squares, pulling back the three leaflets, until you have 100 squares taken at random from a certain parcel of land. Examine these closely, and see how many of the 100 are weevil infested. Do this in about 4 places in your field (seperated as widely as possible) and then average them up. If you have an average of 10 weevils to every 100 squares the first application of poison should be put on, and a second and third application should be made after the next two periods of five days. After this, use the method of determining the number of weevils you have (as described above) and poison often enough to keep the average below 15%.

PHENOMENAL GROWTH OF INSTRUCTION IN SWIMMING

A striking adventure in American pedagogy is the growth of instruction in swimming and watermanship. High school buildings and playgrounds contain swimming facilities. Many colleges include swimming prerequisite for a degree. In military posts and at summer civilian training camps instruction in swimming is given as a matter of course. The American Red Cross has been the most significant factor in promoting water safety. In Chicago, New York, Boston and Springfield are institutions that produce swimming instructors.—School Life.

Clanton Lost Two Games To Anniston

Clanton lost her first game this season to Anniston last Thursday, June 8. Of the three game series with the Anniston Club, Clanton dropped the first two contests, 9 to 8 in 11 innings on Thursday, and 5 to 1 on Friday. Jack Hayes' freak home run was the only score Clanton made in this game. Clanton took the game on Saturday, 4 to 3.

This makes 7 victories out of 9 games played this season by the Clanton team—percentage, .778.

Clanton plays Anniston a three game series here Thursday, Friday and Saturday. Some good games are expected. We know how good Clanton is, and the team that can beat them two games out of three is sure to give us good competition here this week, and play some ball games worth watching. Come and get your share of the fun.

POOR O

The World Is Wild For A Good Time

"The whole world nowadays is trying to get a kick. It is doing anything to get a thrill—to have a 'good time.' It is playing with fire and seeing how close to the fire it can get without being burned," declared Rev. Bob Jones, the fighting evangelist, who occupied the pulpit at the First Methodist church Sunday morning. He preached before a capacity crowd. Again in the evening he addressed an over-flowing crowd composed of several downtown congregations at the Temple theater.

"When Rome got her thrill she went to hell. America can't go on with her modern sins and not go to hell. If she keeps up her sensual dancing, she is going to dance herself to that place.

"What's wrong with us is that we don't want to face facts. We have practically wiped out the line of demarcation between the church and the world. We agree that times are changed and things don't look so very bad after all. We have got to the place where we can hardly tell who belongs to the church and who doesn't," he deplored at the morning service.

Old-Time Revival Needed.

"On every hand I'm told that I must keep up with the world. I say it is not my business to keep up with the world. When you pull the world into the church you cripple it. Right now America needs an old-time revival of high Christian standards that will enable us to tell a member of the church by the way he lives. We need not revive that old-time line of demarcation.

"We are too irreverant," he went on. "We treat everything lightly—even the Bible. We try to make a joke of everything. We need a revival of old-time reverence.

"We are growing dishonest. I hear of it in the schools and in the homes. We are forgetting to drill our children in those old-time principles of honesty. The idea today seems to be to get what you can—but get it," he said.

On touching the prohibition law, he said that it was kept about as well as any other law, declaring that the world was full of murder and other forms of lawlessness. He added that more iron-hand, character-building authority is needed in the homes.

Sin Is Real.

"The trouble with most of us is that we don't stand for anything. We say we suppose things aren't so bad and let them go. But it's better to die for something than to live for nothing as most of us are doing. Right is still right and wrong is still wrong. The man who believes in sin has no trouble in believing in hell. Christian science goes on the basis that sin is not a real thing. I know it is a real thing, for I have seen it produce 10,000 hells."

Dr. Jones had little to say on the evolution war now stirring the country, declaring, "I don't ask the public school to teach my boy religion. I say let him keep the religion I have taught him. The world war was caused by the materialistic conception of evolution. The Germans defied man, humanized God and minimized sin. If America continues to do that, she, like Germany, will go to hell.

"We need a wholesome anger and a wholesome hatred for sin. One of our troubles is that we go to sleep, but the devil's gang never goes to sleep.

"The solution of the world's problem is not only the teachings of Jesus Christ, but Jesus Christ himself," he held out.

At the evening service in announcing the showing of "The Unbeatable Game" at the Municipal theater at 8 p. m. Monday and 3 p. m. Tuesday for women and at 8 p. m. Tuesday and Wednesday for men, Dr. Jones declared that sin is a game that no man is big enough or shrewd enough to beat, as the production will show.

"Moral conditions in this country are such that something has to be done about it. That is why I produced this picture. Sin is a game that the world is trying to beat, but it can't be done." —Birmingham Age-Herald.

Complete Confederate Memorial Coin Distribution Plans

COMPLETION of arrangements for the distribution of Confederate Memorial Half-Dollars to take place on July 3rd in which more than five thousand commercial banks throughout the South are taking part, has been announced by Mr. Robert F. Maddox, Chairman of the Special Bankers' Committee supervising the distribution.

Mr. Maddox, Chairman of the Board of the Atlanta and Lowry National Bank, was formerly President of the American Bankers Association.

Shipment of Memorial Half-Dollars from the various Reserve Banks on May 30th had passed a total of more than 2,000,000 coins, according to the Committee's announcement. In all the Southern states, committees of patriotic citizens appointed by the Governors, are cooperating with the banks in pushing the sale of certificates redeemable for the coins on July 3rd. Great rivalry has developed among these committees and among the business concerns in the purchase of the coins. One Atlanta corporation has bought 10,000 coins for distribution among its agents in all parts of the world. A Virginia insurance company has also been a heavy purchaser distributing the souvenirs among new policy holders. Many banks are offering the coins as premiums to children opening new savings accounts, while in many schools and colleges of the South the coins are being given with the diplomas to graduating classes.

The coins, which bear the likenesses of Generals Robert E. Lee and Stonewall Jackson are being utilized everywhere as "badges of honor" and are taking their place among the treasured heirlooms of Confederate heroes in whose honor they were minted.

Alabama Leads South In Cement Production

Alabama, known throughout the country as a state of many natural resources such as coal, iron, and lumber, has made advantageous use of nature's rock deposits, and is maintaining the lead in the South in the production of portland cement, according to the United States Geological Survey.

In 1924 Alabama produced 5,541,000 barrels of portland cement, an amount more than adequate to supply the needs of this state and nearby sections.

Probably no industry in Alabama is so dependent on other state industries as is the portland cement industry. Its relationship to the other industries is illustrated by the volume of Alabama cotton used last year in supplying the 2,600,000 returnable cloth sacks which it is estimated were lost or destroyed during the year. The state cement mills must keep at least 10,000,000 sacks in service, a supply which requires the consumption of 10,000 bales of cotton.

Coal is another Alabama product which enters into the manufacture of portland cement to a surprising extent. Alabama plants last year consumed 485,000 tons of this fuel.

The initial operation in the manufacture of portland cement is the quarrying of raw material. In 1924 more than 700,000 pounds of high explosives were used in tearing down rock deposits. These explosives were also largely made in this state.

Other state products enter heavily into the making of cement. Gypsum, widely used as a fertilizer, is added to cement to regulate the time of hardening in making concrete. Last year 63,000,000 pounds of gypsum were mixed with Alabama cement. Alabama produced fire brick, belting, and other materials make portland cement manufactured in this state a thorough Alabama product.

The first cement plant in Alabama was established near Demopolis in 1901, but it was closed down from 1908 until 1919. The other Alabama plants are located at Leeds, Ragland, and two at Birmingham.

Shaving a mountain of rock may sound absurd but this is the method followed in obtaining the raw material at the Demopolis plant. A motor driven apparatus working on the elevator system shaves off a 50-foot surface with cutting knives. This machine eliminates the use of the huge rock crushers employed by most of the plants.

For every man, woman and child in this state a trifle less than a barrel of portland cement was used last year in the building of concrete roads, streets, alleys, office and industrial structures, homes, farm buildings, dams and bridges. Within recent years the concrete rural highway program has been increasing rapidly. Last year awards for this type of paving reached 53 miles and it is expected that awards for about 100 miles will be made during the present season.

The efficient farmer will succeed; the inefficient farmer will ultimately fail.—Secretary of Agriculture Jardine.

Birmingham - Southern Holding Summer School

The summer school at Birmingham-Southern College, Dr. Roy E. Hoke, director, is running on full schedule since the opening date June 8, with the largest enrollment in the history of the College and the biggest summer school among Alabama Colleges this year, announcements say.

About 675 are attending the summer session at Birmingham-Southern, it is stated, from the homes widely scattered over the state. Twenty-two instructors are offering over fifty courses daily, on the schedule of classes from 8:00 a. m. to 1:00 p. m. Afternoons are left free for study and recreation.

The first term of the summer school will be concluded on July 17, after six weeks of instruction five days weekly. The second term will last from July 20 to August 22, five weeks with classes 6 days weekly. The school calendar thus follows, it is said, the state plan. Of the large number at Birmingham-Southern this summer, many are teachers obtaining or renewing certificates, and many are students obtaining regular college credit toward a degree. All teachers in attendance are being urged by officials to continue their work to secure a college degree.

Those who see the ball games here Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week can be assured in advance thae they are going to see three thrillers. Clanton is going in to get even with Anniston, and if honest-to-goodness superior ball playing can do it, look out.

Salary Increases Will Hold Rural Teachers

Great difficulty is experienced in holding teachers in the 1,487 one-teacher schools of Manitoba. The provincial department of education announced last year that thereafter it would grant 15 cents per day for the second year's service in such schools by the same teacher and 25 cents per day for the subsequent years, according to Lucius P. Johnson, American vice consul at Winnipeg. Five hundred and forty teachers qualified for the increase in the current year, and it is expected that the number will reach 1,000 next year.

STRAIGHT TALKS WITH AUNT EMMY

On Carrying Checks Around

"Have you heard about the trouble Jim Sykes is in, Aunt Emmy?" asked Molly, who dearly loved to talk about her neighbors.

"Why, no," answered Aunt Emmy; "what is it?"

"Well, Aunty, you know how proud he was to get that building job from Mr. Parker. He needed the money so much. When it was finished Mr. Parker gave him a check for $3,000. Of course Jim had obligated himself to pay a lot of that out for materials and things. Well, you know what an old slow poke Jim Sykes is. Instead of taking the check to the bank right away he carried it around in his pocket and then poor Mr. Parker died. Now he must wait until Mr. Parker's estate is settled, and that may be a couple of years before he can cash the check. Poor Jim, isn't it a shame!"

"It's too bad," agreed Aunt Emmy, "but quite in keeping with most folks' carelessness about money. People should be prompt in depositing checks. Aside from such a serious thing as a death, an undeposited check is a nuisance to lots of people. Banks and business houses keep their books carefully balanced. If at the end of a month a check that has been issued has not been put through for collection it means a lot of unnecessary bookkeeping for the person who issued the check and for the bank.

"Then, too, there is the danger of loss. People often write their names across the back of a check and then carry it around for a day or two before banking it. An indorsed check is as negotiable as money. To be safe always indorse it to your bank. Write 'Pay to the Order of ——' then the name of your bank and below that sign your name. That protects the check from being used, if it should get out of your hands. But never waste any time about depositing checks you receive."

"Not after what happened to Jim and after hearing you tell me all these things, Aunty!" said Molly. "I'd be scared to keep a check a minute more than necessary."—Anne B. Aymes.

CHILEAN PROFESSORS RETIRE AFTER 30 YEARS SERVICE

Exemption from duties with a pension "equal to the income they may enjoy" is obligatory for professors of secondary, commercial, and special instruction in the public schools of Chile who have completed 30 years of service and have reached the age of 55. The Government may for very special reasons authorize these employees to continue performing their duties for five years more. This is provided for in degree law No. 337, promulgated March 12, 1925, and officially reported to the State Department by William Miller Collier, United States ambassador at Santiago.

Played Country Lass Roles Once - - - And Now Look!

OUT Hollywood way there is much gossip anent the latest screen "siren." She is Miss Clara Horton whom many movie fans may remember in the roles of the demure country maiden who comes to the big city to win fame, fortune and a millionaire husband but usually winds up in living happily ever after with the iceman's son.

Here we have Miss Horton costumed for her new role of screen "vamp" with the customary cigaret and everything. One of those ladies whose job it is to try and make a "bum" out of the hero. And they almost—succeed. Well, we'll say one look from Miss Horton's beautiful eyes is almost enough to make any man forget his name and address.

DISPOSES IN 282 WORDS OF THE BANK GUARANTEE LAW

"Understand bank deposit guaranty being proposed in your legislature," telegraphed R. B. Clark, president of the Bank of Tupelo, Miss., to Paul R. Brown, Secretary of the North Carolina Bankers Association. "Such a law in any form is a snare and a delusion. It is license and encouragement to irresponsible banks and banking and penalizes capital solvency and prudent banking. It creates a sense of security in the minds of the unthinking and uninformed that is false and impossible to be realized on ultimately. It tends to debauch one's right and duty to be thoughtful and discriminating. To compare it to legitimate insurance is without reason and absurd. It jeopardizes the solvency of all banks and the safety of all depositors for the theoretical safety of a few. We have had it ten years, and the fund is hopelessly in arrears. Have been fighting for repeal and have made progress. Only repeal can save our state system of banks. Many of the best are nationalizing even now. Guaranty schemes always have been, are and always will be impotent, futile and disastrous Consider Oklahoma, Texas, Nebraska Mississippi and others. It is not new. Has been tried, failed and discarded at intervals for more than 100 years in this country. No well-informed, honest and intelligent mind can accept it in principle or practice. Well paid intelligently competent supervision, restriction of banks to territory that will warrant sufficient capital investment and encourage surplus accounts is the only sane and honest course and will afford all the guaranty the depositing public is entitled to as compared with all other human affairs. Arouse your people and crush the misguided effort for all time. To do so will be worth whatever it may cost, and the value will be to your people generally more than to the banks."

The bill was reported unfavorably.

PITFALLS FOR THE UNWARY

Seek Bankers' Advice on Foreign Bonds, Says Department of Commerce.

American investors in securities of foreign companies and foreign governments should take care to purchase them only through reliable bankers or brokers, says Commerce Reports issued by the Department of Commerce. It adds:

"There have recently been several flagrant cases of securities being advertised in American journals at prices from 10 to 100 times the price quoted on the same date in the markets of the countries where the concerns are located. Some of these cases have even attracted the attention of foreign newspapers. This is not a safe kind of speculation for uninformed Americans, but the would-be investor can easily protect himself by asking the advice of his regular banker."

STORE CREDIT COSTS 26 PER CENT.

In a survey of 800 farms made by the North Carolina Experiment Station, it was found that over 40 per cent of the total credit needs for the farmer is for short term loans, either through the bank or through merchant advances. Only one-sixth of this amount comes from banks and the rest from stores or landlords. For store credit farmers are paying over 26 per cent interest, and only a little better than half of the farmers realized this fact. The bank rate of interest at the same time was only a trifle above 6 per cent. Practically all merchants would be delighted to go over to a cash basis.

The remedy lies in the production of more food and feed and in the discontinuance of shipping in hay and grain with their attendant high freight rates and dealers' profits. This means the establishment of better working relations between bankers and farmers, for there is great opportunity for educating the farmer along the line of bank credit.—Banker-Farmer.

TENANT FARMING NOT GOOD FOR EDUCATION

That children of parents who own their farms remain longer in school than the children of tenant farmers is shown by a recent survey in Jefferson County, Ga. In the first four grades of the school children of tenant farmers compose 55.5% of the enrollment. After that they begin to drop out, and the enrollment of children of tenant farmers in the fifth grade is only 35.5% of the whole number. During the four years of high school children of farm owning parents make up 82.4% of the studen body. The enrollment of children of tenant farmers decreases from 33% in the eighth grade to 3 in the eleventh or last grade.

GOOD SALARIES ATTRACT GOOD TEACHERS TO NEVADA

Salaries of teachers in Nevada average $1,449 a year, which is considerably above the average for the United States. An excellent class of teachers has been attracted to the State in consequence, ccording toa recent statement of the deputy superintendent of public instruction. He states that 97.6% of the teachers have had at least as much education as that implied by graduation from a four-year high school, and only 15 teachers in the entire State have not had at least six weeks of normal school or college training. Certificates to teach in the high schools of the State require graduation from standard four-year normal schools or colleges, together with the required professioinal training.

A course in home economics is given, at their own request, to a group of boys in the Manual Arts High School, Los Angeles. It is adapted to the boys' needs and carries credit toward graduation. So popular has the study proved that the enrollment has doubled.—School Life.

THORSBY SECTION

(S. E. NORTON, Manager).

Rev. Joseph E. Each took for his subject of discourse at the Congregational church last Sunday morning, "The man with two talents," as distinct from the man with one, or the phenomenal people who are endowed with five or ten talents.

Those people who belong to just the ordinary classes of people who compose the great majority of mankind, who are neither drones nor especially gifted with extraordinary mentality.

This man did not fail to use his best efforts to double what had been given to him, and according to what he had received he increased it as much as those who had more to begin with did theirs, while the man who received only one talent proved that even that was more than he was worthy of.

The object of the sermon appeared to be to give encouragement to men and women who seem to have a "hard row to hoe" in life, but who will do the best they can with what they have. What they do may never be heralded around the world, but still has an important part in the world's work under the blessing which God bestows on His faithful ones.

Mrs. Ethel Wright Loveland, Miss Lois Leech, Mrs. Loveland's mother and another lady motored last week from Mrs. Loveland's home at Downers Grove, near Chicago, to Syracuse, N. Y., to visit Miss Jenkins, before she goes to New England for the summer. Mrs. Loveland and her party will return home this week, after resting a few days, and will motor to St. Paul, Minn., where Miss Leech has kinfolks.

A message has been received from Mrs. Hattie M. Gerald and her daughters, Ruth and Mary Ella, from Los Angeles, Cal., where they have visited Mrs. Erdahl and daughters, Anna and Inga, who moved there from Thorsby about a year ago. The Geralds also paid a visit to Mrs. Martha B. Hunter, who also lived in Thorsby before going to California.

The Geralds expect to visit friends at Fresno, Cal., this week, also the Yosemite Valley, and go on to Portland, Oregon, late in the week.

Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Norman and little Bettie Sue left Saturday for Opelika, where they will spend several days.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Petersen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl C. Petersen, expect to start for their home in New York on Thursday of this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl C. Petersen entertained their three sons, Nels, Albert and Harry, with their wives and children and adopted children, last Sunday. The whole party numbered thirteen persons. This is the first time in five years that the family has all been together.

Mrs. Grover Bice and her mother, Mrs. Wright, spent a couple of days with friends in Deatsville last week.

A letter recently received from Rev. Frank E. Jenkins, D. D., of Demorest, Ga., announced that he will be in Thorsby on Thursday of this week to attend a special meeting of the Board of Trustees of Thorsby Institute, of which organization he is president. This meeting is expected to have much to do with organization and plans for the immediate future of the school.

On Thursday afternoon, June 25, the Ladies' Guild of Thorsby will hold their monthly social at the home of Mrs. S. C. Wood, on Summit Avenue.

On Thursday night, July 2, the Congregational Ladies' Aid Society will hold their regular monthly social on the church lawn. It so happens that this date is identical with the 20th anniversary of the organization of this church, and it is proposed to make it a community celebration of this event. A short program will be a feature of the occasion, and the ladies will sell refreshments at the usual 10c per. They will also sell ice cream. All who are interested in this church and its affairs, whether members or not, are cordially invited.

Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Foss and family expect to move into their new home, the Robert Johnson place on Montgomery Highway, this week.

The old Foss home will be occupied by a son of Riley Pate, who married a sister of Mrs. Howard Foshee.

Mr. Sereno G. Norton, who expected to visit his parents in Thorsby on last Saturday and Sunday, but was prevented from doing so, was detained by having so many last details of preparation for beginning actual operation of the big plant last Monday. He now expects to spend two or three days in Thorsby after Wednesday of this week.

Mr. Reno S. Villadsen, as a mining engineer, was the only citizen of Thorsby to receive and accept an invitation, for last week (Wednesday) to attend the formal opening of the Hercules Powder Company's new manufacturing plant at McAdory, Ala. He reports that the very interesting processes of production of the various departments were illustrated in actual operation, but for the safety of the 350 guests inexperienced in the manufacture of high explosives, dummy material was used to avoid any possible mishap. Another precaution he mentioned was that every guest on the premises was required to give up any matches he might have on his person. Matches are taboo in a powder factory. Mr. Villadsen also spoke of the splendid barbecue provided for the guests, and he showed a beautiful and substantial combination pencil and fountain pen like each guest received as a souvenir of the occasion.

Messrs. Plato Deason and A. T. Arthur were week end visitors in Thorsby.

On Friday night of last week the Christian Endeavor Society held a social at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Butler.

Mr. R. A. Turner, who is employed in Birmingham, was home over Sunday, and returned by auto Monday morning, accompanied by his son, Harris, as chauffeur, together with Mrs. Cox, mother of Mrs. J. E. Each, who is in a Birmingham hospital, and Miss Alta Each. The ladies went to call on Mrs. Each, and returned Monday evening.

The great concrete paving machines have moved on down the trail, leaving in their wake a series of miniature square ponds to do duty in the hardening process of the finished work, and also to delight the kiddies who find them lovely wading ponds these hot days. They will soon be gone however, and our highway will be opened to traffic. What it is likely to bring is faintly illustrated by the number and variety of motor busses that have recently made their appearance.

Rev. Bakke, pastor of Thorsby Lutheran church, announces preaching service in English at 10:30 a. m. Sunday, June 28. No evening service.

Hauling Ever-Increasing Quantities of Mail

Why is the Post Office Department of the United States more efficient than that of any other nation? Why do our mails move faster and at lower rates than mails in any other country? One of the principal reasons is that the great transportation lines of America lend their heartiest co-operation to the Postal Authorities, providing fastest schedules, and charging the Government very low rates for this service.

Latest available figures show that the receipts of the United States Post Office Department have increased $40,000,000 over the corresponding period of the year previous, an increase of about 9%.

The railroads of the United States are not only performing a great task in providing the world's best freight and passenger transportation, but they are facilitating the Post Office Department to such an extent that you enjoy exceptional mail service.

A Bank Account Is An Incentive to Thrift and Economy

Without it one is likely to spend money for things that are useless.

Like the man who received a $200 legacy and spent a day and a night writing orders to mail-order houses, next day he went to a friends to borrow a nickel to buy a loaf of bread. This may be an extreme example, but it actually happened, and in a way may happen to anyone who has not the banking habit.

The Gift of Tongues

Over in France the average doughboy had a gorgeous confidence in his ability to speak the language of the country. In a Norman village one day a perplexed-looking private, who had not been abroad very long, approached a seasoned campaigner of the A. E. F. and asked the latter if he spoke French.

"Sure I speak French," said the veteran. "What's the matter?"

"Here's what's the matter," said the green soldier. "The Frog that keeps that shop yonder across the street sold me some post cards, and I gave him a ten franc note, and now he's holding out part of my money on me. I wish you'd come on over there with me and straighten the thing out and make that guy hand me what's coming to me."

"Sure I will," said the other.

Moved by curiosity, a friend of mine trailed behind them, arriving just in time to hear the following dialogue between the linguist and the storekeeper:

"Parley voo Francay?"

"Oui, oui, monsieur."

"Then, why the h—l don't you give this here boy his right change?"

There Was No Hurry About It

A brawny negro prize-fighter made application at an athletic club which was putting on a series of bouts, for an opportunity to meet some suitable opponent. He announced that he was a dark cloud, a whirlwind, a tempest, a tornado, a hurricane and a sirocco.

His language impressed the matchmaker and for the preliminary go he was entered against a dependable colored scrapper. The stranger made a deplorable showing. For two rounds his opponent hammered him all over the ring. Early in the third round the beaten darky decided he had enough. He took an easy poke on the jaw and flattened out on the canvas to be counted out.

The referee was half way through with his tally when disgust moved him to interpolate a speech:

"Say, nigger," he growled out of the corner of his mouth, "you ain't hurt. Get up from there! Ain't you goin' to fight any more?"

Without stirring from his comfortable recumbent position the whirlwind made answer:

"Oh, yassah, I'm gwine fight some mo'—but not tonight."

MAKING MONEY FIT BUSINESS

When Times Are Active the Supply Increases—Contraction Follows Seasonal and Periodic Slackening.

New York. — Demonstration that complete elasticity has been imparted to the currency in the United States by the Federal Reserve System despite assertions to the contrary is given in the American Bankers Association Journal by W. Randolph Burgess, assistant agent at the New York Federal Reserve Bank.

"Of all the money in circulation in the United States, Federal Reserve notes now make up almost one-half," he says in part. "In 1920 they were 70 per cent. The increase in currency which the war and high world prices made necessary was provided almost wholly by Federal Reserve notes. Just as the increase was wholly through Federal Reserve notes, so again the decrease was altogether in Federal Reserve notes. Reserve notes in circulation decreased from $3,300,000,000 in November, 1920, to $1,700,000,000 in March, 1925. Between the same dates other currency increased from $1,500,000,000 to $2,300,000,000, due to an increase in gold certificates.

"There are still some few who produce theoretical arguments to show that for some reason the Federal Reserve note is not elastic. These various arguments raise interesting questions, but they make little headway against the facts, for the facts show that the Federal Reserve note has been elastic.

How Currency Changes Volume

"The amount of currency the country requires reflects changing prices, wage levels, employment and volume of trade. As an example, retail trade at Christmas time is always larger than at other times. This results in a considerable increase in the need for hand to hand currency. Currency withdrawals and receipts at the Federal Reserve Banks illustrate the way this special demand was met. Prior to Christmas there was paid out about $300,000,000 of currency, all of which was returned to the bank within the two or three weeks following Christmas.

"The mechanism is that when Federal Reserve member banks need currency for their customers they draw it from the Reserve Bank. Member banks can secure additional currency by borrowing at the Reserve Bank. Conversely, whenever currency in circulation becomes larger than is required by business it begins to return to the banks and they immediately utilize it to pay off indebtedness at the Reserve Banks, on which they are paying interest.

"The Federal Reserve System has made all types of currency, except national bank notes, elastic because all except those notes can be issued in amounts required and they all tend to flow back to the Reserve Bank when they are not required. There is another phase of currency elasticity. A $100 Federal Reserve note may represent only $40 in gold, because a gold reserve of only 40 per cent is required against Federal Reserve notes. On the other hand, a $100 gold certificate must represent $100 in gold. Thus the Federal Reserve Banks can issue, in response to commercial demand, two and one-half times as many Federal Reserve notes as gold certificates before the reserve ratio reaches the legal minimum.

Secondary Stretch

"This secondary elasticity was illustrated during the war, when in response to war demands Federal Reserve notes were issued to the amount of $3,405,000,000. The Federal Reserve System could have issued more than $800,000,000 additional without lowering the reserve against notes below 40 per cent, or the reserve against deposits below 35 per cent. In any emergency the power to issue these notes increases by 150 per cent the amount of cash which might be supplied to the country.

"Federal Reserve currency has proved itself flexible in war expansion and in post-war reductions. Since the establishment of the System the currency has been responsive to the seasonal and emergency needs of business. The Federal Reserve Act obtained currency elasticity by placing the country's reserve cash in institutions not organized for profit, from which currency might be withdrawn or to which it might be returned in response to the country's needs. While the existence of the Reserve System gives flexibility to almost all forms of currency, the Federal Reserve notes, secured in part by commercial paper, provides a possible secondary expansion in readiness for an emergency."

Youngster Retains World's "Barnyard Golf" Title

MORE glory came to the state of Iowa the other day when one of its youngest natives again won the Horseshoe Tossing Championship of the world in a tournament held at Lake Worth, Fla. The honor went to 17-year-old "Putt" Mossman, the knicker clad lad at the left in the above photo.

Young Mossman took on all comers in the meet, placing his "ringers" around the goal rod with such deadly aim it was a revelation to the scores of spectators. He won the title handily and with it came the Fort Lauderdale cup which Al Milcher—president of the National Horseshoe Pitchers' Association—is shown presenting to him.

SUPPLYING THE NATION'S CHANGE

Supplying the wealthiest nation in the world with change is a job of tremendous proportions. During 1924 the United States mints struck off 89,394,000 one cent pieces and 28,315,000 nickels. The small change of the nation was enlarged by 37,940,000 dimes and 16,892,000 quarters. While a drive was started to popularize the silver dollar, only 13,539,000 of the "silver cartwheels" were coined. Singularly, the half-dollar is the most unpopular coin that the United States makes. During 1925 there were just 142,080 half-dollars struck off, and all of these were the commemorative Huguenot-Walloon coins. The mints coined 10,300,500 double eagles.

CHESTNUT CREEK

Having been quite a while since our singing society met we were all glad to assemble together again to sing praises to our Creator "Who doeth all things well." The society was opened at 2 o'clock by a song led by our chairman, Mr. W. M. Devaughn, after which prayer was offered by our pastor, Rev. J. D. Hughes. Those entertaining the very large audience were I. D. Huett, L. T. Grant, the Grant Quartette, composed of L. T. Grant and his three daughters, Genie, Birdie and Pearl; their rendition was fine. This quartette was followed by a quartette rendered by W. M. Devaughn, Calvin Jones, Lena Mae and Romie Lee Devaughn.

After recess Mr. L. T. Grant led three songs, followed by a quartett rendered by Messrs. W. M. Devaughn, O. L. Devaughn, I. D. Huett, L. T. Grant, J. B. Murphy, Misses Lena Mae Devaughn, Birdie and Genie Grant. The name of this quartett being "Wonderful," and it was wonderful.

We then had two lessons by Mr. Lee Robinson and Ammie Boswell. We then had two quartetts, the name of the last one being "Rocking on the Ocean Waves," which was splendid.

The society was dismissed by Rev. J. D. Hughes. To the visitors we say come again. We are glad to have you with us.—Secretary.

POWER COMPANY WINS PRIZE

It begins to look as though Alabama is to have an epidemic of prize-winning, growing out of recognition by the remainder of the United States of the wonderful things being done in this state and out of the activities of Alabamians in bringing the state's good points to the attention of the outside world. Closely Following the proclaiming of an Alabama boy as champion orator of the United States and the declaration that Alabama's exhibit at the Southern Exposition in New York led all the rest, and the awarding to Jasper of the best catalog of assets, comes the announcement that the Alabama Power Company has been awarded the Forbes Magazine public service cup in the national contest to determine which such utility in America showed most progress and enlightenment in public service and relations, and in its interior efficiency and treatment of employees.

This gives national recognition to a commendable work with which Alabamians are already familiar, because there is scarcely any part of the state which is not feeling the vivifying effects of the enormous construction and development work under way by the Alabama Power Company.—The Birmingham Age-Herald, June 13, 1925.

If every farmer would plant a good patch of sorghum to cut and feed whole to his plow stock after laying by time and on through the Fall season it would be relished by the stock and save much corn and hay.

The Leaning Tower of Baltimore

In Baltimore, years ago, there was a shot tower that stood up in the air to a considerable height. Almost at the base of the shot tower a serious-minded German ran a saloon.

Eugene Havez, afterwards a New York theatrical man and now in the moving picture business in California, lived in Baltimore when the shot tower stood there. One day Havez and a friend of his found themselves in the vicinity of the shotworks. Both were thirsty and both, as it happened, without funds. Havez had an iden.

He outlined it to his companion and then they entered the saloon in a violent argument with each other.

"I'll bet you anything I'm right," Havez declared.

"You're wrong," stated his friend stubbornly, "you're just naturally bound to be wrong."

They lined up at the bar still debating. The German waiting patiently to serve them became interested.

"I'll show you how game I am," said Havez. "I'll bet you the drinks I'm right and leave it to our friend here to decide it."

"That's a go," said the other man.

"Set out the drinks," commanded Havez.

The German served them and they drank.

"Now, poys," inquired the saloon man, "vat is dis pet?"

"It's like this," said Havez edging toward the door, "my friend here bets that when the shot tower falls down it will fall to the north. I say it will fall to the south."

SAM SMITH BROUGHT TO HOSPITAL AFTER BEING SHOT

A man by the name of Sam Smith who lives over near the Bibb County line in the neighborhood of Randolph, was brought to the hospital in Clanton last Friday evening, after having been shot in the back with a load of buckshot. The injured man says he was shot about one o'clock in the afternoon. It was about five o'clock before he got to the hospital. He was found in a dangerous condition, but is doing better now, it is reported at the hospital.

The details of the shooting are hard to gather. There seems to be more of mystery about the affair than anything else. Sheriff Littlejohn has interviewed the injured man in the hospital, and we understand that Smith told him he was shot by a law enforcement officer by the name of Sims. It is not known whether the shooting occurred at a still or in connection with a raid.

MRS. SARA SCOTT

God in His unerring wisdom, called from our midst on June 9th, our beloved friend and co-worker, Sister Sara Scott, and we, the members of the Womans Missionary Society of Jemison Baptist Church, desire to express our love and a kind remembrance to her. Be it resolved:

1. That, in this passing away, our Society has lost one of the most faithful members—a vacancy we can not fill; and the lat charter member of this society.

2. That we extend to the bereaved children our heartfelt sympathy in their loneliness, and pray that God may give them comfort and strength.

3. That a copy of these resolutions be spread upon the minutes of our society, a copy furnished the county paper and a copy mailed to the bereaved children.

Respectfully submitted,

High-school attendance in Indiana increased 55.95% during the past five years. Increase in the elementary grades was 14.91%, according to statistics compiled by the State Department of Public Instruction of Indiana.

Buffalo, N. Y., spends more per capita of average attendance for the maintenance of its public schools than any other city in the United States. Its expenditure was $133.32 per pupil in 1924, as shown by Statistical Circular No. 4, just issued by the Department of the Interior, Bureau of Education. Springfield, Mass., was second in liberality, with $123.70 per pupil in attendance. Nashville, Tenn., has relatively the cheapest school system in the group of cities of 100,000 inhabitants or more, and spent only $35.74 per pupil in 1924. The average for all the cities of this group was $95.64.

DR. GRAGG ELECTED PRES. ALABAMA HOSPITAL ASSN.

There has just come to our attention a copy of the June issue of "The Modern Hospital," a magazine published in Chicago. We find therein an account of the second annual meeting of the Alabama Hospital Association, which was held in Birmingham on April 22, 1925.

The account of the meeting is very interesting, revealing some good things which the hospital association is doing in the State of Alabama.

In the election of officers for the next year, Dr. V. J. Gragg of Clanton was chosen as first vice-president of the Association. We are glad to note that there are numerous evidences that Dr. Gragg is rapidly coming to be recognized as one of the leading authorities on hospital management in Alabama. This is an honor that is well deserved. His ability has been demonstrated in his connection with the Central Alabama Hospital in our town in many ways and upon many occasions.

W. M. DEVAUGHN WILL TEACH SINGING SCHOOL AT CONCORD

School Will Begin on Monday, July 13, and Will be Taught at Concord Schoolhouse.

The arrangements for Prof. W. M. Devaughn's singing and music school have been completed, and according to the decision of the leaders of the Walnut Creek and Concord communities, the school will be taught in the new Concord Schoolhouse instead of at Walnut Creek church, as was previously announced. The change was made in order to provide larger quarters for the school and better accommodations for the students. It is anticipated that Prof. Devaughn will have the largest school ever taught anywhere near here, and preparations are being made to take care of all who may wish to attend.

Besides Prof. Devaughn, there will be two lady assistants to aid in the teaching and to care for the instrumental work necessary for the teaching. They are Misses Lena Devaughn and Claudia Hughes. Both these ladies are well qualified for the work, as is known by all who have heard them sing and seen them perform.

The Jesse French & Sons Piano Company have agreed to furnish a piano to be used in the school free of charge. The proper seating accommodations are now being arranged by the patrons of the school.

The tuition will be as follows: Rudiments, 15c per day per student; Primary Harmony, 17½c per day per student; Advanced Harmony, 20c per day per student. The school will last for twenty-four days—four weeks of six days per week. A concert will be given at the close of the school, and if the necessity arises, another school of the same length will be taught following the close of this one.

This promises to be not only the largest but the best singing school ever held in Chilton County. Prof. W. M. Devaughn needs no introduction to the people of Chilton County. He has taught singing schools all around over the county, and everybody know him to be a splendid singer and thoroughly competent teacher, as well as a good Christian man with it. Everyone who possbily can should avail themselves of attending this school, as it will afford a rare opportunity for learning more about music and singing.

Tables for bridge were placed in the living room and sun parlor. After a series of games, Mrs. John Browder was presented the club prize, two decks of attractively boxed cards. Among the guests, Mrs. Elizabeth Higgins held high score and was awarded a box of Coty's powder. The hostess, assisted by Mrs. Omar Reynolds, served a delicious salad plate with iced tea.

Murphy-Arant.

The bride and groom were accompanied to Columbiana by Mr. and Mrs. Julius Burnett.

Mesdames Heflin And Duncan Joint Hostesses.

Tuesday afternoon Mesdames Grady Heflin and Lucien Duncan were joint hostesses, when they delightfully entertained with a miscellaneous shower at the home of Mrs. Heflin on North Tenth Street, complimenting Mrs. Bill Murphy, a bride of recent date. The color scheme of yellow and white was carried out beautifully with summer flowers decorating the home. The entire setting was illumined with yellow and white tapers. On the porch Misses Gladys Kemp and Lorene Murphy served punch. The table was attractive with golden apricots. Mesdames Heflin, Duncan and Murphy received the guests, and the gifts were taken by Miss Sara Mullins. The bride's book was presided over by Mrs. Don. Merchant and Miss Elizabeth Duncan.

A Shakespearean contest was enjoyed and Mrs. W. M. Wyatt was awarded the prize, a pretty bud vase.

The bride, attired in white, was seated on a throne. The gifts were brought in a chest of gold by little Mary Wallace and Myrtle Pitts, dressed as fairies. Preceding the arrival of the gifts, Master Billy Retherford and little Olive Rainer Elmore, who were dressed as bride and groom, entered and took their places on either side of the throne. Many lovely and useful gifts were presented the bride. Music was furnished by Miss Lurleen Miner. An ice course moulded in heart shapes with cakes embossed in white with yellow hearts was served by the hostesses to Mesdames H. F. Downs, B. L. Jones, Kin Vinson, Jasper Calloway, Julius Burnett, John Browder, J. C. Jones, T. H. Neighbors, Don Merchant, Oscar Jones, C. B. Cox, Monroe Wyatt, Bama Cox, Tom Curlee, W. C. Robinson, J. W. P. Rogers-Ormond Wedding Ceremony.

A pretty wedding ceremony took place at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. F. Ormond, Thursday evening at 8:30 o"c'lock, when Miss Marjorie Elizabeth Ormond and Mr. Lewis William Rogers of Mobile, were married with Rev. W. B. McGlawn, of the Walker Memorial Church, officiating.

The vows were spoken before an altar of greens and vases of pink and white flowers placed in the living room. The nuptial music was given by Miss Susie Roebuck, who sang a group of love songs accompanied by Miss Lorena Norton who later played the wedding march.

Miss Maude Ellis Sutton, maid of honor, was the bride's only attendant. She wore a green georgette gown over a flesh colored satin slip and carried pink gladioli.

The bride was given in marriage by her father and was lovely in a gown of white georgette with duchess lace trimmings. Her short veil fell from a crown of orange blossoms with some of the dainty blooms falling the entire length. She carried a bouquet of bride roses and valley lilies. Mr. Arthur Rogers of Mobile served his brother as best man.

Mr. and Mrs. Ormond entertained the bridal party and wedding guests at a reception following the ceremony. Mrs. Ormond was becomingly gowned in a blond georgette with a corsage of sweet peas.

The bride's table effectively appointed in a scheme of pink and white had as a central ornament a large wedding cake. Miss Rosa Gould presided at the table and keeping the bridal register was Miss Marion Ormond, sister of the bride, who wore a chic costume of peach tinted georgette.

Mr. and Mrs. Rogers are spending 10 days in New Orleans and at Gulf coast resorts, after which they will be in Clanton, Ala., for a month.

I wish to state to my friends and patrons in this County that there is a man by the name of T. E. Uneasy Tight Feeling

"I used Thedford's Black-Draught first for constipation," said Mrs. C. E. Buntin, of R. F. D. 5, Starkville, Miss. "I would feel dull, stupid, and have severe headaches, even feverish. I had an uneasy, tight feeling in my stomach. I read quite a bit about

BLACK-DRAUGHT Liver Medicine

I began using it and soon my bowels acted regularly and I was greatly relieved. I used it every once in a while for about 18 years.

"About two years ago I found I was having indigestion, a tight smothering in my chest, then severe pain, especially after eating sweets. I commenced taking just a pinch of Black-Draught after meals, and by doing this I could eat anything.

"I gave Black-Draught to my children for colds and headaches. I can certainly recommend it."

Black-Draught is used, with satisfaction, by millions. Get Thedford's.

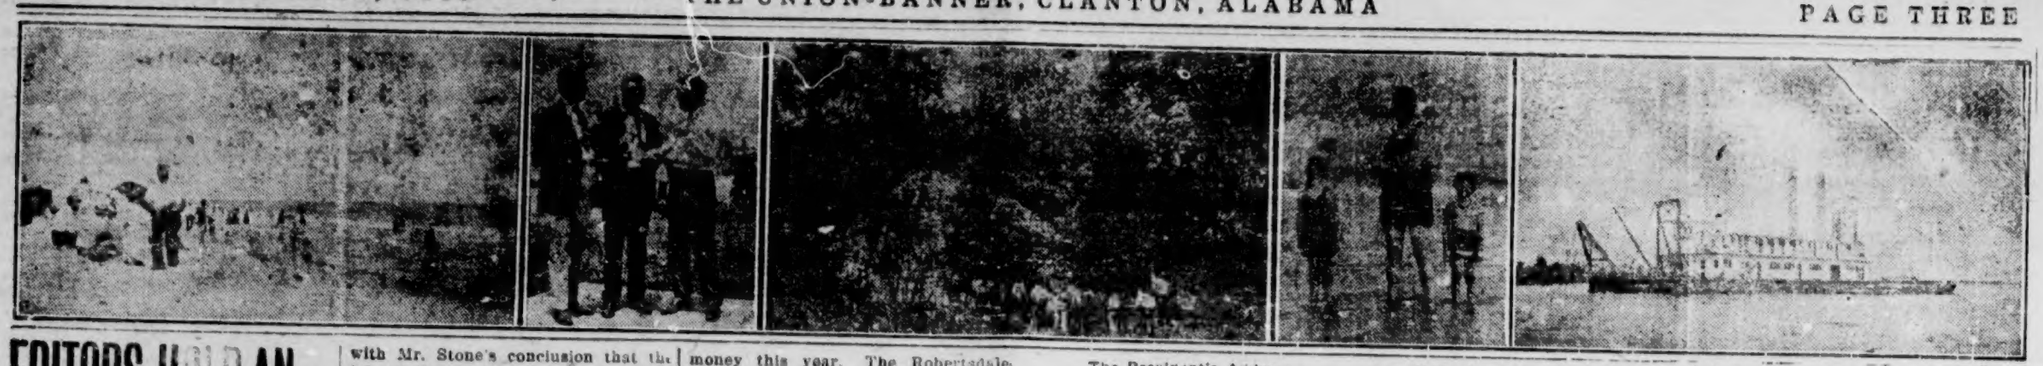
POOR C



EDITORS HOLD ANNUAL MEETING IN BALDWIN COUNTY

State Scribes Spend Week In Gulf Coast County Discussing Business and In General Outing.

BY DAVID HOLT

Official Reporter, Alabama Press Association Outing

After traveling over Baldwin County from Bottle Creek Indian Mound on the north to Gulf Beach on the south, and from Florida waters to Mobile docks, the Alabama Press Association reached several conclusions:

First, that Attorney Norbourne C Stone, of Bay Minette, made a mistake when he said Baldwin County was merely as big as the State of Rhode Island, when he should have said "the State of Texas," instead.

Second, that Mr. Stone spoke correctly when he said Baldwin County has less to be proud of in way of square miles than it has to rejoice over in the way of square people.

Third, that no man needs leave the State of Alabama to find a playground on the seashore, a place to make a livelihood from the soil in a semi tropical climate, or the chance to make a fortune by investment in sand and sunshine, as all of these can be found in the County of Baldwin.

Centered Around Foley

Foley, in the southern part of Baldwin County, was the axis around which the 1925 convention and outing of the Alabama Press Association revolved for the six days beginning Thursday, June 18, and concluding Tuesday, June 23. There have been larger conventions of the association, though this occasion was well attended. The outing idea is relatively new in the sense applied this year, when the association was scouting to find something like a permanent meeting place beside the great waters of this state.

Assembly at Bay Minette

Automobiles and railroad trains conveyed the editors and their co-workers to Bay Minette, county seat of Baldwin. Some of them arrived Wednesday, though the majority made their appearance Thursday morning, June 18. There had been stops at Atmore and other cities by the motorcade, and at every place where the "Alapressa" appeared they were welcomed and entertained like the visiting princes of true democracy, which they are.

Bob Vail's office was the chief landing place. Here the visitors reached terra firma and were able to orientate themselves as soon as they got a whiff of printer's ink in their nostrils and heard the musical click of press and Mergenthaler. The old-timers were quietly joyful at getting together once more and the newer members were cordially welcomed.

South Baldwin County sent a large delegation to meet and greet the county's guests and they were officially taken in hand by a local committee headed by Dr. George C. Marlette.

Bay Minette's new brick high school, surrounded by stately pine trees, was the scene of the opening meeting. The invocation was by Rev. G. Hunter Norwood and the address of welcome by Norbourne C. Stone, son and partner of Mr. Frank S. Stone, Bay Minette lawyer of credit and renown.

Mr. Stone's address was a masterpiece of humor with a deep vein of serious thought running through it. He is not impressed with Florida's claims upon the attention of Alabama travelers and investors, while Baldwin County has so much more to offer them, and he let this fact be known to the visitors.

Mr. Stone quoted statistics, which a one form of lying that has been highly recommended by Mark Twain and others, to show that the only death in Baldwin County within the past forty years was that of a citizen, aged 10, who started to go fox hunting, jumped over his horse in attempting to mount and fell on the other side, breaking his neck. "It was a great shock to the dead man's grandfather," the lawyer declared.

"Florida has oranges and tourists and skins them both," said Mr. Stone. He commended the fishing and fish liars of South Baldwin, where fishermen "lie standing," he said, and referred to Foley as the land flowing with milk and honey-and-tar.

Responding to Mr. Stone's address Dr. Frank Willis Barnett said. "We asked you for bread and you gave us a Stone." He thanked them for the substitution, and expressed agreement with Mr. Stone's conclusion that the job of the Alabama press is to tell the rest of the world about this state of ours. The Birmingham doctor, lawyer, preacher and newspaper feature writer told the people of Baldwin and Mobile Counties their hour of greatest development would arrive when they have completed Alabama's seaport and built the bridge connecting the two counties.

On to Bottle Creek Mound

Bottle Creek Mound is one of the largest monuments of the mound builders that remain in Alabama. Whether it was built by a superior race that preceded the Indians' occupancy of this country is a subject clouded in mystery. The Indians whom the white men found here had no tradition of its origin, though there were many stories extant about its use in peace and war, as a refuge from high water and a fortification for defensive warfare.

It stands 60 feet high above the surrounding swamps of Tensaw River and Bottle Creek, in the northern part of Baldwin County and has been explored to some extent by Peter A. Brannon and other anthropologists. The property at that point is owned by Mr. B. F. McMillan, Sr., and both he and his sons have made excavations to wrest secrets from the heart of this handiwork of an age not our own. They found a succession of layers of clay and other earth, most of which evidently came from hills several miles distant and doubtless conveyed in canoes while the water was high and a near approach easy.

Bones of men and animals; stones both rough and polished; arrow heads and spear heads of flint, pieces of pottery and other relics found at varying depths tell enough of the story to arouse questions in the mind of the investigator, but not the answers.

Automobiles furnished where needed by a Bay Minette committee conveyed the party to the ancient town of Stockton, on Tensaw River, where two large freight barges and two tugs had been provided by Mr. M. M. McMillan to take the guests and their hosts from Stockton to Bottle Creek landing. The thoughtful Baldwinians had provided lemonade and other mild and harmless refreshments aboard the barges and the time on the beautiful Tensaw was pleasantly spent.

A short walk through the swamp and underbrush brought the travelers to a glade planted in seedling pecans and in the center of this stands the mound, covered by native growth. The day was warm and to some the curiosity to see the top of that mound was not so strong as the desire to remain at its base. Lew Nunnelee went up the pathway leading to its summit with the agility of a goat, in spite of the fact that his friends had been deeply concerned because of reports on the state of his health. A certain fat man, though advised to reduce, merely circumnavigated the base of the mound and photographed it from various angles.

Charley Burkell, globe-trotter, collector of ancient arms and student of man's origin and destination, has discovered that fried fish, frogs' legs and cornbread was the food of the early residents of Bottle Creek Mound, so he left Bay Minette a day of two ahead and prepared a great feast of such as the grand provider of the hosts, the citizens of Bay Minette. In passing out the food, which was various and abundant, Mr. Frank Stone was master of ceremonies. His report that "the fish were caught by a full-blood Choctaw Indian whose ancestors built the mound," was believed by a few of the very young visitors from foreign lands, only.

Through Baldwin County

The map shows that the distance from the top to the bottom of Baldwin County is about 75 miles, as the crow flies. As the Ford flies it is somewhat further. From Stockton south the road traverses a large part of that ten per cent of Baldwin's area that produces enough material to make the county the second in Alabama in point of agricultural productiveness. Elmer Kuhn, who arranges those Baldwin County exhibits that take first prizes at fairs and expositions modestly states that this honor is due to the great latitude and variety he has for selection within the vast area of Baldwin County.

Carload shipments of vegetables were seen by the editors at Bay Minette, Loxley, Robertsdale, Summerdale, Silver Hill and Foley. The Irish potato and cucumber season was coming to a close, the green corn movement was beginning and preparations were in progress for the marketing of a fine early sweet potato crop, which begins on July 5, by general agreement, an established custom. Near the coast, schooners were being loaded with fine, ripe watermelons for shipment to Mobile, New Orleans, Pensacola, Gulfport and other coast cities, where they find a ready market. From one end of the county to the other came the report that Baldwin truck growers have made good money this year. The Robertsdale-Silver Hill community, which includes a Swedish and Bohemian colony, claims to have received about $400,000 for shipments made during the months of May and June.

Up to June 19, the Foley and Elberta district had shipped 192 carloads of Irish Potatoes and 63 carloads of cucumbers, valued at nearly $200,000. These figures are taken from the books of the L. & N. Railroad agent, as to quantity, and do not include many express and water shipments made during the same period of about fifty days. All these things were told and shown and the newspapermen were duly impressed. "Baldwin County could feed the state," was their judgment.

Arrival at Foley

All unnecessary business was suspended and the special order of the day upon the arrival of "Alapressa" in full force Thursday evening was the care and comfort of the visitors. Quarters had been provided in the old State Bank Building for the assembling and registration of Foley's guests. Mr. Pat J. Cooney, veteran real estate man, presided at the registration book and assigned all hands to the kind of quarters they most desired. A party of stags was sent to Peterson's Point, to a cottage overlooking Bay la Launch, numerous married couples were given cottages at Governor's Club, Magnolia Springs resort, where Mr. Woodford Mabry and his family preside. Others were given rooms at numerous hotels in and near Foley. The Sunny Side Inn, at Magnolia Springs, had at least four guests who were delightfully provided for. All were housed and boarded in a manner that does great credit to the hospitality of South Baldwin County and its people.

Foley's entertainment started Thursday night with a banquet at Progressive Hall. It was provided by the Baldwin County Kiwanis Club and the other civic clubs of the county and was served by the ladies of the Foley Progressive Club. The food, service and program were all that the human system requires to sustain physical and mental well-being.

James T. Dumas, general chairman for all Baldwin, and James S. Benson, at the head of "Alapressa," presided jointly; one introducing the home-folks and the other the visitors. William Stoddard, banker, delivered the address of welcome and told the guests of the county that he would deliver to them the keys of the city except for the fact that nothing is locked and therefore no keys are needed. He told them that the Baldwin County Kiwanis Club was the only county-wide club in the entire Kiwanis International and stated that all of the commercial clubs of the county were united as hosts of that welcoming banquet.

In responding, Editor H. S. Doster, of The Prattville Progress, promised that the press will do its part towards the development of the County of Baldwin, as one of Alabama's greatest assets.

The banqueters arose to their feet in honor of General J. B. Stanley, who was introduced by Acting President Benson as the editor of The Greenville Advocate and the oldest editor in the United States in point of continuous service at the head of one newspaper.

General Stanley's reminiscences, briefly covered a period extending from the end of the Civil War to the present and were rich in anecdotes relative to the men who have made Alabama journalism during the past sixty years. The change from a "hatful of type" days to the present age of newspaper production was pictured. General Stanley has been requested to publish in book his reminiscences of Alabama newspapers and their editors, and doubtless he will do so.

Editor C. G. Fennell, of The Guntersville Democrat, spoke of the old days of the association and there were other interesting features, including music by Mrs. Bob Greenwood's "Kiddies" band and a vocal solo by Mrs. William Healie, of Montgomery.

Meeting at Peterson's Point

Friday the association went to work early to get through with its labors during the morning hours. The meeting place was a spacious pavilion on a point of land extending into Bay la Launch, an estuary of Perdido Bay. Here President J. S. Benson delivered his annual address, and the official program was changed in order to give the members an opportunity to hear Frank N. Julian talk on "The Press and Fire Prevention;" also to give a version of the "Goat Hill News." As state insurance commissioner at the capitol, he showed familiarity with both subjects. Commissioner I. T. Quinn, of the Department of Conservation, also spoke at this meeting, in the place of Mr. Garrard Harris, of The Birmingham News, author of an important text book on conservation that has been adopted by Alabama and other states.

The President's Address

President Benson deplored the slackness of newspaper organization in the newspaper profession and the evil influence of sensational journalism, and said that a "free, untrammeled and unbiased press is the need of the hour." He quoted the saying "90% of the daily press in this country is controlled by interests inimical to the Protestant Church." While not accepting this statement as wholly true, the speaker said he is almost convinced against his will of the truth of it, and he took a firm stand for the Bible as opposed to modern theories of evolution.

Mr. Benson advised his hearers to stay clear of politics, arise above party partisanship and give due regard to the opinions of others. He also urged them to form a strong and more purposeful policy within their organization.

Mr. Julian, who was to have addressed the convention Saturday morning, chose the Peterson's Point meeting as a good time to tell about fire prevention and what the state press can do to assist in reducing the immense fire losses and consequent economic waste. H. H. Golden of The Abbeville Herald, spoke briefly on "The Job Shop."

The Gulf, Itself

Saturday had been heralded as the big day, for then the great offering was a trip to the open Gulf of Mexico. The men and women of the press had seen various arms of the Gulf, now they were to behold old Mexico, itself. The morning session resulted in the election of officers and the adoption of resolutions which are recorded elsewhere on this page. There was a luncheon, also, and many ripe watermelons of unusual merit. But the thoughts of all were centered on the trip to Gulf Beach, where the Mobile Gulf Land Company, Inc., has promised to build "the Atlantic City of the Gulf." The company has erected an army tent for women and a shed for men upon the site of America's newest city, and here the pioneer visitors quickly changed from land to water garments.

The site of the new city is ten miles due south of Foley and is the first point in Alabama to be so connected by highway that automobiles can drive directly to the Gulf, without transfer by boat or ferry.

The beach is twelve miles long, from the mouth of a small lagoon to the mouth of Perdido Bay, and here the waves roll in without a break from the Caribbean Sea, where the Gulf Stream is born.

A gentle breeze was blowing from the southward, creating swells which broke with a splash of white upon the firm sands of the shore. There is not a more safe and beautiful bathing beach on America's seaboard and the men, women and children from the interior took to it like ducks to their own pond.

Only a few months ago this was a part of the Southern States Lumber Company's property that had not been sold for the reason that it was too close to the Gulf for ordinary agricultural purposes. Then it was discovered by men who calculated that the Florida demand for "playground" property on the water front would cross the state line into Alabama from the east, or that Mississippi Bubble I would break this way. The land, some several thousand acres, has again been sold this time to a Mobile company that proposes to develop it. The city on Alabama's Gulf front has not been named. The name "Alapressa" has been suggested and other suggestions have been invited by Mr. George E. Meyer, of Mobile.

Saturday night there was a dance at Yupon, a resort on Weeks Bay. The floor and music were both inviting and some there were who by reason of their great strength or enduring youth enjoyed the dance; but there were no fat men of the press visible to the naked eye among the dancers.

Sunday at Governor's Club

Two events were scheduled for Sunday. One was a meeting for services and the other was a barbecue. Three guesses are allowed as to which of the two was attended. There were those who appeared at the appointed hour, but some enemy of accuracy circulated the report that Dr. Frank Willis Barnett, the appointed leader, had gone fishing. In reality, the preacher-editor was in the woods rehearsing a sermon of which the text was "Simon Peter said, 'I go a fishing'."

Dr. Sibley Holmes prepared the barbecue, which was served on the grounds of the Governor's Club, beside Magnolia River. There were men present who have eaten barbecue in many lands and prepared by many hands and all agreed that the Foley doctor beats them all. The meats and the sauce were perfect and there was a man-sized watermelon for every person present. Besides, there was an abundance of pickles, hot coffee, bread and ice water. Howard C. Smith, of the Agricultural Department at Montgomery, gained six pounds and Tom Vail, the thin space of the association, gained seven pounds, by actual estimated weight.

Sunday night was truly a day of rest. Those who thought they had defeated Dr. Barnett in his purpose by circulating the report that he has gone fishing were fooled. He went to Foley that night and unloaded his sermon at the First Baptist Church. He is not one of those who will "die with all their music in them"—or sermons, either.

On Mobile Bay

Monday morning, bright and early, the caravan set sail for Mobile, by way of Fairhope, and returned to the city on the eastern shore by nightfall.

The steamer Bay Queen was waiting at the sea end of the Fairhope wharf. A stiff breeze was making whitecaps on Mobile Bay and cooling the air to a grateful temperature. E. B. Gaston, editor of The Fairhope Courier, was there with a strong delegation from the Single Tax colony to welcome the press crew and a number of Foley people had accompanied them. All embarked together for the Mobile trip.

Luncheon was served by the Mobile Chamber of Commerce when the boat left the Fairhope wharf and the trip to the docks site was under escort of a large delegation of Mobile's leading men who joined at the boat landing under the leadership of John T. Cochrane, president, and chairman R. A. Christian, of the special press entertainment committee.

During the entire tour of Baldwin County, the editors had encountered perfect weather, with a pillar of cloud by day and all the fire they needed at night, but the minute they left the wharf at Mobile, headed for the Alabama state docks site, there was a heavy downpour of rain which drove all hands within the cabin. Then, as though in contrition, the weather changed and the visitors saw the Mobile water front from the upper deck all washed and dressed for their approval.

General William L. Sibert, chairman and chief engineer of the State Docks Commission, had been called to Louisville on business and his chief assistant, Engineer J. L. Cummings, explained the plan for creating at Mobile the world's greatest port terminal system, which will be owned and controlled by the State of Alabama. He showed where the Louisville & Nashville Railroad tracks are being moved back from the river 2,000 feet to make room for ships, piers, wharves and warehouses, and how the dredge Alabama is reclaiming a large area of swamp land for the state by pumping sand upon it; at the same time deepening and widening the harbor.

Mayor Harry T. Harwell told of the necessity for an extra session of the Alabama legislature so that the "strings can be cut" which prevent General Sibert from completing the work by withholding half of the $10,000,000 of bonds authorized by the seaport amendment.

Dr. Frank Willis Barnett was called upon and expressed the appreciation which the Birmingham district feels for the work of General Sibert and urged the editors to advocate needed port legislation and that without further delay.

Fish Fry at Fairhope

The Fairhope Chamber of Commerce which embraces in its membership nearly all of the residents of the colony, women and men, spread a feast beneath the magnolia trees on the beach, within toe-reach of the dancing waves.

Mr. William McIntosh, banker, presided and the speeches of the evening were made by Editor Gaston, past President Benson, new President McLendon, Dr. Barnett, Mr. Doster, Mrs. Doster, on behalf of the ladies, and a stout party from Mobile who was named official reporter.

To tell the truth, that practically closed the convention though some of the members returned to Foley for the session scheduled for Tuesday morning. The meeting closed with the singing of "Fairhope, I Love Thee" and "God Be With Us Till We Meet Again." Dr. Barnett pronounced the benediction.

With the final "amen" the homing instinct asserted itself and dominated all other impulses; the Alabama editor being essentially a home-town man

The eyes of Alabama farmers are now turned to Montgomery for the annual meeting of the Alabama Farm Bureau Federation, July 27 to 29. Practically every county in the state will be represented. Prof. L. N. Duncan of Auburn has called a meting of the county farm and home demonstration agents and other Extension workers at the same time and place.

T. E. Wyatt returned last Friday from the Alabama Press Association, which had been in session in Baldwin County for the previous week. On this trip the editors were thoroughly introduced to Baldwin County and its immense latent possibilities. Baldwin is a great county and it is being developed right along. When the country comes to know her as she is she will present the same attractions as does the coast of Florida. The people of Bay Minette, Foley, Robertsdale, Loxley, and Fairhope, and in fact all over the county, are keen to the possibilities of their county, and they are passing up no opportunities to let the outside world know about it.

FARMERS' TO MEET IN SUMMER SCHOOL

Every year the Farmers' Summer School grows in quality and numbers. The vacation time between the active crop production and harvesting can be spent at Auburn, where practical lectures, talks, discussions, and demonstrations on farm topics can be heard and observed. Experts, leading and learned men from colleges, farms, and research stations, will tell about producing and marketing farm crops and farm animals. A study of live stock, feeds, fertilizer, soils, cultivation, handling labor, conservatism and many other timely and interesting subjects will be considered. The flow of people from the farms to the towns and cities is great. The outlook for the farmer is bright. Timely preparation, with knowledge of the best recorded experience of research men and farmers, will do much to insure economic and profitable farming.

Auburn has a new water supply; is well drained, and healthful. The famous Auburn watermelons will be cut and carved. Board and rooms, reasonable. No fees. It will be a week's outing for farmers. Come and combine pleasure with learning. —C. A. Cary, Director Farmers' Summer School, Auburn, Ala.

FARMERS LEARN MUCH FROM EACH OTHER

Now that most Alabama crops are laid by, bringing to an end the part the farmer himself contributes to his yields, Prof. L. N. Duncan, director of Alabama Extension Service, says that an excellent opportunity is afforded for farmers to observe and study the results of methods practiced in their respective communities.

Throughout Alabama farmers practice different methods of preparing land, fertilizing, and cultivating, all of which effect growth of crops and finally the yield. "Frequently," he said, "farmers on opposite sides of a road do these things in a different way, and now that crops are passing through a critical period many important facts can be gained by observation and study.

"If, for example, the outlook in one field is much better than that in another the causes should be determined. The same should be done in a field where an exceptionally poor showing is being made. In this way farmers can learn the best and the poorest ways to do things.

"Of course final conclusions can not be made until crops are harvested and weighed or measured. But we can learn a great many lessons by taking advantage of present opportunities. They are so valuable that every opportunity should be utilized to gain the best information.

"A wider opportunity to observe and study will be provided by many of the county agents and Farm Bureau leaders. They will conduct tours or excursions to farms in other counties. They are both enjoyable and profitable."

BETHANY NEWS

Please allow me space in the columns of your paper to say a few things about this old place. I notice it has been quite a while since we have been represented.

Everybody seems to be rushing along as fast as possible to the goal of "laying by" time.

Mr. Carl Gray from near Clanton spent last week end with Mr. Omar Gray of this section.

The singing society met at this place last Sunday afternoon, and the following directors led: J. M. Castleberry, A. D. Huett, Huff Burkhalter, J. M. Taylor, J. D. McCord, Olen Rice, Marshall Burkhalter, G. C. Weldon, Fred Ray. We also had a good quartette by Mr. J. D. McCord and his three children, Ruby, Cornelia, and Sammy. The title of the quartette was "I'll never be lonesome in Heaven," and it was real good. Organists were Misses Lela Taylor, Susie Huett and Ruby McCord.

We were visited by people from other communities, and were asked to help other places.

I think if we will bear in mind that "In unity there is strength," and "United we stand, divided we fall," we will be more willing to cooperate with our neighbor churches.

We invite everybody to meet with us every fourth Sunday afternoon.—A. D. Huett.

COOLIDGE TELLS THE WORLD TO PAY ITS DEBTS

Swampscott, Mass., June 27.—President Coolidge is firmly opposed to suggestions made abroad that the United States lower its tariff duties and curtail production as a means of aiding Germany to meet reparations payments and European governments generally to pay their debts.

The president's views, outlined at the summer White House, concerned particularly the proposal on tariff reduction and production curtailment made before the international chamber of commerce meeting at Brussels by Sir Joshua Stamp, a British membr of the reparations commission.

The president believes that many plans proprosed abroad are simply left-handed efforts to get the United States to pay reparations.

The people of the United States on whom the burden of any proposal, if adopted, would rest, Mr. Coolidge is convinced, are determined not to become involved in the reparations problem and are unalterably opposed to debt cancellation.

In the president's opinion the increase in American imports during the last few years is a sufficient answer to the suggestion that tariff duties should be lowered. He considers it significant that American trade volume is approximately 50% greater than before the war while the import and export business of most European countries is less.

While Mr. Coolidge holds to the view that the American public feels that Germany must pay reparations and that other European nations must meet their debt obligations, he believes that to an extent the people of the United States have a concern in world conditions which they would be glad to alleviate through any plan which did not shift unwarranted burdens on their shoulders.

Presently, a parking place is found.
Everybody tumbles out. Father

"Why is the Fourth of July?" And
Soon falls fast asleep.
Mother parks nearby and peruses a

A flower and didn't see the bee on it.
"'Wa-a-a!" More excitement. It's

POOR C

MR. J. BICE DISCREDITS THE THEORY OF EVOLUTION

Editor Union-Banner:

I hope you will print a few words for me in regard to a statement of what Rev. Joseph T. Ware said about creation and evolution in his sermon last Sunday at St. Andrew's Episcopal Church in Birmingham, and published in The Age-Herald Monday, June 22. He says the Bible has three accounts of creation; that the first chapter of Genesis relates how God was engaged in the work of creation for seven successive days. The first chapter does not say seven successive days.

Here is the 31st vese of the first chapter of Genesis: "And God saw everything that He had made and behold it was very good, and the evening and the morning were the sixth day."

Rev. Ware also says as a matter of fact there are no less than three different accounts of creation in the Bible. I do not agree with him on his scripture. In this chapter God tells each day what He created, and in six days He created all that was created, and finished in the seventh day and rested from all his work.

Here is what the first four verses of the second chapter of Genesis says: "Thus the heavens and the earth were finished, and all the host of them. And on the seventh day God ended His work which He had made; and He rested on the seventh day from all His work which He had made. And God blessed the seventh day, and sanctified it, because that in it He had rested from all His work which God created and made. These are the generations of the heavens and of the earth when they were created, and the day that the Lord made the earth and the heavens."

Then all the other part of the second chapter tells how it was created and names the things that were created. Rev. Ware says that in the second chapter God created the garden and the things that were in it. The earth was already created. The seventh and eighth verses tell how man was made, and the Lord God planted the garden and the man whom He had formed of the dust of the ground and breathed in his nostrils the breath of life and man became a living soul, and the Lord God planted a garden eastward in Eden, and there he put the man whom He had formed.

Rev. Ware wants to make it appear that this is a different creation to that in the first chapter of Genesis, but according to my judgment and understanding he is mistaken. The first chapter tells what He did create and the second chapter tells how He created it.

Here is what Rev. Ware says in his closing remarks:

"And if I may do so without seeming to be irreverent, I can imagine that this great prophet inspired of God would write, not the first chapter of Genesis as we read it today, but a brief statement of evolution arranged to show that this was the means by which God created heaven and earth and all things visible and invisible." Now what do you think of it? He wants to do away with the first chapter of Genesis. We just as well do away with all of the Bible as to do away with part of it. Away with such rot. He ought to be silenced from preaching and his credentials taken from him, and let him get himself some monkeys and apes and start up a little nation of his own.

It seems that all who believe in the theory of evolution are trying to do away with the Bible, or a part of it. I submit that such is a dangerous thing.—J. Bice, Thorsby, Ala., June 29, 1925.

SOME FINE CROPS AT DR. HINKLE'S FARM

By invitation of Mr. G. T. Wilbanks, the editor of The Union-Banner went out to Dr. Hinkle's farm Monday afternoon for the purpose of seeing the excellent crop of corn which Mr. Wilbanks has grown on the place this year.

We had the pleasure of going over about 17 acres of the finest kind of corn, which will yield about 40-bushels to the acre according to indications at present. And there is no telling how many velvet beans the field will make besides the corn.

Mr. Wilbanks has had charge of the cultivation of the farm for Dr. Hinkle, and the appearance of things reveals that he has taken great interest in the work and carried it through in a very up-to-date manner. The corn is planted thick on the ground and nothing but the very best method of cultivation could have kept it up to the fine condition it is in.

Mr. Wilbanks lives on the farm of Mrs. Bama Cox adjoining the Hinkle place, where he has a very excellent crop of his own. He is an experienced farmer who came to this county two years ago, having been previously engaged in farming in Montgomery county.

While we were out in that community we took advantage to see the crops of some of the other farmers close around, and found them all looking very promising and in a very excellent state of cultivation. Mr. Wood on the Williams place has a mighty fine crop, especially two acres of corn which ought to yield 75 bushels to the acre.

Broadway Newest Romance of Star and Newspaper Man Had Begin[illegible] In a Feud

Pretty Marie Saxon Slammed Door in Interviewer's Face—Result, Love!

New York City.—Syd Silverman, New York reporter, heard Marie Saxon, pretty New York actress, sing in "My Girl" a new song called "You and I." Mr. Silverman liked the song, appreciated the sentiment, and decided he would like to meet the singer.

Accordingly he sent in his card to Miss Saxon at the Vanderbilt Theatre for an interview. For some reason, things hadn't gone well with the star that day and she sent out word she couldn't be seen.

"But," protested Mr. Silverman right outside the door, "tell her this is for a newspaper story, for Variety—my father's paper."

Bang went the door!

"Now what do you know about that?" murmured Mr. Silverman, retiring for the moment to think it over.

The result of his thought was that he came back—once, twice, three times, and finally Miss Saxon, either exasperated or pleased at his persistence, told her maid to let him come in.

What happened then, nobody knows, but the very next thing the public heard was the announcement of Miss Saxon's engagement to Mr. Silverman.

STATE COMMISSION OF FORESTRY

Any owner of land that is not more valuable for other purposes should use for timber growing, says a statement issued by the Alabama Commission of Forestry. Everybody agrees that new forest should be grown to take the place of those cut, continues the statement, but the question often arises as to who should do it.

Some say the lumber men should carry the chief burden of reforestation, others regard it a duty of the government to acquire the cut-over lands and grow timber, while there are many who believe that ultimately large holding companies will be formed for the purpose of acquiring forest lands and growing timber as an industry largely independent of the others.

As a matter of fact, lumbermen in nearly all parts of the country are turning to the reforestation of their cut-over lands. At the same time other private land-owners are doing the same with a view to selling stumpage to sawmill operators. Government activity is confined chiefly to lands the title to which is already vested in the government, although in the eastern states certain lands have been bought up with view to adding to the National Forest system. Whether a governmental agency, however, can profitably enter the field of commercial industry is somewhat doubtful.

Forestry is a specialized industry, as are mining, transportatin, agriculture and manufacturing. Naturally, whoever own a mine or factory is desirous of operating it so that he may receive the profits from the business. Similarly the owner of a tract of forest land should desire to see it producing. Who owns the land is immaterial whether it be workman, banker, lumberman, miner, farmer or merchant. With reference to the forest industries, the owner's other interests need not conflict with his timber growing, nor are the principles and methods of forestry materially affeced by other industries.

SEVEN BOATS WITH LIQUOR FALL VICTIMS

Mobile, Ala., June 27.—While customs authorities are removing a huge cargo of seized liquors from a captive schooner to a storage warehouse here today, 23 men arrested aboard the vessel and several smaller craft, are expected to face preliminary examination on charges growing out of the sensational haul, in which the coast guard cutter, Saukee, rounded up seven boats single handed about 20 miles westerley from Southwest Pass, La.

Nearly 6,000 cases of alcohol and assorted whiskies, contained in burlap and wood packages, constituted the liquor cargo, a majority of which was carried by the schooner, The Marion Adams, a British registry vessel of 99 net tons, whose home port is said to be Lunenburg, N. S.

Six small boats found in the vicinity of the schooner were also taken captive when the coast guard cutter discovered the assembled vessels at a time when the cargo was alleged to have been in a process of unloading from the schooner. Liquor was found aboard one of the motor boats, coast guard authorities stated.

The haul marked what is believed to be the largest seizure made by a single coast guard vessel since the beginning of the rum blockade along American coasts several weeks ago. So far as known here no single coast guard boat has equalled the Saukee's record in the number of vessels seized on one occasion. All seven of the captive boats were towed into port here last night and the members of their crews were lodged in jail.

The seizure was made last Wednesday night and the Saukee covered a distance of about 200 miles to deliver the captive craft and men to Mobile.

STATE EDITORS HEAR PRESIDENT'S ANNUAL ADDRESS

J. S. BENSON, PRESIDENT OF THE ALABAMA PRESS ASSOCIATION FLAYS YELLOW JOURNALISM IN ANNUAL ADDRESS DELIVERED AT STATE PRESS ASSOCIATION MEETING HELD IN BALDWIN COUNTY JUNE 18 TO 23.

Of all professions or callings o which I have any knowledge, I as sert that we, as newspaper men and women, have the slackest organization. We have less unified efforts less co-operation and more varied rules and regulations than any group of people I ever saw. This is a betrayal of our ignorance of the power the influence and the responsibility that is ours and a continuance of this failure to properly function as a press association can but inevitably bring disappointment, financially and other wise, to the craft in this and all other states.

I could wish for no higher mission as acting president of the Alabama Press Association than to reassert with all the emphasis of my soul that no agency ever instituted by man has had more potent influence in shaping the destinies of our nation and bringing to us all the good there is in our civilization than the newspaper. On the other hand, with as much emphasis would I say no agency has wrought so much havoc to our society, our ideals and our institutions as the yellow journals which have invaded the sanctity of the homes of this country, under the guise of newspapers, under the sanction of our government as such when in reality they were the servants of the interests, seeking only to get a strangle hold on our finances, our government, our institutions, spreading such propaganda as would induce lethargy and carelessness among the people until, thanks to their faithfulness to their trust, they have almost accomplished it. I would consider myself a benefactor to the craft and to my state could I at least feebly get it over to you that never before were we needed so badly as today. A free untrammelled, unbiased, unpurchasable press is the supreme need of the hour. It has been said that it takes less sense to criticise than to do anything else, but I think constructive criticism is wholesome and beneficial and anything I shall say that smacks of criticism is intended as constructive. I concede to no man a more friendly attitude to the craft. I can conceive of no one holding a more exalted opinion of the craft or who regards the newspaper calling so highly and Godly as I. It is almost religious with me and therefore my criticisms shall be based on the fond hope and Godly faith that we arise to the full strength of our might and assume the responsibilities and recognize the possibilities and potentialities that in us lie.

What I shall say with reference to the daily press will be, of course, from the standpoint of a reader and observer, and, of course, present company is accepted. Too much has the idea become prevalent that we cannot believe newspaper reports. In attempts to make sensational news, exaggerations are resorted to and when the truth is learned, confidence in the paper is lost that is hard to restore. Take the stand for truth and righteousness and calmly await results. No man can give better advice and no advice, if heeded, will bring more and better results.

The assertion is broadcast and rampant over the country that 92 per cent of the daily press of the country is owned and controlled by interests inimical to the Protestant Church. I hear this statement made from the stump, the soap box, the street corner and wherever a crowd is assembled. We have seen this statement go unchallenged so long that we are anxious for the truth. We are too optimistic to be prepared for such a statement, but sometimes we are almost convinced against our will that there is a semblance of truth in it.

Let us start out with a premise on which we can all stand. The church is the greatest organization in the world today. Without its splendid influence in every community, our lives, property and everything dear to us would be in danger. Again, the Bible is the greatest book of the ages. Our government, our society, our economic safety and our hopes for a future life is dependent upon its truthfulness from Genesis to Revelations. I firmly believe a newspaper is justified in refusing to print any article or publish any propoganda intended to strike at the fundamentals of the Christian religion, the church or the Bible. Gentlemen, the straws always show the way the wind is blowing. I have searched in vain the daily press for the past few weeks for news stories favorable to the Bible theory of the creation of man as taught by our leading preachers and by our mothers. We see quotations and statements from leading scholars and scientists who know very little and care less for the Bible and if the truth was known would teach anything or argue anything if they thought it would destroy the Protestant Church. We are not attacking the right of the individual or editor to express his views, but the propriety of using the news columns by garbled accounts to put over their opinions as individuals. Did I say girbled accounts? Yes, I recall an instance of less than a month ago when the Southern Baptist convention was assembled in Memphis, Tenn. The convention took as firm a stand as the English language can convey with reference to the creation of man, but the next day many papers came out in glaring and bold headlines declaring that the convention had refused to go on record on the subject. By towns of almost any county are jealous of the county seat town, there is garbling of words this convention was placed in the attitude of believing in evolution. It caused the Baptists of the country no little annoyance, much time and money to correct the error, besides the loss of respect for the newspapers.

I shall mention two other instances of flagrant violations of the right of free press by the daily press in the past few days. In the press reports of Bryan's address to the student body of Brown University, the reader was led to believe Bryan was hissed from the stage and the student body of that great college became a howling mob, much to their discredit.

This is an illustration of a news agency using the press to give vent to its feeling of animosity towards an individual and merits the condemnation in the strongest terms of all people who are opposed to yellow journalism.

An article in a recent issue of some of our daily papers made it appear that a man at Jasper committen suicide on account of the activities of the Ku Klux Klan. I hold no brief for the Ku Klux Klan, but I do know that if I desired to make this or any other organization grow and thrive, I could select no better weapon than to start a concerted effort to misrepresent them.

Members of the Alabama Press Association, ladies and gentlemen:

I think the time has come to call a halt on playing up crime and indecency on the theory that people crave and demand it. The statement is false and illogical. I think they rather reluctantly tolerate it. Many of our best journals and newspapers are beginning to minimise the sensational and scandalous. The shocking improprieties paraded through the columns of some of our newspapers are a stench in the nostrils of our civilization. The paper that gives a half page with a writeup and photo of a member of the upper ten who has discarded several husbands, and is trying a new one, makes a heroine of her or parades day in and day out the indecencies of Hollywood and blue pencils an article on some young man or woman who is trying to accomplish something in life is presuming upon the taste and refinement of its readers. I contend that a scandal-bearing newspaper is just as despicable as the scandal monger of any community and just as cowardly.

Again, gentlemen of the Press Association, the enforcement of law is a field of endeavor fraught with many opportunities and possibilities to us. We could go so far as to state that we could break down most any law. How ready are some of us to attack the officers when an opportunity presents itself. How much capital we make out of the mistake of an officer and how it does tickle the ears of the law violator when we strike at the officers who are the guardians of our liberty and safety. Gentlemen, stand by law enforcement with all your energies and all the power that is within you.

J. S. BENSON

Editor and Publisher of The Scottsboro Progressive Age and President of the Alabama Press Association.

With no intention of disparagement to the city papers, yet I will say the greatest bulwark of our liberty and safety lies in the country press. The great policies of this government have never been put over by the city press, but by the people in the rural districts who sit in a split bottom chair, read by a kerosene lamp the county paper published by John, Jim, Henry or Bill whom the people know and in whom they repose confidence. As an illustration, do you think we would have ever had state or nation-wide prohibition if we had depended upon the city press? How many of the daily papers in this state favored prohibition and rendered assistance in securing the adoption of the eighteenth amendment? How many city papers pioneered in woman suffrage? No, gentlemen, it was the country weekly that went into the homes of the humble and God-fearing of the rural districts preaching the doctrine of sobriety and the evils of drink that aroused the people to their duty and regardless of the valiant fight put up by the dailies against it, the law was passed. The editor of a country paper as a rule has no master to consult, except his readers; no interest to conserve but the interests of its community. He has no one to color his story with propaganda. About the hardest job he has to do is to clean his waste basket of propaganda and advertising which is sent out under the guise of news. The country editor has but one idea in mind and that is to get facts, not generalities and suspicions; write as lucidly as possible, avoiding offense at the hazzard of missing a story. Unless the good to be accomplished by publishing an article outweighs the bad my contention is to leave it out.

Stay clear of politics. Rise above petty partisanship. Give due consideration to the honest opinions of others and avoid the rocks upon which many barks of journalism have wrecked. Enter into the various activities of the county. Keep your paper from being wholly a county seat paper above all things. If this idea gets into the minds of the people, your name is Dennis. As a rule, the other a spirit of rivalry that sometimes goes beyond the mere stage of rivalry. An alert, active, skillful, tactful editor can do more to prevent these conditions or to heal up these differences than any living man. He has in his power the uniting of the various forces of the county into one militant power for the upbuilding of the county. Know the teaching force of the county and let them know you are interested in their work. Give your best to the health units of your county. Stand by the agricultural agents and above all recognize not only the farmers of the county who are financially able to be progressive, but that great class of farmers in every county who are struggling against heavy odds to make an honest living and educate their children. Mix and mingle with the people of your county, learn their needs, encourage their progressive programs, note their reactions to your articles and editorials, boost wherever possible and knock as little as possible. Join the civic clubs of your community. And right here let me say the country correspondence is the outstanding feature of any country paper. Neglect it and you will make a grevious mistake. You may sometimes think their contributions are trivial and not worth much, but in the course of a year, pick out the worthwhile articles, weigh them and you will be surprised at their value as news, not to mention the psychological effect in the way of good will towards you and your paper.

The makeup of your paper greatly adds to its value and determines to a great extent the demand for it. Your front page should be sacred. I condemn with emphasis the placing of matter on the front page of a county paper that does not pertain to the county or is not of interest to the people of the county. I concede the necessity of using fillers and syndicated matter in your paper, but not on the front page. With even more emphasis do I condemn advertising on the front page. Never allow anyone to induce you to mar the front page with advertising. It is unfair to your customers, unless you let all get on the front page, and a strict rule that no one gets an advertisement on the front page will deepen the respect of the advertiser for the paper and subscriber.

Ladies and gentlemen of the Alabama Press Association: The address I have made may not conform to your idea of what a president's address should be. I have known for sometime that I would have to pay the price of popularity or you would have to suffer from an accident. I have heard several president's addresses, but do not remember anything about them, neither will you remember this one, but I assure you I have spoken out of my heart with no interest other than that of promoting the cause of journalism in Alabama. I would feel amply paid for my attempt could I impress upon the mind of just one editor the fact that ours is one of the most degnified and powerful occupations in the world. We do not have to fawn and truckle at the feet of any man or set of men. We do not have to apologize for our existence. We are the greatest assets of any community. Remove the county newspaper from any town and the owls and bats will move in. It is the people's best friend, the schoolmaster of the community—teaching truth, righteousness, helping to assemble the moral forces to combat evil. We are dispensers of service and of course are entitled to a fair return. I am taking the position that as an Alabama Press Association the greatest question before us is not what can I get, but what can I give and how I can best serve my community and the institutions of my community.

During my term as acting president our chief efforts have been centered in trying to stimulate interest in the Alabama Press Association. On all sides we see the beneficial results of co-operation and unified efforts. There are few successful organizations that have resulted from individual efforts or endeavors. There has never been a time when the country press, especially needed so badly to unite and merge its influence. We have lain supinely on our backs and allowed legislation to be enacted contrary to our interests which could have been avoided by concerted action. We must tell our needs to those in authority. In almost every session of congress and state legislatures, laws are being enacted in the way of postal and libel laws that tend to cripple and hamper. We kick very strenuously when our local merchants fail to advertise and speak unkindly of the local citizens who are not interested in the development of community enterprises. We call the man a slacker in the community who refuses to lend his efforts to community betterment. Now, how shall we consider the publisher of a paper in the state who refuses to join and support the association that is fighting the battles. Someone must carry the load. You need us and we need you and the great question is, will you rally to the call?

We have tried for the first time our district meetings or sectional meetings at Birmingham and Montgomery and the good derived from them fully justified your action at the last meeting at Florence. By these meetings we enlisted the support of many editors who have hitherto not allied themselves with us. The meetings were informal and the various problems that confront editors in their every-day life were discussed profitably. We selected Foley and Baldwin County as the meeting place for our meeting and if the splendid entertainment of these first days is a sample of their hospitality, I am sure you will all vote us your thanks for the selection. We are here for two purposes—pleasure and profit. We fondly hope the ties of friendship and brotherly love formed here will have a salutary effect on our great organization and that every editor will return to his home a greater lover of Alabama. That you will get a new vision of your responsibility to Alabama and the possibilities of our great state. Finally, I wish to express my profound thanks for the uniform courtesies extended to me by the craft as your acting president. The helpfulness you have been to me has made the duties very pleasant. I shall turn over the mantel to you with the assurance that I have been made a better man, a better editor, and my esteem for the craft has been heightened.

Clanton Took Whole Series From Anniston Here on Last Week-End

In spite of some dire predictions on the part of Anniston fans and an ironclad determination of the Anniston "moulders" to keep Clanton under their control, the local team succeeded in getting away from the visitors last week with three straight victories.

Anniston came here that it would take real ball playing to beat them. This prediction was well founded upon the demonstration of the previous week when Clanton lost two out of three in Anniston. But when Clanton met the visitors here they went in with no other intention than to play ball, and keep on playing until they made the "moulders" bite the dust. Their vigor stood them in good hand, and together with their ability to play real baseball, they were able to bid the visitors adieu Saturday night with a clear loss of three ball games.

Following is a summary of each of the games:

First Game—Thursday.

Clanton took the first of the series Thursday, 7 to 1. "Ham" Stevens, the Howard College ace, and aspirant for a place on Connie Mack's roster, was on the mound for Anniston and gave up 11 safeties, among them 1 home run, 3 triples, and 2 doubles, while Moulton allowed 7 hits, only 2 of which went for extra bases.

The pitcher of each team hit a home run, Wright being on base when Moulton got his. Nobody was on when Stevens got his. Thompson led Clanton's attack with 3 safeties, while Wright and Moulton collected 2 each. Lowery and Stevens got 2 each for Anniston.

Clanton bobbled twice and Anniston four times.

Moulton had the Anniston club in a corner all thru the fray, taking advantage of the dark afternoon to show his speed ball at its best, and was seldom in danger. Clanton found "Ham" Stevens fast one, which he used most of the afternoon, to their liking, but did not fare so well on the slow ones. Moulton had the big end of the pitchong all through the setto, and left 5 of Anniston's hitters nothing but thin air to hit.

Second Game—Friday.

Clanton rallied in the eighth inning of Friday's game and made it two straight from Anniston in as many starts of the series, by scoring 4 runs to break a 2-2 tie and a beautiful pitchers' duel. Whorton hurled for Clanon, and Chilton for Anniston, each giving up 9 hits.

After Anniston had failed to count in their half of the eighth, Connatser opened for Clanton with a mighty smash to center that went for a triple and scored a moment later on an error. A series of errors, hits, and passes followed in quick succession, and when the dust cleared away four markers had crossed the pan for the inning's work.

Whorton pitched a good game, showing signs of weakness only once. Chilton was in good form, and his wrong-side delivery had Clanton's left hand hitters eating out of his hand most of the time.

Connatser led for Clanton with 3 safe hits; Hayes and Whorton got 2 each. Parson was the only Anniston man to hit safely more than 1 time. Each team made five errors.

Third Game—Saturday.

Connatser rode one of Hawkins' fast ones out of the park in the eighth inning of Saturday's game to give Clanton a 7 to 6 verdict on this game, and a clean sweep of the 3-game series. Saturday's game looked like a walk-away in the early part of the game. Potter started for Anniston. Sewell met the second ball pitched and gave it a ride out of the park. In the melee which followed, another run crossed the platter. With two away, "Crit" Jones, the smallest man on the team, came up with two men on base, and gave the horsehide its second passport to somewhere in the adjacent countryside. Wright struck out. That inning finished Potter, and he exchanged positions with Hawkins, at first base. Hawkins finished the game and turned in a creditable performance.

Anniston kept pounding away, Starling weakened in the fourth, and the game came up to the Eighth inning deadlocked, 6 all. Connatser, first man up, hit one over the left field wall so close to the foul line that Manager McLane's hot contention over the decision brought a rebuff from Umpire Roberts and came near putting McLane out of the game. After this Clanton called it a day, held Anniston easily during her remaining session, and made it three straight for the week, and four out of the six games played with that club this season.

Starling pitched a fair game, although he yielded 13 hits to his opponent's 8.

Rowe hit a home run with one man aboard, in the sixth. He appears to be the most self-contained, fair playing and promising hitter in the Anniston line-up.

The game was spectacular from start to finish, and a high point in it would be hard to pick.

ALABAMA NEWS HAPPENINGS

A Resume of the More Important Events of Interest Condensed To An Epitomized Form

Alabama editors, at the opening session of their annual convention at Bay Minette, were urged by Norborne C. Stone, who welcomed the convention to Baldwin County, to use their papers in educating the people of the state to the advantages which Alabama had to offer. He stressed the fact that many of the people living in the northern and interior counties of Alabama were ignorant of the advantages of the Gulf coast counties, and asked the editors, on their return home, to remedy this condition by an educational campaign.

Because of a drought on Sand Mountain, which has covered the better part of the year with few real rains, the well which has supplied Albertville with water for years recently showed signs of falling. The Alabama Water Company, owners of the water plant there, had to equip a second well with a pump in order to insure the city sufficient water.

Telegram conveying to Mrs. Spright Dowell, tendering sympathy and love to her and Dr. Spright Dowell, who was seriously injured in an auto accident near Troy two weeks ago, was authorized by unanimous vote of the students and members of the faculty of the Auburn summer school.

Albany and Decatur are reported to be against acceding to the demand of the state highway department that Alabama Street be opened to Fourth Avenue if the new Tennessee River bridge is to be built. The cities hold that this is needless expense.

Hot Weather Costume? No -- A Fancy Ball Dress!

NOT so easy to give you the story about this picture. Photographer just brought it in and said it was Miss Babette DeLong as she appeared in a prize-winning costume at the Green Moth Ball held in Chicago. "And," he added, "she made quite a hit with it."

So that is about all there is to it. Not being an expert on dress fashions, we can't give you the name of the materials used in it. One thing is certain. They didn't waste any yardage in making it. It's about all anybody would like to be wearing these warm July days.

THORSBY SECTION

(S. E. NORTON, Manager).

In an interview with J. M. Smith, manager of Thorsby Fruit and Truck Growers Association, we remarked that "he seemed to have something to ship even if there were no strawberries." We had noticed a big station truck filled full of grapes, peaches, beans, etc. He replied: "There has been only one day since we began to ship strawberries late in April that we did not have something to ship." He said that snap beans had brought a good price for all they had, and if each farmer would plant from 1-2 to 1 acre, the association could ship in carload lots, selecting their market, and thus get the best price. He further said that having lived in Chilton county a long time, he had noticed that almost any farmer who will diversify his crops and not confine his efforts to corn and cotton, will in the long run be more prosperous, because with our nine months of growing season, one can manage to have something to sell almost any time during the year. Lots of our farmers have heard this before, but habit is strong, and the chief hope of introducing new methods is in the education of our boys and girls who are teaching the older folks how to make farming pay.

There are a great many people in this world who think much the same as did the girl in a department store in one of our big cities, although they are not so frank to speak their minds as she was: A lady welfare worker began talking to this girl about the things she was trying to do for the girls that would do them good. The girl listened a while and then said: "We don't want to be done good to."

Mr. Sereno G. Norton left Monday for his home at Kenvil, N. J., after a four days visit in Thorsby. In conversation with him we learned of a comparatively new use for cotton that will be of interest to all cotton farmers. One of the large plants of the Hercules Powder company, his employers, is engaged exclusively in making "nitrated cotton." The process takes ordinary cotton lint and soaks it in a solution of nitrate of soda; it is then washed and passed through several operations, mixed with other chemicals and finally becomes a clear liquid which is used as a base for a superior type of varnish or lacquer used extensively for putting a glossy finish on automobiles, furniture and metal goods. It is extremely hard and durable, and if applied by dipping or spraying and drys in a few minutes. Another company made the stuff originally, but for some reason were unable to protect themselves by a patent. However, they concluded they were the only people who knew how to make it and sought to corral the whole business by making the various grades of the product and selling it direct to large consumers. Having worked out successfully the process of manufacturing nitrated cotton, the Hercules company adopted the policy of selling their product to manufacturers of paint and varnish, who would not buy the lacquer from a competitor, and today the Hercules company are selling 80 per cent of all nitrated cotton sold in this country.

At the opening of the big Hercules new plant near Bessemer last week Mr. Bacchus, vice president of the company, in an addrss to the 400 guests assembled, took occasion to call attention to the various Alabama products used in their business, among those he mentioned was Mr. Norton, whom he said they had come to consider a very essential factor to them on account of his ability and achievements.

People of Chilon County and elsewhere will be interested in the action of the board of trustees of Thorsby Institute at their meeting last week Thursday. Plans and specifications for a high school building cotnaining eight class rooms besides office, library and auditorium, were considerd and adoptd as a whole. These plans were furnished by the State department of education, and will involve an expense when completed and furnished of approximately $40,000. A "pay as you go" policy having been adopted by the board, it is quite obvious that construction of the entire building is not contemplated at the present time. The location of the building will be on the crest of the campus, in the grove, at some distance back from where Bates Hall stands. The front of the building will face the railroad. It will be 148 feet long and one story high. The exterior will be of material other than wood.

The first unit to be built will be the entire front with its four class rooms, lobby, library, office and corridors, at one end a wing will be built containing one or possibly two class rooms. This will involve, with equipment, approximately half the cost of the entire building and is as much as can be completed in time to be available for use during any part of the coming school year.

A building committee consisting of trustees M. J. Soberg, chairman, A. E. Reagan, J. H. Goddard, E. W. Buter and R. A. Turner, has been appointed to have charge of all details of construction under direction of the executive committee of the board of trustees who are authorized to act for the board in all matters pertaining to the new building. The site for the building has ben surveyed and staked out. At this writing a contract for the foundation to be of concrete is being drawn up and will probably be signed very soon, when actual work on the building will begin at once.

The Congregational Ladies Aid social will be held Thursday, July 2nd from 6 to 9 o'clock p.m., on the church lawn. In connection with this event will be a program in clebration of the 20th anniversary of the organization of the church. A general invitation is extended to the people of the community. The ladies will serve refreshments at the usual10c social fee. They will also sell ice cream.

In walking about recently we noticed that Nat Bentley's new filling station was ready for business. We stopped in for aninspection and found the place fitted up with modern improvements equivalent to that found in far more pretentious towns.

Mrs. Alma Villadsen, with another member of her family, left Sunday morning for a motor trip to Cleveland, Ohio. At Birmingham they took in Mrs. Christiansen, sister to Mrs. Villadsen. Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Thomsen left by train later. All are bound for the Thomsen-Scove family reunion which is to be held in Cleveand Saturday, July 4th.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomsen have been enjoying a visit from their married daughter with her husband and family, who motored from their home in Memphis, Tenn.

Mrs. A. K. Horn writes from Montgomery that her daughter, Frances, (Mrs. Steve Pittman) has another boy, born June 25th.

Dr. and Mrs. S. C. Wood went to Birmingham to attend a family reunion on Friday, June 26th.

Mr. and Mrs. G. L. Foshee have returned to their Thorsby home. Mr. Foshee is reported somewhat better than he has been recently.

Mrs. Joseph E. Each returned last Friday from a Birmingham hospital. She is reported improving though still pretty weak.

Mrs. V. H. and C. M. Ragsdale and family of Bessemer were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Nelson Sunday.

Miss Clara Peterson and Mr. Lewie Self of Birmingham motored to Thorsby Sunday, arriving here about 7 o'clock in the morning to take part in a picnic which had been planned for some time by Miss Peterson and Mr. Self. They left Thorsby about 8 o'clock with Miss Peterson's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Martin Peterson, and children, and a well filled basket. They had a pleasant trip to Lock 12, where they were shown through the power house by Mr. King, an employee of the company. Miss Peterson being an employee of the company in Birmingham, special interest was shown in explaining the different things of interest there to them. A place near the water was suggested for the picnic grounds, so it was decided to leave Lock 12 and go to the ferry a few miles below. After a hearty lunch, the manager of the ferry kindly invited them to take a trip across the river with him, which goes into Coosa County. This invitation was accepted and enjoyd immensely. In fact, the whole day was a great success and enjoyed to the greatest extent.

A Bank Account Is An Incentive to Thrift and Economy

Without it one is likely to spend money for things that are useless.

Like the man who received a $200 legacy and spent a day and a night writing orders to mail-order houses, next day he went to a friends to borrow a nickel to buy a loaf of bread. This may be an extreme example, but it actually happened, and in a way may happen to anyone who has not the banking habit.

County Will Build Two Steel Bridges

Bridge At Clanton to Be Steel and Concrete Floor; at Coopers to be Steel and Wood Floor.

The Commissioners Court of Chilton County met Monday and Tuesday of this week, and according to previous announcement received bids on the building of bridges at Clanton and Coopers.

The Highway Iron Products Company, of Ligonir, Indiana, was the successful bidder for both bridges, taking the bridge at the lower end of Sixth Street in Clanton for $1625, and the bridge at Coopers for $1644. The Clanton bridge is to be 100 feet long, with 16 feet roadway clearance, and will be of steel construction with concrete floor. The bridge at Coopers will be 150 feet long with 16 feet roadway clearance, and of steel construction with wood floor. The County is to furnish material for the flooring of both bridges.

The contracting company is to furnish all steel for the two bridges delivered on the ground, and will furnish a man to superintend the erection of same, as well as the flooring which is to be furnished by the county.

The present bridge at Coopers is 300 feet long. The new bridge will be only 150 feet. Half the length of the present old bridge will be taken up with a fill. The Court let the contract for the fill to Will DeShazo, of Mulberry, at 27 cents a yard. His bid was the lowest received. Others bidding on the erection of the fill were Irby DeRamus, W. H. Wilson. By reducing the length of the bridge at Coopers to 150 feet, the county will save over $1,000 in first cost, besides the cost of upkeep for a bridge, as it is cheaper to build a fill 150 feet long than to build a bridge.

By some careful figuring the Court was enabled to manage the bridge at Clanton in such a way as to save around $700, getting through with it that much cheaper than was at first contemplated.

160 ARE KILLED IN U. S. AS TOLL OF JULY FOURTH WEEK END

Chicago, July 6.—Week end accidents resulted in at least 100 deaths throughout the country. Automobile mishaps brought the largest toll, 57, while drownings totaled 39. 44 are known to have perished when a Boston building collapsed on more than 100 persons in a cabaret. Fourth of July celebrations resulted fatally for 18 participants, and airplane crashes killed 3.

Twenty-seven of the automobile casualties were reported in Chicago and vicinity with 11 from other midwestern localities. Five were killed in Massachusetts, 8 in Connecticut, and 6 in Rhode Island crashes. Two were killed in a crossing accident at Montreal, 3 died in New York City and 5 in other parts of the state, 2 each in New Jersey and Pennsylvania and one at Palmyra, Ontario. The east also reported 175 injured in automobile mishaps.

Although 9 persons were drowned at resorts in the vicinity of Chicago and 5 other deaths occurred in the middlewest no fatalities were reported among the 217,000 bathers on the city beaches.

A 2-year-old girl died at Patchogue, N. Y., as a result of eating a fire cracker, and another girl at Shamokin, Pa., was so severely burned when a rocket set fire to her clothes that she died.

Four deaths from fire works and fire arms occurred in New York City.

A Chicago woman died from burns received which fire works ignited and set fire to a gasoline tank.

A stunt flyer at Curtiss Field, Mineola, N. Y., was killed and his passenger injured when the plane crashed 800 feet to the ground. Another pilot was killed and his passenger injured at Dexter, Me.

TWO TRAINS RUN OVER CHILD'S BODY

Holt, Ala., July 7.—The crushed body of Melbie Smith, 2-year-old daughter of Ross Smith, a moulder in the Central Foundry, was found on the Southern Railroad tracks here by members of the crew of a Warrior-Southern freight train late Monday afternoon. The body was completely severed.

While there are no witnesses to the accident it is thought that the child wandered onto the tracks in front of an oncoming freight.

There are two freights that pass the spot where the child was killed in the late afternoon. One runs at 5 o'clock and the other an hour later. It is not known which train killed the child but it is supposed from the condition of the body, that it was the 5 o'clock freight. The crew of the second train found the child after the cars had passed over the body.

Officers of Tuscaloosa and Holt are investigating the accident.

Ford's Commercial "Air Line" Proves Success

HENRY FORD, Detroit's famous auto magnate, has cleared away all doubt as to the possibilities of establishing commercial aviation on a sound basis. He demonstrated it by starting and maintaining an "air line" of his own—operating between his Detroit headquarters and the company's various branch plants in different cities of the middle west. The planes used are of the cabin type and carry freight only.

In the above group you see Mr. Ford, Eddie Hamilton, one of Mr. Ford's aeroplane pilots, and Edsel Ford. In the background is shown the "Maiden Dearborn" in which the initial fight was made between Detroit and Chicago. At the time, Mr. Hamilton piloting, the ship carried 1,000 pounds of freight.

AUTO DEATH TOLL IN STATE JUMPS TO 70 IN 5 MONTHS

Nineteen Lives Lost This Year in Jefferson County Alone From Automobile Accidnts.

Montgomery, Ala., July 8.—Evidence of the increasing toll of human life which is being taken by automobile accidents in Alabama was contained in figures furnished today by Dr. W. T. Fales, head of the State Bureau of Vital Statistics, showing a total of sventy deaths reported from automobile accidents in Alabama for the first five months of 1925, January to May inclusive, as compared with 46 for the same period in 1924.

Jeffrson county, which is the banner county of Alabama in several respects, likewise, leads all the rest in automobile fatalities, the number of such deaths from this county for the first five months of this year being 19. Montgomery was second with 8 deaths for the same period.

Mobile county, although containing the second city in the state, was well below either Jefferson or Montgomery, only 3 automobile fatalities being reported from there. Other counties in which as many as three or more such deaths occurred were: Talladega 4, Tuscaloosa, Russell and Etowah, 3 each.

An interesting feature of the automobile death toll is that a majority of the persons killed are white people, 46 of the deaths for the first five months being white people and 24 colored.

The figures as to the automobile fatalities were compiled by Dr. Fales at the request of the safety committee of the national automobile chamber of commerce.

ALABAMA WILL HAVE STATE FAIR DURING THIS FALL

Birmingham Company Has $125,000 on Hand to Help Promote Undertaking.

Birmingham, Ala., July 8.—The Alabama State Fair Corporation was officially launched Tuesday night as machinery was put in motion for the early construction of permanent exhibition buildings, a concrete grandstand to seat 10,000 persons, a new half mile race track, and in addition an all-year amusement park with high-class concessions and feature attractions, and a model chidren's play ground.

Indications are that Birmingham's annual gala event will be in full sway this fall following the subscription of approximately $30,000 necessary to assure the success of the venture, at a dinner Tuesday night called by Geo. G. Crawford, chairman of the invitation committee and a member of the board of directors of the new organization. Approximately 150 representative business and industrial men gave their enthusiastic approval to the proposal and promised 100 per cent co-operation in an effort to resume the fair this fall as a permanent institution.

Tentative plans for the first exhibition contemplate a program of state-wide interest appealing not only to the agricultural interests but to practically every line of endeavor in the entire State. "It shall be the most elaborate and complete fair ever held in Alabama and one of the best in the South," it was unanimously decided.

The amusement park will be available 365 days of the year and is expected to fill a special need in the lives of the hundreds of industrial workers of the district and provide ample recreational facilities for the western section of Birmingham.

Its equipment will consist of an airplane swing, carrousel, coaster, dance pavilion, ferris wheel, knockout, miniature railway, old mill, scooter, squeeze, swimming pool and whip, according to present plans.

Under the present plans it is proposed to build a first-class half mile race track, which will be converted into "the fastest in the South."

Details of the forthcoming fair will be rapidly worked out and the sale of stock pushed, it was announced, to assure the initial program this fall.

Fly Repellents.

The following are fairly satisfactory livestock fly repellents: 1 pound of rancid lard and 1-2 pint of kerosene. This should be mixed into a creamy mass and rubbed on the backs and necks of the animals with a cloth or the bare hand.

Another satisfactory formula is: 1 pound of common laundry soap, 4 gallons of water, 1 gallon of crude petroleum, 4 ounces of powdered naphthaline.

Cut the soap into shavings and dissolve in hot water; dissolve the naphthaline in a crude oil and mix the two solutions thoroughly. Apply with a brush.

Mrs. Alonzo Poole and little daughters, Mary Merle and Mattie Louise, of Chattanooga, Tenn., are spending several days with the former's parents, Prof. and Mrs. J. W. Moore of Clanton.

STORES RAZED IN COLUMBIANA FIRE

Columbiana, Ala., July 7.—Half a block of the business section was destroyed here early Tuesday morning in a conflagration which seemed for a time to threaten the entire ditrict. The residents forming themselves into a "bucket brigade," fought the flames from 1 o'clock until 4 o'clock. Columbiana is without waterworks or organized firefighting facilities.

The fire is said to have started in the store of J. L. Isbell, one of the oldest structures in the business district, from unknown cause. It destroyed the store and its contents, spreading from there to the Acke cafe, the Masonic hall and Lester's garage, all of which were destroyed. The spread was checked by a brick wall between the garage and a storeroom owned by D. M. Jones.

The section destroyed was the lower part of Main Street. The loss is estimated at approximately $25,000 partially covered by insurance.

Montgomery, Ala., July 7.—Report has been received at fire marshal's department of the fire which destroyed several stores at Columbiana early Tuesday morning, accompanied by a request for an investigation. The department ordered a deputy state fire marshal to investigate the blaze.

COX-BUSBY

A very pretty wedding was solemnized Tuesday afternoon, June 30th, when Miss Hazel Roberta Cox was united in marriage to Mr. Samuel Leon Busby, both of Calera, in the presence of a few immediate friends.

The bride and groom were attended by Miss Lutie Jones and Mr. Alza Martin, and were met by Rev. Kaylor, who performed the ceremony before an improvised altar of potted plants.

The bride was attired in a navy blue ensemble suit with blonde accessories, and carried an arm bouquet of pink and white carnations.

She is the only daughter of Mrs. Jessie Cox, and is a very pretty and winsome young lady.

The groom is the youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. M. T. Busby, and has an exceedingly bright future.

Immediately after the ceremony the bride and groom left for a short bridal trip, after which they will be at home in Calera.

COUNTY TRAINING SCHOOL TO BUILD VOCATIONAL UNIT

Final preparations are now being made for erecting on the site of the present Chilton County Training School for colored pupils a building to be used for vocational work of that institution. The new structure will cost about four thousand dollars.

The new building will be in compliance with the State Department of Education, the specifications being furnished by that department. The blue print of the building has been received from the State Department and is now in the hands of the County Superintendent of Education.

In this new building departments will be arranged for the teaching of sewing, cooking, house-keeping, farming, home economics, blacksmithing and carpenter work. In fact, everything which boys and girls need to know about farming and farm life will be taught in the new vocational department of the Chilton County Training School.

State Cotton Crop 79 Per Ct. Normal

Department of Agriculture Places Acreage At 10 Per Cent Above Last Year.

Auburn, July 2—The acreage planted to cotton in Alabama this year is estimatd at 3,425,000, an increase over the planted acreage of last year of 10 per cent. The condition of the crop on June 25 was found to be 79 per cent of normal, which indicates an acre-yield of 138 pounds and a total crop of 989,000 bales.

The increase in acreage is thought to be due, not so much to the individual desire to increase the acreage per plow, but to the almost perfect weather in March, April, and May, which enabled farmers to prepare and plant land uninterruptedly until almost every acre has been planted which the labor supply will cultivate. On account of the labor being more plentiful than for the past few years farmers have found it possible to increase the number of plows by about 10,000 this year.

The planted acreage is given by crop-reporting districts as follows:

Northwest section	187,000
Tennessee Valley	480,000
Mineral	299,000
Northeast	296,000
Blackbelt west	347,000
Blackbelt east	451,000
East central	463,000
Southwest	37,000
South central	266,000
Southeast	599,000

The heavier increases are found in the first five of these districts, ranging from 12 per cent in the western part of the blackbelt to 17 per cent in the northwest. The Tennessee valley increased its acreage by 14 per cent. The blackbelt as a whole increased 10 per cent, and the counties of the south central and southeast 8 per cent, the southwest, with a small acreage, by 22 per cent.

The growing condition of the crop, 79 per cent, compares with 70 per cent last year and 80 per cent last month. The condition by districts is given in the map accompanying this report.

Barring some very bad stands in the east central and southeastern counties, and some boll weevil damage in the same sections, and also in the blackbelt, there are no serious complaints. In most of the state the stands are good, weevils are not numerous, and there has been enough rain to keep the plant growing and fruiting. The number of weevils present is reported as about 85 per cent of last year. The average reports indicate that the stand is about 83 per cent perfect. First squares appeared on the average date of May 26 and first blooms on June 14.

Final results will depend, of course, on future progress of the crop, and that on weather and weevils. Details by counties will appear in the Alabama Markets Journal at a later date.—F. W. Gist, agricultural statistician, cooperating with Alabama Extension Service and Alabama State Department of Agriculture.

(Mrs. Grady Broadhead, Editor)

Mrs. Alred Honors Mrs. John Hollis.

One of the prettiest parties of the season was given by Mrs. J. Hance Alred Friday afternoon complimenting her house guest, Mrs. John Hollis, of Mitchell Dam.

The pretty Alred home was attractively decorated with a profusion of summer blossoms. A series of bridge games were played at six tables. At the conclusion Mrs. Elizabeth Higgins held high score, and was awarded a box of Coty's powder. The honoree was presented a pretty compact.

The hostess, assisted by Mesdames Browder and McSwain, served a delicious salad plate with iced tea.

Those included in Mrs. Alred's hospitality were Mesdames Grady Reynolds, T. C. McSwain, John Browder, Arthur Johnson, Jesse Greer of Hampton Springs, Fla., John C. Page, Amzi Gowan of Brewton, Oscar Jones, J. Watts Moore, John M. VanDerveer, Alex Richards of Montgomery, Percy Pitts, J. W. Hayes, Hosea Downs, Eric Hart, Elizabeth Higgins, H. M. Simpson, Sam Johnson, Hughes B. Kennedy of Birmingham, Grady Broadhead; Misses Kathleen Mullins, Jean Johnson, Bettie Mullins, and the honoree.

Mrs. Oscar Jones Hostess.

Members of the Wednesday Bridge Club and several other guests were delightfully entertained by Mrs. Oscar Jones last Wednesday afternoon at her home on Second Avenue.

The entire home was made attractive with bowls of zenias and vases of beautiful gladiola and dahlias.

A refreshing beverage was dispensed by Mrs. J. C. Jones throughout the afternoon.

Five tables for bridge were arraged in the living and dining rooms. On each table was a dish of bon-bons.

After a series of games, Mrs. J. Hance Alred held top score and was given a set of crystal tea glasses, while Mrs. John VanDerveer was presented the visitor's prize, a bottle of toilet water. Mrs. Jones, assisted by Mrs. J. C. Jones, served a tempting salad course with iced tea.

A color scheme of pink and green was effectively carried out in both the refreshments and decorations.

Music and games were enjoyed during the afternoon. A contest "pinning the donkey's tail," furnished much amusement. Manette Wallace was awarded the girl's prize, a fancy bottle of perfume and Erle Ellis received the boy's prize, a baseball.

The birthday cake, with its green holders and eleven pink candles was very artistically arranged, being surrounded with pink and green ribbons and streamers of the same colols, fell to the four corners of the table. Cutting the cake afforded much merriment. George Stephenson cut the button while the dime fell to Mary Foshee.

C. REESE MULLINS

Agent

I wish to state to my friends and patrons in this County that there is a man by the name of T. E. Grier going over the county selling Singer Sewing Machines, and I understand from a number of my friends that he is making the statement that the Singer Machine Company is letting me out, and that he has been sent here to take my place.

I want to say to my friends and patrons if he has made this statement that it is entirely without any foundation whatsoever and that it is a baseless and malicious falsehood. I further wish to state to my friends who are contemplating buying a Singer sewing machine that I have just received a new shipment of machines today, June 1st, and I will get another shipment next week. I will also have a carload of machines to reach me about July 15th for fall delivery.

If you want a new Singer, please write, phone or call on me at my office, where you will find me every Saturday. Machines sold on easy payments. Old machines taken in exchange. A liberal discount for cash. All kinds of second-hand machines, including Singers, New Homes, Whites, and many others, practically at your own price.

Your patronage in the future will be appreciated just as it has been for the past twenty years.

Uneasy Tight Feeling

"I used Thedford's Black-Draught first for constipation," said Mrs. C. E. Buntin, of R. F. D. 5, Starkville, Miss. "I would feel dull, stupid, and have severe headaches, even feverish. I had an uneasy, tight feeling in my stomach. I read quite a bit about

BLACK-DRAUGHT Liver Medicine

I began using it and soon my bowels acted regularly and I was greatly relieved. I used it every once in a while for about 18 years.

"About two years ago I found I was having indigestion, a tight smothering in my chest, then severe pain, especially after eating sweets. I commenced taking just a pinch of Black-Draught after meals, and by doing this I could eat anything.

"I give Black-Draught to my children for colds and headaches. I can certainly recommend it."

Black-Draught is used, with satisfaction, by millions.

POOR C

My Favorite Stories

By IRVIN S. COBB

No World's War Need Apply

Immediately following the Spanish-American war a story went the rounds regarding a volunteer who suffered grievous hardships, first at Chickamauga, then at Tampa, then in Porto Rico and wound up by having a spell of slow fever. One night, when he was convalescent but still shaky, an officer passing through the hospital ward overheard the invalid as he communed with himself.

"I love my country," the volunteer was saying. "I've fought for her and if 'twas necessary I was ready to die for her. But if I get out this mess I ain't never goin' to love another country as long as I live!"

For this ancient yarn there is a companion piece of comparatively recent vintage. A battered veteran of the regular army, who had been wounded at Chateau Thierry, was visited by a chaplain. The latter inquired regarding his well-being and expressed the hope that the soldier would live to wear the uniform for a great many years to come.

"Well, padre," said the old-timer, "so far as I'm concerned I'll tell you how the thing stands: Before this here World's war came along I thought I'd had a lot of experience and had seen my share of hard campaignin'. I served in Cuby and in the Philippines, and when the Indians acted hostile I went on the scout after them several times, out West. But we didn't have to deal with pizen gases or high explosive shells the size of galvanized iron ash-cans in any of them little mixups. Padre, I ain't lost my gimp and I wouldn't hang back if Uncle Sam wanted me to help mop up anybody that went on the rampage back home in God's country. But strictly in confidence, I don't mind tellin' you that this here is goin' to be my last World's war."

No Place for an Outsider

I used to know a New York business man who delighted to tell a yarn of his boyhood. He said that when he was about sixteen years old his father, who was a presiding elder of the M. E. church, took him from his home in Pennsylvania to a town out in Ohio where the son was to be entered in a small college.

"When we got off the train," said my friend, "the whole town seemed to be in a battle. It was a coal-mining district, and two groups of husky miners with fists and clubs were doing their level best to destroy each other. There were 20 fights going on at once! The town marshal was in a doorway looking on calmly.

"I rather enjoyed the sight; but my father as a minister of the gospel was naturally very much shocked. Holding me by the hand, he made for the place where the town marshal stood.

"'What does this outrage mean?' the old gentleman demanded.

"'This is pay day by the mines,' explained the marshal in a strong Teutonic accent, 'und every pay day this happens—the Irish miners they fights mit the Welsh miners.'"

"'But why don't you stop it?' asked my father.

"'For why should I interfere?' said the marshal simply. 'I'm German!'"

PROVIDENCE PEOPLE OBSERVE FOURTH OF JULY TOGETHER

On last Saturday quite a few close friends and relatives of the Robinson and Parrish families of the Providence community met at the home of G. C. Robinson and enjoyed together a kind of joint family reunion and Fourth of July celebration. At the noon hour an abundance of good things to eat were spread on an especially prepared table out in the yard, and the forty odd present enjoyed forty-five minutes of just plain, old-time eating and friendly conversation together.

After a few minutes was given for the dinner to kindly settle, the table was again set, this time the dish consisting of ice cream of the choicest variety—and there was plenty of it. There was also abundance of soda water, lemonade and ice water.

About 3:00 o'clock, when the hot sunshine was playing hide-and-seek with the lazy-lawrences at the rate of about 95 degrees, a truck load of the men and boys loaded up and went to old Rock Falls on the creek, where they spent an hour of cool and jubilant recreation.

On returning to Mr. Robinson's home, the rest of the ice cream and lemonade was placed on the table and everybody feasted again. After general hand-shaking and temporary goodbyes, the visitors departed for their homes and got ready to attend the Ku Klux celebration at Clanton Saturday night.

MR. BICE WRITES AGAIN

Thorsby, Ala., July 6, 1925.

Editor Union-Banner:

I want to say hurrah for Dr. Hobbs and his sermon last Sunday at the First Baptist Church of Birmingham. He told what the evolutionists mean and what they are trying to do. They are trying to destroy the teaching of the Bible. He says the Liberties Union is backing up Scope's trial on evolution.

I must say that I am for the Bible from Genisis to Revelations. I believe all it says. Christ says, "I am the door and he that entereth not by the door but climbeth up some other way, the same is a thief and a robber." The evolutionist is trying to climb up some other way, and Jesus tells us what he is.

Yours truly,

Interesting Facts Of The Bible

To the Editor of The Birmingham News:

The word "Bible" means sacred books, and is the word of God to man. God inspired men to write the Bible. The following are a few facts that perhaps are unknown to some of us.

A man who was condemned to life imprisonment relieved the tediousness of the years by ascertaining the following most interesting facts:

The Bible contains 3,586,489 letters, 773,292 words, 31,173 verses, 1,189 chapters and 66 books. The word "and" occurs 46,277 times. The word "Lord" occurs 1,855 times, the word "reverend" but once, which is in the 9th verse of the 111th Psalm. The middle verse is the 8th verse of the 118th Psalm. The 21st verse of the 7th chapter of Ezra contains all the letters of the alphabet except the letter "j." The finest chapter to read is the 26th chapter of the Acts of the Apostles, (Paul's defense before Agrippa). The 19th chapter of II Kings and 37th chapter of Isaiah are alike. The longest verse is the 9th verse of the 8th chapter of Esther. The shortest verse is the 35th verse of the 11th chapter of St. John, "Jesus Wept." The 8th, 15th, 21st and 31st verses of the 107th Psalm are alike. All the verses of the 136th Psalm end alike. There are no words or names of over six syllables.

In the absence of a Bible, it remained for an old soldier once by the name of Richard Lee, who was taken before the magistrate of Glasgow, Scotland, charged with playing cards during divine services, to show that a pack of cards can be used to illustrate a Bible or a prayer book.

At the church those who had Bibles took them out, but the soldier had neither Bible nor common prayer book. Pulling out a pack of cards, he spread them before him. He first looked at one card and then another. The sergeant of the company saw him and said, "Richard, put up the cards; this is no place for them." "Never mind that," said he.

When the services were over a constable took Richard prisoner and brought him before the mayor. "What have you brought the soldier here for?" "For playing cards in church."

"Well, soldier, what have you to say for yourself?"

"Much, sir, I hope."

"Very good. If not, I will punish you severely."

"I have been," said the soldier, "about six weeks on the march. I have neither Bible nor common prayer book. I have nothing but a pack of cards, and I hope to satisfy your worship of the purity of my intention."

Then, spreading the cards before the mayor, he began with the ace: "When I see the ace it reminds me there is but one God. When I see the deuce it reminds me of the Father and Son. When I see the trey, it reminds me of the Father, Son and Holy Ghost. When I see the four, it reminds me of the four evangelists that preached, Matthew, Mark, Luke and John. When I see the five-spot, it reminds me of the five wise virgins who trimmed their lamps. There were ten, but five were wise and five were foolish and were shut out. When I see the six, it reminds me that in six days the Lord made heaven and earth. When I see the seven, it reminds me that on the seventh day the Lord rested from the great work He had done and hallowed it. When I see the eight, it reminds me of the eight persons that were saved when God destroyed the world, viz: Noah and his wife, his three sons and their wives. When I see the nine, it reminds me of the nine lepers that were cleansed by our Savior. When I see the ten, it reminds me of the Ten Commandments which God handed down to Moses on the table of stone. When I see the king it reminds me of the wise King Solomon, king of Israel. When I see the queen, it reminds me of the Queen of Sheba, for she was as wise a woman as he was a man. She brought with her 50 boys and 50 girls. The king sent for water for them to wash. The girls washed to their elbows, the boys to their wrists, so King Solomon identified them by that manner."

"Well," said the mayor, "you have described every card except one."

"What is that?"

"The knave," said the mayor.

"I will give your honor a description of that, too, if you will not be angry."

"I will not," said the mayor, "if you do not term me a knave."

"The greatest knave I know of is the constable that brought me here."

"I do not know," said the mayor, "if he is the greatest knave, but I know he is the greatest fool."

"When I count how many spots there are in a pack of cards I find 365, as many days as there are in a year. When I count the number of cards in a pack I find 52, the number of weeks in a year. I find there are 12 picture cards in a pack, representing the number of months in a year, and on counting of tricks, I find 13, the number of weeks in a quarter."

So you see a pack of cards serves for a Bible, an almanac, and a common prayer book.—By John T. Bradford, Tuscaloosa, Ala., in The Birmingham News.

RUM SHIP TAKEN WITH 2,000 CASES IN GULF DRY WAR

Mobile, July 3.—The coast guard cutter Comanche is en route to Mobile with a schooner and two motor boats captured in the Gulf of Mexico with 2,000 cases of liquor aboard, according to a wireless dispatch to Mobile custom officials Friday.

Custom officials gave the name of the captured vessel as the British schoooner, Agnes Louise. The home port was not given. Plans were under way to store the contraband.

The liquor captured by the Comanche has an estimated value of $240,000, bringing the total value of liquors taken in the gulf within the past 10 days up to approximately a million dollars, not counting the value of the captured vessels.

The cutter Saukeg caught the schooner Marion Adams and six small motor boats in the gulf last week and 6,300 cases of fine whiskies and wines were unloaded from the vessels and are now in storage in Mobile warehouses.

Twenty-three men arrested as the crews of the vessels were held under bond at preliminary hearings. Special warehouses have been leased, guarded by armed deputies, to store the liquors.

DRY WEATHER BELOW VERBENA

Mr. W. S. Clark, who lives between Verbena and Mt. Creek, was in Clanton Monday. In discussing crop conditions Mr. Clark stated that the dry weather has seriously damaged crops in his vicinity. The area suffering most from lack of rain is described by Mr. Clark as extending from Sandy Creek below Verbena to near Mt. Creek, and covering a long strip of country extending eastward to Coosa River.

Mr. Clark says he has got the blues over crop conditions worse this year than for several seasons past, declaring that his corn is going to be almost a complete failure, and his cotton will fall far short of an average yield.

This is almost the only section of Chilton County that we know of as being seriously hurt by dry weather.

T. J. Dorminey says it started out mighty dry in Stumps Hills, but as soon as they loosened up and paid the preacher the rain came in abundance, and everything is now promising for a fine crop.

EXPANDING BELL TELEPHONE SYSTEM IN CLANTON

A corps of workmen has been here for the past few weeks making extensions of the Southern Bell Telephone system into the residence section of Clanton not heretofore served by this company. We understand that when present plans are completed the Bell company will have facilities for handling about 300 local phones here, and that phones now in use together with contracts for immediate installation will bring the number of Bell phones in use to more than one hundred.

We are glad to note the improvement and expansion of the Bell system in our city. We need better telephone service here than we have had in recent years past. And it has been fairly demonstrated to us that the only reliable chance for us to have adequate telephone service is by using the Bell system.

Everybody seems to be in a fair way to recover from the effects of soda water, ice cream and watermelons on the Fourth of July. Some of them look a bit "down in the mouth," but will get better as soon as we have a shower of rain.

You can go off to some place where you are not known and announce that you are from Clanton, and the first thing you will be asked is "Where did you folks get that ball team from this year?" and "How in the world do you do it?" Everybody in Alabama is watching the papers to see what the Clanton team did for somebody else the day before.

If the attendance of a large crowd of people is any sign of success, the Ku Klux ceremonial here last Saturday night would surely take the prize. The ball park was packed to capacity, and we have heard estimates upon the crowd running all the way from ten to twenty thousand people. Those who read this, however, do not have to take the other fellow's word for it. You were in all probability there, and can form your own idea as to how many there were in the crowd.

Senator Underwood has said that he will not be a candidate to succeed himself, which statement his opened the way for all others who may have senatorial aspirations. Many have responded by announcing that they will enter the contest in the Democratic primary which comes off in August, 1926. Ex-Governor Thos. E. Kilby, of Anniston looks like the most formidable contender for the place. Hugo Black of Birmingham, Sanford Mullins of Alexander City, W. B. Bankhead of Jasper, and Judge J. J. Mayfield of Montgomery, are likely candidates.

"Is Clanton going to have a ball team this year?" That is the question which fans were asking a few weeks back. Well, what do you say now? I should say so, and then some. We've got the beatin'est aggregation what am. There isn't but one thing about our ball team that is as fine as our players and that is our manager, "old Vic" Heard. We say hurrah for Vic and all the boys on his staff. They are doing more to put Clanton on the map than anything else that is going on at present.

SENATOR HEFLIN TALKS ABOUT COTTON REPORTS

Senator J. Thos. Heflin of Alabama expressed his opposition today to the position recently taken by W. F. Callander, chairman of the Crop Reporting Board, favoring the suggestion of the New England banker that hereafter instead of obtaining cotton reports on the condition of the growing crop, "the government," as Senator Heflin puts it, "would enter a new and dangerous field where various opinions would be expressed and published as to the probable amount of cotton that would be produced on every acre of every farmer's farm throughout the cotton belt of the United States."

Here is his statement; in a newspaper article sent out from Washington on June 23, the following statement appeared

Would Change Crop Reporting System.

The crop reporting board, it was learned today, is favorably considering a suggestion made by Austin H. Garside, Boston banker, to give a figure of estimated yield per acre rather than a consideration figure in issuing its periodic cotton report.

"I think this is an excellent suggestion," W. F. Callander, chairman of the board, said. "It would relieve us of criticism that in some cases a condition figure may actually decline and reports show a forecast of more bales."

I am opposed to the change suggested by Mr. Garside, the Boston banker, and I am greatly surprised at Mr. Callender's statement that he is favorable to the change suggested. The present plan of requiring reports from time to time on the condition of the growing crop of cotton is the better plan, although as recently conducted it has been widely criticized because in many states conditions did not justify the favorable reports published by the government. But in spite of the fact that those reports when made frequently injuriously affect the cotton producer, that system is infinitely better than the suggested change which involves speculation and guess work on a tremendous scale—guess work as to the prospective yield per acre on all the cotton acreage of thirty odd million acres planted in cotton in the United States. Such a system would create more doubt and uncertainty and lead to confusion worse confounded. The average man in the cotton belt when he looks at a field of growing cotton has a very good idea as to whether or not it is in a promising and flourishing condition. A cotton farmer frequently tells his neighbor that a certain field of cotton is not as good or that it is better than the cotton he had on the same fieid a year ago at the same time in the growing season. So it is not so difficult to obtain fairly accurate reports as to whether or not a field of growing cotton looks good or bad, vigorous and strong or weak and puny, but it is quite a different thing and a very difficult thing to obtain anything like intelligent and accurate information during the growing season as to the amount or number of pounds of lint cotton that each thirty odd million acres will produce.

Sam Jones of Georgia, a great Southern evangelist, once said: "Cotton in the growing season will promise more and do less and promise less and do more than any other plant under the sun," and he was right about it. If government reports are necessary at all in the growing season, we are willing to have the physical appearance of the cotton plant passed upon and reportd to the government and given to the public, but we object to the plan suggested of obtaining certain people's opinions and guesses from time to time in the growing season as to the number of pounds or number of bales of cotton that will be produced. In the first place such reports would not be anywhere in the neighborhood of correct, accurate and reliable reports. Such a plan would involve speculation of the wildest kind and guess work of a broad and dangerous character. In the second place, such a plan would carry a vast deal of misinformation to the public and would be distinctly unfair and injurious to the cotton farmers of the United States. There are a good many men in the cotton belt who possess valuable knowledge of various kinds regarding cotton, but there is not one of them whose opinion as to the amount of cotton that each acre will produce that I would be willing to have the governmrent accept and send out as an official announcement of the amount of cotton that is being produced per acre. Such a plan would be pleasing and serviceable only to the cotton gambler. It ought not to be adopted and I predict that if it is, it will not live longer than the convening of Congress next December."

Senator Heflin is bringing the matter to the attention of the Secretary of Agriculture.

COOLIDGE OBSERVES BIRTHDAY ON SHIP

Swampscott, Mass., July 4.—President Coolidge boarded the Mayflower today for his 53rd birthday dinner on ship. He was accompanied by Mrs. Coolidge and their guests were Mr. and Mrs. Frank W. Stearns, Secretary and Mrs. Sanders, Captain Adolphus Andrews, commander of the Mayflower, and Mrs. Andrews. The presidential party went by motor to the Corinthian Yacht club at Marblehead Neck, three miles from the summer White House and were taken out to the yacht on a tender. A salute of 21 guns was fired as the president went up the right side of the vessel.

Contrary to expectation, the Mayflower did not put out to sea, remaining at anchor until Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge and their guests were ready to return tonight to Swampscott. Skimming around the picturesque harbor were hundreds of sailing craft, many of them taking part in a fourth of July regatta.

A Dollar Buys More Telephone Service Than Ever Before

THIS year the demands for service in Alabama will require additions and replacements to the telephone system costing approximately $2,000,000. This money must also be obtained on the company's credit. And, as you know, the credit depends largely upon the earning capacity, as in any other business.

With the investment in service growing so enormously each year, the investment per telephone station is also increasing rapidly. Unless there is an increase in the revenue per telephone station, the company's borrowing capacity, or credit, will not be strong enough to attract investors.

The telephone using public is benefiting by the growth of the system. The service is now better than ever before, and is more valuable to the individual user as well as to communities at large.

Economical management and efficient workers have kept the operating expenses at a minimum, despite the increase of from 100 to 287 per cent in wages and taxes over pre-war levels and an increase of more than 65 per cent in the cost of everything else which forms a part of the telephone plant.

Telephone rates have not increased in anything like a reasonable proportion, and today your dollar buys more telephone service than ever before in the history of the telephone business in Alabama.

This problem is one of equal concern to telephone users and telephone company, but its solution depends largely upon the public's appreciation of its importance.

"DICK" BROWN CAUGHT MAKING LIQUOR FRIDAY

Federal Prohibition Officer W. H. Gillespie and Deputy Sheriff Harvie Foshee caught W. M. Brown, better known at "Dick" Brown, last Friday morning operating a whiskey still. The outfit, a 50-gallon copper still, was in full operation when the officers located it, Brown being the only person at the still.

When Foshee flushed Brown and ordered him to "hold what you've got," Brown took for the bushes, but he only ran right into Gillespie who was concealed on the other side of the still. Brown offered no other resistance but was perfectly resigned to the orders of the officers.

The still was located near the back water on Hatchet Creek, Coosa County, about two miles from the mouth of the creek. Dick Brown lives on the Higgins Ferry road about six miles east of Clanton.

Besides tearing up the still, Gillespie and Foshee dug up nearly forty gallons of corn whiskey which was buried in different places within a radius of a few rods of the still. There was only about one barrel of beer at the still which had not been run off. The officers allowed Brown liberty with the agreement that he report to the Federal court in Montgomery one day this week.

"LITTLE DOROTHY NELL"

We wish to thank the good people in and around South Clanton for their kindness shown us during the serious illness and death of our little darling baby, Dorothy Nell. Especially are we grateful to Dr. Arthur Johnson for being so faithful to us during the entire seven weeks of the little darling's illness. We know that we did all in our earthly power to keep little Dorothy Nell with us, but all that we, physicians, and friends could do was in vain, for God had a more lovely and beautiful home prepared for her in heaven. In His power and wisdom He called her to live with Him on Tuesday, June 30, 1925.

Little Dorothy Nell bore her suffering very patiently and quietly, waiting for God to call her where there is no suffering.

God himself only knows how it breaks our hearts to part from little Dorothy Nell; but she was only a little angel living here on this earth, and God knew it was too precious to stay in this world of sorrow, grief and pain. We know the little darling is now supremely happy for she is in the arms of Jesus.

The little angel can never return to us, but one great consolation we have is that we can meet her in her beautiful heavenly home which God has prepared for all of us who love Him.

We also wish to express our thanks to friends and relatives for the beautiful floral offerings. May God bless and keep you all is our prayer.

SOIL BUILDNG WORK NOW BEING PUSHED

State-wide Campaign in Progress by Agricultural Forces for Big Vetch Acreage.

Auburn, Ala., July 6.— (Special) There is now in progress a State-wide Soil-building campaign in Alabama. It began July 1st and will continue until September 30, under the auspices of the Extension Service and Experiment Station at Auburn and the State and County arm Bureaus.

This campaign was authorized at a State meeting of farm people in Auburn the first of the year, Prof. L. N. Duncan, M. J. Funchess, and Edward A. O'Neal were selected as a committee to make plans for it and also to supervise it.

During this period county agents and other agricultural workers and also leading farmers will think, talk, and dream soil building. Frank Boyd, Extension agronomist, will visit practically every county in the state and deliver an illustrated lecture on how to make land rich. He will feature hairy vetch, which is Alabama's outstanding winter legume and consequently one of our greatest soil-building crops.

Mr. Boyd is telling people that hairy vetch will grow in every county and on practicallly every soil type of Alabama; that is not difficult to plant and is easily grown; that it rarely needs lime; that it is cold resistant; that the seed are relatively cheap and that the seed can be planted in the fall after the harvest and the crop turned under the following spring in time to plant corn or cotton. If planted with oats for hay it can be cut in time to plant corn, thus growing two crops on the same land in one year.

In view of its very great value, Mr. Boyd is asking each county to buy and plant a car load of hairy vetch seed. The Farm Bureau is handling them at a price which is the lowest in many years, which will encourage planting.

Between 1900 and 1920 the average value of land in the United States has more than trebled and in some states it has increased as much as twelve or thirteen times.

Save on Your Gas and See the Scenery!

By WILLIAM E. KNOX
President American Bankers Association.

A long, long time ago, a very great teacher said, "Man shall not live by bread alone." That is true. A man who lives by bread alone and simply feeds his body will be nothing more than an animal. There is more than bread that goes to the making of a life. There are the things of the mind and the spirit, and we are all of us making a great mistake if we measure success in this world by material things. Material things are all right and ought to be emphasized to some extent, but they should not occupy more than their proper place in the scheme of things. Over and above and beyond them are the things of the intellect, and over and above those are the things of the spirit, the finer things of life. If, in reaching out for material prosperity, we forget those things, we may get the material prosperity, but we will not get true joy and true happiness out of life. I want to commend to every one that, in addition to striving for the good things of this life which are good in their way, to remember the other things also.

William E. Knox

I promise you if you do that, it will not make any difference whether you get great rewards or not; it will not make any difference whether you arrive at high position or not. You will have instead a great inward satisfaction, and you will feel that you have lived a pretty good life and had a good time while you were doing it.

Have your good time as you go along. Don't be like the automobilists that go whizzing over the country at sixty miles an hour and arrive at their destinations at the end of the day's run not having seen the beauties of the country they went through; having seen nothing of the birds or the flowers, of the streams and the trees and the hills, but having just totaled up so many miles on such an expenditure of gas. Save on your gas and enjoy the scenery as you go along through life. Just put that into operation—save on your gas and see more of the scenery!

Going and Coming

Two scholars, a Frenchman and an Italian, were having an argument. Each insisted his own country had produced the most distinguished literary figure that had ever lived.

"Dante," said the Italian, "was the greatest of all writers. Dante went to hell."

"Bah!" cried the Frenchman, "Baudelaire was a thousand times greater than Dante. Baudelaire came from hell."

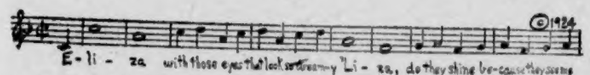
"BIG CITY" HAS NO CORNER ON MODERN FAME MARKET



At Least Ted Fiorito Managed Success Without New York

Chicago, Ill. — It's not necessary to leave home for the "Great City" merely because you want to become famous—not, at least, if Ted Fiorito knows what he's talking about.

Ted is pianist and coach for the Edgewater Beach Hotel orchestra, Chicago, which is heard daily over one of the highest-powered radio stations in the United States. Also Ted is a song writer a song writer if you please, who never goes near Tin Pan Alley.

"It's all bunk," he insists, "this talk about having to go to New York to put over your talent. To hear the New Yorker tell it, you would suppose every song writer who ever put over a popular song had to do it from Tin Pan Alley. Well, I never did and I think the dope is all wrong."

Furthermore, Mr. Fiorito has a higher average of money making songs than almost any of the Tin Pan Alley boys. His latest, "Eliza," won a rhythm prize the other day and bids fair to send its owner into the four-figure income tax class.

"And Tin Pan Alley doesn't get a look-in," grins Mr. Fiorito.

AUTO WRECK AT VERBENA LAST SUNDAY

A Ford car driven by a young man by the name of Baldwin was wrecked just below Verbena last Sunday. In the car with Baldwin at the time of the accident were Mr. Chance of Verbena, Mr. Sidell of Marbury, and a Mr. Steele. The machine was badly smashed up, the running gear being completely demolished, but none of the men were seriously hurt. Baldwin lives at Mt. Creek.

In the afternoon Burnett, a former high school pitcher, took the mound for Clanton, and bested Schatz, the Benson hurler in another nice game, which the locals took, 9 to 3.

The whole Clanton team backed the youngster almost faultlessly, and he held faith with them by whiffing 9 of the opponents, although he was a bit wild at times, due to lack of practice. This is his first appearance on a ball field this spring, and showed up well, everything considered.

The locals went to Montgomery on Sunday, and took a nice game from the West Point Route team, 3 to 1. Pat Moulton was the big gun in this fray and the Montgomery team went hitless during the first five innings. The Clanton team played their usual good game and favorable comment by Montgomery fans could be heard on every side. When Clanton goes to Montgomery again, a good crowd will be out to see them toss the apple.

Our box scores are not complete, owing to a misunderstanding as to the official scorer. We always depend upon the official scorer for our copy of box scores, so as to be able to give the correct "dope" on all the games. On last Saturday, as Mr. Beutell was out of town, we understood that Mr. J. W. Ayres, editor of the Chilton County News, was to be the official scorer of the day, and looked to him for our box score copy. He, however, refused to give The Union-Banner a copy of the score, and we were forced to do the best we could as to box scores.

In the future The Union-Banner will see to it that arrangements are made for us to secure full and correct box scores for our reports of games.

STRAIGHT TALKS WITH AUNT EMMY

ON "SUCKER LISTS"

"Ever since I bought that $500 electric company bond, Aunt Emmy," said Helen, "I have been pestered by all sorts of bond salesmen to buy other things. I should like to invest again, but I am bewildered. Every day or so I see something that sounds so good. But I don't know what to do."

"That reminds me," said Aunt Emmy, fishing through her workbasket and taking out some clippings from her needle book. "I have an article from a magazine that will help. The writer gave some questions to make a bond salesman answer in writing and said that if the salesman were on the square he would answer the questions satisfactorily. Here they are," and Aunt Emmy began to read:

"'1. Will my bank say that the house which is offering the security is reputable?

"'2. Give an exact description of the security?

"'3. What provision is made for paying off this and other securities of the company?

"'4. What is the nature of the business of the company?

"'5. How much of a margin did the company earn annually over all its depreciation and interest charges for each of the last ten years?

"'6. What dividends has the company paid on its stock for each of the last ten years?

"'7. What are the company's total assets and liabilities and has it sufficient funds to carry on its business?

"'8. What are the experience and reputation of the men controlling and operating the company?'

"Then the next thing to do is to go to your banker and let him check up all this information for you," added Aunt Emmy. "Now that you know your name is on a 'sucker list' be doubly careful."

"What's a 'sucker list,' Aunty?"

"It is a list of the names of people who have purchased securities or inquired about them. Such lists are bought by so-called investment brokerage houses all over the country. Lots of bad securities are sold through unscrupulous brokers writing to the names on those lists."

"Oh, that's it, is it?" exclaimed Helen. "I suppose the poor people are flattered at getting such letters. I know I was."

"Just so," Aunt Emmy said, with a smile.—Anne B. Aymes

Clanton Wins 3 And Loses One

The Clanton baseball aggregation won three of its four games of the past week.

On Thursday, July 2, the West Point Route team of Montgomery was played on the local field. This seemed to be an off day for the whole Clanton team, and although they hit fairly well, seemed to think the old pill had germs of some deadly disease on it. Balls that should have been fielded for easy outs went for hits and the locals lost 10 to 5.

On July 4, the Benson Paint and Varnish Co.'s team from Birmingham came to Clanton and received two good trouncings at Clanton's hands.

In the morning's game Starling held the visitors well in hand, striking out 10 of them. He outpitched Edney, the Benson hurler, by a nice margin. In addition to this, the team was giving him altogether different support from that which Whorton had received on Thursday, and won a really good ball game, 3 to 1.

A Bank Account Is An Incentive to Thrift and Economy

Without it one is likely to spend money for things that are useless.

Like the man who received a $200 legacy and spent a day and a night writing orders to mail-order houses, next day he went to a friends to borrow a nickel to buy a loaf of bread. This may be an extreme example, but it actually happened, and in a way may happen to anyone who has not the banking habit.

John Sharp Williams Buys Memorial Coins For His Grandchildren

IN a telegram received by R. E. Kennington, State Chairman for Mississippi in the Confederate Memorial coin distribution now taking place throughout the South, John Sharp Williams, former U. S. Senator from Mississippi, asked the setting aside of thirteen Confederate Memorial coins for his grandchildren.

In his telegram Senator Williams declared:

"The action of the Federal Government in the minting of these Confederate Memorial coins was a magnanimous and chivalrous tribute for the courage and constancy of Southern soldiery in the war between the States.

"Every descendant of one of them should testify his appreciation of it and his sense of the grandeur of our purpose fitly to perpetuate the glorious memory of our ancestors by buying some of the coins. I therefore am asking that you set aside thirteen of the Memorial Half-Dollars for me for presentation to each of my grandchildren as one of the most cherished mementos I could give them of their Southern heritage."

ALABAMA—SHALL HER DREAMS COME TRUE?

A booklet called "Alabama—Shall Her Dreams Come True?" is now being distributed by the Better Education Committee, 415 First National Bank Building, Montgomery, and is arousing considerable interest in the minds of those who read it. The publication gives in interesting style the story of the recent and remarkable advance made in the state of North Carolina and in an address to Alabamians, outlines similar possibilities for this state.

The pamphlet is the first of a series to be sent out by the Better Education Committee in an effort to secure public understanding of conditions and possibilities in Alabama.

The personnel of the Better Education Committee guarantees a large degree of public interest and confidence in the campaign. The committee consists of the heads of such organizations as the Rotary, Kiwanis, Lions and Exchange luncheon clubs; the Masons, Pythians and other fraternal organizations; the Alabama Education Association, the State Farm Bureau, all public and denominational colleges, the State Board of Health, the Federal Extension Department, the Parent-Teachers Association and other educational agencies; the Federation of Women's Clubs, the Daughters of the American Revolution, the Colonial Dames, the Business and Professional Women's Clubs; several church organizations; and such professional associations as the State Medical Association, Rural Mail Carriers' Association, Alabama Press Association, Labor Federation, etc.

The presidents of all these organizations are co-operating by presenting to the membership which they represent the need of a great educational awakening in Alabama and by supporting a concerted effort in this direction. Immediate supervision of the publicity material sent out is exercised by a small Board of Managers representative of several of the organizations and located near the Montgomery headquarters.

GETTING READY FOR MONKEY TRIAL UP IN DAYTON, TENN.

William Jennings Bryan on Job in Defense of Tennessee Law Against Evolution.

Dayton, Tenn., July 8.—With the uncertainty removed as to whether Dayton was to be the scene of the trial climaxing the evolution controversy, Dayton is looking forward to Friday when the big event comes off. William Jennings Bryan, the famous fundamentalist and several times candidate for the national presidency, who is one of the prosecuting counsel in the Scopes trial, arrived on the scene Wednesday.

Mr. Bryan will be assisted by other members of the prosecution, who will attempt to prove John T. Scopes, Dayton teacher, guilty of violation of the state law prohibiting the teaching of evolution. Scopes has been indicted for violation of the statute.

A. T. Stewart, solicitor-general for the Eighteenth Tennessee judicial district also is expected in Dayton soon to confer with Mr. Bryan and others of the prosecution.

Counsel engaged for the defense of Scopes Monday in Cookeville, were denied their petition for a federal restraining order to halt prosecution proceedings scheduled for Dayton. Federal Judge John J. Gore, in his decision, held that it was not within his jurisdiction to interfere with a case pending in a state court, and expressed doubt that if it were in his power, he would grant the petition on the strength of the allegations set forth. The constitutionality of the Tennessee statute, which Scopes is alleged to have violated, was not touched upon by the judge.

Mr. Bryan expressed great pleasure at the decision of Judge Gore. He and the other prosecuting attorneys were particularly interested in the intimation of the judge that the case of the defense had no merits to bring it under the protection of the federal constitution.

"This is the day that I have long been looking forward to," said Mr. Bryan as he faced the crowd for a few minutes. They were all there, evolutionists and antis, all smiling. Young Mr. Scopes, the teacher whose evolution teaching skits has drawn this lightning from the surcharged atmosphere of the country, was not observed at the station, although he was lounging around town, chiefly in the store of the "hustling druggist" who made a sacred shrine with proper tablet out of the table where the argument was held last May that resulted in this trial.

At the personal request of Clarence Darrow, Chicago attorney, Dr. Avery E. Lambert, pofessor of anatomy at the University of Alabama, will testify in the Scopes evolution case as John T. Scopes goes to trial in Dayton, Tenn on next Friday, charged with violation of the Tennessee law against teaching evolution. So far as is known, Dr. Lambert is one of the two men called into the case who have theological and anatomical training, and are qualified to testify on both sides of the question. The other man is Dr. Edwin J. Conklin, professor of biology at Princeton University.

Dr. Lambert, the Alabama professor, attempts to prove evolution by the Bible, and declares the first chapter of Genesis gives the story of evolution in the most epic form in which the story has ever been written. He believes in both evolution and the Bible, and is moved by his strong belief and deep interest to discuss the Scopes case.

KLAN CEREMONIAL DREW A LARGE CROWD OF FOLKS

It seems to be the universal opinion that the largest crowd of people ever seen in Clanton was here last Saturday night to witness the public naturalization ceremonies by the local organization of the Ku Klux Klan.

The program by the Klan was carried out in splendid order and was deeply impressive. The thousands of automobiles were parked for blocks around the high school grounds under direction of the robed Klansmen who had that feature under their supervision. This difficult and often confusing problem was handled well and in spite of the great number of cars present, there was little confusion and inconvenience.

The weird spectacle accompanying the naturalization of more than 50 aliens into the mysteries of the hooded order was carried out inside the ball park with great solemnity, while thusands of eyes were centered upon the Klansmen who conducted the exercises.

The address on Klancraft, which was made by a visiting klansman was heartily applauded by the vast multitude which listened o the burning words of truth which fell from his lips.

At the close of the program the Klan fireworks demonstration blazed forth in a glorious spectacle that illuminated the heavens with its bursting rays of light in the patriotic colors of red, white, and blue.

Chilton Highway Work Going Fine

Paving of New Highway Going On Rapidly; Grading of Road Bed Near Completion.

We have gathered a few points on the work of constructing the concrete highway through Chilton County which indicate that the work as a whole has been going forward with rapid strides in recent weeks. The contractors have been taking long steps and a heap of them.

The Morgan Hill Paving Company have been coming toward Clanton from the south, laying upwards of 1,000 feet of paving a day. At the time this is written they are pouring concrete in South Clanton and in all probability will be completed up to their loading station at the Woco-Pep tanks in another day or two.

We have been informed that Morgan-Hill are considering the paving of Seventh Street through Clanton before they go to the north end of their section at Lomax. One man suggested that they would probably be at work paving inside of Clanton by the time this paper gets to its readers.

Morgan-Hill began pouring concrete at Cordrey's old mill place. Something over a mile of concrete north of that point has already been opened to traffic.

Mr. Gillis of the Gillis Construction Co., reports that he has completed the grading contract all the way from Lomax to the county line, south.

Traffic is open on the new grade between Clanton and Lomax, though no paving has been laid on that section.

About a mile and a half of concrete has been laid from Lomax north toward the loading station at Strasburg. The contractors expect to complete the paving from Lomax to Strasburg by the first of August, which will make the entire distance of 17 miles from the county line to Lomax complete with paving.

The paving above Lomax was interrupted a bit in the last week on account of trouble with a pump, but only a little time was lost.

It is very gratifying to the public to see the paving contractors making such splendid headway, as it means a great deal to have as much of the paving as possible laiid by the time the winter rains set in. Detouring in winter weather will not be much for pastime and every day of progress now on concrete construction means much less bad muddy roads for detours next winter.

J. N. DENNIS HAS SOME FINE PEACHES

Mr. J. N. Dennis is showing some fine peaches from the orchard on his farm south of town. His trees are young, this being the first year they have produced any to speak of. The varieties which we have seen are Hale and Hiley, each of which were fine specimens. The fine fruit which has been produced by Mr. Dennis here and by Mr. Peterson at Thorsby ought to be an incentive for more people on the farms to have farm orchards. It only takes a little care and study to produce peaches here that are the equal of any produced in the world-famous fruit regions.

ABOUT AUTAUGA'S TURNIPS

After taking a look at the fine specimens of farm products brought to us from Autauga County by Mr. J. Z. Mims we took a hankerin' to see the place where all those "'bagas" and things were grown, so we up and took a little trip down there Sunday afternoon. Well, Mr. Mims didn't tell the half of it when he said Mr. Baker, a former Chilton County farmer, had a fine crop,

We looked over 35 acres of cotton (on land so level that the whole 160-acre farm as well as several adjoining farms can be seen from the house) which looks good for 20 bales right now. And corn, watermelons, in fact anything you can think of you will find within the bounds of Mr. Baker's farm. Those turnips brought to The Union-Banner office must have been picked at random, for we saw row on row of them fully as large as that specimen. Mr. Baker will bank them just like sweet potatoes, for use during the winter. Just west of the house we saw at least a dozen fine fig trees, with the fruit just beginning to ripen.

In making the report of his trip to Autauga, Mr. Mims failed to make mention of the fact that he was one of fourteen visitors who ate dinner at the home of Mr. Baker. He also failed to mention that he was one of a party to rob a bee tree, and then became sick on the honey. However, we can't blame him so much, for if he is like us, tired of tea, crackers, and the like, it's enough to make anybody forget, when he sits at a 20-foot table laden with anything from A to Z in the way of unusual eats.

LIBERTY HILL—CEDAR GROVE SINGING SOCIETY

Our singing society met with Cedar Grove Sunday afternoon and some good singing was enjoyed by a large crowd.

Directors for the afternoon were Prof. J. W. Lowery, Kermit Lowery, Marvin Champion and Dave Melton, together with some special songs by the best singers.

Our organist was Miss Bonnie Littlejohn.

Our society will meet with Liberty Hill the fourth Sunday afternoon and we have invited the Walnut Creek and Chestnut Creek societies and their quartettes. They have promised to come. Also, several other good singers will be with us. All singers and lovers of music invited.

Prof. J. W. Lowery will teach a singing school at Cedar Grove, beginning Monday, July 20, and running for 20 days.—Secretary.

BROADHEAD'S MOVED TO THE TIP MULLINS BUILDING

The stock of goods of J. R. Broadhead & Sons has been moved to the Tip Mullins building where this old reliable firm will have more room for the large stock of merchandise which they carry.

Broadhead's is the oldest mercantile house in Clanton. They have been in business uninterruptedly for more than twenty years, and have established a name and a record that is known all over Chilton County for good old-time honesty and square dealing.

They invite their friends to come to see them in their new location.

LIGHTNING KILLS BERRY GIRL NEAR GOODWATER MONDAY

Another Woman Injured by Shock as The Two Were Washing Clothes.

Goodwater, Ala., July 14.—Miss Louise Berry, age 15, was instantly killed and Mrs. Odelle Harper was severely shocked by a bolt of lightning Monday afternoon at Mt. Olive west of Goodwater. The two women were washing under a large oak tree that stood in the yard of Jas. Pruitt, a merchant of Mount Olive, when a stroke of lightning struck the tree. Miss Berry died instantly. Her home was at Ensley, and she was visiting the family of James Pruitt, her uncle, and had just returned from a visit to Montgomery where she was visiting her uncle, Tom Berry. Miss Berry had visited relatives and friends in Goodwater and Mount Olive frequently during the last few years and her death caused profound sorrow. Her grandfather, Geo. W. Berry, and aged Confederate soldier, is now living near Goodwater. Her parents were communicated with at Ensley. The remains were sent Tuesday to Ensley fo burial.

SNOW FALL FREAK AT BLACKSBURG, VIRGINIA

Chicago, July 14.—While many areas of the country continued to swelter under a tenacious heat wave, the weather man varied his offerings yesterday in a rather surprising manner with a short fall of snow at Blacksburg, Va. The white shower followed a thunder storm and lasted five minutes.

The weather freak brought no comfort, however, to the parched summer lands of the middle west and Rocky mountain region, where thermometers apparently were in a race to overstep the century mark. Phoenix, Ariz., a veteran in temperature, climbing again, led the country yesterday reaching 112 against 104 for North Platte, Neb., the middle western point.

The death toll continued to mount, 14 additoinal fatalities from the heat being reportd. In addition five persons were killed by lightning and three were drowned.

A member of a camping party at Linton, Tenn., was killed when struck by a limb blown from a tree.

REVIVAL AT MT. PISGAH

A revival will begin July 18th near Mt. Pisgah church. The services will be conducted under a bush arbor by the Church of God. Everybody invited to come out and hear the old-time Gospel.

DEMOCRATS OPEN FIGHT TO SWING CONGRESS OVER

1926 Elections Promise Unusual Bit of National Interest; Oldfield Working.

Washington, July 14.—With the Democrats already laying the foundation for a determined campaign to regain control of congress, the 1926 congressional elections give promise now of attracting an unusual share of national interest.

Under the leadership of Representative Oldfield of Arkansas, the Democratic congressional committee has begun its organization work with a view to centering its efforts largely in what are generally regarded as the close districts.

At the same time the Republican organization is preparing to meet the attacks in those centers and also to carry the fight to the enemy in a number of democratic strongholds.

Returning today from organization meetings in Missouri and Indiana, Representative Oldfield announced that he would leave soon for a swing through the west on a similar mission.

He will speak at gatherings of state Democratic leaders at Omaha, Denver, Salt Lake City, Portland, Spokaine and Seattle.

"Educate, organize, fight," is the message Mr. Oldfield will take to the meetings, and he will call for the perfecting of the organization from state committees down to precinct bodies. Moreover, he will urge the Democrats that can be found in the districs, declaring that "no man is too big to run for congress."

R. A. BEARDEN DEAD

Mr. R. A. Bearden, age 47, of Maplesville, died in a hospital in Selma last Sunday, July 12th. His body was brought back to his home at Maplesville Monday and buried with the Masonic ceremony. Martin of Clanton had charge of the body.

Mr. Bearden leaves a wife and some children.

CEMETERY WORKING AT COOPER

C. D. HUGHES, Secy.

Uncle Jim Mims of Collins Chapel was a visitor to Clanton Tuesday. He says the dry weather is doing some damage to crops in his section.

The road in Fayette County will be surfaced with gravel and the road in Montgomery and Autauga Counties will be paved.

The Department is now engaged in letting three types of paving under the same traffic conditions. That part of the Montgomery-Wetumpka road between the Tallapoosa River and Wetumpka when constructed was surfaced with gravel and after its completion, traffic increased to such an extent that maintenance became very difficult. It was decided to use the present gravel surface as a base and place thereon three types of pavement, namely: Rawhide, Rock Asphalt and Asphaltic Clay Gravel. Each type will be laid on a section about two and one-third miles in length.

On July 1, 1925, the state forces were maintaining 1315 miles of highway.

OUSLEY-WILLIAMS WEDDING

A wedding of much interest to the many friends of the couple over the county was that of Miss Gladys Williams and Mr. Elton Ousley of Pletcher, which occurred Sunday morning, July 12, at 11 o'clock, at the home of Squire Bill McCullough.

The bride was dressed in a girlish loveliness of green silk canton crepe with accessories to match.

Mrs. Ousley is the charming young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. B. Williams and has many friends throughout the entire county who will be interested to learn of the wedding.

CLANTON WINS ANOTHER

Clanton easily defeated Columbiana here last Thursday afternoon, 12 to 3, although four of the team were out of the line-up. Tallassee was supposed to come here Thursday, but called Wednesday night and cancelled the game.

Coach Heard gave both Moulton and Starling a work-out on the mound grooming them for some expected hard battles in the near future.

Clanton hit hard all through the game, and Sewell rode Fulton out of the box in the sixth frame with a home run over the right field fence with two aboard.

Clanton has played 17 games so far, winning 14 of them.

Still Found in Loft Of Edwards Home

Federal and County Officers Find Whiskey Distilling Outfit in Robert Edwards' Home.

Officers of Chilton County, in company with Federal Officer J. L. Gore, made a raid on the home of Robert Edwards, near Fairview, last Saturday afternoon in which they report the finding of a complete whiskey making outfit in the loft over the kitchen of the Edwards home. The still was not in operation when the officers found it, but they say that Edwards did not deny that it belonged to him, and that he further declared that he had been operating the still and making liquor. About a gallon of liquor was found by the officers. There were two 60-gallon barrels of mash at the still.

The outfit was made of a copper box which used an oil stove for heating. The operator of the still apparently drew water from the well and carried it up to the place where the still was located, employing a 40-gallon barrel as a "flake stand."

Robert Edwards is the son of John Edwards; he was arrested and later released upon making a bond of $1,000.

The officers state that they have previously made unsuccessful raids at the Edwards place, but not until last Saturday were they able to locate his plant.

A Mother's Duty

A mother that fails to use her time and thought for the very best interest of her children is not worthy of being a mother.

Ask your husband, the man you have selected for the father of your children, what provision he has made for their welfare in event of his unexpected death.

You owe to yourself and to your children, ESPECIALLY TO YOUR CHILDREN, the duty of exerting every precaution against being left without sufficient living and educational funds.

There are a few husbands and fathers who are too selfish to make this provision. See if you have selected one of this type for the father of your children.

"One Tooth" Difference Between Joined Twins

NO longer can they say that these Siamese twins, Violet and Daisey Hilton—whose spines nature sealed together—are as alike as "two peas in a pod." Daisey developed a toothache the other day and the troublesome molar had to be removed. So you see, there is now the difference of "one tooth" between them.

FELSTON MULLINS APPOINTED HEAD OF CULLMAN SCHOOL

In our last issue we mentioned that Prof. Felston Mullins had been chosen as the director of the Fairview Vocational Agricultural School to succeed Prof. Swan, who had tendered his resignation to accept a position in another profession, and did not learn of the fine qualifications and exceptional abilities of Prof. Mullins until the paper was printed.

Felston Mullins was born and reared on a farm in Chilton county near Clanton, was trained under a father who was a successful and prosperous tiller of the soil and until he was 25 years old, was, like his venerable father, a successful farmer and stock raiser then like many ambitious young men saw with more technical training he could do more for not only himself but for other young men. who had chosen farming as their profession, he entered the Alabama Polytechnic Institute at Auburn for a full course. In his classes at Auburn he was leader.

In a stock judging show in Atlanta during his college training he was awarded first prize, he was a member of the Gamma Delta Society and was one of the ten of the society members selected for special honors based upon exceptional gifts in scholarship, merits and good work among his fellow students. Prof. Mullins comes to Fairview school fresh from college with a diploma won by hard work and a desire to reach a life worth while to himself and others.—Cullman Tribune.

Good food products and good cooking are by no means the only requisites of a satisfactory meal. Spotless linen crystal-clear glassware and polished silver—these, together with a clean and neatly-dressed waiter, provide the finishing touch which has distinguished L. & N. dining car service.

It appears to us that it will look extremely ungrateful if some of the Democratic newspapers do not at least mention the name of Governor Brandon as a possible successor of Senator Oscar Underwood. They were all for Bill for Governor, and surely some of them will be for him for Senator.

Hurrah for the Bible! It is going to come out of the Dayton monkey trial more universally studied and read and believed than ever before in the history of the world. Don't you ever worry about the Bible getting "the black eye" in this monkey business. God has preserved His word to us through ages that were darker than any we shall ever see again. Those fanatics who are seeking to put away the truth of God's word are simply a restless set of infidels who, having nothing else to employ their simple minds, are engaged for the tiime in "baying at the moon."

THE MONKEY BUSINESS AT DAYTON

It has been no trouble during the last few days to gather opinions upon the subject of evolution and the clash that is taking place in Dayton, Tennessee over the process of creation. Practically every outstanding man in these United States has offered some contribution to the discussion one way or another. The newspapers every day have been full of these discussions.

Hon. Curtis D. Wilbur, Secretary of the Navy in President Coolige's cabinet, speaking at the First Congregational church in San Francisco, on Sunday uttered what we believe to be the most sensible view upon the matter of any that we have seen. Below we quote some of Mr. Wilbur's assertions:

"Salvation does not depend upon our belief as to how God created the universe. Salvation depends upon our belief in God and His Son. If we use the theories of evolution as an excuse for getting rid of God and our obligation to Him, we can thus destroy our souls.

"But if we believe that evolution was the process by which God created the universe and operates it today, we are no better and no worse than the man who believes that God instantly created all living things full grown with the power to reproduce.

"If God created all things first full grown, that act of creation has never been repeated."

Secretary Wilbur pointed out the weanness of the theory of scientists who fail to take God into account and expressed the view that a belief in God is just as essential to the modernist who holds to the theory of evolution as to the fundamentalist who accepts literally the Biblical explanation of the creation.

"There can be no conflict between the truth of science and the truth of religion. But there is a conflict between the Bible story of creation as we have taught it for several hundred years and the evolutionist theory. Consequently those who see in the teaching of evolution in the public schools a menace to religion are correct insofar as they see a menace to the Bible story of creation.

"When scientists have solved all the problems of life, when they are able to take the protoplasm and develop it into a full-grown man, it will be time enough for the scientists to begin dogmatizing instructions in the ways of life. When they can form the protoplasm from which life springs then it will be time enough for them to deny that God was needed in creation."

So far as we are concerned, the statements of Mr. Wilbur are enough. We shall continue in our simple belief and acceptance of the Bible as the word of God. If God had designed that we should know more of the details of how man was created, we believe he would have revealed more of those details to Moses and had them recorded in His eternal book.

As said by Mr. Wilbur, salvation of our souls through eternity does not depend upon our belief as to how God created us. It depends upon our belief in the supreme power of God in all things of this universe, and in the divinity of His son, Jesus Christ in showing us the way unto salvation for our souls and eternal fellowship with our heavenly Father.

LITTLE PEN-O-GRAMS

THE DOLLAR'S JOB LIKE YOUR BOY'S JOB

A few weeks ago thousands of boys and girls finished school and went out into the world to make a livinig. Most of them were looking for jobs. If one of them was your son or daughter you were greatly concerned that his or her job associate him or her only with honest, decent, respectable people. If your boy or girl entered a business operated by dishonest, unscrupulous men you would be in continual distress, wouldn't you?

Well, how about that honest dollar you invest and send out into the world to earn something for you? It has even less chance than your hopeful son or daughter if it is entrusted to dishonest hands or questionable undertakings. To get ahead, as you wish, your son or daughter must have honest work in an honest vocation. It's exactly the same with your invested dollar. What do you know about the men or firms with whom you invest your money? Nothing, only get-rich-quick promises? That's pitiably insufficient. Make them prove they are honest and capable before you invest.

THE JOHN A. ROGERS PROGRAM

The State is authorized to issue and sell not more than seventy-five million of bonds to build and maintain roads and bridges in Alabama.

These bonds shall never be sold for less than the par value thereof nor bear a greater rate of interest than six per cent per annum.

To secure the prompt and faithful payment of the principal and interest on these bonds, the Legislature shall levy a tax on gasoline, its substitute or on any device used to propel motor vehicles, but not in excess of five cents per gallon on gasoline.

Each county in the State shall receive at least five hundred thousand dollars of the proceeds of those bonds.

Not less than fifteen million of the seventy-five million shall be set aside to build bridges over the navigable rivers of the State.

The full faith and credit of the State is pledged for the redemption of these bonds, but no bonds of this series shall ever be sold until there is enough money in the State treasury delivered from a tax on gasoline, its substitutes, or from any device used to propel motor vehicles to pay interest on the bonds sold and to set up a sinking fund to retire said bonds when due.

I have made a full and thorough investigation of the suggestions made by John A. Rogers, president of the Highway Commission, that the State be authorized to issue and sell not more than seventy-five million of bonds to continue road and bridge building in Alabama. The principal and interest on these bonds to be paid by a tax on gasoline and in no other way.

I do not hesitate to give this proposition my hearty and unreserved approval. It is a sound business proposition. All other classes of property (except gasoline) are exempt from paying anything of the interest and the principal of those bonds. It puts no burden either on the present generation or on posterity.

To build roads with bonds will get the roads much quicker than in any other way.

We need the roads now; it is folly to wait ten or fifteen years for them.

Bad roads are too expensive. We cannot afford to use them.

Good roads will save much more to the users of gasoline than the small tax imposed will cost.

Good roads will make a car last two or three times longer. They will save the owners of cars thousands of dollars in repair bills.

If the State were authorized to issue bonds under the terms of the proposed amendment, no more of the bonds could be sold than could be paid off, both principal and interest by a small tax on gasoline.

FORESTER'S LETTER

More forests mean fewer earthquakes, points out the Alabama Commission of Forestry. It is said that if all of the waste lands of the earth capable of supporting tree growth were maintained in forests the result would tend to reduce the frequency of earth tremors.

Earthquakes are usually produced by the shifting or settling of sections of the earth's surface along lines of fracture called faults. The faults themselves are generally the result of unequal stresses, either transverse or vertical. Inequality of vertical stresses is due largely to transportation of land material from the hills and mountains of the continents to the sea where it is deposited on the ocean floor as sediments of various kinds. This lightens the continents, making the ocean beds heavier. Land maintained as forests holds this erosion or run-off to a minimum.

During a single generation there is comparatively little opportunity to observe geological changes. Throughout the centuries, however, the reduced erosion brought about by the reforestation of extensive land areas will tend to lengthen the intervals between earthquakes.

Vacation Days More than 8,900 Ford cars from every section of the country visited the Yellowstone National Park during the open season of 93 days in 1924—evidence that for long tours as well as short trips, the Ford is the favorite everywhere.

Ford popularity is based upon small first cost and low operating expense. You can buy a Ford on easy payments and take a real vacation this summer—go with the whole family to the mountains, or seashore; visit the Yosemite Valley, the Grand Canyon, Glacier National Park, etc. Wherever you drive you will find Ford Dealers ready to serve and to direct you along the way.

THORSBY SECTION

(S. E. NORTON, Manager).

Work on the foundation for Thorsby Institute new building is being pushed vigorously; two or three more days of good weather will probably see it practically finished, that is for the section to be built immdiately.

The building committee is busy with plans and specifications, and bids for material for the completion of this section. The insurance on Bates Hall has been adjusted and paid in full. This, with other funds in hand and pledgd from reliable sources, will enable the committee to carry on the work rapidly for several weeks, during which it is hoped to raise what more is neded for early completion of what we have undertaken to do this season.

Mr, and Mrs. A. E. Reagan and Mr. and Mrs. Carl R. Peterson made a trip to Montgomery Tuesday.

Mrs. Anna Villadsen and son returned from a delightful trip and visit to relatives in Cleveland, Ohio, Sunday night.

Miss Elizabeth Perry is teaching a B. Y. P. U. course at the Baptist church this week with great success.

Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Horsley and son, Claude of Birmingham, and Mr. and Mrs. T. O. Farrington of Pratt City were week end visitors with Mrs. Aaron Littleton, who has been quite ill for several weeks but it now on the road to recovery.

Mrs. A. W. Robinson is entertaining her cousin and her four childrn, from Georgia.

Rev. Neil McQuarrie of Atlanta was a welcome visitor in Throsby one day last week. He was much interested in the building plans and the progress already made in the new building for Thorsby Institute, he being a member of the Board of Trustees.

Mrs. Cóx of Oklahoma, who has been visiting her daughter, Mrs. J. E. Each for several weeks, returned to her home last Tuesday.

Miss Lenore Godwin, sister of Mrs. S. E. Norton and her adopted daughter, Agnes Lenore Goodwin, who have been spending several weeks with Mrs. Payne, another sister at Fairhope, Ala., will arrive on No. 10 Tuesday of this week for a visit with the Nortons and other Thorsby friends, before returning to their home at Tyron, N. C.

On Monday. July 13, a party consisting of Mrs. F. M. Bray, Mrs. J. W. Matthews, Misses Ollie Bray, Frances Richardson; Mr. Monroe Bray of Birmingham, and Misses Mary Frances and Virginia Smith of Columbus, Ga., motored to Thorsby from Birmingham to spend the day and night with the Leary family.

Additional guests during the evening were Misses Jean Moss and Shirley Robbins of Brooklyn, N. Y., and Messrs. James LeCroy and J. C. Jones of Thorsby. The time sped merrily for both guests and entertainers.

The return party left at 6:00 a. m. Tuesday morning for Birmingham.

If nobody cares, a few people in a town can make life disagreeable for everybody else. Thorsby is supposed to have a Town Council, whose business it is to see that the rights of the people of the community are respected. Dirty streets and dirty sidewalks are depressing and hurt any self-respecting person who cares for their environment.

When a man is permitted to occupy a section of the stret for his gas pump as a matter of convenience to automobile owners, does that give him the right to set his tank or tanks for heavy oil on the sidewalk, taking one-third of its width from the people to whom it belongs?

Another objectionable habit some people have is collecting on the sidewalks for a "talkfest" and paying no attention to pedestrians who are exercising their right to use the sidewalk. One must either go around such obstructions or squeeze through, which no lady wants to do, especially where the walk is spattered with spittle of various kinds. Very few people will deliberately make a nuisance of themselves, but often do so because they do not think of others. Our Town Council is responsible for police duty in Thorsby, and it would be much better for the whole community if they would attend o these matters.

The Lutheran Ladies Aid social will be held this week Thursday afternoon with Mrs. Frank Nelson as hostess.

Our attention has ben called recently to a matter that might be of interest to some of our farmers or possibly to our fruit growers association and that is the growing of blueberries for market.

These are not the so-called blueberries that grow on low bushes almost anywhere about here, but the high-bush kind which under cultivation may become trees of considerable size, bearing a delicious fruit as large as cherries, of a beautiful soft blue color, and of a texture that makes them admirable shippers. These berries are nw grown in the vicinity of Talladega and also near Deatsville. Mrs. J. E. Each received a quart box of them recently by parcel post and says they came in fine condition. When the writer was a boy he used to go with other members of the family and gather such berries by the bushel in New Jersy and eastern Pennsylvania.

"A NAME WELL KNOWN SINCE 1875." Watch for further announcement.

There is another farm crop that is shamefully neglected in our Republican county. One of the cardinal principals of Republicanism is a protective tariff. How many of our farmers know that there is a protctive tariff of three cents per pound on peanuts. Our Democratic senators have consistently and persistently fought a protective tariff for many years because for the most part its benefits would accrue to northern business interests, but when some one proposed a stiff tariff on peanuts to shut out the millions of bushels of that crop that were imported annually from China and Japan, many Democratic senators forgot their principles and laid the tariff on an almost exclusive southern product, so far as this country is concerned. And now, why should we not profit by it, not merely by growing peanuts to feed our hogs on or sell to oil mills, but have factories that would turn our raw material into a finished product that will sell for many cents a pound. A few thousand dollars would equip a factory with sufficient capacity to use the product of hundreds of acres.

Again, we can grow corn, why not grow pop-corn. At various places in the north, there are factories that buy pop corn from the farmers who in combination grow thousands of acres in one section, which the factories store in huge cribs. Some sell it in bags to pop-corn factories also in small 10c packags for family use, handled by grocers; others establisih pop-corn factories and make Cracker Jack or something of that nature that sells everywhere and is sold at the factories mostly in carload lots. Now that we are to have cheap power, it behooves those who would profit by it to look about and see what use we can make of it that will help us to utilize what we produce and not give others the big end of the stick by sell ing our raw material. The field is ready, the opportunity is here. If we do not come to the front and use it ourselves, others will come and grab it and we will be their servants.

The Ladies Guild of Thorsby will hold a lawn social at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Leary Thursday night, July 23rd. Don't forget the place and date.

NEW STORE BUILDING

Mr. W. I. Mullins is beginning the construction of a brick store building on Seventh Street next to Exchange Hotel. We were unable to get in touch with Mr. Mullins and find out who will occupy the new store. This is the first of a series of developments that are contemplated by different property owners along Seventh Street. We look for that part of town to come to the front in the next year, owing to the establishment of the State paved highway along Seventh Street through our city.

A Bank Account Is An Incentive to Thrift and Economy

Without it one is likely to spend money for things that are useless.

Like the man who received a $200 legacy and spent a day and a night writing orders to mail-order houses, next day he went to a friends to borrow a nickel to buy a loaf of bread. This may be an extreme example, but it actually happened, and in a way may happen to anyone who has not the banking habit.

Filling the Long-Felt Want

Dean Palmer, who is associated with his father, the famous Charlie Palmer, in the business of buying and selling newspapers, says he had a friend who made a trip once to a state lunatic asylum in Minnesota.

While strolling about the grounds he happened upon an old man of a benign aspect sitting under a tree.

"Good evening," said the venerable gentleman. "A stranger here, I assume?"

"Yes," said Palmer's friend, "I am. I take it that you, too, are a visitor."

"Unfortunately," said the old gentleman, "I am an inmate."

"But—pardon me—but you don't look like—" began the astonished stranger.

"I'm not, either," said the old gentleman. "My son, I am the victim of circumstances. Members of my family coveted my property. On trumped up charges they had me declared of unsound mind, and I was railroaded off from my home and brought to this place where I have ever since been in confinement. And yet, if only the truth were known, I am engaged in a great scientific literary work—an undertaking which has busied me for years and which, if justice is ever done, will some day make my name famous throughout the English-speaking world."

"And what, may I ask, is this work?"

"I am engaged," said the old gentleman, "in compiling a complete index to The Unabridged Dictionary."

"Now then, children," said the Sunday school teacher, in her best Sunday school teacher's manner, "the lesson for today is about the Prophet Elisha. Can any little boy or little girl here tell us anything about Elisha?"

"Me," answered a ten-year-old urchin, holding up his hand. "I can tell about him."

"Very well, then, Eddie," answered the teacher. "Now, then, all the rest of you be nice and quiet while Eddie tells us about the Prophet Elisha."

"Well," said Eddie, "Elisha was an old bald-headed preacher. One day he was goin' along the big road and he came past where some children were playin' in the sand, and they laughed at him and poked fun at him and called him names and hollered, 'Oh, look at that old bald-headed man!' That made Elisha hoppin' mad and he stopped and turned around and shook his fist at 'em and he said, 'Don't you kids make fun of me any more! If you do I'll call some bears out of them woods yonder and they'll shore eat you up.'

"And they did and he did and the bears did."

Idol of DX Fans Finds Romance In The Air

Austin Wiley, Leader Of "Nightcaps," Prefers The Ether After Midnight

Austin Wiley is the man who plays for the whole world after his regular job for the day is done.

Millions "listen in" to him every night or, in some cases, every day, for when he goes on the air at station WEAR, Cleveland Ohio, at midnight, his farmer auditors on the West coast are just getting up to begin the day, and other scattered listeners in Africa, the Orient and Europe tune in to hear their favorite concert.

Along Broadway, the night hawks tune in, too, on the 'Night caps," as the Wiley orchestra is called.

Because the air is comparatively free in this country at the hours he plays, Wiley has been heard in more countries than any other broadcaster. He has had letters from Japan, London, Mexico, Scotland and Paris, to mention only a few distant points.

"There is a great thrill in playing for distance," says Mr. Wiley, who in daytime conducts an orchestra at Cleveland's famou Golden Pheasant Restaurant. "The romance of shooting a song into the ether for millions to pick up never fails to get me.

"People all over the world like jazz best. They tell me so in every language. Just now one of their favorite tunes is 'Prince of Wails.' They like it so much that I have nicknamed it the radio lullaby."

CHILTON PRODUCES BETTER TURNIPS THAN AUTAUGA

Last week we made mention of some fine turnips received from a former Chilton County farmer now living in Autauga County. As soon as Chilton farmers saw the report they got busy and decided to challenge the record of the Autauga farmer. The result was that Mr. Ed Miner of Concord presented a large Purple Top weighing 5½ pounds and measuring 25 inches around. This beats by a fair margin the record presented from Autauga. Ed says he wants folks to know that Chilton has not gone anywhere when it comes to raising turnips.

MARTIN PETERSON OF THORSBY HAS FINEST PEACHES

We have had a number of fine samples of peaches brought to our office this season, but Mr. Martin Peterson of Thorsby has "laid them all in the shade" with a couple which he presented us Tuesday morning. They are of the J. H. Hale variety, the two weighing 1½ pounds. Mr. Peterson says he has fifty trees of these peaches, and begins to put the crop on sale next Monday.

Many people in this county bought peaches from Mr. Peterson last year, and he desires his friends to know that they can secure all they want for two weeks beginning next Monday.

Alfred Robinson, member of the county board of education, from Corinth community, was a visitor to our city Tuesday.

Lawrence Requests Trustees To Meet

Asked To Be At Court House On Tuesday, July 28, At 10 O'clock A. M.

County Superintendent of Education, Buford Lawrence, is sending out a call to all school trustees in Chilton County to meet him at the Court House in Clanton at 10 o'clock a. m., on July 28th, for the purpose of considering and discussing ways and means whereby the school system of the county may be improved and made to serve the people more effectively.

The following is a copy of the letter which Mr. Lawrence has sent to all trustees:

To the Trustees of Chilton County:

I am anxious that everything that is possible be done to give us better schools in the County. Not only that, but I know that if we are to have the best schools we must have the cooperation and support of all in the County and to the end we may get together and do the things which are best for everyone, I am asking that the trustees of the different schools in the county meet me at the Court House in Clanton at 10 o'clock a. m., July 28th, to discuss plans by which we can improve our schools and make it possible, so far as we can, to give every boy and girl in the County an equal show.

Trusting that you may be able to come to this meeting, I am, Yours for better schools, B. Lawrence, County Superintendent of Education.

It is hoped that all trustees will give ready response to this appeal and lend their best efforts toward the accomplishment of the purposes of Mr. Lawrence in making our school system more efficient and more productive of good service in the education of our boys and girls.

Sheriff And Deputy Destroy Biggest Still

Sheriff Littlejohn and Deputy Foshee went into Stumps Hills Tuesday near the steel bridge on Waxahatchie and destroyed the biggest wildcat distilling plant that has been brought to light in this county in several years.

The plant consisted of two 500-gallon copper stills with all the necessary appliances known to modern wildcat whiskey making.

The still was in operation when the officers approached the place, but their coming was observed by outposts of the distillers and when they got to the plant it was deserted.

The outfit was destroyed, but no arrests made.

"The Creation Of Man"

The pastor of the Temple Church, three miles east of Clanton, will preach next Sunday night, July 26, on the above subject. The main thought in the message will be "Did man come from a lower order of animals, or was he created as the first chapter of Genesis relates it?"

Is the Bible the Word of God? If so, lets hear what it has to say on this important subject. We hope to have room for all. Revival going on this week at the church.

Mr. C. Williams from down below Pletcher was in town Wednesday with some fine peaches of the Hale variety. Mr. Williams says his crop of fruit is fine. He treated his trees with a spray at the proper time, and the result is perfect fruit.

Cooked Snake Found In Liquor Still

Tuscaloosa, Ala., July 21.—State enforcement officers and deputy sheriffs raided two stills in the Vance community Monday and in one of them found a large snake that had been cooked in it. One of the stills was of 600 gallons capacity and the other had a capacity of 300 gallons. Over a thousand gallons of beer was destroyed.

The snake had been cooked so thoroughly it was impossible for the officers to tell what species of a reptile it was.

Town Will Pave More Sidewalks Soon

The Town Council of Clanton has enacted an ordinance providing for paving the sidewalks on Fourth Avenue north from the west property line of Tenth Street to the east property line of Middleton Street; also for paving the sidewalks on Second Avenue from the north boundary line of section 2, township 21, north, range 14, east, to the east property line of Kincheon road. The estimated cost of the proposed improvements is $5,100.

Assumes Task Of Carving Stone Mountain Memorial

ALL the nation is watching with interest for the latest developments in the Confederate Memorial controversey which, on and off, has flashed in the limelight during the last year. Latest reports have it that Augustus Lukeman, the famous New York sculptor, is making preparations to carry through the project of carving the huge memorial on the face of Stone Mountain down in Georgia.

Mr. Lukeman was selected to do the work after a heated dispute between the Memorial Association and Gutzon Borglum, another noted sculptor, which ended in the latter's discharge. Borglum had already cut the giant head of General Lee on the face of the mountain when the argument started which stirred the entire South and the country as well.

Mr. Lukeman, it is now reported, intends to chip away all of Borglum's work and start the design anew.

Clanton Divides Pair With Mignon

On Thursday, July 16, the "tooted" Mignon team from Sylacauga came down to do battle with the local baseball warriors, and returned with the short end of a 6 to 5 score.

"Big Pat" Moulton was on the hill for Clanton, and allowed the hard hitting Mignonites but nine safe hits, while Clanton was collecting fourteen off of "Dog Face" Sheridan, Mignon's ace.

The fans certainly got the worth of their 40 pennies during that game, for it was a nip and tuck affray all through, with the score tied most of the time.

After Mignon had failed to break the 5-5 tie in their half of the tenth frame, Starling, first Clanton man to the plate, got a long fly to left field which leftfieider Remsen missed, Starling going on to second base. "Pee-Wee" Wright sacrificed him to third. When Tommie Sewell, known as the "hittin'est plunder what am," came to bat next, the fans rocked the stand with applause, and Sewell proved that their faith in him was not vain by hitting one at shortstop Stewart too hot to handle and Starling came home with the score that gave Clanton her first victory over the Mignon team.

Mignon has beaten Clanton several times in the past, but not until Thursday could Clanton boast of a victory over Mignon.

Score by innings:—

Clanton	010 201 100 1—6
Mignon	100 101 101 0—5

Batteries:—

Moulton and Wright; Sheridan and Bancroft.

Saturday's Game.

Clanton went to Sylacauga on Saturday for another setto with the Mignon outfit, but showed altogether different "stuff" from that shown in Thursday's game, and were easily beaten 6-0. They seemed unable to hit when hits would have counted, and as Whorton was hit fairly hard, it was an easy game for Mignon.

Another series with this team is expected to be arranged in the near future.

This makes 15 games won out of 19 played—percentage .780.

Score by innings:—

Clanton	000 000 000—0
Mignon	301 100 01x—6

Batteries:—

Whorton and Wright; Austin and Hill.

In Memory Of Mrs. Isabel Gilchrist

Mrs. Isabel A. Gilchrist died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Hal Halstead, in Mission, Texas, last Wednesday morning at 11:35.

Deceased was born in Talladega County, Alabama, December, 15, 1859. She was the mother of three daughters and one son—Mrs. Hal Halstead, Mission, Texas, Mrs. W. P. Tuggle, Ensley, Ala., Mrs. Bird Jones, Clanton, Ala., John P. Gilchrist, West Palm Beach, Fla. She became a widow while her children were small and was both a mother and father to them.

Very early in life she joined the Methodist church and had lived a devout Christian life. During the days of her last illness her daily prayer was that her spirit be released from its tenement of clay, that she might be free from pain. She had no fear of death—her life had been such that she was ready when her Master called.

Just one month from the day she arrived at Mission to visit Mrs. Halstead she passed into everlasting rest. Soon after her arrival she became ill. Everything possible was done for her comfort and by careful nursing and medical skill she was kept alive for days; kept here until Mrs. Tuggle and her son could reach her, but Wednesday the heart that had caused her so much suffering was stilled, the beloved mother had heard the call, "Peace, be still, be not afraid, it is I," and her sorrowing children through their tears read God's promise, "Cast all your care upon Him, for He careth for you."

Funeral services were conducted at the Dr. Halstead home Wednesday evening at six o'clock by Rev. Chas. Nixon, pastor of the First Methodist church, after which the remains were laid to rest in Laurel Hill Cemetery. The many floral offerings were tokens of sympathy to Mrs. Gilchrist and her bereaved ones.—Mission (Texas) Times.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank the good people of Clanton for their kindness shown us during the recent illness and death of Mrs. Ella Rich. Especially do we thank the doctors who cared for her during her suffering and made every effort to bring her back to health.

Respectfully,
J. T. RICH,
W. O. RICH.

Singing At Friendship Next Sunday Afternoon

The Friendship Singing Society will meet in regular monthly session next Sunday afternoon at 2:00 o'clock. As this is the beginning of the annual revival at Friendship, it is hoped that as many singers as possible will be on hand and make the singing the best ever. Prof. W. M. Devaughn and a goodly number of his Concord class are invited and expected to come. Prof. A. A. Beaird has agreed to be present and some quartets will be arranged. Prof. O. L. Devaughn and as many of his Refuge class as can have a special invitatiion. Everyone who enjoys singing has an invitation to be present and help out.

The revival begins Sunday when Rev. Joe Thomas of Birmingham will preach. Services will be held twice daily—at 11 o'clock and 8 o'clock.

The electric lights have been installed in the church, so no one need stay away for fear of bad lights. The public has a cordial invitation to attend.

Mrs. Burnett Dead

Mrs. W. C. Burnett, wife of the Superintendent of the county poor farm, died Tuesday night at their home. She had been sick for several weeks. About a month ago she was carried to Birmingham and underwent an operation. She returned home a week ago last Saturday and was thought to be recovering. Her condition grew worse suddenly Tuesday, and she died Tuesday night. Mrs. Burnett is survived by her husband.

Funeral services and burial was at New Salem cemetery.

May Pave Street By The Baptist Church

The Clanton Baptist church is considering the matter of getting the Town to extend the paving north on Sixth Street to Third Avenue in order to have the frontage of the church property included in the concrete paving area. As the town's plans now stand, the paving on Sixth Street will only reach to the alley between the court house and the Baptist church.

The matter was taken up in conference of the church last Sunday, but was not finally disposed of. Some of the members are for it and some are against it. The street ought to be paved in front of the church, and we hope the membership will find some way to have it done now.

Street Paving To Start Next Monday

We understand that the pouring of concrete on the Clanton street paving will begin next Monday. A big crew of workmen have been busy for several days doing the grading necessary before the paving begins.

Clanton is in a real mess while this work is going on, but it will be mighty fine when the job is done. Everybody hopes it will be finished before winter.

Mr. A. L. Massey and wife from Lakeland, Fla., have been visiting his mother, Mrs. G. H. Massey, at Clanton for the past week.

Gasoline Tax May Be Unconstitutional

Asks Refund Of Money Paid In To State Treasury From Two-Cent Gas Tax.

Montgomery, Ala., July 21.—Validity of the state two-cent per gallon gasoline tax has been attacked by the Wofford Oil Company of Birmingham and Woco-Pep Company of Birmingham. It was learned today from the state tax commission that these companies have paid the tax for the month of June under protest, and have made demand for refund of sums paid, alleging that the act of the 1923 legislature levying the tax is unconstitutional and void.

The tax commission has taken the matter up with the attorney-general. So far as is known here, no suit attacking the constitutionality of the gasoline tax law has as yet been filed though it is expected that the payment of the tax under protest for the reasons given may be the forerunner of court action.

Proceeds of the gasoline tax are divided equally among the 67 counties of the state for road purposes, the levy having been provided for by an act of the 1923 legislature.

Mrs. Ella Rich Died Monday Afternoon

Mrs. Ella Rich, age 62 years, wife of Mr. Tom Rich, died at the family home in Clanton late Monday evening after an illness of several months. She was buried at Poplar Springs on Tuesday afternoon with Martin in charge. The funeral was conducted by Rev. S. J. Ezell.

Of the immediate family she is survived only by her husband, J. T. Rich of Clanton, and her only son, W. O. Rich of Birmingham. Her two daughters died some years ago.

The brothers of the deceased are Rev. Joe Hand of Climax, Ga., Duncan Hand, Robert Hand, and Billy Hand of Clanton; Levy Hand of Deatsville; and Wesley Hand of Bessemer. She has one sister, Mrs. Robert Moody of Clanton.

Mrs. Rich was a good Christian woman and had a great number of friends who mourn her death.

A "supervisor of training in service" has been added to the staff of the Cleveland (Ohio) School of Education. The object is to assist teachers of Cleveland by promoting their professional growth.

Mr. F. M. Connell has returned from a prospecting trip to Florida, where he expects to locate in business and make his future home.

Malnourished children in Cleveland (Ohio) public schools are gathered into special classes conducted by the nutrition clinics. They "graduate" when they attain the weight required for their age and height. Last year 118 children passed through these classes.

A Mother's Duty

A mother that fails to use her time and thought for the very best interest of her children is not worthy of being a mother.

Ask your husband, the man you have selected for the father of your children, what provision he has made for their welfare in event of his unexpected death.

You owe to yourself and to your children, ESPECIALLY TO YOUR CHILDREN, the duty of exerting every precaution against being left without sufficient living and educational funds.

There are a few husbands and fathers who are too selfish to make this provision. See if you have selected one of this type for the father of your children.

How They Felt After Their First Swim Of Season

LAKE MICHIGAN'S waters are never warm, even on the hottest summer's day. So a dip in them may be a little shocking at first, but you "stay cool" for several hours afterward though the mercury be climbing out of the top of the tube.

Little wonder then that the fair maidens, pictured above, should feel like dancing. Their first dip of the season just gave them all kinds of "pep" which they proceeded to demonstrate by kicking the air full of holes. And just when the photographer happened along. His presence, however, did not halt their antics in the least.

"Cold?" asked he. "Should say not," chorused the maidens. "It's great! Go get a bathing suit." And he did.

Uses Ford Motor To Run Boat

Dick Brown built the boat and challenged anybody to put a Ford motor on it and rig it up so that it would run satisfactorily. Some said it could be done and some said it couldn't be done.

Fred Calloway, the Ford specialist, heard about the discussion and concluded that he could turn the trick. Some of his friends spoke in terms of discouragement. One man said: "Fred, you have got a good record for doings things to Fords, but I am afraid you are going to fall down on this job. Fords were made to climb trees and jump ditches and do a little bit of everything on dry land, but they are not water animals, and I am afraid you are going to raise the white flag this time."

Fred laughed at his friends of little faith and saw visions of his old Ford motor gliding up and down Coosa River with all the ease and speed of the best of motor boats.

Dick had made a fine boat of cypress lumber and Fred resolved in his heart that a Ford motor should not be pronounced a discredit to the craft.

He succeeded, and today there is not a better boat plying the waters of Lake Mitchell than that which has been produced by his clever tricks of mechanical adaptability. All you have to do is just step into the boat and push down the starter button and away you go. While the boat runs the battery charges just like a Ford is supposed to do.

There is no radiator on the thing, but Fred says he didn't see any use for a radiator to hold water when there was a whole river at hand to keep the motor cool. He just rigged up a pumping apparatus that makes the river flow through the motor in a stream about as big as your arm and of course that is the best cooling scheme in the world.

By courtesy of Mr. Brown and Mr. Callaway the writer had the pleasure of a trip down the river in this boat the other day, and to say the least of it, if you can't fully appreciate the boat without riding in it. It will carry a party of twelve with all ease and safety.

Three cheers for Fred. He did the trick and saved his reputation as a first class Ford mechanic.

Concord Music Class Visits Mulberry

A singing was held at Mulberry church last Sunday afternoon, which was enjoyed by a large crowd of enthusiastic music lovers.

Besides several singers from that community there were present Prof. W. M. Devaughn, together with forty or fifty of his class which he is now teaching at Concord. A very fine program was rendered consisting of regular directing interspersed with quartets and chorus singing.

Mr. J. D. Collins was elected chairman of the meeting who appointed T. E. Wyatt, S. V. Miller and Chester Mims as Committee to arrange the program. The following were placed on as directors: Akins Collins, A. A. Beaird, Clyde Mims, R. E. Powell, Claudy Wyatt, Willie Hims, Prof. W. M. Devaughn, S. V. Miller and Durvard Cleckler. After the last director Prof. Devaughn sang a few more songs, after which the benediction was offered by Mr. Howard Oden.

Organists were Misses Evie Jones, Lena Mae Devaughn, Mrs. Alice Baker, and a Miss Glass, of Mulberry.

The singing was as fine as could be had, and everyone present seemed to fully appreciate it, especially the home people of the Mulberry community. Prof. Devaughn extended to those present of his Concord class his sincere thanks for their coming out and their co-operation in the singing.

Preliminary arrangements were made for Prof. Devaughn to teach a singing school at Mulberry after he is through at Concord, but no definite announcement can be made as to that yet.

An increase of 900% in the number of southern farmers engaged in co-operative marketing now as compared with 1915 is reported by The Progressive Farmer, published at Bimingham, Alabama.

In 1915 there were only 651,000 members of co-operative marketing associations in the United States. The Southern States now have 913,000, about 1-3 more than the whole country had in 1915. There were only about 104,000 in the South in 1915. In the entire country approximately 2,500,000 are members of co-ops as compared with 651,000 ten years ago.

"THE OLD COURT HOUSE WELL"

The final chapter of the history of "the old court house well" was written Moday morning when the men who are doing the street paving took off the cement cover which has been over the well for several years and filled it with dirt.

Many people now residents of Clanton do not kow that there ever was a well just at the edge of the sidewalk in front of the Marion Gore Building on "Main Street." One man who runs a store close by the place was standing in front of his door Monday morning. As he saw the trucks back up close to the sidewalk and empty their cargo, he was puzzled why they did not soon make a pile of dirt there. Another man passing along was asked: "Say, is that a hole over there where they are dumping that dirt?" The man to whom the question was directed was one who is an old resident of Clanton, and you can imagine the brief story of "the old court house well," which he told his inquirer.

For the edification of our citizens who have come to Clanton in recent years, we would say that "the old court house well" is the core of Clanton. It is "hub" from which all the "spokes" have radiated. In years gone by a man could stand at the well and be in sight and talking distance of every business house in Clanton, the court house included. And none of the residences were much over a stone's throw away for there were not many of them.

Many of the old residents stood by and watched the well filled up, recounting bits of interesting history that has transpired about the spot in past years.

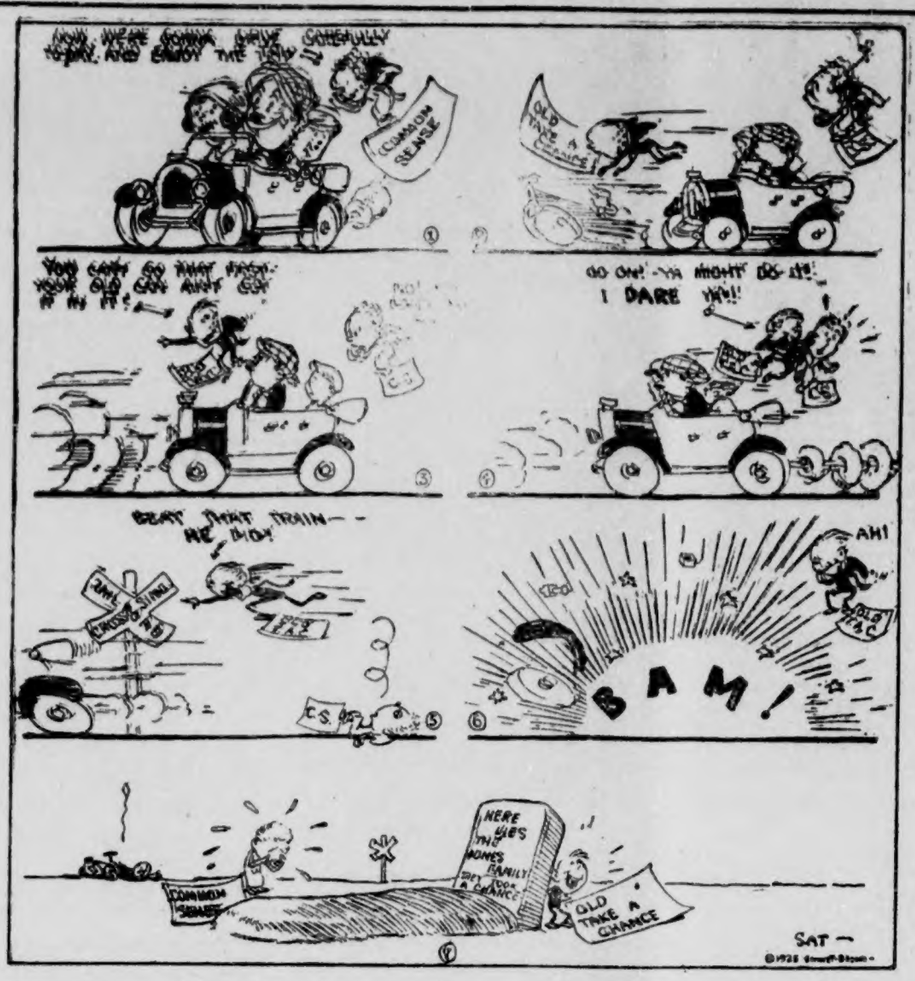
THE OLD TIME SINGERS

The Union-Banner observes with interest the suggestion of Mr. J. N. Scott that the old time singers of Chilton County meet at the court house in Clanton on August 1st and 2nd to organize a county convention.

As suggested by Mr. Scott, we do not feel that such an organization ought to interfere with any organizations of old time singers now existing.

There is room for an organization along the lines suggested, and we hope all the old singers will come together and help put it over. It seems to us that it would be a good idea to make the event an annual affair and we feel that in case that were done it would command the support of the people of Clanton as well as a great number in all parts of the county.

LITTLE PEN-O-GRAMS



DEMOCRATS ARE MANEUVERING FOR TAX LEGISLATION

Robert T. Small, special correspondent of The Birmingham News, writing from Dayton, Tennessee, makes some observations on the trend of politics along with his reports of the monkey trial. In The News of last Sunday he has an interestiing article about the manner in which the Democrats are puzzled as to how they can get some national credit out of the forthcoming legislation to reduce the burden of taxation upon the people.

Mr. Small harks back to the former action of Congress in passing a tax bill in which the Democratic minority in Congress took unto themselves the credit for enacting a bill that was claimed to be better for the people than the original bill fostered by the Republican administration, and recounts the chagrin which the Democrats felt when a subsequent election came along and the country failed to register the approval which they thought ought to fall to the Democrats.

The following quotations from Mr. Small's article willl be of interest:

"The democrats took up the cudgels for the down-trodden; the democrats refused to make any big cuts in the higher brackets for the benefit of the multi-millionaires. The democrats teamed up with the progressives and the La Follette bloc to put across a poor man's tax bill. The democrats had every right to expect the gratitude of the people. They had smitten the administration hip and thigh —the administration which would have favored the rich against the middle classes.

"And what reward did the democrats get for their labors at the polls of that fateful 1924? Coolidge, the backer of Mellon, Coolidge, who has pleaded for a big reduction in the surtaxes of the rich in preference to a too heavy cut for the 'little fellows,' was returned to the White House by a majority so bewildering that the whole nation was staggered. The republican majority in the house of representatives and so was the technical republican majority in the senate. All of the credit the democrats thought they were storing up for themselves by their valiant battle for lower taxes than the administration wanted for the man in the street, vanished in the thin air of forgetfullness of never mind.

"Consequently the democrats are lookig forward to the coming tax fight in congress with mingled feelings to say the least. Shall they fight to make what they consider a 'good' bill, or shall they let the administration and Mr. Mellon have their head and put through any sort of reduction scheme which the grand old party may desire?

"There apparently is no question but that the democrats, by once more lining up with certain section of the 'enemy' can force their tax views upon the administration and write them upon the statute books. But some of the democratic leaders in congress are beginning to ask 'what is the use?' They say that if the democrats work to put over a 'good tax bill' the administration will get the credit for the manner in which it works out because the people of the country have almost ceased to think that congress can do anything that is good and wise.

"People think only in the terms of the administration in power at the White House. This is the advantage of being an 'in' and the penalty of being an 'out.' President Coolidge unquestionably got the credit in the minds of the people for all that was beneficial in the tax reduction of 1924. It was his administration, they argue, that made the cut possible. They did not care if the democrats had worked hard to bring the benefits directly to the people.

"It is but natural that the republicans should take advantage of their extremely fortunate strategic position on tax matters and as taxes are to be of paramount consideration in the congressional campaign of next year, it is small wonder the democrats find themselves in something of a dilemma as to how to proceed. Some of them figure that as next year is purely a congressional year, so far as national elections are concerned, they may fare better in their claims for consideration on the tax issues than which was possible in the presidential election, such as that of 1924.

"The situation is fraught with both difficulty and possibilities and the strategy of the democrats in the coming session may mean much to the future of their party."

MORE FARMERS SHOULD SPRAY FRUIT

The specimens of peaches that have been brought to The Union-Banner office this summer by various farmers of this county has furnished us a very forceful lesson upon the value and need of spraying.

Mr. Peterson of Thorsby and Mr. Dennis of Clanton have brought in the finest peaches we have seen, and they were sprayed at the proper time and in the proper manner to keep them free from worms and disease. They were perfect fruit.

Mr. Mitchell Powell has brought us some peaches that were not sprayed. If they had been treated properly they would have been every bit as good as the peaches submitted by Mr. Peterson and Mr. Dennis.

Every farm in Chilton County should have a good orchard to produce plenty of good fruit for home use. Bad, wormy, diseased fruit is harmful and we do not need to produce any more of that kind. Good fruit is one of the best things people can eat, and we should have more of that kind.

In order to produce good fruit it must be cared for and sprayed. The process would not be costly on the small scale that the average farmer would employ to care for his home orchard.

Farm Meetings Now In Progress

There is now in progress in Alabama a series of county-wide meetings of farmers. It began Monday, July 20, and will continue until Saturday, July 25.

The meeting in each county is under the auspices of the county Farm Bureau and the county farm and home demonstration agents. Organization and cooperation of farmers is the chief subject for discussion. The speakers are the leaders in agricultural development in Alabama. They are talking to farm people, and also business men, bankers, merchants, and editors in a personal way about agricultural conditions and needs, telling in particular what has been done by organization and cooperation and also the plans for the future.

These leaders are telling of the work in the State as a whole. At each meeting a county worker tells of what has been done in his county. Actual results, not plans, are stressed.

A statement from Extension Service workers of Auburn and Farm Bureau officials at Montgomery says a total of several thousand farm people and business men are expected to attend the 45 county meetings which are being held.

(None of these valuable meetings will be held in Chilton County, because we haven't got a County Farm Demonstration Agent.—Editor.)

With a total output of 5,100,000 tons, Cuba's sugar crop broke all records this year.

A HAM POME

Little Willie Wise
Wanted a coat of tan,
To look like a sheik
All tanned up and sleek
Was little Willie's plan.
Forth to the bathing
Beach he ambled
And into a swimming
Suit he scrambled.
Then—spread himself
Upon the beach,
Really, it was fun
To bathe in the rays
Of that inviting sun.
But lo! And behold!
That very night
Little Willis was
An awful sight.
Shoulders raw
Legs so sore
You would a-thought
He'd been
Through a war.
Blisters here,
Blisters there,
Blisters, Blisters
Everywhere!
'Stead of getting
A coat of tan—
He looked like a great
Big, juicy, raw Ham!
Mention "Tan" to Willie now
And you'll start
A terr'ble row!

MORAL: Buy your tan in a shoe shine parlor!

A feminine Olympic diving champion does all her training by riding a bicycle. We started out to be a diving champion like that, too. But after our first few nose-dives upon the cobble-stone pavements, we decided playing billiards was safer.

Probably Weighs—"Zero Minus"

The average flapper's summer wearing apparel weighs only 24 ounces, according to a fashion statistician. Too bad they can't find a scale delicate enough to indicate the weight of her bathing suit.

Noted English journalist says many Amrican women are hunting for real sheiks in Egypt. Yet another writer asserts that the real sheiks over there have no table manners when eating and bath-tub means nothing in their young lives. So stay home—young woman—stay home! Our sheiks, too, may wrestle peas with a knife once in a while but—they, at least, know that water is intended for something more than just drinking purposes. Especially, on Saturday nights.

An "Un-Timely" Error!

Instead of telling his readers to set their clocks ahead an hour in accordance with the summer daylight savings law, a publisher told them to set the timepieces back an hour. He tried to wind things up with an "I beg your pardon" but, at last reports, he's runnin' yet.

We, the Missionary Baptist Church of Christ, at Bethsalem, Chilton County, Alabama, in regular conference this day assembled, hereby denounce all man-made theories of the creation of the universe and the evolution of man. COOSA CROPS FINE

Goodwater, Ala., July 18.—Recent rains have brought out crops in this section considerably, though in the southeastern part of the county, where there has scarcely been a season since crops were planted, crops of all kinds are poor and cannot now under most favorable conditions make anything like a normal crop. In the southwestern part of the county, where rains have been more frequent, especially early cotton, crops are fine and will make a normal yield.

Many farmers are poisoning their cotton in an effort to control the boll weevil, while others are not. As a rule all crops have been well worked and most of the farmers are through with their cultivation. The melon crop is late and the acreage planted is much smaller than last year.

How the Reform Worked

When the Union troops under Grant, early in the Civil war, took possession of West Kentucky some difficulty was encountered in controlling the populace, for that end of the state was a hotbed of southern sentiment and most of the young men had enlisted in the Confederate army. General Grant issued proclamations stating that no citizen would be molested unless he undertook to give aid and comfort to the enemy.

In one town in the invaded district, though, there was an elderly gentleman whose sympathies with the southern cause were especially outspoken. Whenever word came of a victory for the southern armies his jubilation was undisguised.
